Plan Inquiry In Scandal On Housing

Believe Trouble Stretches Back To Truman Gov't.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The decks were cleared today for a double-barrelled investigation of a possible scandal in United States government housing operations, evidently stretching back into the Truman administration.

The first official rumbling of continuing trouble in the Federal Housing Administration came late Monday when the White House announced the resignation of FHA commissioner Guy T. O. Hollyday.

President Eisenhower at the same time ordered housing administrator Albert M. Cole to impound FHA's records "to facilitate the investigations which are being conducted."

Shortly afterward Cole, Hollyday's superior, announced at a press conference that his agency will investigate "serious irregularities and abuses" in the government-aid program of home modernization and repair. Householders allegedly had been "fleeced."

CLAIMS UNETHICAL ACTION

Cole also said the FBI will check on alleged "illegal or unethical action" in the handling of apartment project financing by FHA officials. Here, he said, investigators will search for evidence of "collusion" between apartment builders and federal officials in the insuring of mortgages on inflated appraisals, something that he said already has cost the government more than $75,000,000.

Cole indicated that he expects few criminal actions, but "the great number of these cases indicates there was either gross negligence or collusion."

Allegedly off - color apartment project financing was said to have developed under the post - war "middle income" housing program which died four years ago.

LONG LIST OF COMPLAINTS

But Cole said complaints about over - charges and shoddy work in the home repair field have been coming in for years, right up through 1953 when the Eisenhower administration came to power.

NATO Plan For Pacific U.K. Agrees

Hope To Line Up 10 Powers To Safeguard Peace

LONDON (AP)—The United States and Britain agreed today to seek a NATO-type military alliance of 10 powers, pivoted on southeast Asia, in an effort to safeguard peace from Indo-China to New Zealand.

They declared Communist aggression, loose in Indo - China, threatens to spread over all the rich lands extending to Australia, the Philippines and Thailand.

The decision to press for the formation of a new southeast Asia defence system was announced in a joint British-American communique after a two-day conference between U. S. Secretary of State Dulles and British leaders on a "united action" program.

DULLES SATISFIED

A top-ranking American official said Dulles was "very satisfied" with the meeting and felt the talks "went far towards establishing the unity of purpose which he sought on southeast Asia defence."

Dulles was leaving by plane for Paris to line up France in what the official said might become a "southeast NATO."

British informants said Eden, at his talks with Dulles Sunday night and Monday, made the compromise offer of British support for the American's proposed anti-Communist alliance in the Pacific around China.

NO DECLARATION

But there would be no strong declaration of united action in Indo-China until the West finds out at the Geneva conference, opening April 26, whether the Communists really are willing to negotiate for peace in Asia.

In Paris, French and foreign observers agreed that Laniel and Bidault would go along with whatever stand the Britons took.

These sources said the French agreed with the British view that hard talk now could spike any chance of negotiating an Indo-China peace at Geneva, the main French objective.

Secret Red Police Chief Flees Embassy, Details Shock Australia

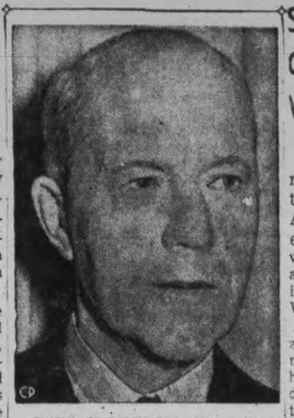
Canberra Report Recalls Ring Found In Canada

TORONTO (CP) — A Canberra announcement today that a Russian embassy official has gone over to Australian authorities and may expose a Soviet spy network in Australia recalls the Canadian case of Igor Gouzenko.

The former cipher clerk at the Russian embassy in Ottawa fled the embassy in September, 1945, and tipped off the Canadian government to the Russian-directed espionage ring. His disclosures brought about the cracking of the ring and he testified against the spies in 1946.

The Australian case involves Vladimir Petrov, third secretary of the Russian embassy in Canberra. He provided the Australians with documents and information and appealed for political asylum.

Gouzenko, one-time Red Army lieutenant, was trained as a cipher clerk at intelligence headquarters in Moscow. He came to Canada in 1943 with his wife and family and lived in a tiny flat in Ottawa.



When Gouzenko went to the Canadian authorities, he took with him from the embassy 109 secret Russian documents which he turned over to the RCMP. In doing so, he knew the Russians would probably kill his mother in Moscow and that he himself faced vengeance from the Russian secret police in the Ottawa embassy.

SET UP COMMISSION

The Canadian government set up a royal commission on espionage which examined in secret and named in its report persons it believed were active in the spy ring. These persons then were tried in the courts.

Living in hiding under protection of the RCMP, Gouzenko was the star witness at the spy trials which ended in the conviction of 11 men and women, including a Commu-

DIES SUDDENLY—Nova Scotia's premier Angus L. Macdonald, died early today at the age of 64. He entered hospital several days ago for treatment.

A. Macdonald N.S. Premier Dies Suddenly

HALIFAX (CP)—Premier Angus L. Macdonald, the father of Canada's Second World War navy, died early today at the age of 64 to end Nova Scotia politics' most colorful era.

The intense, silver-haired Liberal government leader died in Victoria General Hospital shortly after midnight to end a public career that began in 1933 when he was literally conscripted from the ranks to revitalize a badly-battered Liberal party.

The announcement of his death was made at 4:20 a.m. by Health Minister Harold Connolly, one of those widely mentioned as a possible successor.

Speculation as to who will succeed him also touched on Attorney-General Malcolm Patterson, 64, and Education Minister Henry Hicks, 39.

Mr. Macdonald entered hospital several days ago to be treated for what was described briefly as "general fatigue." There were reports that he never completely recovered from a persistent cold contracted during a visit to Britain last fall.

EXPECT ADJOURNMENT

It was almost certain that today's scheduled sitting of the legislature would be adjourned after cabinet ministers and members paid tribute to the man who last year led the Liberals back to power for the fourth time in his period of leadership.

Neither Mr. Macdonald's wife nor his four children were at the bedside when he died. The hospital said he succumbed "unexpectedly in his sleep."

Mr. Macdonald's death followed by only a few weeks that of Senator J. Walter Jones, former Liberal premier of Prince Edward Island and another of the Maritime-bred political figures whose vigorous prosecution of the Maritime viewpoint gave their names

Soviet Diplomat Granted Asylum; Wife Stays Behind

CANBERRA (CP)—A diplomat identified as the chief of the Russian secret police in Australia has fled the Soviet embassy here and may break wide open an Australian espionage ring similar to that exposed in Canada after the Second World War.

Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies told a shocked House of Representatives today in the dying hours of this parliament that Vladimir Petrov, third secretary of the Soviet embassy in Canberra, has turned over documents which involve Australian "contacts or co-operators."

Menzies said Petrov has asked for political asylum in Australia and "has disclosed complete willingness and capacity to convey to our own security people a great number of documents and what may turn out to be much oral information and explanation."

MANY CODE NAMES

He said much time will have to be spent in translating and studying the material "to establish the meaning of particular expressions and code names."

He promised to make a fuller statement later. Parliament is on the point of dissolution in preparation for the general elections scheduled for six weeks from now.

Menzies said the Soviet embassy has been notified that Petrov's request for asylum had been granted. The prime minister consulted opposition leaders before granting asylum, and received their approval.

A high Australian official said tonight that Petrov's wife is still with the Soviet embassy and "I understand she has elected to stay there. She is likely to go back to Russia."

"They have no children that we know of."

LIKE GOUZENKO CASE

Menzies said a royal commission will be set up to investigate all aspects of the affair — a similar action to that taken by Canada in

Rebel Artillery Blasts Fort, Attack Delayed

HANOI (AP) — Vietminh artillery blasted the defenders of Dien Bien Phu again today, but the Communist-led Indo - China rebels still delayed the massive all-out assaults the French Union forces expect this week.

Under a virtual umbrella of barrages, the Vietminh sent out squads to gather up the hundreds of their comrades killed or wounded in vain attempts earlier to retake the 1,200-foot eastern hill position the French seized Saturday.

The vital strong point is less than a mile from the heart of the Dien Bien Phu fortress. The French still held the hill today, after beating off violent rebel counterattacks Sunday and Monday.

Heavy fog curtailed French aerial assaults near Dien Bien Phu. But fighters and bombers ranged far to the northeast and north of Hanoi, blasting out big sections of the main highways over which Red China sends thousands of tons of war equipment to the rebels.

HELPS VIETMINH

The worsening weather offered a boon to the Vietminh, who still could send in human waves of foot soldiers where French tanks and other mechanized equipment would bog down as the area grows muddier.

With every brief let - up in the heavy weather, troop reinforcements and more supplies are being dropped in by parachute to bolster the defences of Dien Bien Phu.

Killed Ex-Idaho Governor Northumberland Man Dies

BOISE, Idaho (AP)—Harry Orchard, 88, a Canadian who in 1905 murdered a former governor of Idaho, died today in the Idaho state penitentiary. He was born Albert E. Horsley on a farm in Northumberland county, Ontario.

He confessed he planted a bomb which killed former governor Frank Steunenberg and implicated officers of the militant Western Federation of Miners. Two union officials were tried for murder and acquitted. Orchard was sentenced to the gallows. His sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

When he planted the makeshift bomb which Steunenberg touched off by opening his gate on Dec. 30, 1905, Orchard was posing as Thomas Hogan, a sheep buyer.

Actually, his name was Albert E. Horsley. He was reared in Ontario but left his wife and child and came West under the name of Orchard.

When arrested, he confessed to a host of other killings, attempted killings and explosions in Idaho, California and Colorado.

SAID UNION PAID HIM

He said he was paid for all of them by the federation in its vendetta against mine owners, non-union workmen and public officials who opposed its views.

Clarence Darrow defended W. D. (Big Bill) Haywood, secretary-treasurer of the union, and the others accused. William E. Borah, then a newly-elected senator, was counsel for the prosecution. The trial drew world-wide attention as a crisis in the strugle between capital and labor.

After his imprisonment, Orchard became associated with the Seventh Day Adventist church. The church published a book by the prisoner in 1952 which it claims has converted other convicts to Christianity.

Blast Wrecks Three Buildings

GOLDSBORO, N. C. (AP) — Rescue workers today probed the ruins of three downtown buildings demolished Monday by a mysterious explosion. Three bodies were recovered from the debris and officials fear two more may be hidden in the rubble.

About 15 persons were injured in the blast which centred in a furniture store half a block from the heart of Goldsboro's business district.

The dead were identified as M. W. Edwards, 60, owner of the store; Mrs. Eunice Smith Collins, 34, cashier; and Luther Shelton Denning, 16. Two other store employees are missing.

An investigation is under way to determine the cause of the explosion which occurred about 1:45 p. m. and was followed by fire.

Boy Given $4,265 For Mother's Death

GUELPH (CP) — A 12-year-old Mount Forest boy, John Larry Crocker, was awarded $4,265 damages plus costs in an action in Supreme Court here concerning the death of his mother, Mrs. Mary Crocker, 27, of Toronto in an accident at nearby Marden April 28, 1953.

The suit was brought by the child's grandmother, Mrs. Cora King, Mount Forest, with whom the boy is living. The action was against Harry Doukas, Guelph, under the unsatisfied judgment fund.

Mrs. Crocker was riding in a Toronto taxi which was being towed by another car. The Doukas car, according to provincial police constable Alex Twaddle, failed to stop while emerging from a side-road and crashed into the taxi. The woman was thrown out and died almost instantly.

Judge Fines Three Scalping Tickets

MONTREAL (CP)—Judge Pascal Lachappelle Monday fined one Montrealer and two out-of-town visitors who tried to "scalp" tickets for Saturday's National Hockey League game between Montreal and Detroit Red Wings.

Andre Roy, Quebec City, Armand Cote, Bertheirville, Que., and Marcel Matte, Montreal, were arrested in the crowd outside Montreal Forum at game time.

They were trying to sell the tickets at three to four times the regular price, police said.

Thief Rides Bicycle To Rob Subway

TORONTO (CP)—The first man to break into Toronto's new subway was also the first to ride the underground on a bicycle, police said today.

The unknown thief, whose bicycle was found lying across the tracks in front of the first morning train, stole $150 from a Toronto transit commission cash box and $250 from the cash drawers of two news stands in the downtown Dundas street station.

Police said the thief entered by an open cut sometime before dawn and pedalled more than a mile through the dark, deserted tube, riding between the rails within two feet of the charged third rail.

He glided unnoticed past three different cleaning crews, until he reached a station where crews had finished work.

Hit Transport Four Injured

ERINDALE, Ont. (CP) — Four London youths were taken to hospital in Toronto early today after their car crashed into the rear of a parked transport truck on Highway 5 just near this settlement 15 miles west of Toronto.

In serious condition are Glen Wong, 23, with head and chest injuries, and Mon Way Gin, 28, with facial cuts, chest injuries, possible internal injuries and shock.

In "fairly good" condition are Don Wong, 18, with shock and concussion, and Guy Young, 20, with possible fractured ankle, shock and minor cuts.

Provincial police said the truck driver told them he had stopped the truck on the top of a hill because of brake trouble. He said he couldn't take the truck off the road because of a soft shoulder.

Will Re-examine Radar Secrecy

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton Monday said the government is re-examining the question of the secrecy of the locations of Canada's screen of radar stations.

He told the Commons in reply to a question from William Hamilton (PC—Montreal Notre Dame de Grace) that some information about the locations was made public inadvertently by the RCAF magazine Roundel which published a list of postings or transfers involving radar personnel.

Mr. Hamilton asked if it is true that information about the locations of the radar stations is available to the general public.

Expand Search For Canadians

SEATTLE (AP)—More than a score of planes were to take part today, weather permitting, in an expanding search for a missing Canadian Westinghouse official and his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Coles of Hamilton, Ont., disappeared Monday after Coles, 58, radioed the civil aeronautics administration station here that the engine of his private plane had conked out 10,000 feet over this city.

The CAA lost contact with the Coles at 5,000 feet, although the "blip" of their single - engined Beechcraft Bonanza was followed by air force radar men until it was some two miles from the Seattle-Tacoma international airport.

An air force search plane Monday sighted an oil slick in Puget sound some 20 miles south of here but a coast guard patrol boat sent to investigate reported negative results.

Oppenheimer Suspended

Charge He Delayed H-Bomb Development

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer has been suspended as a government adviser on atomic matters for security reasons—including accusations that he sought to block development of the hydrogen bomb. He declared he will fight the accusations.

The noted physicist, sometimes called the man who built the A-bomb, disclosed the charges himself today by making public an exchange of letters with Maj.-Gen. K. D. Nichols, general manager of the Atomic Energy Commission. Stories about the charges had been published by New York morning newspapers.

There was no immediate comment from the AEC.

Nichols' letter said 16 specific allegations of subversive activities have been levelled against Oppenheimer. One was that he battled against construction of the H-bomb even after former President Truman approved it.

OTHER SCIENTISTS

The letter, dated last Dec. 23, advised Oppenheimer:

"It was reported further that you were instrumental in persuading other scientists not to work on the hydrogen bomb project and that the opposition to the hydrogen bomb, of which you are the most experienced, most powerful and most effective member, has definitely slowed down its development.

"The commission has no other recourse, in the discharge of its obligations to protect the common defence and security, but to suspend your clearance (to have atomic information) until the matter has been resolved.

"Accordingly, your employment on Atomic Energy Commission work and your eligibility for access to restricted data are hereby suspended."

ANSWERS CHARGES

In reply, Oppenheimer wrote a 43-page letter on March 4 which he called "a summary account of relevant aspects of my life."

In the letter, the scientist took up each of the allegations raised in Nichols' letter including the statement that he had argued against development of the hydrogen bomb in 1949.

Oppenheimer said he as well as the entire general advisory committee on atomic matters, made up of top-level scientists, argued against the rapid build-up of H-weapons, which the scientist referred to as a "crash program."

He said the committee submitted a report to the AEC stating that "such a program might weaken rather than strengthen the position of the United States."

But, Oppenheimer said, he and the other members of the committee shifted signals after President Truman announced in January, 1950, that the United States would proceed with the H-bomb program.

"I never urged anyone not to work on the hydrogen bomb project," Oppenheimer said.

Oppenheimer, now 49, acknowledged that in his younger years he had associated with Communists and contributed to some Communist causes.

PARIS (Reuters)—Sixty persons were killed when a train from Battambang, western Cambodia, to Pnom Penh, Cambodian capital, in Indo-China was blown up by a mine, Agence France Presse reported tonight.

$1,000,000 HANGAR FIRE—Dense black smoke pours from a large wooden hangar housing several training planes at the RCAF's Penhold flying training school, 100 miles south of Edmonton. Damage in the fire was estimated at $1,000,000. No one was injured but all planes, nine Harvards and one Expediter, were destroyed. Explosions from cleaning fluid and airplane gasoline rocked the hangar. A board of inquiry was set up to determine cause of the fire. — (CP Photo)

CNE Ignores Union Dispute

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian National Exhibition officials have instructed producer Jack Arthur to proceed with plans for a grandstand show built around the Roy Rogers troupe despite a union dispute which could keep most performers off the stage.

H. E. McCallum, CNE general manager, said today he believes the show will receive a "stamp of approval" from both the disputing unions, the Toronto Musicians' Association and the American Guild of Variety Artists, both American Federation of Labor affiliates.

Roy Rogers, the American cowboy singing star, is a member of both groups. The dispute between the two unions originated in the United States last fall when AGVA charged the powerful American Federation of Musicians with breaking agreements between the two organizations.

In Toronto, both groups have honored existing contracts.

Mr. McCallum said the CNE has had an agreement with the Roy Rogers group and other artists for several months.

Baby Dies In Crib Due To Toxemia

GALT (CP)—Marilyn McCreddy, 14, baby-sitting with her three-month - old sister, Barbara Ann, while their parents were out Monday night, found the infant dead in her crib.

The children's three-year-old brother, Jimmy, was killed last August when run over by a truck driven by his father, James McCreddy.

TV Show Managers Being Charged

NEW YORK (AP)—Managers of the radio-television show "Strike It Rich" were formally accused Monday of violating New York city's law against soliciting funds without a licence.

Welfare commissioner Henry L. McCarthy said summonses were served on Walter H. Framer, producer, and Warren Hull, master of ceremonies, ordering them to answer the charges in court Wednesday.

McCarthy said filing of the charges followed his declaration last February that the program involves a public solicitation, and must be licensed under the city's administrative code.

Queen, Duke See Orchids

COLOMBO, Ceylon (Reuters)—Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh today spent half an hour at a colorful display of exotic orchids from Ceylon, India and Malaya.

The orchids, arrayed on the wide verandah of the governor-general's residence, included three varieties found in the jungles of Ceylon.

The yellow orchid, which grows in the junges of Polonnaruwa—a ruined city which the Queen will visit Wednesday—is regarded as Ceylon's rarest indigenous flower.

Later the Queen received a delegation of brilliantly-robed leaders from the Maldive islands, a British protectorate in the Indian ocean about 400 miles from Ceylond.

The duke visited Colombo zoo at Dehiwela and saw six elephants dance to music, play mouth organs and playfully tumble their keepers.

EXPANDED NAVY

Under Mr. Macdonald the senior service grew from fewer than 2,000 men and half a dozen ships to more than 90,000 men and 500 ships, including the first Canadian aircraft carriers.

Not only did he introduce Canadian naval aviation but during his tenure the RCN did 90 per cent of the close escort work on the North Atlantic convoy routes.

He entered the navy department with typical enthusiasm, and sailed with his rocky little corvettes in the dirtiest weather. He made several wartime trips to Europe.

However, his heart remained in Nova Scotia and he was happy to resume his provincial premiership at war's end. Meanwhile, he had argued with the late prime minister Mackenzie King during the bitter conscription issue, when he openly supported his old friend and fellow officer of the First World War, Col. J. L. Ralston.

Col. Ralston, who died in 1948, resigned as defence minister in 1944 after the cabinet turned down his recommendation that compulsory overseas service be imposed for Canadian troops.

STAYED WITH GOVERNMENT

There was a possibility then that Mr. Macdonald would follow his fellow Nova Scotian out of the cabinet. However, he was prevailed upon to remain in the government, where he remained a strong advocate of the Ralston view on conscription.

Mr. Macdonald was one of the cabinet leaders who eventually forced the issue when the voluntary system of raising men failed to produce the number of reinforcements necessary in the closing stages of the war.

His relations with Mr. King were not improved by his independent stand later on as premier of Nova Scotia on the controversial post-war Dominion - provincial conferences.

In one typical and colorful Macdonald gesture, he told the federal cabinet that they had not heard the last "of my bonnets and me"—a quotation from Sir Walter Scott's "Bonnie Dundee" in which "bonnets" means "followers". And he went on from there to win additional concessions before he signed the agreement.

If he ever had any liking for federal politics it cooled noticeably after his argument with Mackenzie King. He was obviously delighted to respond to his recall as Nova Scotia Liberal leader.

"ANGUS L's BACK"

He came home with the ringing political motto "Angus L.'s back" and won a resounding vote of confidence in the first test of his leadership. His next election followed a similar pattern when the motto was "all's well with Angus L."

Back in his native Cape Breton highlands he again practised Gaelic and appeared at the mod and the highland games with his kilt and Glengarry.

Slim and scholarly - looking, he was one of the Commonwealth's youngest premiers when he played host to Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, then British prime minister, in the 1930s.

He floored the famous Scot by giving the address of welcome in Gaelic, just to make him feel at home, and wrung from the British leader the embarrassed admission that he didn't speak Gaelic.

It has been under negotiation with the EDC interim council for weeks.

Diesel Locomotive Powers CPR Train

The late afternoon CPR passenger train from Ottawa-Montreal made the run through Peterborough to Toronto Monday behind a diesel locomotive. This switch of power source should be at least a minor note in the transportation records of this district.

This was the first of the CPR 1408 engines appearing here on that long run from the east to Toronto. Diesels have made several Sunday trips from Toronto to Peterborough and Havelock, returning in the evening. The station staff said they had no intimation of the change from steam until they heard the whistle blowing for the approach to George St. crossing.

Liquor Charges

L'ORIGNAL, Ont. (CP) — Three Fournier, Ont., men Monday were fined a total of $1,400 on liquor charges after police seized liquor at an auction sale on a farm near here Feb. 24. Biggest fine was to Gaspard St. Amour Barber, who paid $1,000 and costs for selling liquor illegally.

North Korean Capital Rebuilt

TOKYO (AP) — Peiping radio says Communist North Korea's capital of Pyongyang is being rebuilt as a beautiful, modern metropolis—with a marble - paved "Stalin avenue." Stalin avenue, a recent Peiping broadcast said, will be 1½ miles long and 202 feet wide with a surface of marble bricks.

New buildings already planned include a 2,000-seat opera house, a five-storey hotel, a school for children of "Korea's heroes who died in the war," a big department store and the peoples academy of sciences.

A central square covering almost nine acres in the heart of the city also is planned. The radio said "it will be a focal point for mass meetings and will accommodate 100,000 people." In the centre of the square will be a bronze statue of Marshal Kim il Sung, premier of North Korea.

MORE ABOUT—

1946 when Igor Gouzenko, code clerk at the Soviet embassy in Ottawa, in an almost parallel action asked for asylum and turned over evidence which resulted in the trial of a group of Canadians on charges involving conspiracy to spy for the Soviet Union.

WOULD COMPEL TESTIMONY

Menzies told the House he will seek to strengthen the commission's powers by asking for an immediate amendment to the Royal Commission Act to authorize the commission to compel witnesses to attend and give evidence.

He did not propose to name those implicated by Petrov until their activities had been investigated. But they would remain under "continued surveillance" by security police.

The last reported case of a Russian diplomat seeking political asylum outside Russia was that of Yuri Rastovorov, who disappeared in Tokyo Jan. 28 this year.

American officials have consistently refused to confirm rumors that he asked for political asylum and now is in hiding somewhere in the United States.

Menzies said Petrov made a voluntary request through the Australian security intelligence organization for political asylum.

NO LONGER RED

This request has been granted, protection provided for Petrov and and the Soviet embassy notified, he said. He quoted this statement from Petrov:

"I wish to ask the Australian government for permission to remain in Australia permanently.

"I wish to become an Australian citizen as soon as possible.

"I ask for protection for myself and assistance to establish myself comfortably in this country.

"I no longer believe in the communism of the Soviet leadership.

"I no longer believe in communism since I have seen the Australian way of living."

Tribute Paid To Macdonald For Service

HALIFAX (CP) — These were among the tributes paid here today to Nova Scotia's Premier Angus L. Macdonald, who died early today:

Rt. Hon. James I. Ilslely, chief justice of the Nova Scotia Supreme Court:

"The suddenness, the unexpectedness of Angus Macdonald's death makes it particularly shocking but, apart from that, the loss to the province and the nation is a very heavy one. His talents were great; his ideals, high; his service, faithful and unwavering; his love for his province, devoted; his hold on the hearts of the people, complete."

"The death of Mr. Macdonald is a sad and shocking loss to Nova Scotia. For more than 20 years he dominated public life in this province by his gifts of mind and voice, his strength of character and his place in the hearts of the people. Mr. Macdonald will be sadly missed by Nova Scotians of all walks of life. He was regarded as a truly great Nova Scotian by all our people regardless of their political opinions."

"A great friend and a great servant of his country, "Defence Minister Brooke Claxton said today in Ottawa, of the late Premier Angus L. Macdonald of Nova Scotia, former minister for naval services.

"Just a week ago today when I was in Halifax the premier was in the best of spirits and appeared to be in good health," Mr. Claxton said.

"It was a great shock to learn of his death. Few people have ever stood higher in the esteem of their fellow citizens than he did. . . .

"He was a great friend and a great servant of his country in peace as in two world wars."

C. G. Power, wartime minister of defence for air today paid warm tribute to the late Premier Angus Macdonald of Nova Scotia, as "a great Nova Scotian and a true Canadain."

"We have lost a well-loved friend," Major Power said. "His wartime service to the nation will not soon be forgotten. He will be remembered for the high example he gave of sterling honesty, integrity and for his indomitable courage in the war effort."

Truman Blasts U.S. 'Bogeyman'

FULTON, Mo. (AP) — Former president Truman said Monday night political bogeymen who proclaim themselves custodians of freedom in the United States are making a mockery of the very institutions "they so callously pretend they are seeking to preserve."

"They have no more respect for the due process of law and order than the Communists they say they hate but whose methods they copy," the former president added.

He named no one but it was obvious he spoke of Senator Joseph McCarthy when he said:

"There is even one among them whose torrent of wild charges is calculated to damage the faith of Americans in the integrity of their government, army, schools, churches, their labor unions and the press. Most of all, he is threatening to undermine the respect and confidence Americans must have in one another."

In a speech at Westminster College, the ex-president said these "bogeymen" are descendants of the Ancient Order of Witch Hunters (who) have learned nothing from history."

Accuses Oliver Being Stuffed Dummy

TORONTO (CP)—Herbert Gargrave, chairman of the political action committee of the Toronto and Lakeshore Labor Council (CIO-CL), Monday night accused Farquhar Oliver, Liberal member of the Ontario legislature for Grey South, of sitting in the House "like a stuffed dummy."

Mr. Gargrave said at a council meeting that the newly-elected leader of the Ontario Liberal party had made "very definite commitments" that he would support demands of CCL unions for the voluntary, revocable checkoff. However, Mr. Gargrave said, Mr. Oliver did not support the legislation in recent House sittings.

"When he had the opportunity to express himself publicly, he sat there like a stuffed dummy," Mr. Gargrave said.

Mayor's Salary Council Matter Labor Decides

Is being mayor of Peterborough a full-time job? And, if so, is a yearly stipend of $2,500 enough?

Civic Hospital workers, members of local 19, NUPSE (CCL), considered the office of mayor recently and decided (a) it is a full-time job, and (b) the $2,500 stipend is not enough.

They passed a resolution to this effect and asked the Peterborough and District Labor Council (CCL) to endorse it. Council referred it to their municipal committee, and Monday night the committee gave their recommendations:

"1. The municipal committee agrees that if the job of mayor . . . is a full-time job then the present honorarium of $2,500 a year is insufficient.

"2. We are not in favor of writing to city council requesting any increase at this time."

There was no discussion on the recommendations which were adopted unanimously. However, it is understood that the "hands off" attitude of the municipal committee was adopted because they decided that the mayor's stipend was a matter for city council alone to deal with.

Farquhar Oliver As Liberal Leader

Once again Farquhar Oliver is leader of the Ontario Liberal Party; once before he held that position for a short time, and now he has it again. Mr. Oliver is not a pompous or proud man, and if his party wants him—having once supplanted him with another—he is ready to serve. But if he lacks selfish pride, Mr. Oliver is by no means lacking in the vastly more important quality of principle. When Premier Hepburn set out to destroy the Liberal party in Ontario by divorcing it from the federal party, and in particular from the leadership of W. L. Mackenzie King, Mr. Oliver was one of the two members of the Liberal group in the Legislature who refused to follow Mr. Hepburn in what was clearly a foolish course. He is a man who knows his own mind.

He brings a keen sense of principle to his new position, and also experience of the Legislature surpassed only by Mr. Harry Nixon. Mr. Oliver was first elected to the Legislature when he was 22, and now, in his fiftieth year, he is still there. He is a farmer, and in Ontario that remains an important qualification, for this province is still so organized that the farm vote carries a disproportionate weight at the polls. He is a very able speaker, as his address of acceptance after the convention showed.

The forces which Mr. Oliver leads in the Legislature are small, but it would be politically unrealistic to say that for that reason alone his situation was a hopeless one. Mr. Drew, before he came to power, was also a leader of a small force. A Government which enjoys too great a majority suffers from the diseases peculiar to power; the present scandal about highways in Northern Ontario is a symptom of one such disease. What becomes of the Liberal party in Ontario in the future depends very greatly on the tactical sense and assiduity of Mr. Oliver in following up advantages. The heavy majority which he received at the convention is evidence of the trust which his party reposes in him.

Quebec Rhetoric And Taxation

Last Thursday an interesting speech was made at Levis, by Mr. Antoine Rivard, who is Solicitor General in the Duplessis Cabinet in Quebec. Referring to the refusal of the Dominion Government to make special arrangements about Quebec's provincial income tax, he had this to say:

"Since 1867 there has not been a public man, even among the most persistent against the French and Catholic minority who to my knowledge has officially, in the name of the Canadian Government, declared so brutally an arrogant will to place under tutorship the Quebec minority.

"If that is what Confederation stipulated, then Confederation was a fraud and a lie, aimed at deceiving the French and Catholic minority. I refuse to believe that the Fathers of Confederation wanted to deceive the French and Catholic minority."

This is nonsense, and has nothing to do with the refusal of Mr. Abbott and the Dominion Government to permit the Duplessis Government to make its own rules of taxation, independent of the rest of the country. But it is a kind of nonsense which we hear too often from Quebec. It is that description of French rhetorical spouting which seems to please the ears of Quebec listeners, while thousand miles from any questions of fact.

It is plain to anybody who looks at the matter coolly that the Dominion Government has shown no feeling against Quebec, the French people, or the Catholic faith. Mr. St. Laurent, who heads the Government, is French, and a Catholic; Mr. Abbott, Minister of National Revenue, lives in Montreal. What feeling would they have against French Catholics? And why does Mr. Rivard talk as though a great many heavy taxpayers in Quebec were not English-speaking Protestants? The answer, is, obviously, that he is trying to stir up hatred and prejudice by imputing evil motives to the Dominion Government and, indirectly, to the rest of Canada.

French Canadianism, and Catholicism, have nothing whatever to do with this matter. Mr. Duplessis, and his government, seem anxious to fasten as much dissatisfaction as possible upon the Dominion Government. Why? Can it be to divert attention from what they are doing themselves? When they drag race and religion into the fight they are relying upon two tried weapons of bad causes.

The Queen's Head

Ottawa's engravers have had another run at the Queen's head and this time produced a better stamp, a better likeness and the figure of a person who is both charming and queenly. We have criticized unfavourably the old issue (still current, by the way) so we take this opportunity of telling the Post Office Department that it has done a better job now. The new blue five-cent stamp shows the Queen with a tiara, and her demure, somewhat serious mien is not, as in the other stamp, coarsened and distorted by the artist or the engraver. The characteristic long neck is suggested, not exaggerated.

Royal heads are disappearing from both our stamps and our bills. Of the new stamps issued, only the five-cent carries the Queen's head, and it, incidentally, is only one of two new stamps of that denomination. The other five-center shows a beaver with a prominent tail. It is also blue. In the upper right corner is the cipher "5c", and in the lower right is a small maple leaf, following the white band carrying the word "Canada". There is no other lettering on it, and no suggestion of Royal Mail. One wonders if the five-cent stamp bearing the Queen's likeness is intended mainly for distribution in the royal province of Ontario, and the other for provinces less regally-minded?

The new four-cent stamp is grey, and has a walrus. The stamp is prettier than the animal, but on the whole it is not distinguished, partly because of the monotony of greyness. The new fifteen-cent stamp has a gull in flight between the Big Dipper and the North Star. This stamp is grey too. Probably they were designed in the late Fall in some cavern within Ottawa's grey stone buildings.

While the new issues are not displeasing, they are not a philatelist's or an artist's delight.

Village, Town, City

The distinctions between a village, a town and a city, are loose in Canada, but not quite as loose as we made them on Saturday when we called Campbellford a village. Everybody knows, and we do, too, that Campbellford has been a town for years and years; in fact it was incorporated as a town in 1906, on the First of July.

What makes a village a village, a town a town, a city a city? In Canada, it is pieces of paper that do it, bills in the Legislature. Size, it seems is not the determining element. Eastview, with more than sixteen thousand people, is a town, so is Timmins, with 27,000. Yet Waterloo, population of little more than 12,000 is a city. Forest Hill, with more than 16,000 people, is a village, Deseronto, with only 1,600 people is a town. Campbellford, with about 3,500, is a town.

We could carry our list of anomalies further. Dawson, population about 700, is a city, and so are many other small places in the Canadian west and north-west. On the otherhand metropolitan London (England) is a town, which includes the smaller City of London.

If Mayor R. J. Locke of Campbellford, his council and the citizenry of the town feel that we have slighted their vigorous and proud community by inadvertently referring to it as a village, let them condole with their cousins in this city which from time to time and with full intention we have called a town.

It's Because They Like It

Great responsibilities impose heavy burdens on public men, and we have often wondered why men seek them. We have for some time had a suspicion that it is because some men like responsibilities and heavy burdens, just as some men like climbing Mount Everest, and because they like the public acclaim which exalted positions carry with them. We were delighted, therefore, when Mr. C. D. Howe included these remarks in a speech he made in Toronto on the night the budget was brought down. He said:

My timing is bad, because I am quite sure that however eloquent I may be, Mr. Abbott's budget proposals are going to push me off the front page. Now of course I could steal the headlines by revealing some budget secrets, but . . . I have been told that there is no better way of bringing one's political career to an abrupt end than by giving away budget secrets . . . So, since I like being a minister of the Crown and hope to be one for a while yet, I shall not reveal . . .

You see? Mr. Howe likes being a Minister of the Crown, and he likes front-page publicity. What is more, he is man enough to say so. Good luck to him. Men in public life get a great many hard knocks, and they do a vast amount of work, which could not be done by people of lower capacities. If they enjoy doing it, and if the prestige and publicity of high office give them pleasure, we are happy that it should be so. We only wish that more of them, with Mr. Howe's engaging candour, would admit it.

RUMANIAN POWER STRUGGLE

Ana Pauker In Storm Centre

By DANIEL NORMAN

WHEN the Central Committee of the Rumanian Communist Party met to inaugurate the local version of the Soviet "new look" policy last August, one of the decisions taken and announced by the official communique was to call a party congress for March, 1954. March has come and gone, Bulgaria, Poland and Eastern Germany have held their Party congresses, but in Rumania there has been no congress — and no explanation. Nor has another date been fixed so far; in fact the communique of August 22 was the last the Rumanian people heard of the idea, and nothing was said about it in the official accounts of the next Central Committee meeting in December.

WHY should just the Communist Party in whose capital (Bucharest) the Cominform journal is published be prevented from doing as other satellites do? It is true that the Rumanian Communist leaders have had to face severe economic troubles in the meantime; the "big August circus," as the Rumanian people call the World Youth Festival held last year in Bucharest, tore a big hole in the stocks of food and consumer goods of the country's highly unbalanced economy, and the yearly plan has completely failed to fill the gap.

THUS even an ordinary Rumanian winter would have found the country ill-prepared, but as it happened the weather last winter was unusually merciless. The snowstorms, blizzards and hard frosts during January and February had such disastrous effects in all fields of economic life that rail communications, for instance, had not yet been completely restored by the beginning of March. Complete figures of the human casualties and the exceedingly heavy losses of livestock will probably never be known. A glance at the list of goods required for imports in the series of trade negotiations suddenly opened with non-Communist countries shows the extent to which the authorities have become alarmed: this normally rich agricultural country now has to import even onions!

THE DIFFICULTIES cannot, of course, be hidden; if it were wished to postpone the congress until the worst is over, they would furnish a perfectly plausible reason for an official announcement — such as was made when the Polish congress was shifted from its original January dateline to March and now the Hungarian from mid-April to the end of May. The Rumanian silence points to a different kind of reason — one that cannot be admitted, and that prevents not only the holding of the congress, but even such official preparations as the election of delegates.

SUCH A REASON is the unresolved struggle for the future distribution of power. Rumania is the last satellite in which the posts of Minister-President (prime minister) and general secretary of the Communist Party are still held by the same person, Malenkov's protege, Gheorghiu-Dej; and if it is clear that the separation of these functions which during the past year has been carried out first in Russia and then successively in Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Bulgaria and Poland is also to take place in Rumania at the Party congress, it is not so clear which of the three rival groups in the leadership is to keep control of the Party machine. Gheorghiu-Dej's own group which has its main strength among the leaders of the official trade unions is challenged by the group of Defence Minister Bodnaras, and the Party control commission chief, Parvulescu. Between them manoeuvres a third group, originally formed round Ana Pauker, the former Foreign Minister, and now led by Josef Chisinevski, a vice-premier and one of the secretaries of the party, who has just returned from a meeting with the first secretary of the Soviet Communist Party, Nikita Khruschev, on the occasion of the Polish party congress.

BUT the most difficult internal problem for the regime concerns the fate of Ana Pauker herself. Though removed from the Politburo and the Government amid violent attacks in the summer of 1952, the former uncrowned queen of Rumania has never been expelled from the Party or even from the Central Committee. The mention of her name in the Slansky trial in Prague in November of 1952 had no sequel; and by now she is clearly fighting for a comeback. At the moment, she still lives in enforced retirement in a modest flat in a Bucharest suburb, where a number of the regime's fallen stars who are not considered to deserve arrest are living in a mild form of supervised exile.

AS it is generally believed that she was overthrown, even in Stalin's lifetime, on Malenkov's instigation, she can clearly have survived so comparatively unscathed only thanks to the protection of other powerful Soviet figures. The indications are that these protectors are in the Russian army of which Ana Pauker was on honorary colonel and in which her son Vladimir is an officer.

CLEARLY no stability can be attained in the Rumanian party leadership, and therefore no congress be held, until Ana Pauker's fate has been finally decided; and that decision must be taken in the Kremlin. With the recent strengthening of army influence in Russia and the old hostility between Malenkov and Ana Pauker it looks as if the casting vote may be Khruschev's. In that case, the Rumanian decision, if and when it comes, may throw an important light also on the trend of developments in Russia itself.

Unconsidered Trifles

"Look at the way baby is working his mouth," said Mrs. Brown. "Now he proposes to put his foot in it."

"H'm", replied her husband. "Hereditary. That's what I did when I proposed."

Having played for the first time for his school rugger fifteen, a boy returned home elated.

His elation left him when his fond mother, opening the bag that contained his sports kit, withdrew from it his mud-stained jersey and shorts and exclaimed: "My poor precious boy, you must have fallen down!"

An American Opinion

THERE'S A BIT OF IRONY IN HERE SOMEWHERE

Letter To The Editor

IMMORAL FEMALE DISPLAYS

SIR: I believe that it is time to call a halt to the brazen, bold-faced exposition of ladies' dainty underthings in local shop-windows. One finds it impossible to stroll down the main business district of Peterborough without becoming thoroughly embarrassed and disgusted by the nauseating display of low morals. This, sir, is especially true if one is accompanied by a member of the fair sex who is not his wife.

Do the store-keepers imagine that this practice is an aid to their business, that it is good advertisement? No, indeed! Quite on the contrary, sir, it is rather a harmful factor, for the sight of a window full of ladies' underwear is sufficient to discourage any stout-hearted male who had intended to enter such a shop. If these fancy little whatchamacallits must be exhibited, then let them be exhibited inside the store, in the department which sells them. Everyone knows where these items may be purchased, so where lies the point of decking large display windows with a myriad of the things in assorted shapes, sizes and designs? I am certain that the establishments which offers these garments for sale also stock other types of merchandise, such as blouses, sweaters, etc. Why not place these in the show-windows? One would feel at liberty to examine such a display, without being stared at by every passerby, as though he were the village idiot.

Nowhere can one escape from this disgusting advertisement of the most intimate of feminine accoutrements. Enter a public conveyance, and you are confronted by rows of posters along the window-tops featuring semi-naked beauties clothed in glorified girdles, to which have been assigned several exotic names. Open a newspaper, and there, on the society page, is an advertisement picturing a group of fairies dancing with glee, garbed in another sort of sarong. Such displays of immorality would seem to be another indication that our civilization is breaking down. Here, woman is set upon a pedestal, dainty, beautiful, pure as the driven snow, a model of virtue, to be protected, privileged and honoured by all men. So goes the dream: this sort of treatment is not only expected of us, but demanded of us by the ladies, and they howl and weep if it is not given. And, then, we are subjected to the practice of boldly manifesting to the whole world this most private aspect of their lives. I should think that they would be outraged, but such is not the case. They are quite apathetic in their attitude to this deplorable custom. Our romantic ideals are shattered; is this the result of the emancipation of women?

I have entertained thoughts of expressing my sentiments on this topic by heaving a brick through one of the offending windows, but I never did care much for violence. I have no course but to protest against this wanton abuse of the rights to advertise.

Thanking you, sir, I am,

Yours very truly,

NOSRET SAM.

Bit Lion's Tail

(HAMILTON SPECTATOR)

WE extend a congratulatory but envious handclasp across the sea to one Angelo Gabianelli of Milan, who saw a lion's tail protruding from a cage and bit it.

Nor is the cordiality of our greeting one whit diminished by his subsequent activities, which included the swallowing of three double brandies and a tussle with the constabulary on which, individually and collectively, he attempted to put the slug. It was, after all a perfectly logical chain of events. It is not every day that a man bites a lion's tail, and Italian brandy is authoritative stuff. We, who are normally adamant against civil disobedience and for law and order, feel that in this case the officers should have recognized a Special Occasion.

Not having had much to do with lions, we have never ourselves felt the urge to bite one's tail; nevertheless, we have not been immune from the impulse toward sudden acts of unconventionality and anti-socialism of our own. Being pusillanimous, introverted, repressed and generally properly brought up, we have never had the courage of our impulses. Signor Gabianelli has.

Here is a man who would not have held his peace, twiddling nervously with a hymnal, that time we suddenly wondered what would happen if we stood up and objected to the banns.

He would have paddled the fundament of the intolerable small boy whose even less tolerable mother smiled so proudly while he showed off in the hotel dining room.

He would have said: "Madam, you don't have the figure for a cocktail dress; why don't you try a nice grandmotherly print?" as we were tempted to do, but didn't, when we were mistaken for a floorwalker in a department store.

He would have heaved a bookend at Liberace, and the devil with the cost of a new picture tube.

Signor Gabianelli is a man not afraid to stand up on his two hind legs and be himself. We, hunkered down in the tidily upholstered, neatly brushed cocoon of our conformism, can but offer him a wistful homage.

DEFINITION

A vacation is when we do things we don't want to do and spend money we want to save so we'll have something to talk about during the winter.

Bible Message

(From The Authorized Version)

The Lord hath made bare his holy arm in the eyes of all the nations; and all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God . . . Behold, my servant shall deal prudently, he shall be exalted and extrolled, and be very high. (Isa. 52:10, 13.)

He is despised and rejected of men; a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief: and we hid as it were our faces from him; he was despised, and we esteemed him not . . . But he was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed. (Isa. 53:3, 5.)

And Jesus walked in the temple in Solomon's porch. Then came the Jews round about him, and said unto him, How long dost thou make us to doubt? If thou be the Christ, tell us plainly.

Jesus answered them, I told you, and ye believed not: the works that I do in my Father's name, they bear witness of me . . . I and my father are one . . . If I do not the works of my father, believe me not. But if I do, though ye believe not me, believe the works: that ye may know, and believe, that the Father is in me, and I in him. (John 10:23-25, 30, 37, 38.)

Though he were a Son, yet learned he obedience by the things which he suffered; and being made perfect, he became the author of eternal salvation unto all them that obey him. (Heb. 5:8, 9.)

Geiger Counter in the Kitchen

(Ottawa Journal)

Leave it to the Swedes to take the calm look. Here we were wondering about the hydrogen bomb and to what particular corner of the Gatineau we were going to flee from the berserk atom. Then last night we encountered a Swedish lady who is living in Ottawa just now and she observed as quietly as you please that next morning she was going to a department store or a hardware store or if necessary some mining company outfitter and buy herself a geiger counter. Wants it convenient size to hang in her kitchen along with the can-opener and the curly knife that takes the rind off lemons.

Boosting Brantford

(Brantford Expositor)

Mayor Cooper bids us one and all, young and old, join in a "boost Brantford drive." Let us, he urges, give schoolchildren a button to wear, identifying them from the Telephone City, so that people with whom they come in contact on summer vacation would be made aware of Brantford.

Before the city invests any money in this button idea which had whiskers on it long before it came out of Gopher Prairie 30 years ago, let every citizen ask himself if he was ever drawn to visit any other place, let alone locate there, merely because he saw one of its residents toting a booster button.

It is obvious that in his very worthy desire to advance the interests of the city, a desire in which this newspaper yields to no one, His Worship would rely far too much on hackneyed methods long discredited. The old snake-oil peddler's approach is done for, whether you are selling snake oil or "boosting" Brantford. It relied on the extraordinary influence that strong lungs have over weak heads, and there are nowadays not enough weak heads to make it worth bothering about.

If Brantford is to become better known and reap the advantages that flow from an ever-widening acquaintance, it must strictly avoid anything savoring of ballyhoo. It should totally eschew the word "boost" which has become overlaid with ulterior meanings. The sober, dignified promotion campaign is to be preferred.

Attlee Autobiography Shows Labor Leader Can Be Tough

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP)—Clement Attlee, once described as the "nice little guy" of British politics, shows in his autobiography, published Monday, that he can be a tough little guy, too.

Attlee has led the Labor party for nearly 20 years. His remarkable unpretentiousness has bred several attempts at rebellion, but "Clem" stays coolly and firmly in control.

In his book, "As It Happened," (Heinemann) Attlee disposes in one dry, characteristic sentence of a pre-war effort to unseat him.

"When I was ill," he writes, "it occurred to a few people that this would be a good opportunity to change the leadership of the party, but this move got little support."

In the same way he ticks off his pacifist friends who seemed, in their insistence on the wickedness of warfare, "to think that an inefficient army was less wicked than an efficient one."

There is also a sharp sentence on what he calls a "few of the intelligentsia, who can be trusted to take the wrong view on any subject." This will be widely interpreted as a reference to some well-known Labor party members.

These passages apart, Attlee's autobiography is chiefly remarkable for its dead-pan approach to great political events. The book is as flat in parts as certain aspects of Attlee's personality. He has been party leader for 19 years, including a six-year stretch as ptime minister, but he writes his life story in a way that critic Tom Hopkinson, in the independent newspaper The Observer, calls "extraordinary for its unbelievable ordinariness."

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to stop bleeding—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

Now this new healing substance is offered in ointment form for hemorrhoids under the name Preparation H.® The price is only $1.19 a tube including an applicator. The name to ask for is Preparation H—at all drug stores. And remember—if not entirely satisfied—your money will be refunded promptly.

Toronto Man 74 Begins Action For Damages

TORONTO (CP) — Hayward Avery, 74, began a civil action in the Supreme Court of Ontario Monday for unstated damages against Homewood Sanitarium at Guelph. He alleges:

Conspiracy, false imprisonment, malpractice, breach of statutory duty and common law negligence.

Mr. Avery, a native of Newfoundland, was a patient at the sanitarium from Dec. 30, 1948, until Sept. 26, 1951, when he was released on a writ of habeas corpus.

The case opened before Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven. Since he entered Homewood, Mr. Avery has brought actions against his son, Donald, who allegedly had him committed, and against four doctors who examined him.

ACTION DROPPED

The action against the son was dropped March 3. The cases still are pending against the doctors.

Mr. Avery, who claims he was detained against his will for 33 months, on March 1, 1949, was declared incapable of managing his affairs by Mr. Justice John L. Wilson of the Supreme Court. The son was appointed to handle his father's estate.

Big Crowds See Lakefield School Fair

LAKEFIELD (ENS) — A record attendance was chalked up Friday evening when the Lakefield Home and School Association held its annual school fair in the public school. Many were present from Peterborough, Bancroft, Bobcaygeon and other points.

Special interest was attracted by a mural in principal E. G. Sloan's room depicting scenes from "The Lady of the Lake." In Miss Irene Madill's room, where social study had centred on the North American Indian recently, were wigwam, birch bark canoes and so on, as well as their framed certificate for winning first prize in singing at the Kiwanis Music Festival this year. In Mrs. Hobden's room were papier mache toys that received a great deal of attention. In all rooms the work was of real interest.

The adult hobbies were of excellent quality and wide variety. Modernistic driftwood lamps, the work of Charles M. Serson, were greatly admired. Outstanding also was a quilt, sent by Mrs. Oscar Adams of Roseneath, showing the Queen in her coronation robes. Accompanying the quilt was a letter from Sir Robert Chance, representative of the Queen in Cumberland, congratulating Mrs. Adams on her beautfiul work and expressing Her Majejsty's appreciation of it.

WEAVING DEMONSTRATION

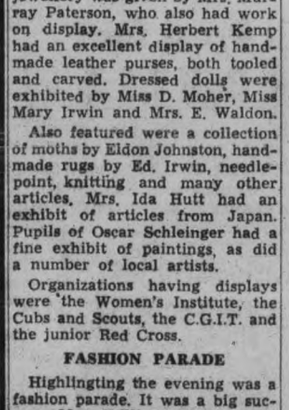
Mrs. J. McKerchar gave demonstrations of weaving. She also had a number of finished articles on display.

A demonstration of making jewellery was given by Mrs. Murray Paterson, who also had work on display. Mrs. Herbert Kemp had an excellent display of handmade leather purses, both tooled and carved. Dressed dolls were exhibited by Miss D. Moher, Miss Mary Irwin and Mrs. E. Waldon.

Also featured were a collection of moths by Eldon Johnston, handmade rugs by Ed. Irwin, needlepoint, knitting and many other articles. Mrs. Ida Hutt had an exhibit of articles from Japan. Pupils of Oscar Schleinger had a fine exhibit of paintings, as did a number of local artists.

Organizations having displays were the Women's Institute, the Cubs and Scouts, the C.G.I.T. and the junior Red Cross.

FASHION PARADE



Highlingting the evening was a fashion parade. It was a big success. Mrs. William O'Brien was commentator. Assisting were Mrs. William Webb and Mrs. Eric Anderson.

The only car in the world to drive 10,000 miles without stopping

... even for gas!

Mobile "service station" was specially built for non-stop test. When car entered mobile station both vehicles synchronized their speeds. Workmen fueled and serviced test car while crews changed.

10,148.3 miles; to be exact . . . and every mile a gruelling test of endurance. The Morris Minor covered this distance at an average speed of 45.3 miles per hour, and at no time did the wheels stop turning or the engine fail. An ingenious mobile "service station" refueled, re-tired and re-crewed the ever-moving Morris.

During the nine days and eight hours of continuous running on a circular track, the Minor averaged 43 miles per gallon, an amazing feat since the perpetual turning was equivalent to climbing to a height of 66 miles on a road 10,000 miles long. But for this turning strain, gas consumption would have averaged 7 miles more to the gallon.

The car was powered with the new high compression OHV (overhead valve) engine. This engine is now standard equipment in all Minors at no sacrifice to gas economy or increase in price.

Your local dealer invites you to drive a Morris . . . you be the judge.

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Senior "L" hockey moguls of the Central Ontario group supplied a surprise start for the week by holding a sudden meeting here and lining up a six-team group for next season. Yes, six clubs, instead of the five which operated so successfully the past puck semester. Seems the Stouffville Clippers have come to regret their departure from this group a year ago—when they insisted upon pulling out to enter a Toronto setup—and now they've asked permission to re-enter. This has been granted, so next autumn will see Oshawa, Petes, Kingston, Orillia, Belleville and Stouffville in our senior "B" league. That'll be good news for fans about the circuit.

* * * * * *

The meeting had been called to divide up money as the season ended. All clubs were represented as well as Frank Buckland of Peterborough and Lorne Cook of Kingston, the two OHA conveners. Oshawa and Stouffville presently are in provincial semi-finals, and the Clippers, seeing what a fine group race we'd had—and not being happy over their season in Toronto—sent word they'd like to rejoin this group. With the conveners and the club delegates all on deck an in agreement, the 1954-55 loop was lined up. Oshawa expect to rebuild their arena and they had an offer to play "home" games in Maple Leaf Gardens on Saturday afternoons. They thought maybe we should step up to a senior 'A" rating, but 'twas left at senior "B".

* * * * * *

Not Senior "A" Yet

Club delegates expressed satisfaction generally over the past season. Certainly a step up to senior "A" would be more expensive and several centres—including Peterborough—haven't the arena for it. All clubs will send donations to the fund in Orillia set up for the late Murray Richardson. The Petes already have sent money for this. He was the player killed in a highway accident during the strenuous Orillia-Petes' group semi-final playoff. The local club was represented at the group meeting by President Ed O'Toole and Manager Jim Ellis. It was a most successful meeting, and the various teams are already planning for a big hockey campaign next season.

* * * * * *

One other thing of local interest came out of the huddle. Jim Ellis was nominated (and by Kingston, no less) to run for the OHA executive at the April 24 annual association meeting in Toronto. Jas. McDonald of Orillia also was nominated, since they felt that a strong Central Ontario hockey setup should have more representation on the provincial body. Lorne Cook of Kingston presently is on the OHA executive, and Frank Buckland of this city is first vice-prexy. He will be stepping up to the presidency within the next few weeks, holding that office for two years. We're glad to see Jim Ellis nominated and hope he makes it first try. He's been a great worker for hockey here the past two decades or so. An okay fellow, too.

Petes Elect Officers

Directorate of the senior baseball club here got around to choosing officers Monday and came up with this slate: President, Hugh Campbell; vice-prexy, Max Swanston; secretary, Baz Phelan; treasurer, Ben Swartz. They added Jim Hall to the executive, which also comprises Ray Tanner, Louis Yeotes, Dit Clapper, Jack McNamara, Curly Alberico and Claude Sherwood. A couple of players will be on the list, as well, and the executive may add one or two more officials ere the seasons starts. The manager and coach haven't been appointed yet. Next on the program is a financial drive and the acquisition of a couple of twirlers for the COBL season opening in late May. Oshawa Merchants, Kingston and Belleville are busy re-organizing now, too.

In the top amateur mitt bout here last eve, Orvo Tymlainer of Toronto yanked out a split decision o'er Bill Cridland of the Alpha Club. Bill tired toward the end, though both boxers were holding a lot at the last. Gene Powers' decision against Bill Twomey drew hefty boos. Bill Taylor of Toronto outpointed Emmett Crough in a good go. Casper Weichorek and Jim O'Dette clowned their way to a draw, while Horn and Blackhorn staged a neat exhibition. Roy Bloom was another Toronto pugilist to win as he decisioned Tom Mark. Linday's Jack Spratt took Alex Caravaggio in their tussle. Curtain-raiser saw Barry Traynor win on points from Bill Smith. Some good mitt action on the card.

Karpuk Has Signed Contract With Galt

GALT (CP)—Pete Karpuk, former Ottawa football star, has signed a contract with Galt Terriers of the Intercounty Senior Baseball League for 1954.

Karpuk will hold down the third base position, replacing former manager Johnny Russian.

He is no stranger to fans here. He first played with the Terriers in 1951 and left to finish the season with Ottawa Athletics of the International League. He rejoined the Terriers last year but drew his release and ended the year with Kitchener Panthers. He did not play in the Intercounty last season.

Tennis Group Names Top 1953 Players

TORONTO (CP) — Lorne Main and Mrs. Hilda Doleschell, both of Toronto, were named top-ranking Ontario tennis players of 1953 at the annual meeting of the Ontario Lawn Tenis Association.

Main, one of Canada's outstanding players, retains the same position he held last year. Mrs. Doleschell, a newcomer to the Ontario scene from Austria, has been playing locally for the last 18 months.

Mary Nunns and Harry Hall of Toronto were named top ranking players in the junior women's and men's divisions.

J. S. H. Beck of Toronto was elected president of the association at the Saturday meeting, succeeding past president E. C. Condon of Ottawa.

JULY TOURNAMENT

The new president said that the 1954 Canadian tennis tournament will be held in Toronto in July, with the dates and location of Davis Cup matches dictating the date. The Canadian junior tennis tournament will be held at Ottawa in August.

The association will pay part of the expenses of a six-week tennis school to aid juniors that is being held by Derek Boucquet, club professional at the badminton and racquet club. Fourteen top Ontario juniors will work out at the school.

The 1953 Ontario ratings included in the men's senior division Ralph Tailby, Kitchener, who was also elected with Beck on the 1954 board of officers.

Maurice Charlton Tops In Badminton

Mrs. Maurice Charlton had a most successful season in badminton competition the past winter. In Peterborugoh Club playoffs here Saturday, she won three titles, taking the ladies' singles, being in on ladies' doubles and capturing—with her partner—the mixed doubles' finals. She also won three titles last year, and has held the ladies' singles crown for three straight years.

Besides these honors, Mrs. Charlton and Mrs. Marg Baker won the Central Ontario doubles' crown this year, and was a finalist in the Central Ontario mixed doubles. Futhermore, last February in the all-Ontario events in Toronto, Mrs. Charlton was a finalist in the mixed doubles consolation.

Winnipeg Defeats Toronto Tri-Bells

TORONTO (CP) — Winnipeg Paulins defeated Toronto Tri-Bells 62-54 Monday night in the second game of their best-of-five finals for the Canadian men's senior basketball championship before 1,200 fans. The series is tied 1-1.

The third game is scheduled here today. The fourth and fifth, if necessary, will be played here Thursday and Friday.

The Paulins jumped to a 15-10 lead in the first quarter and were ahead 27-23 at the half. They were leading 39-33 going into the last quarter.

Doug Gresham led Paulins with 21 points. Carl Ridd scored 16 and Herb Olafeson counted 13. High man for Tri-Bells was Ray Monnot with 15 points. Ray Thomas scored 14.

OHA NOMINEE—Jim Ellis of the Peterborough Hockey Club has been nominated by his senior "B" group for an executive position on the OHA, which holds its annual meeting in Toronto on April 28. The nomination came from Kingston, it being felt that this section of the province should have more representation on the OHA. Jim Ellis is a former player, coach and manager with the Petes.

Hugh Campbell President Of Petes' Senior Ball Club

Hugh Campbell was elected president Monday of the Peterborough Senior Baseball Club at a meeting of the directorate. Vice-president will be Max Swanston, with Baz Phelan secretary for the 1954 season, and Ben Swartz treasurer. Jim Hall was added to executive, which consists of the above officers and Claud Sherwood, Curly Alberico, Jack McNamara, Dit Clapper, Ray Tanner and Louis Yeotes. One or two more may be added yet to the list, as well as two players when the team is picked.

It is planned to hold a meeting later this week to get the matter of club finances straightened out and check into players and equipment. A draw is being staged now for a bond of $1,000, and two prospective pitchers are being contacted to play for the Petes in the four-club COBL. The league takes in Kingston, Belleville, Oshawa and Peterborough, with play beginning May 24.

FORMER PREXY

Hugh Campbell is a former president of the senior baseball Petes, being especially prominent in this role for several years during the middle 30's, when he brought Knotty Lee as full-time coach. No manager or coach has been named as yet this season, the executive taking the matter under consideration.

Vice-president Max Swanston was also prominent with the Petes in practically all capacities over the years, being a star catcher in the 20's with them, and later a manager and then club president of the Petes, as well as becoming COBL president and a member of the Ontario Baseball Association.

Others on the executive also have had considerable experience as sports' officials, most of them in baseball. Jim Hall is a former senior star of more than two decades ago.

Fastball Entries At April 19 Meeting

The deadline for accepting entries in the Industrial Fastball League was set at April 19 when an open meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in Duffus', the election of officers being held then. This was decided at last night's meeting.

Several teams so far have indicated their interest in entering the local league this season. Mount Pleasant, Norwood and Curve Lake are some of the outside applicants, along with several from the city.

The league is interested in obtaining umpires for schedule and those wanting these jobs are requested to notify Bill Gunn (phone 3004) as soon as possible.

The Industrial Fastball League enjoyed a good season in 1953, with some stirring duels stage at Quaker Park, and it is expected that another fine season will be shaping up within the next week.

G. Monkman Elected Cricket Head

Gordon Monkman was re-elected president of the Peterborough-Whitaker Cricket Club at the annual re-organization meeting held last evening in the Chamber of Commerce. The club will again enter two teams in the Toronto and District Cricket Council, the "A" team moving up to the second Council division, and the "B" team remaining in the third division.

Both local teams open their season with a friendly match at TSC in Port Hope on April 24, while waiting for the Oval grounds to be fit for practises and play here. Practises are expected to start at the Oval during the first week of May. About five new players are reported in the city, and these and other newcomers, as well as former players, will be welcome at practises.

Other 1954 officers chosen last night were: vice president, Jack Wild; secretary, Hugh Dibben; treasurer, Archie Hamilton; grounds and tackle chairman, Bob Harvie; captain of the "A" team, Trevor Clarke; vice-captain, Bob Smith; captain of the "B" team, Sid Jennings; vice-captain, Ken Illingworth.

Mighty Ursus, Henning, Atkins, DiPaolo, Paidousis, Barend, Harmon On Mat Card

One of those rare, two-against-one handicap matches will headline Wednesday night's wrestling program at the Brock Arena. The Mighty Ursus, 300-pound, six-foot-two Mexican giant will take on the rugged duo of Fred Atkins of Australia and Lee Henning of Iowa, all by himself.

Of course, The Mighty Ursus could be considered a crowd on account of his size and power, which seems a fortunate factor. For Atkins and Henning are two of the game's roughest, hardiest exponents individually. Together they're a gruesome twosome.

Ilio DiPaolo, Italian champion, will wrestle Mike Paidousis of Ohio in the semi-final. Johnny Barend of Rochester will oppose Johnny Harmon of Georgia in the opener.

Toronto Boys Win Top Mitt Bouts Over Local Talent

"Now we know what they've got," said Charlie Bagnato after the Alpha Boxing Club's first show three weeks ago. Next time will be different."

It was. It was very different. In fact it was slightly disastrous, for the Alpha Club, that is. The bouts were close, very close in the final bouts, but the Bagnato boxers held an edge, at least that's what the judges ruled.

Alpha's blond heavyweight Bill Cridland, lost a close, unpopular split decision to Bagnato's Orvo Tymlainer in the final bout. The decision didn't prove popular with the large crowd of 1,000 who had decided the bout in favour of Cridland for his aggressiveness in the first three rounds of the five.

From the starting bell Cridland took the offence, pushing Tymlainer about the ring. Depending mostly upon a loose right, Cridland twice had Tymlainer in trouble, especially in the second round and the late stages of the third. But he seemed to shy away from the knockout blow when he had Tymlainer set up.

CRIDLAND TIRED

Despite the punches he was taking or had taken, Tymlainer rallied slightly in the third, catching the quickly-tiring Cridland off guard several times.

With Cridland tiring faster, the Toronto veteran of more than 50 fights seemed to be fresher in the fourth and therefore he held a slight edge in the exchanges.

But in the fifth both boxers could hardly hold their fists up. The heavy punching in the previous rounds began to tell quickly on both Cridland and Tymlainer, and both were ready to cling.

The night's most unpopular decision went in favour of Toronto's Gene Powers by a split decision over the crowd's favourite, welterweight Bill Twomey. The announcement was met with a round of boos.

Twomey, matched well with the British Empire Games representative for Canada, met Powers toe-to-toe in the fast first round, matching punch for punch. It looked like a good action-packed bout.

But in the second round the boxers switched to in-boxing and clutching. Referee Gord Beatty was kept busy tearig the boxers apart as they continually held after short close exchanges in the remaining rounds.

Although reddened, both boxers were not seriously marked at the end of five.

SMART BOXER

Bagnato unveiled a shifty, clever boxer in welterweight Bill Taylor, who was Emmett Crough's opponent. The youthful, colored Taylor boxed his way out of trouble several times in the three-round bout as Crough returned to form with flurries of rights and lefts, bewildering Taylor.

In the fast rushes of wild punches, Crough worked Taylor into the ropes numerous times, especially in the second round, the bout's best. But nearly every time Taylor escaped unhurt, fighting his way out with short jabby rights.

Although it seemed a fairly even bout, Taylor was given a unanimous decision, the first to be scored over the heavy Crough.

The night's supposedly clown bout, between experienced comic, Dave Horn of Toronto and Garry Blackhorn, 20th Century club of Toronto, was out-laughed by the bout between Peterborough's first timers, Casper Weichorek and Jim O'Dette.

A REAL LAUGH

Weichorek who tried to keep a straight face as O'Dette joked his way through the first round kept jabbing at O'Dette's head with a left. He jolted the free-and-easy O'Dette, who landed several blows in close fighting.

Between rounds O'Dette joked back and forth with the crowd. By the time the second round started the whole house was laughing at his antics. At one time both boxers were laughing.

O'Dette topped his antics off when Weichorek lost his mouthpiece. O'Dette promptly stopped and with a swooping gesture lifted his mouth-piece away and tossed it into the crowd.

Amid the laughing the bout was finally declared a draw.

Horn, a ring veteran, presented clever boxing along with his antics while boxing Blackhorn, a tall, well-built promising fighter. Horn waltzing, side-stepped, and walked with Blackhorn, and pulled sevral tricks of the trade which were crowd-pleasing. The decision was also crowd-pleasing, a draw.

Jack Spratt of Lindsay, who lost an unpopular decision three weeks ago to Alex Caravaggio, gained revenge with a decision over the Alpha boxer. In the opening bout Barry Traynor decisioned Bill Smith in a flyweight bout.

Hawks Defeat Bruins In Floor Puck Series

Hawks defeated the Bruins by a 12-2 count at the Collegiate gym last night to open their best-of-three YMCA Floor Hockey League final playoff series. The second game of the set will be staged on the same large floor this Thursday night at eight o'clock.

It was 2-2 in a tight first period, as Seabrook scored twice for Pat Belsey's squad, while Coach Mick Magee and Noble each tallied once for Bruins. That ended the scoring for the latter team. Hawks took a 5-2 lead at the end of the second stanza with Seabrook scoring twice more and Belsey once. In the one-sided third chukker, Seabrook (a star throughout) counted four goals, and Belsey three. Teams:

Hawks: Belsey, Seabrook, Crossman, Pearson, Lowell.

Bruins: Magee, Noble, Gray, Heffernan, Allen.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

Here's a real paradox in sport. Another gruelling struggle for possession of hockey's most coveted award, the Stanley Cup, is in its final torrid stages this week. This marks the final yardage along a multi-million dollar trail—for a trophy that cost something less than $50, and was given, originally, for competition among amateur hockey clubs.

It was back, in the far-from-gay Nineties, that Lord Stanley, then Governor General of Canada, donated the sum of ten pounds sterling for the purchase of a trophy to bear his name. Lord Stanley was rather an indifferent hockey fan. But during his tenure of office another distinguished Englishman, Lord Kilcoursie, was a visitor at Government House, Ottawa, and through his efforts the trophy was secured.

Lord Kilcoursie was fascinated by the hockey of the period, so much so that he asked to be tutored in what he described as "ice athletics." He proved an apt pupil and became a player on the Rebels Hockey Club, then a member of the Ontario Hockey Association. Lord Kilcoursie then learned that the teams played merely for the glory of winning, with no tangible recognition given the victors.

He sought out his friend Lord Stanley, and prevailed upon him to make some fitting donation, preferably one that would perpetuate the memory of Lord Stanley. Upon receiving the ten pounds Lord Kilcoursie had a trophy fashioned to be known as the Stanley Cup and presented annually as symbolic of Canadian hockey supremacy.

The Cup was awarded as a challenge trophy for amateur hockey, for the very good reason that then—in the days of natural ice, small rinks, many of them open-air—professional hockey was not even thought of. There was nothing in the deed of the gift stipulating that amateurs only should play for the trophy, and gradually the Cup passed into the hands of the professional clubs.

It was held by the eastern professional champions until the Patrick brothers, Lester and Frank, daringly organized the Pacific Coast League, challenged for the trophy, and frequently won it. When the Coast League collapsed in the mid-20's, the trophy remained with the National League, fulfilling its destiny as symbolic of hockey supremacy.

Many millions of dollars have since been invested in great, artificial ice-palaces, more millions in salaries, training and travelling expenses, coaches, managers, farm circuits, upkeep of the great rinks, maintenance of hockey headquarters, reimbursement of referees and other officials. "A million dollar trail" is putting it mildly. Competition for the $50 trophy, and of course for the monetary awards that are coupled with it, have run into the billion-dollar mark, beyond doubt.

McNeill Attempts Giant Killer Role Against Wings

By W. R. WHEATLEY

MONTREAL (CP)—Gerry McNeill, the smallest goalkeeper in the National Hockey League, essays the giants-killer role again tonight when Montreal Canadiens must once more shoot the works or hand over the Stanley Cup to the Detroit Red Wings.

The Montreal goalie, who chalked up two shutout in the last three games of the 1953 Stanley Cup finals against Boston Bruins, is five feet seven inches high and weighs 155 pounds.

McNeil is in a spot dramatic and unenviable. Just a year ago he was shuffled out of the post-season series because of a bad case of nerves. He came back to steady Canadiens and help them along to hockey's big championship title.

Two months ago McNeil was put out of action in Chicago with an ankle injury. Jacques Plante, who took over from McNeil a year ago, was recalled from Buffalo. He was such a sensation that the job was his. McNeil looked on from the sidelines.

FOUR-STRAIGHT WIN

With Plante in the nets, Canadiens swept through to a four-straight win over Boston Bruins in the Stanley Cup semi-final. Canadiens broke even with the Red Wings in Detroit in the first two games of the final and then lost two games at home. Plante looked bad on a couple of goals.

By that time the Red Wings were leading 3-1 on games and the netminding job was again beckoning to McNeil. The decision to change goalies was a quick one. Coach Dick Irvin of Canadiens again went all out on applied psychology and something he calls the unseen hand.

An hour out of Detroit as the hockey special train rolled along, Irvin said to McNeil:

"I was just wondering if you would like to get your job back again."

"I certainly would," said McNeil.

That ended the conversation. When McNeil walked into Canadiens' dressing-room Sunday night his equipment was all laid out. Plante's wasn't.

SENSATIONAL GAME

McNeil went into the nets and turned in a sensational game. Although two months out of competitive action, he blanked the Red Wings on into overtime until Ken Mosdell broke up the scoreless masterpiece of hockey with a backhand shot that streaked by goalie Terry Sawchuk. The goal gave Canadiens the hard-earned victory and cut Detroit's margin to 3-2.

Coach Tommy Ivan said Monday he will send back his same NHL titlists into tonight's game, with a minor variation. Gilles Dube, signed to a pro contract by Canadiens five years ago and now Detroit property, has been recalled from Sherbrooke of the Quebec Hockey League. Dube may be called on for power plays, taking the place of rookie Earl (Dutch) Reibel who was injured in the fourth game here Saturday.

The last word from Irvin was that he will go with his same lineup. That would include Gaye Stewart, an experienced NHL player recalled from Buffalo, who turned in a useful game Sunday.

Major Baseball Season To Be Most Interesting In Years

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—The major leagues today opened what promises to be one of the most interesting baseball seasons in many years.

Rarely has a campaign started with so many vital question waiting to be answered. The latest and perhaps the most important is: How much will Enos Slaughter help the New York Yankees?

Did the five-time American League pennant winners insure ansure another flag when they acquired the 38-year-old Slaughter from the St. Louis Cardinals on the eve of the race? Or did they blow their chance when they sold star pitcher Vic Raschi to the Cardinals six weeks earlier?

Can Brooklyn, with a new manager at the helm, make it three in a row in the National League or will old age finally creep up on the Dodgers? Can Milwaukee Braves withstand the loss of slugger Bobby Thomson to give the Dodgers a run for their money?

OTHER QUESTIONS

Can Boston Red Sox hang on until Ted Williams recovers from his fractured collar bone to spark them with his big bat? Can newcomers Dave Philley and rookie Rudy Regalado supply whatever Cleveland Indians lacked the last three years when they finished second to the Yankees? Will the shift from St. Louis to Baltimore give the lowly Browns (now Orioles) the same shot in the arm that the Braves got last year when they were moved from Boston to Milwaukee?

Of course, the answers to these questions will be a long time coming. However, the prospects for close races in both leagues are bright since all last year's runners-up appear strengthened and eager to take a crack at the defending champions.

For the first time in years all 16 clubs started the campaign on the same day. Some 215,000 fans were expected to see the eight inaugurals that featured five new managers, a new city and a batch of new faces — although missing from the opening-day line-ups were such familiar figures as Williams, Slaughter, Thomson and Gus Zernial.

WON'T SEE ACTION

Slaughter, on hand for the Yankees' opener in Washington, was not expected to see action but Mickey Mantle, the young outfield star, was slated for duty, apparently recovered from his knee operation of last winter.

A sell-out crowd of 30,000 was assured to watch President Eisenhower throw out the first ball. After that either lefthander Chuck Stobbs or righthander Bob Porterfield was to take the mound for the Senators. Southpaw Whitey Ford, who holds a 5-0 lifetime record against Washington, already has been named to open for the Yankees.

MATHEWS TO FIELD?

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Manager Charlie Grimm has changed his mind and Eddie Mathews may still become an outfielder.

"I talked it over with him," Grimm said Monday as he and his Milwaukee Braves boarded a plane for Cincinnati and today's opening National League game. "He finally liked the idea."

Three months ago Grimm was opposed, flatly, to moving the young major league home run king off third base.

Snead Defeats Hogan By One Stroke

By MERCER BAILEY

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Sam Snead, the drawling West Virginian, made two conquests in winning his third Masters golf championship—he beat Ben Hogan by one stroke in their 18-hole playoff and also licked a bad case of "yips."

"Yips" is a Snead-coined word the Slammer uses to describe putting jitters, and he said before the tournament that he was in the midst of the worst case of his career.

But he handled his putter adequately Monday and came home with a two-under-par 70 to Hogan's 71. The victory bracketed Snead with Jimmy Demaret as a three-time Masters winner. Hogan, too, was seeking his third Masters title and had hoped to become the first man ever to capture two in succession.

"It was just a question of who got the breaks," Sam said after defeating the little Texan who swept the Masters, United States Open and British Open last year.

BREAK ON 10TH

One of the breaks in Sam's favor came on the 10th hole, where he chipped in from 50 feet for a birdie three to go ahead of Hogan for the first time.

He used a six-iron off the tee and the ball landed back of the green behind a little hump. He used the same club for his chip shot.

"I told that six-iron, 'you put me over here, now you get me outta here'," Sam said with a grin.

This was the third time these two golfing greats had met in mancome out on top every time. He beat Ben in a San Francisco match-play tournament before the war and again in their 1950 playoff for the Los Angeles Open crown.

Snead picked up $5,000 for his victory and Hogan got $3,125. Each also got an undisclosed percentage of the playoff gate.

Walls KO's Harrison In First Round

By JACK SULLIVAN

TORONTO (CP) — Earl Walls, Canada's heavyweight boxing champion, says he "hates fighting." But the 6,350 persons who saw him perform Monday night probably are wondering what would happen if he suddenly "liked" the game.

The 25-year-old Toronto Negro unleashed the most vicious two-fisted attack seen here in years when he knocked out Tommy Harrison of Los Angeles, Calif., at 2:36 of the first round of a scheduled 10-rounder. It was his 26th knockout in 35 professional fights and his 16th first-round KO.

Walls weighed 194¾ and Harrison 183¼.

It was sweet revenge for the 25-year-old Walls who lost a unanimous 10-round decision here Jan. 27 to Harrison. That time 14,737 persons paid a Toronto record gate of $45,261 to see the battle while Monday night, with prices doubled at a range of $10 to $3, the gate was $37,011.60.

Walls was 2-1 favorite for the first fight and the only charitable description of him after he lost was that he was a "game fighter." He twice got up from the floor in the fight and took a sound beating.

REMATCH DIFFERENT

The rematch was completely different. The fans had hardly been seated from a 10-minute stretch prior to the main bout when Walls rushed out of his corner at the bell and clipped Harrison with a looping right to the temple. That started the slaughter.

He found the range with a hard left hook to the jaw and Harrison's knees buckled. He got up at the count of five and was belted from one corner of the ring to the other before he slumped down for keeps. The final knockdown also was on a left hook to the jaw.

"The boy is good," said Dan Florio, well-known New York trainer who was in Walls' corner. But Florio, who has handled Jersey Joe Walcott, Paddy Young, Joey Micelli and others in a career of about 30 years, refused to go out on a limb concerning Walls' prospects in the heavy ranks.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ottawa Senators, with Dave Gill as manager and coach, won their last Stanley Cup 27 years ago tonight with a 3-1 victory over Boston Bruins. The rough encounter at Ottawa saw Bill Coutu of Boston suspended for assaulting both referees. Hooley Smith of Ottawa was also suspended for a month, and several players of both teams were fined.

PREVIEW OF THINGS TO COME?—Brooklyn manager Walter Alston greets Billy Cox as the Dodger player rounds third base after hitting a home run in an exhibition game against the New York Yankees at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn. Oh yes, the Dodgers won by a score of 8-2.

Bader's Life Makes Challenging Story

By ARCH MacKENZIE

LONDON (CP)—Douglas Bader dared as a schoolboy to carve his initials brazenly in the headmaster's largest vegetable marrow. As a crack young RAF pilot in 1931, he lost both legs accepting an aerobatics challenge.

Bader went on to become a "domineering, dogmatic, breezy" air ace, dubbed "old tinpins" by the hell-for-leather Canadian pilots he led through the Battle of Britain.

His story—the part concerning his efforts to walk again like other men underlines such fortitude, gusto and perseverance that Bader's Battle of Britain brilliance is just another episode—has been published in a book called "Reach for the Sky." It chronicles his career from his days as a cocky, energetic and fiercely-competitive schoolboy to his life now at 44 years of age as a flying executive for a big oil firm.

"MOBILE FIREBALL"

"Legs or no legs, I've never seen such a blankety blank mobile fireball as that guy," marvelled Stan Turner, a rock-hard, audacious Canadian pilot who served under Bader in RAF Squadron 242. Bader, a peerless athlete, was born to fly.

Steeped in the First World War traditions of such aces as Canadian Billy Bishop, Bader was instrumental in evolving fighter techniques which helped stem the daylight Luftwaffe raids on England. He emphasized getting fighter planes to high altitudes before the German planes arrived, then attacking out of the sun to scatter the rows of fighter-escorted German bombers before bombs could be aimed and dropped.

Bader, pronounced Bahder, went down in France Aug. 9, 1941. In bailing out of his damaged plane he was forced to jettison one of his artificial legs. Shortly afterward his squadron flew over the Lille hospital where he was confined and a new leg was dropped by Sgt. Pilot Jack Nickleson of Toronto.

By that time he was famous even to the Germans and had scored 22½ official kills. He reacted typically to prisoner-of-war status by trying to escape at once and goading and baiting his captors through a succession of camps till his release by American forces.

AUSTRALIAN AUTHOR

"Reach for the Sky" is by Australian Paul Brickhill, like Bader a former Hurricane fighter pilot and PoW. Brickhill called his subject "an unpredictable mixture of public school (manners) and uninhibited pirate" and followed him for eight months with a tape recorder to get his information. His book brings out these points.

Bader was nearly dead after his 1941 crash—he lost one leg above the knee and one below—but rallied when he heard himself described as a "dying boy." He was discharged from the RAF, not because he couldn't fly but because nothing in the regulations covered a legless man.

He was captured because he chased six Messerschmitt 109 fighters alone—breaking one of his rules—and collided. At war's end he held the DSO and bar, DFC and bar, Croix de Guerre and Legion of Honor.

Bader's first command was 242 Squadron, the only Canadian outfit in the RAF. "They're a tough bunch," he was told before taking over in mid-June, 1940.

The Canadians had more battle experience than Bader and were openly sceptical when he arrived. But he showed them he could fly and they liked his brusque, open attitude, which he illustrated by slashing red tape.

CANADIAN COMRADES

Many of the Canadians were characters in their own right. Turner, who Bader says now is with Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers Europe (SHAPE), "had a face like chipped granite . . . a large capacity for beer and a penchant for firing off a large revolver in public." The Station Company thought he was too wild and said so. Bader saw eye to eye with Turner, whom he described as a "crack pilot, fearless and decisive."

There was Willie McKnight of Calgary, 20, "a flinty-eyed little deadshot . . . Under the tender lips he was a tough little man with a DFC and a weakness for Bing Crosby records."

The Canadians came almost unscathed through the Battle of Britain, scoring 67 confirmed kills by the end of 1940 for the loss of six pilots. Then, in a series of blows in the dull period of early 1941, the Hurricane Squadron lost McKnight, Laurie Cryderman, Ben Brown, Hugh Tamblyn, John Latta, and Ian Smith.

Bader—known openly as "dogsbody"—was posted to command three spitfire squadrons in March, 1941. He brought Turner and Ian Arthur, another Canadian to fly with him there. Turner was with him when Bader led the first Battle of Britain fly-past in 1945.

Bader, a teetotaller, still flies globally and plays a game of golf equalled by one out of every 100 two-legged men. He was married in 1937. His only trip to Canada took place two years ago on business. Following his custom, he visited war amputation cases in Toronto to show what can be done by a legless type. He also chatted by telephone with Bob Grassick, an ex-242 man, in London, Ont.

Roseneath Men Entertain Visiting Clubs

ROSENEATH (ENS) — Roseneath Men's Club were hosts to the members of the Grafton and Baltimore Men's Clubs Friday evening when a social get to-gether was held. On invitation of the Fenella members of Roseneath Men's Club, the meeting was held in the Fenella Community Hall. Some 70 men attended.

Rev. Arthur Morgan, pastor of Trinity United church, Bowmanville was the guest speaker and spoke about Alberta. Mr. Morgan had served on a pastorate there for five years.

He presented a geographical sketch of the province, of the people of different creeds working together for community betterment, better educational facilities for their children and improved hospital accommondation. He was introduced by Fred G. Lewis and thanked by the Rev. J. N. Lovelace.

The president Mr. C. W. Varcoe presided with William Montgomery as pianist. Mr. Silas Sherwin, first vice president of Roseneath Men's Club, welcomed the guests and spoke of the benefits derived from these social get-to-gethers.

Eighty-two year-old Archie Bowman of the Baltimore club gave a talk "Early Recollections of My First Visit to Roseneath in 1889." In a reminiscent mood he recalled coming to Roseneath with the Coldsprings Baseball team to play the Roseneath team. The score was 26-10 in favor of Coldsprings. Coming with horses and buggies it required a whole day to come to Roseneath, play ball and go home.

The guest artists of the evening were two boys from the boys training school, Bowmanville, with their music supervisor, the boys contributing vocal solos and a barber shop quartette from Trinity United Church, Bowmanville. This quartette delighted their audience with true barbershop harmonizing, and responded to many calls for encores. They were: Douglas Rackham, Sam Black, Dr. Keith Slemon and Keith Jackson.

Dr. Slemon of Bowmanville led in community singing. The Rev. A. C. Luffman, Baltimore, gave a humorous reading. Christopher Staples recited "Dan McGrew".

William Wildie, president of the Grafton club and Christopher Staples, past president of the Baltimore club voiced their appreciation to their hosts for their hospitality. Mr. A. J. Campbell of the Roseneath club thanked the directors of Fenella Community hall for their invitation to use the hall.

Will Confer With Client Before Further Action

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator J. W. de B. Farris Monday said he will confer with his client, Gordon S. Wismer, before taking further action concerning Mr. Wismer's libel suit against writer-editor Blair Fraser.

Mr. Fraser, Ottawa editor of Maclean's Magazine, refused again Saturday to disclose his sources of information for a magazine article. He had been ordered to reply to pre-trial questions by the British Columbia courts.

Senator Farris said he is leaving for Vancouver and expects to confer with Mr. Wismer, former British Columbia attorney-general, later this week.

UNDER CANVAS NOW — There's a reason for these smiling Canadian faces in Korea. After a long period in foxholes and temporary billets, the Lord Strathconas have moved under canvas. Here, Tpr. Inno Vatter (Vancouver), Tpr. Wilf Moore (Edmonton), Cpl. Bob Painter (Vancouver), Tpr. Bruce Johnson (Victoria) and Tpr. Fred Hayman (New Glasgow, Nova Scotia) tighten the ropes of their canvas billet in the Korean hills.—(Federal Newsphoto).

Happy Canadians Land At Seattle

SEATTLE (CP)—The tough, rollicking 3rd battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, returned from Korea Monday and promptly were dubbed the "Happy Canadians."

Obviously overjoyed at being home after a year's service in Korea and the prospect of 60 days leave, 1,400 Canadian soldiers tramped light-heartedly down the gangplank of the American troopship Marine Lynx and swung aboard trains for their homes across Canada.

Other units making up the big draft were the 4th Field Squadron, Royal Canadian Engineers; 4th Field Ambulance, Royal Canadian Medical Corps; 5th Transport Company, Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers, and a group of miscellaneous personnel.

Kesselring Finds Big League Tough Business

KITCHENER (CP)—Gerry Kesselring, a big, confident golfer who burned up Canadian courses as an amateur, said Monday it's a tough business following the game's money trail in the United States.

Kesselring, who turned professional at 24 last year after being named top amateur by the Ontario Golf Association for the third straight time, stopped off at his home here for a rest before taking another fling at the winter circuit.

"It's a great life," he said. "I'd like to keep at it for another 10 years. But it's a tough league."

In his last year as an amateur Gerry won just about every title in Ontario. In 1946 and '47 he was Canadian junior champion.

Kesselring and his wife, Helga, started on the pro circuit in mid-December. They logged more than 12,000 miles by car and Gerry's winnings totalled $821.

He bucked some of the game's best men and missed the money four times by one-stroke margins. He qualified in all but three tournaments and will head back to the circuit in a couple of weeks.

GOUZENKO DONS HOOD — Igor Gouzenko, former Russian embassy code clerk in Ottawa whose disclosure led to cracking of a Soviet spy ring in Canada in 1946, poses in pillow-case mask in a Toronto hotel room with the couple who will portray his wife and himself in a movie about their lives in the last eight years. Irja Jensen, Finnish actress, takes the part of Svetlana Gouzenko. Harry Townes, New York television actor, portrays Gouzenko in a picture now being filmed in Montreal and Quebec's Laurentians. Gouzenko, under protection of the Canadian government, is masked so his features will not be recognized. The book they are looking at is Gouzenko's novel, "The Fall of a Titan," based on the life of revolutionary writer Maxim Gorky.—(CP Photo).

Strange Brain Chemical Aids Pressure

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—A mysterious new brain chemical may help keep blood pressure down despite arguments and other emotional strains of life, a physician said today.

This chemical is found in nerve centres deep in the brains of humans, cows and horses.

It is not yet known exactly what it is. New experiments with it were described by Dr. Alfred Leimdorfer of the Stritch School of Medicine, Loyola University, Chicago, in a paper before the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology.

Extracts of this nerve tissue injected into dogs and cats cause a deep and long fall in their blood pressure, he said. The nerve chemical seems to play a role in normal regulation of blood pressure.

EMOTIONAL STRAIN

Nerve impulses and emotional strain undoubtedly play a part in raising blood pressure, Leimdorfer said. Emotional reactions can bring release of hormones, such as adrenalin, which send up blood pressure. If that happens often enough or long enough, arteries can become damaged.

The brain receives all sensations and the brain's control switches regulate all reactions. The brain thus is "the main line of attack and defence in this emotional struggle," Leimdorfer said. It regulates what happens under emotional strains.

Mr. Newman dedicated a communion chair, a memorial gift from the Roberts family in memory of the late Charles Henry Roberts, who died early this year and who as a member of the session had prepared the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper for over 30 years. Mr. Roberts had been a member of the church since 1894 and had given long terms of faithful service in many of its departments. The chair was unveiled by the senior elder, Fred Rogers.

The anthem by the choir was "All Glory Loud and Honor."

Says Duplessis Upsetting National Unity

OTTAWA (CP) — CCF Leader Coldwell says the Liberals are responsible for what he terms a threatening attack on Canada's unity and welfare by the ultra-nationalism of Premier Duplessis of Quebec.

Mr. Coldwell, speaking Monday during the budget debate in the Commons, also said Mr. Duplessis' stand that the provinces have priority in the field of direct taxation is a dangerous, insidious and false doctrine.

Mr. Duplessis during the last few years had promoted the fallacious idea that Canada was less a nation than an ssocition of 10 sovereign states and had assumed the right to pass legislation often incompatible with the fundamental democratic rights of Canadians.

But, he said, Mr. Duplessis "has merely carried forward the type of propaganda used for many years by the Liberal party in Quebec to further its own political interests. In other words, in my view, to some extent these are chickens coming home to roost."

Canadian Brigade Gets Battle Training

SOEST, Germany (CP)—The 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade will leave its base here Easter weekend for a month of intensive battle exercises in the Soltau training area, 60 miles north of Hannover. More than 4,000 men will be involved.

Brig. W. A. B. Anderson, brigade commander, said the aim of the exercises is "to knit our units together as a single team."

American Demands Termed 'Alarming'

OTTAWA (CP)—Max Freedman, Winnipeg newspaper man, Monday described as "alarming" American congressional demands for the immediate, complete independence of Indo-China from France.

Mr. Freedman, Washington correspondent of the Manchester Guardian and CBC commentator, told the Canadian Club that none of the three Indo-Chinese states believes for an instant it can maintain freedom without the partnership of France.

IT S REALLY A DOG'S LIFE—The life of a dog, around Cleveland, Ohio, anyway, seems to be one of heartbreak and eviction. Puddles, the pup (top photo), seems to be in a pathetic plight—two kittens have evicted her from her home and are swiping all the chow. Cracker, her mother, adopted the kittens when mama cat proved unmotherly, and now the pup has to take a back seat at feeding time. Puddles has even been moved to separate quarters by her owner Steven Kirner, and has to wobble after mother until she consents to lie down and feed her. Spot (lower photo), is also leading a dog's life. Recently a masked racoon named Rakky moved into Spot's private house built by his master, Nick Tucci. And Spot's been living upstairs ever since.

Supreme Court Changes Findings Of A Jury

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada in an unusual judgment has reversed the findings of a jury.

The court Monday threw out a ruling which awarded $24,052 damages to R. A. Garland of Almonte, Ont., who crashed into the rear of a stopped Colonial Coach Lines bus on a foggy morning in September, 1952.

Colonial Coach Lines lost the original case before Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier of the Ontario Supreme Court and a jury and also lost an appeal to the Ontario Appeal Court. Monday their appeal was allowed and the action dismissed "with costs throughout."

The Supreme Court seldom re-examines the findings of fact arrived at by a jury, more usually confining its study to points of law and ordering a retrial if in doubt as to the fairness or propriety of the original one.

In this case, the majority of the court ruled that the jury could not reasonably, on the basis of facts presented, have assessed the blame as it did.

HAS PRECEDENT

Supreme Court officials said the judgment, while unusual, is not without precedent.

Evidence at the trial was that the accident occurred during conditions of bad visibility.

The jury found that the driver, W. L. Carroll, "showed negligence in not pulling the bus close enough to the right shoulder when coming to a stop. It also found Garland negligent in not using "enough driving precaution in the prevailing weather conditions." It assessed Carroll as 85 per cent to blame and Garland 15 per cent at fault.

The Fox and The Grapes

A HUNGRY FOX saw some fine bunches of Grapes hanging from a vine that was trained along a high trellis, and did his best to reach them by jumping as high as he could into the air. But it was all in vain, for they were just out of reach: so he gave up trying, and walked away with an air of dignity and unconcern, remarking, "I thought those Grapes were ripe, but I see now they are quite sour."

This shoveller needs no rest

Blast after blast drives a passage through the solid rock deep down in Inco's Levack mine. After the blasting, this mechanical loader moves in and picks up the rock broken by the explosives. It operates without interruption—often not stopping even while ore cars move into position for loading.

This powerful equipment is an example of the way Inco endeavours to take the backache out of mining.

House Defeats Non-Confidence Tax Motion

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons has defeated a CCF non-confidence motion calling for reduced taxes for low-income groups and higher taxes from the wealthy and from corporations.

Progressive Conservatives sided with Liberals Monday night in defeating 125 to 26 the CCF motion at the end of the first day of debate on Finance Minister Abbott's budget presented a week ago. The Social Credit group supported the CCF proposal.

The motion by CCF leader Coldwell said the government should have increased the income-tax exemptions for those with low incomes and boosted tax rates on corporations and individuals with higher incomes.

Another non-confidence motion, presented earlier by the Progressive Conservatives, still is before the House. It was moved by J. M. Macdonnell, the party's financial spokesman, and criticizes the government for not reducing taxes which were "an excessive burden" and hampered Canadian producers against competition from abroad.

RESUME DEBATE

Opposition Leader Drew will resume the debate today.

The non-confidence proposals launched the House into the budget debate, expected to continue for several weeks.

The PC motion said the House regrets that the government:

"1. Has failed to reduce taxes which are an excessive burden on the Canadian people and place our producers under a severe disadvantage in meeting competition from abroad.

"2. Has failed to reduce unnecessary expenditures.

"3. Has failed to improve the efficiency of its administration.

"4. Ignores the problem of unemployment.

"5. Has failed to retain and regain markets for our surplus primary products.

"6. Has failed to reach agreement with the provincial governments in regard to a clearly-defined reallocation of taxing powers so that the provincial governments and municipal councils may have adequate financial resources to carry out their rapidly-increasing responsibilities."

AMENDS MOTION

Mr. Coldwell's motion amended the last point in the PC motion to say that the government has "failed to reconvene the Dominion-provincial conference from time to time so that an effort might have been made" to reach a tax agreement with the provinces.

It also said deductions from taxable income for individuals should be increased to $1,500 from $1,000 for single persons and to $3,000 from $2,000 for married persons.

Mr. Macdonnell initiated criticism of Mr. Abbott's 1954-55 budget, which cut taxes by $40,000,000 a year, mainly excise and sales taxes on a number of consumer goods.

The budget is a dud, he said. The tax reductions would cause hardly a ripple in the life of Canadians.

The PC spokesman accused Mr. Abbott of wishful thinking in forecasting that an upswing in economic activity later this year would offset current declines.

RELYING ON U.S.

The government was gambling with the welfare of the unemployed but proposed nothing to help them. It was relying on an upswing in the United States economy to help Canada.

Mr. Coldwell said tax cuts have been made on the wrong items, in many cases. There had been reductions for jewelry and cut glass but none for children's clothing and babies' shoes.

Reductions in income taxes for low-income groups would stimulate consumer buying and help the economy. The exemption levels were too low and had been set when the cost of living was much lower than at present.

Canada could have reduced expenditures 10 per cent this year without danger, he said.

Wing Of Harvard Given To Police

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP)—The RCMP announced Monday the recovery of a wing section of the Harvard plane involved in Thursday's 37-death air disaster here.

The wing had vanished from the Willowdale golf course, on which it landed after the training aircraft had been in collision with a TCA North Star.

Police, reticent about details of the disappearance, said information received voluntarily led to recovery of the piece of wreckage. They would not say where it was found or if any charges would be laid.

Army Doesn't Believe In Minimum Standards

OTTAWA (CP) — The army apparently doesn't belitve in setting minimum standards of education for applicants for enlistment.

The defence department said Monday the minimum the army wants is a standard of literacy sufficiently high to enable a recruit to absorb training without difficulty.

The navy and the air force, however, have a minimum standard of grade eight education.

The information was contained in a parliamentary return for Owen L. Jones (CCF—Okanagan Boundary) who also asked questions about physiciatric examinations given members of the armed forces.

The forces, the return said, discharge personnel for psychiatric or mental causes.

Although no regular examination is made, personnel receive mental or psychiatric examinations when there is cause to indicate desirability for such tests.

Didn't Investigate Harold Banks' Record

OTTAWA (CP)—The immigration department says the United States court record of Harold C. Banks, Canadian director of the Seafarers' International Union (TLC-AFL), was not investigated prior to the date he was granted permanent residence in Canada.

The information was contained in a return tabled Monday in the Commons for Mrs. Ellen Fairclough (PC—Hamilton West). Mrs. Fairclough questioned the appointment of Mr. Banks as a Canadian labor delegate to a meeting of the International Labor Organization in Geneva, Switzerland, Feb. 15-28 last.

The return said Mr. Banks' court record in the U.S. was brought to the attention of the immigration and citizenship department May 2, 1953. A previous return tabled for Mrs. Fairclough said Mr. Banks entered Canada Jan. 14, 1949, as a non-immigrant and was admitted for permanent residence May 8, 1952.

EARLY TOOTH

William Jerrett Scott Hall has proven to be a seven-week wonder. His mother, Mrs. Charles Hall, RR 3, Lakefield, discovered the youngster cutting a tooth. Usually a baby does not cut its first teeth until the age of six months or more.

MINOR FIRE ALARMS

Firemen used a handpump at 8:20 p.m. to put out a chimney fire at William J. MacClennan's home, 169 Westcott St. The pipes were also overheated. Earlier, at 5:24 p.m., a flooded oil heater was reported at Ford McCann's home, 1039 High St.

MINOR ACCIDENT

Only one minor accident was reported to city police Monday. Cars driven by Miss S. M. Hutchison, 603 Weller St. and Fred Fitzgerald, 219 Simcoe St., collided on King St. Total damage to the vehicles amounted to $200. Constable Edward Patterson investigated.

LIFESAVING ALARM

The parks committee of city council Monday approved the suggestion of the chairman, Ald. Robert Knox, to install a fire alarm box in Inverlea park to be used in case of swimming accidents. Ald. Knox explained that the present telephone was costing $70 a year but was only being used during the swimming season.

GARBAGE VANS

City Clerk E. A. Outram informed the sanitation committee Monday that the Phil Wood Co. of Windsor had agreed to sell their new automatic type of garbage disposal vans to the city on the basis of a one-year replacement guarantee. If within one year the city is dissatisfied with them, the company will replace them with manually-operated vans at no cost to the city.

HOUSE FOR MUSEUM

Parks Superintendent Armar Butcher has been authorized by the parks committee to interview the Peterborough Historical Society to see if they wish to use the city's house in Nicholls Oval as a museum to display their historical collection. Mr. Butcher was also requested to estimate the cost of painting the house in one color in place of the present "red, white and blue" combination.

Plan Protest Of Family License Ban

Resort Men Annoyed At Abolition Of Family License

An emergency meeting of local resort operators will be held in the YMCA Wednesday at 7:30 to discuss abolition of family fishing licences by the department of lands and forests.

The reaction of resort operators to this ban has been one of "extreme annoyance," says Robert H. Hamilton assistant secretary-manager of the chamber of commerce in a letter to all resort operators. The chamber is sponsoring the resort operators' meeting to "offset unfavorable publicity" brought about by the government's edict.

The situation is "urgent, and you should be doing something about it," says Mr. Hamilton. He feels that if the department of lands and forests had made it clearer that licences were now necessary only for family members 17 or older, there would have been fewer complaints from American visitors.

(Recently the Examiner carried a story describing the anger of many United States citizens at the abolition of the family licences. One man wrote the chamber of commerce that the provincial government was "killing the goose that lays the golden eggs." Resort operators, generally, opposed the ban, although there was at least one who felt Ontario fishing would be better off without any visitors from the United States.)

SCHOOL FOR OPERATORS

Meanwhile the department of travel and publicity is planning a school for resort operators, to be held in Kingston April 29 and 30. Although the school will be primarily for the operators of motels and motor courts, all present and potential operators of any sort are welcome.

Kingston was chosen because the heaviest concentration of motel and motor court operators is in the eastern section of the province. A one time Peterborough had been considered as the site for the school, but recently the choice of Kingston was made.

Possibilities of Peterborough were discussed here last month after a meeting among James Fraser of the chamber of commerce, J. R. McHattie, chief inspector of the development branch of the department of travel and publicity, and John D. Bark, local representative of the department.

An Expensive Joke

LOWBROW jokers whose chief amusement is to ring in false fire alarms cost the ratepayers of the city a sizeable sum of money. Take Monday afternoon for instance. At 2:35 p.m. a youthful voice informed the fire department that a house was afire opposite the filtration plant. Pumpers from both fire stations responded and found that the call was a hoax. But the cost: the chief and five volunteer firemen from No. 2 station—each man collecting $5 for his trouble; use of gas and oil; wear and tear on the trucks; and, of course, the possibility of an accident.

Reward Offered To Help Catch Young Vandals

Extensive damage to the city's building at Inverlea Park was described as "sheer vandalism" by Parks Superintendent Armar Butcher Monday.

Mr. Butcher told the parks committee that the locks had been taken from the doors, the baseboards torn from the walls and a fire built in the middle of the girls' washroom.

Bricks had been senselessly broken from the wall and would require an experienced bricklayer to replace them, he said. This was a piece of wanton destruction with no point in it.

The damage was attributed to "young hoodlums riding motorcycles" by a neighboring resident.

"We're running into quite a bit of this sort of thing," Mr. Butcher told the committee. He said that another resident had told him of children damaging a drinking fountain in one of the parks.

"I reminded him that, since he was a taxpayer, the fountain belonged to him and asked him why he didn't stop them," Mr. Butcher said. "But he wouldn't even give me the names of the children so I could tell their parents.

"We'll have to find the culprits somehow and make an example of them," Mr. Butcher said.

The committee expressed approval of Ald. Stan McBride's suggestion of offering a reward for information concerning people responsible for the vandalism.

Sanitation Controversy Resolves Itself Into Mayor-Pierce Scrap

Nothing Against Administration Of Dep't By Superintendent Pierce Mayor Graham Admits To Committee

A week after saying the sanitation department "is rotten and it stinks," Mayor Norman Graham admitted that he had nothing against the administration of the department by Superintendent J. E. Pierce but charged that Mr. Pierce "shouldn't be in charge of men working for the city of Peterborough."

On Thursday, His Worship had said that his original criticism was not aimed at the sanitation committee of city council or the workers of the department but at the superintendent. His statement that his reference was to the superintendent's character came Monday afternoon when he was challenged at a meeting of the sanitation committee to place before them any evidence he had that the department was mismanaged.

NO INVESTIGATION

It now appears that the controversy, in the words of committee chairman Ald. Bill Beggs is "a matter between the superintendent and the mayor themselves." It was decided by the committee, therefore, that there would not be an investigation of the department, as requested by the superintendent.

This decision came after a heated discussion initiated by a letter from Mr. Pierce, with the mayor firing verbal buckshot in all directions but refusing to make a motion calling for an investigation "because I wouldn't get a seconder."

The mayor's charges fell in bewildering succession on a number of targets and drew the charge of McCarthyism against him. For the most part, Mr. Pierce remained mute throughout the session.

WANTS REMARKS PROVED

In his letter to the chairman, the superintendent said, in the interests of the citizens, the mayor should be compelled to prove his remarks if they affected the administration of the sanitation department in any way.

"If His Worship has information that can improve the operation of this department, then he is not fulfilling his obligation to the citizens by withholding this information," Mr. Pierce said in his letter.

"If I have not been managing this department properly, I have never heard His Worship make any complaints at the sanitation committee meetings and I have yet to hear His Worship make any constructive criticism at these meetings in regard to improving the efficiency of the department.

"I feel that as a citizen I have certain rights and when remarks or opinions are expressed, that tend to defame or slander me, I cannot sit idly by if they are unfounded; therefore I would like the sanitation committe to request city council to take the necessary action to have these remarks proven if they are aimed at the administration of the sanitation department. If they are aimed at my character and not against my work then I will take legal measures."

"I'm willing to go along with whatever council wants to do," His Worship said when the letter was read. "I have witnesses."

APPLIED TO BOTH

"Were your remarks directed against the superintendent's administration of the department or against him personally?" asked Ald. Beggs whose repeated demands later caused the mayor to eventually contradict himself. At this point His Worship said his criticism applied to both the superintendent's administration of the department and the superintendent personally.

"If it's personal, it has nothing to do with council," Ald. Stan McBride said.

"He says it's both," Ald. Beggs said.

"That's correct," the mayor said "I'm willing to have it brought up before a special committee."

"Why a special committee?" asked Ald. Harold Rehill. "This is a sanitation committee matter. It

Coventry Singers Present Easter Recital

The music and verse recital for Easter and Spring which the Coventry Singers and Robertson Davies (as reader) gave Monday evening was both distinctive and distinguished. The auditorium of Teachers' College was appropriate as a setting and acoustically pleasing. The stage from which the choir sang was simply decorated with a gold reliquary, candles and flowers, and was well lit.

The program lasted one hour. Both the music and the poetry demanded and received sensitive attention from the audience. The artistic and emotional shape of the program was sustained throughout. It began on a religious theme with Palestrina's motet "Stabat Mater" and seventeenth century devotional verse as the focus. The two-choir antiphonal nature of the Palestrina was beautifully revealed and the whole work given with a fine regard for its cadences, rhythms, and religious power. It was a deeply-moving performance.

SPRING CELEBRATED

The transition from the devotional theme to the celebration of Spring was made in a group of short songs ending with the carol from 'Piae Cantiones' (1582) "Spring Has Come Again." Thereupon Mr. Davies read Edmund Spenser's "Masque of Mutability" from "The Faerie Queene." The pageantry of the seasons, the colour of the language and the processional imagery of the poetry were impressively told, with drama, subtlety and warmth of heart.

The program was brought full cycle with madrigals and partsongs of spring, the reading of modern English lyrics, and Healey Willan's liturgical motet "Rise Up, My Love, My Fair One."

The audience was warmly appreciative, both in the silence of their attention and in their applause at the end of the program. Musical director of the Coventry Singers is Robert Bell, who with Mr. Davies, acknowledged the applause.—M. K.

Labor Wants Investigation Of Sanitation Department, Claims Citizens Confused

A thorough investigation of the city's sanitation department should be made, the Peterborough and District Labor Council (CCL) decided Monday night.

By a show of hands the delegates endorsed this recommendation of their municipal committee with two voting against it. The dissentients were Thomas Cupoli and Jack Benstead, both of Local 570, IUE (CIO-CCL).

"If Mayor Norman Graham can make the charges stick, then it's OK with us," said William Triggs of Local 293, UPWA (CIO-CCL). "Right now the citizens of Peterborough are confused; they don't know what the score is . . . We agree with the chairman of sanitation (Alderman William Beggs) that there should be an investigation so the people will know what the mayor means when he makes there charges.

NO SPECIFIC CHARGES

"Things can't go on much longer like this. . .all this bickering back and forth; and we still haven't heard any specific charges."

"This has been going on for the two years, at least," said Edmund S. Humphrey of Local 434, UPWA. "The mayor resigned once before after making charges against Mr. Pierce (sanitation department superintendent and the object of Mayor Graham's verbal attacks). If the man isn't doing a job he should be out of there. . .The whole thing doesn't make sense . . .An investigation is the only answer."

Thomas Cupoli then said that council put through their motion calling for an apology by the mayor or an investigation by the minister of municipal affairs — when the mayor was out of town.

"Why didn't they postpone that meeting for a couple of days so the mayor could have been there"? he asked.

"Instead of council postponing their meeting the mayor could have postponed his trip to Toronto," interjected Mr. Triggs.

WANT IT CLEARED UP

"We would like to see this matter cleared up so council can get on with the job they were elected to do," said Alfred Barber, president of the labor council.

"Well, city council want an investigation and Mr. Pierce wants an investigation, so I don't see why the labor council has to get into it," observed Mr. Benstead.

"I don't blame Bill Beggs one single bit for asking for an investigation into his department," said Mr. Triggs in a parting shot. "I'm with him 100 per cent."

(Alderman Beggs was elected on a pro-labor platform and was president of Local 293, UPWA (the Quaker Oats' local), before Mr. Triggs.)

To Use Building For Branch Office

Works Minister Winters says either the old customs building or existing post office in Peterborough may be used as accommodation for a branch office of the unemployment insurance commission.

He made the statement Monday in the House of Commons in reply to a question by Gordon K. Fraser, MP. He said neither building has been sold.

ELECT DIRECTORS

The Peterborough Masonic Hall Ltd. held its annual meeting in the Masonic Hall on Monday night and heard reports of a most successful year. Directors re-elected were George A. Macdonald, T. H. Taylor, Dr. J. J. Craig, Hugh M. Nevin, E. R. Shirley, G. Wilson Craw, Charles J. Ray, James Downing, and Ross L. Dobbin.

FLY FROM OSHAWA

For their annual business trip in Western Canada a group of Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co. officials flew from Oshawa, and are returning to the airport Wednesday evening. They are: President C. B. Neal, Bruce Payne, John Madden, Reg. Reid, Peter McArthur and Don Wood.

HOSTELLERS WANTED

Attempts are being made to organize a branch of the Canadian Youth Hostels association in Peterborough district. There is one hostel in the area, but there is no official local group interested in promoting the ideals of hostelling, which are to promote fellowship and an interest in the countryside among hikers and cyclers. Ralph L. Martin of 251 Wilson St. is attempting to organize a hostelling group in Peterborough.

Seek to Beautify City

Parks Department To Plant 500 Trees On City Streets

The arrival of spring was officially acknowledged at city hall Monday when Parks Superintendent Armar Butcher announced his plans for planting trees and getting the playgrounds in shape for another season of outdoor activity.

Besides the job of whipping the ball diamonds into shape for the approaching season, Mr. Butcher told the parks committee he planned to plant 500 trees along the city's thoroughfares this year. The majority of the trees will be maples, including some varieties of red maples. But the department will also be planting some chestnut trees and some mountain ash.

Mr. Butcher explained that the majority of the mountain ash would be planted in places where ordinarily a lot of trimming would be required because of overhead wires. The mountain ash doesn't grow as tall as the maple, so less trimming will be required.

REPAIR RIVERSIDE STANDS

In addition to repairing the backstops at the various ball diamonds, the parks department plan to repair the stands at Riverside Park, where they'll also put some field tiles in the infield for better drainage. The south end of the park will also be seeded and graded.

Other parks will also come in for their share of attention. It is planned to clean up the underbrush in Hamilton park and clear away the stones from Ashburnham park in order to keep as much grass cut there as possible. It is hoped to extend the same type of clearing to the grounds of Civic Hospital.

The superintendent also announced that he hoped to put the plot at the corner of Lock and McKellar streets into shape. The land had been completely filled and was ready to be graded and seeded.

Another addition to the city's beauty spots will be made if a suitable arrangement can be made with the Quaker Oats Co.

Mr. Butcher wants to extend the bank of the "goose pond" on Water St., between Edinburgh and Antrim streets, another 15 feet out into the water. He would then build behind the present shrub bed and place benches along the way. This would permit greater enjoyment of one of the loveliest scenes in the city.

REQUIRES PERMISSION

Chunks of asphalt salvaged from street repairs could be used as a base on which to build up the bank, he suggested. The project would require permission from the Quaker Oats Co. to infringe on their rights over the watercourse but it was understood this would be forthcoming.

One thing the parks department is not going to do is attempt any surgery on the city's trees. Mr. Butcher said they had never done any in the past but had recently received a specific request to doctor a tree.

Although there were men in the department qualified to do tree surgery, it was an involved and costly process.

"You could spend as much as you have in your annual budget," Ald. Stan McBride agreed.

REQUEST REFUSED

Another request turned down by the committee was one from the board of education asking permission for PCVS students to practice track events and jumping in Nicholls Oval.

Mr. Butcher explained that the board wanted to dig jumping pits in the spot where tents were erected for picnics during the summer. More than 70,000 people used the oval for picnics, he said.

"I'd like to see track and field sports come back, but not at the expense of the picnic grounds," said Ald. McBride, who suggested that the superintendent could suggest other locations to the collegiate for practices.

The committee also adopted Ald. McBride's recommendation that the parks department assist in maintaining the grounds of Dixon House. Mayor Norman Graham explained that the caretaker was kept busy maintaining the inside of the building.

Weather permitting, work on putting the parks into shape is expected to get started this week.

Teeps Down Marlies 2-1 To Take 3-0 Lead

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — St. Catharines TeePees, led by one of the most devastating lines in junior hockey, were prohibitive favorites today to sweep their Ontario Hockey Association championship series from Toronto Marlboros in four straight games.

The Teeps, just about unbeatable behind the powerhouse line of Cullen, Cullen and Barlow, defeated Marlboros 2-1 Monday night to give them a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven series. They meet in the fourth game at Toronto tonight.

The winner of the series meets Quebec Frontenacs in the best-of-seven Eastern Canada finals and the right to represent the east in the Memorial cup playoffs.

TeePees, extended to eight games by Toronto St. Michael's Majors in their semi-finals, gave 3,760 hometown fans plenty to cheer about as they scored two goals in the first period and limited Marlboros to one goal over the rest of the route.

CARBON COPY

The bruising, hard - checking game was almost a carbon copy of the second game in Toronto Saturday, but coach Rudy Pilous' TeePees were more alert. Marlboros, on the other hand, fought back strongly but still lacked the needed scoring punch.

The St. Catharines brother act of Brian and Barry Cullen accounted for both TeePee goals. Brian gave Teeps a 1-0 lead at 5:48 of the first period on a play with Hugh Barlow and Ian Cushanen and Barry made it 2-0 at 16:17. Barlow and Brian assisted on the second one.

Marlboros got back in the game at 11:42 on a goal by Jerry James but from there on TeePee goalkeeper Marve Edwards was unbeatable.

COME CLOSE

Marlboros came close in the third period. Dave Reid pushed the puck behind Edwards but it slid along the goal line, hit the post and bounced out. A few minutes later Wally Maxwell gave Bob Pulford a pass and he skated in uncovered only to hit the goalpost with Edwards out of position.

Officials called a total of 14 penalties. TeePees took eight of them.

Edwards was sensational in the nets. He kicked out 25 shots. Netminder John Albani of Marlboros handled 24 St. Catharines drives.

CANADIENS' OVERTIME GOAL — This is the scene of jubilation on Detroit ice a split second after centre Ken Mosdell (not shown) broke up an overtime period to give Montreal Canadiens a 1-0 victory over Detroit Red Wings and keep the Montrealers in the hunt for the National Hockey League Stanley Cup. Mosdell wound up a solo rush with a low shot to the corner that has goalie Terry Sawchuk sprawled on the ice. Behind the net are Wings' Johnny Wilson (16) and Lorne Davis, of Canadiens, Marty Pavelich (10) and Red Kelly skate away from the Detroit net. Shown with arms lifted in victory is Gaye Stewart of Canadiens, recalled from Buffalo for the playoffs. —(CP from AP).

Hockey's Most Devoted Followers Must Sit At Home During Playoffs

MONTREAL (CP)—The strongest supporters of the Montreal Canadiens hockey team have a gripe—they have to sit home and take care of the children during playoff time.

The wives of Canadiens' topflight players wish at times their husbands played another sport.

"Baseball wives travel to Florida during the training period, football wives travel. . . but we just sit at home and listen to the radio," said one hockey wife.

Even when hundreds of Montreal fans were in Boston for the semi-final playoffs, Montreal's National Hockey League club's most devoted followers were sitting at home.

Mrs. Ursula (Doug) Harvey has a set routine: "I generally do my ironing during a broadcast. I get so excited I iron at a terrific rate. It's the only way of getting the job done and I'd go crazy if I just sat there and did nothing."

The women have a few other complaints against playoff time.

Says Marlene (Boom Boom) Geoffrion: "It's the time when players get nervous and talk hockey all the time—that is, when we wives get a chance to talk to them at all."

Mrs. Betty (Paul) Meger says her husband becomes particular about his diet during the vital end-of-season period.

"I bought a cake mix the other day and Paul told me to put it away until after the playoffs. When that happens I'll be able to stop serving ice cream for dessert and we can have pies and cakes again."

SEEN, NOT HEARD

Playoff time is also the period when the junior members of the family must strictly be "seen but not heard," say the wives.

"We have to take the kids and leave the house to our husbands. They have to have their rest and it's pretty difficult to keep the children quiet. So we go out."

Generally speaking, Montreal's hockey brides will be glad to see the season close.

"They've only had two Sundays at home this season and well, it will be sort of nice to have them home again," is the general opinion.

Sports Writers Raise $34,889 For Children

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Sports Writers and Sportscasters Association announced Monday it raised $34,889.56 for crippled children through its third annual sports celebrity dinner last Feb. 18.

The amount enabled the association to pay off in one year cost of a $34,000 main lodge at a camp the Ontario Society for Crippled Children is building on Lake Erie near Port Colborne. It had undertaken to pay for the lodge and an $8,000 cabin at a camp near Kirkland Lake by 1956.

The net compares with $25,400 raised by the 1953 dinner and $10,820 in 1952. Proceeds of all three dinners went to the Ontario society.

A report from Jim Vipond of the Toronto Globe and Mail in charge of 1954 dinner finances, shows $19,825 raised from sale of tickets for the $25-a-plate event; a $1,900 donation from the Ontario Provincial Lawn Bowling Association from tournaments last year; and a surplus of $464.56 from donations toward dinner expenses. An anonymous Toronto financier donated another $12,700. He made a similar contribution in 1953 when he matched net proceeds of the dinner.

Want Sidewalk To Hospital, Fear Accident

City council should have a sidewalk built from Charlotte St. up to Civic Hospital, the Peterborough and District Labor Council (CCL) agreed on Monday night.

William Yates of Local 19, NUPSE (CCL), a delegate from the union that sponsored the motion, predicted there would be a serious accident on the quarter-of-a-mile road unless a sidewalk is put in for pedestrians.

USES ROAD DAILY

"I use that road every day and there are quite a few elderly people on it," said Mr. Yates, a hospital worker. "There is a ditch on either side and if you don't want to be knocked over by the motor traffic you have to step into the ditch.

"I say it's dangerous," he continued. "And if a sidewalk is not put there soon there's going to be a serious accident."

(He also observed that is is awkward having to step off into the mud or snow on either side of the paved surface.)

"That's a project that's long overdue," said Edmund S. Humphrey of Local 434, UPWA (CIO-CCL). "It's certainly a necessity."

Other delegates said they had heard that the winding road was going to be straightened out but, as yet, nothing had been done.

Here And There In Sports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ezzard Charles, the old pro among the world's heavyweight boxers, has won a "logical contender" label from the National Boxing Association.

Charles, who will meet champion Rocky Marciano June 17 at New York's Yankee Stadium, thus became the first boxer to earn such a high rating since Marciano won the title from Jersey Joe Walcott.

Nino Valdez, Cuba's hope for the championship, was listed Monday as the best of three "outstanding boxers." Running behind Valdez were Don Cockell, the British champ, and Roland LaStarza, beaten within the last year by both Marciano and Cockell.

The list contained no Canadians.

BOSTON (AP)—The 58th running of the famed Boston A.A. marathon—scheduled for April 19—really became "official" Monday with the entry of Clarence de Mar, 65-year-old "Grand Old Man of marathon racing" and seven times winner of the event.

BIG OPENING CROWD

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP)—A chilled crowd of 25,769 fans turned out Monday night to welcome the return of harness racing to Yonkers raceway after five months of investigations and political turmoil.

The curtain raiser for the eastern trotting season was the earliest in history for New York sulky tracks. Last year a record 30,596 attended the opening.

The slaying of a labor racketeer last fall brought about a searching investigation of the sport, the tracks, owners and stockholders and wound up with appointment of a state trotting "czar."

DERBY FAVORITE

LONDON (AP)—Landau, promising colt running in the colors of the Queen, reigned as co-favorite for the Epsom Derby and a fourth favorite for the 2,000 Guineas classic at an odds call-over Monday night.

Landau, who failed to live up to expectations in his last race, was listed at 10-1 for the Derby at the Victoria Club callover. Rowston Manor also was a 10-1 pick. The Derby will be raced June 2 at Epsom.

WILLIAMS BETTER

BOSTON (AP) — Ted Williams, smiling and sun-tanned, had more x-rays taken of his broken collarbone Monday and then took a Fenway Park workout with the doctor's estimate he may play ball for Boston Red Sox by the latter part of May.

"We are delighted with his progress," said Dr. Russell Sullivan who operated on Ted's collarbone after he broke it in a March 1 fall in Florida training. "I plan to remove the pin from his bone between May 3 and May 5."

FIRST IN VALUES FOR THE HOME

BASEBALL IS TAUGHT this little camper by one of the boy councillors. The girls and boys, both, hold tournaments for the baseball championship in each of the four camp periods. The Ontario Society for Crippled Children own and operate five camps throughout the province and twelve hundred and seventy-five crippled campers will attend these camps for three weeks holiday this year. Society's annual Easter Seal Campaign has objective of $500,000 for province $10,000 for Peterborough, and runs until April 18.

Easter Seals' Objective Short $4,858, 5 Days To Go

Steel gets hot and heavy in the summertime, especially if it is wrapped round a thin, white leg that has been crippled by polio or some other diesease. When the nation's youth rushes out of the school door, for the 10 weeks of holidaying at lakes and rivers, then it must be doubly difficult for youngsters who are tied to the sickbed or wheelchair.

However, there are people ever ready to help these unfortunate children. Among many organizations collecting funds for crippled children is the Rotary club. The Peterborough branch is nearing the end of its Easter Seal campaign which it hopes will yield $10,000.

In charge of the campaign is James E. Girven who said today that collections to date amount to $5,142. He has high hopes that the $10,000 will be received.

In Peterborough and district there are 115 crippled children who will receive some benefit from that money.

As the children come under the notice of the crippled children's committee, they receive the opportunity to be medically examined and surgical work will be done if required. The funds for this come out of the Easter Seal collections.

The committee also does much to rehabilitate the children. Special braces and other aids are provided to help them learn to walk again. In some happier instances there are children who can eventually throw away their crutches and take an active part in life.

Also in Ontario there are several summer camps where the children can be sent. Here, under special guidance, they take part in water sports and other activities which teach them to use their limbs again.

To these projects, and many others, the monies collected under the Easter Seal campaign go to assist in a really worthwhile job.

The Crippled Children's Society and its helping organizations do not ask for assistance by painting a tragic picture of the plight of crippled children. Rather they adopt the attitude that these boys and girls need to be helped and to feel that life has not passed them by.

The shedding of tears will not do them much good, but the public's willing contributions will.

Shipping Circles Preparing To Open Season For 1954

By JOE MacSWEEN

MONTREAL (CP) — The big question along the waterfront here these days is: "When is the wheat going to start moving?"

Actually, shipping men look forward to three main events as the port bestirred itself from winter slumber: The arrival of the first overseas ship, the opening of the inland waterways and large-scale movement of stored wheat.

This year, the arrival of the freighter Manchester Spinner March 31 marked the earliest harbor opening on record. But inland shipping is not scheduled to begin until April 19, nearly three weeks behind last year, and practically no wheat has yet moved down the St. Lawrence.

This was the situation late last week when the news broke that the Canadian wheat board had asked lake shippers to accept a cut in rates for carrying wheat.

The initial proposal of the board was for a two-cent cut a bushel, a figure shunned by shipping companies, who collected 16 cents a bushel on the Lakehead-Montreal run last year.

SAID BARGAINING POSITION

As negotiation continued, shipping officials said privately they considered the board's proposal a "bargaining position," but they declined to say whether any decrease would be accepted.

A national harbors board spokesman said Monday nearly 7,000,000 bushels of grain now is stored at Montreal alone, 1,000,000 bushels on ships which acted as floating granaries during the winter.

This was about the same amount as stocks on hand here at this time last year, but then grain had already started moving in and out of the port.

A total of 166,369,200 bushels of grain was received here during the 1953 calendar year, 117,456,000 bushels by water, 48,619,000 by rail and 295,000 by truck. More than 50 per cent of this was Canadian wheat.

The Shipping Federation of Canada, an organization of ocean shippers, said there had been no suggestion for a cut in ocean tariffs. But earlier, a representative of a large brokerage firm speculated that any decrease in lake shipping rates might be followed by lower ocean rates, and ultimately a lower price for Canadian wheat on world markets.

A good year sees more than 200 ships, employing 7,000 workers as crews and cargo handlers, ply the Great Lakes. But a number of companies already have announced they will open the season operating only to half capacity, or less.

As an indication of Canada's wheat problems, Trade Minister Howe recently told the House of Commons the wheat board still is selling the final portions of the record 1952 crop of 688,000,000 bushels and has not yet sold any of the 1953 crop of 614,000,000 bushels.

ORGANIST RICHARD ELLSASSER will make his second appearance in Peterborough May 5 at St. Paul's Presbyterian church under the auspices of the Kiwanis Club. A year ago he won high praise. He's flying directly from Hollywood where he has just completed filming a 39-week coast-to-coast television show. Many of the TV show's compositions such as "Coucou" by Daquin, Widor's "Sixth Symphony," and Ellsasser's own arrangement of Sibelius' "Finlandia" are included in the Peterborough concert.

Concert Organist, Composer To Give Recital In City

Richard Ellsasser, world renowned concert organist and composer, will make his second appearance at St. Paul's Presbyterian church, May 5, as guest of the Peterborough Kiwanis club. He will fly directly here from Hollywood where he is currently filming a 39-week syndicated, color, coast-to-coast television show.

His program, partially requested by his sponsors, will include compositions of the 17th and 18th century by Vivaldi, Stamitz and Bull. He will also repeat the performance of Daquin's "Coucou", which was so well received last year.

The second section of the program will be devoted to three works of the Bach family; "Gigue Ronde", by J. C. F. Bach, and "Oh, Sacred Head, Now Wounded" and "Toccata in F", by the master of Leipzig. Ellsasser is the youngest person in history to have memorized and performed the 250 organ works by Bach, including the monumental "Liturgy".

Has Perfect Pitch

Born in Cleveland in 1926, son of a member of the Cleveland Symphony, Richard Ellsasser showed signs of amazing musical talent at an early age; before two it was discovered he was gifted with perfect pitch. At three he was able to play by ear any popular hymn or ballad. Ellsasser joined the boys' choir of Trinity Cathedral, Cleveland, under Edwin Arthur Kraft, and quite naturally became interested in organ. Within a year he was giving organ recitals throughout the East, playing programs of all-Bach, which later proved to develop the young artist into an internationally-known interpreter and authority on the works of the great composer.

No concert organist has done more extensive touring nor played for so many people annually as has Ellsasser. His audiences yearly have exceeded 200,000 exclusive of those who see him on television and hear him on radio and records.

Beyond these activities, the artist has served as minister of music at the Wilshire Methodist church of Los Angeles and originated the first six music festivals of that church. His compositions include the "Greenwich Village Ballet" which won the Levitt Award. Another ballet, "Suicide," followed almost immediately.

Together with his masterly playing, Ellsasser has re-introduced the art of improvisation, and will perform this feat in the last section of his program from a theme submitted to him sight unseen.

Says Communism Satisfies Russians

TORONTO (CP)—Gerald Clark, Weekend Picture Magazine writer who recently visited Russia, said Monday Canadians are mistaken if they assume the Russian people are dissatisfied with communism.

"The Russians aren't looking for anyone to liberate them," he said in an address to the Canadian Club. "If only because they have no way of making comparisons, they are sold on their system and their government.

"It's quite clear, by our standards, that the Russians are woefully backward. By their own standards, they are eating and living better than at any time in the past. And that, perhaps, is the only valid form of comparison."

Woman Declares Pheasant War

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Raymond Pare has declared war on Canada's pheasant population. She vows she will blast with a shotgun any pheasant that dares crash into her kitchen again.

This morning, Mrs. Pare was sitting in her living room, minding her own business, when a female pheasant smashed through her kitchen window.

"I went to the kitchen and found the window broken. I heard a noise under the table. Then I found the bird," she reported.

With a burst of strength, the bird shook free of Mrs. Pare's grip and flew through the nearest window with another resounding crash.

"Oh well, what can you expect on a Monday morning?" she commented. "Maybe that pheasant got up on the wrong side of the nest."

Newspaper Story Re-unites 'Dead' Son With Mother

SOEST, Germany (CP)—A story published in Canadian and German newspapers last month has re-united a mother and son, each of whom had thought the other killed during the Second World War.

Gnr. Kurt Reimann of the 2nd Regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, stationed in West Germany with the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade, last saw his family 12 years ago during a leave from his duties as an artillery sergeant in the German army. In January, 1944, he was reported missing in action.

Actually, Reimann, now 34, was captured by the Russians.

On his return to Germany, he was told his family had been killed in a 1944 bombing raid. Reimann emigrated to Canada in 1951, spent two years as a bushworker and carpenter at Sudbury, Ont., and Toronto, and then joined the Canadian army last year. He married a Winnipeg girl last fall and she arrived here a month ago.

An account of Reimann's travels, written by a Canadian army public relations officer, was published in Canadian and German newspapers.

Soon after, a letter was received at brigade headquarters here from Frau Grete Mahnke of Kiel. She said she had a slight hope that Reimann was her son by her first marriage.

At Kiel, Reimann also found that his brother, once listed by the German army as killed in action, was alive and well.

He plans to bring his mother and brother to Canada when he finishes his tour of duty in Germany.

Express Confidence In Scientists' Ability

MONTREAL (CP) — Dr. J. S. Foster, chairman of McGill University's physics department, has expressed confidence in the knowledge and ability of scientists conducting H-bomb tests in the Pacific.

He commented Monday in an interview on a statement by Dr. Karl Buckthought, University of Toronto physicist, that hydrogen bomb explosions could pollute the air with lethal radio-activity lasting thousands of years.

Dr. Foster said "For the time being, this is a military weapon, whether it is used or not. We've got to know what this thing is. We can't sit back, because there is danger that a potential enemy could outstrip us."

Principle Of Representation Said Crucified In Redistribution

TORONTO (CP) — Donald C. MacDonald, Ontario CCF leader, said Monday night that in the recent redistribution bill setting up eight new ridings in Ontario, "the principle of representation by population was crucified on the cross of political expediency."

Speaking in the "Provincial Affairs" series of free-time broadcasts over a CBC Ontario network, he accused Provincial Secretary Welsh of carving out for himself "a little pocket borough with about 15,000 voters" from the riding of Muskoka-Ontario which had 23,000 voters. The government sponsored the bill which made it law.

"The government did this at the same time as it refused the suggestion of CCF House Leader Grummett that a new seat should have been created in the Porcupine area of the North where a whole new federal riding now sits like an island inside the provincial riding of South Cochrane.

"The government did this in the face of the fact that, as compared with Provincial Secretary Welsh's riding of 23,000, the Windsor area has had a 45,000 increase in voting population since the last redistribution, yet they got no new seat; or the riding of Port Arthur, with a 17,000 increase in voting population scattered over a fabulous area with perhaps the most difficult communications in the province, and yet, they got no new seat.

"The history of Canada is unfortunately blotted with gerrymanderings designed to bolster the interests of the government in power. I doubt whether there has been a more flagrant case than that in Muskoka-Ontario."

Porter Defends Appeal Abolition

TORONTO (CP)—Attorney-General Porter Monday defended the newly-enacted provision of Ontario law abolishing the right of appeal from a police commission decision to grant or refuse a licence to carry on a trade or business.

The attorney-general said he could not agree with criticism that the provision, contained in an amendment to the Municipal Act passed at the last session of the legislature, was undemocratic or unjustified.

He said police commissions are capable of making such decisions. They were in a better position to do so than an Appeal Court judge could be.

"If anyone thinks a police commission makes unfair decisions he can come to me about it," Attorney-General Porter said.

Launch Investigation Into Alberta Fire

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton says an investigation has been launched into Saturday's $1,000,000 fire at the RCAF station at Penhold, Alta.

Mr. Claxton Monday told the Commons in reply to a question by Gordon K. Fraser (PC—Peterborough) that he could make no statement on the fire until the inquiry is completed.

Up To Quebec To Make Any New Proposals

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott says it is up to the Quebec government to make any new proposals for a financial agreement between the federal and Quebec governments.

"I think it's Premier Duplessis' turn to make concrete sugestions; I've been doing it for several years," he said Monday night.

Mr. Abbott spoke on the CBC's weekly "Press Conference," interviewed by members of the parliamentary press gallery. The broadcast was recorded.

In his budget of last Tuesday, Mr. Abbott rejected a Quebec proposal that the full amount of a new provincial income tax should be deducted from what Quebec taxpayers pay the federal treasury. He was asked Monday night if he plans to talk to Premier Duplessis about an agreement.

He said he is always happy to talk to Mr. Duplessis, but "so far he has shown no inclination to talk to me."

Asked if he has anything in mind for a federal-Quebec agreement he replied that existing agreements with the other nine provinces are considered by the federal government as good as can be devised under present circumstances. But he was open to suggestion.

Early Start On Hydro Plan Urged By Houck In House

OTTAWA (CP)—An early start on the hydro phase of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project was urged Monday by William L. Houck (L—Niagara Falls).

The former mayor of Niagara Falls and member of the Ontario legislature said in the Commons that there is no doubt of the need for an early start.

Ontario, expanding industrially at a phenomenal rate, needed additional power if it was to continue to maintain high standards. The hydro development of the St. Lawrence river was more urgent for the future of Ontario than the seaway phase.

Despite a $1,000,000,000 hydro development program, now underway in Ontario, the province still faced a power shortage by 1960.

HIS FIRST SPEECH

The speech was the first for Mr. Houck, elected to the Commons for the first time at last summer's general election.

Mr. Houck said some mention has been made of the possible use of atomic power to generate electricity, but he understands that the public cannot expect for years to see the atom's power harnessed for its needs—if indeed it can be done.

Although the St. Lawrence river's power potential of 14,000,000 horsepower is more than the output of all hydro plants now operating in Canada, it was financially practical to develop only about 10,000,000 horsepower.

At the night sitting, Mr. Houck said the seaway project is the biggest political football that has ever existed in Washington.

Yet Ontario and New York state had agreed to share in the hydro phase of the project whose estimated cost of $600,000,000 was far outweighed by the benefits to Canada and the United States.

Efficient Information Service Needed—Low

OTTAWA (CP) — Social Credit leader Low Monday said an efficient information service is needed to collect and provide to Parliament facts about internal security.

The association recommended appointment of a civilian searchmaster in cases where a civilian plane is lost.

Guard Pike Trapped In Marsh

NEWMARKET (CP)—A 100-foot long carpet of flopping northern pike trapped in their drained-off spawning grounds in a nearby marsh were being guarded Monday by conservation officers of the Ontario department of lands and forests.

Illegal fishermen have been harvesting the fish with pitchforks and shovelling them into gunny sacks, officers said. Five men have been charged with taking the fish illegally and a truck owned by one has been seized.

The pike have spawned in that area for year, but this year a group of market gardeners began draining the section, leaving the pike trapped in the six inches to two feet of water.

To Dedicate Candle Holders

The W.A. of St. Mark's, Otonabee, met at the home of Mrs. E. J. MacDonald, Dale Ave., and in the absence of the president, the business and devotional period was conducted by Mrs. F. Graystock. Bible reading was taken by Mrs. Raymond Robinson. The Litany of Intercession was repeated, prayers were said for absent members, and the Lord's Prayer repeated. Readings were given by Mrs. Bert Armstrong and Mrs. R. Robinson. An invitation to attend the Easter meeting of the Zion United Church Women's Association was accepted. A pair of brass candlestick holders for the altar of St. Mark's church have been purchased, and after being engraved are to be dedicated on Easter Sunday in memory of Alice Ann Thorn, who died in 1922. Additional purchases for the Dorcas bale were discussed, and the completed Dresden Plate quilt for same was shown. This quilt has a worked outline of St. Mark's church in the centre block. Arrangements were made for flowers for the altar for Easter Sunday. Delegates to the WA annual meeting in Toronto in May were appointed and are Mrs. G. W. Robinson (life member of this branch), Mrs. R. Robinson and Mrs. E. J. MacDonald. The meeting closed with repetition of the Members' Prayer. Refreshments were served by the hostsss.

Mrs. Arthur Burridge of Century House, Pleasant Point spoke to the members of the Hostess Course at the Y.W.C.A. on Monday evening. She emphasised the five basic points of interior decorating: type, colour, scale, arrangements, and accessories. According to this speaker Canadians should use early Canadian antiques as accessories in their homes. Large quantities of these antiques are being exported to the United States.

Mrs. Burridge was thanked by Mrs. Jean Hammond. Mrs. Cameron Craig announced there will not be a talk on Easter Monday but the following week the subject will be menu planning.

CGIT Bunny Tea At St. James' Well Attended

Although the weather outside was dreary Saturday afternoon, the St. James' CGIT Bunny Tea was a delightful success and well attended.

Easter bunnies decorated the entire tea room and on the tea table was a tiny wheelbarrow brimming with Easter eggs. All other tables were also decorated with Easter eggs and bunnies.

The decorations were hand-painted and made by CGIT girls with assistance of Mrs. M. Brown.

Colorful and delicious refreshments served were prepared by the girls under direction of Mrs. E. Borland, Mrs. J. Freeman and Mrs. W. Borland.

The girls' project table effectively set up in blue and white illustrated the CGIT purpose and displayed the material and resources used for a regular meeting.

To welcome the younger children a baby-sitting service was supplied by Anne Gibson with Lorna Seabrooke and Charon Reynolds as helpers.

To complete the tea arrangements, piano selections were played by Carol Orvis, Shirley Phillips, Nancy Wood, Nancy Ball, Beverley Weatherstone, Beverley Fife and Donna and Judy Collison.

University Club Fully Supports Auditorium Brief

A motion that the University Women's Club go on record as supporting the building of an auditorium as a wing in connection with the Memorial Centre was passed without a single opposing vote at the meeting Monday evening.

The vote included support of the brief as amended from 1946 and which has been presented to various city organizations for their study in the hope they also will give it support.

The brief prepared eight years ago by Miss Fern Rahmel of the University Women's Club, Mr. Bradshaw proposed that an auditorium be incorporated in the plans for the new city hall. Specifications for the auditorium were based on the Theatre Guild theatre in New York and were obtained from the Encyclopedia Brittanica.

A very few eliminations and changes were made to the brief and these were necessary, first because the auditorium would be attached to the memorial centre and not the city hall, and secondly because this is 1954.

Briefly, the specifications are for an auditorium to seat 1,200 to 1,500 people, with a sloping floor, good ventilation, a balcony, satisfactory stage and stage equipment, suitable rooms for actors and actresses and make-up rooms, and to have rooms upstairs for smaller meetings which would be equipped with proper lighting for art exhibits. Also included would be kitchens, cloak rooms, washrooms, etc.

The motion was made by Miss Leonora Park, a member of the committee which prepared the amendments to the brief.

Club president Miss Katherine Macdougall has been appointed chairman of the committee which will put forward the brief if it receives the approval of the majority of city organizations now studying it.

Thompson-Willis Nuptials

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Willis, Coldsprings, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday at four o'clock when their daughter, Eva Mae, was united in a double ring marriage ceremony to William Dale Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Clarke Thompson of Cobourg. The Rev. Dr. F. J. Horwood of Toronto officiated.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. Albert Willis, sister-in-law of the bride.

The house was tastefully decorated with white and pink streamers, white wedding bells and daffodils. An arch under which the ceremony was performed was of white and pink streamers, white and pink bells and banked with ferns.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown with double net overskirts. The bodice, peplum, and bolero were of Chantilly lace. Her tulle illusion embroidered fingertip veil, fell from a satin coronet of seed pearl and she carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses and maidenhair fern.

Miss Elva Willis, bridesmaid for her sister, wore a ballerina length gown of pink taffeta with a tiered net overskirt. The bodice and bolero were of Chantilly lace. She wore a pink flowered headdress, and mittens, and carried a cascade bouquet of carnations and maiden hair fern.

Mr. Gerald Thompson was groomsman for his brother, and Mr. Reginald Willis, brother of the bride, was usher.

The bride's mother was wearing a dress of pale blue crepe with sun-burst gore skirt, and navy accessories and a corsage of deep pink carnations as she received the guests. The groom's mother wore a two-piece dark blue crepe dress with ivory brocaded trim. Her accessories were white, and she wore a corsage of pale pink carnations.

Later the bride and groom left on a trip to points west. For travelling, the bride wore a navy check suit, navy accessories and a white orchid corsage. On return they will live in Cobourg.

Prior to the wedding the bride was guest of honor at several showers. Mrs. Grace Young, Cobourg, entertained at her home, when the office girls of the Bird-Archer Company, Cobourg, where the bride is employed, gave her a linen shower. Mrs. Wilbert Keeler of Cobourg, gave a miscellaneous shower in her honor. Mrs. Pete Coffin, of Baltimore, was hostess when girl friends presented the bride with a table lamp. The Bird-Archer Company presented her with a $50 bond and the men of the office presented an electric teakettle.

PRE-OPENING OF THE CANCER SOCIETY'S CAMPAIGN for funds in Peterborough took place Monday evening when all canvassers met and received their kits and instructions. Tea was served afterward and Mrs. Norman Graham, wife of the mayor, was a special guest who presided at the symbolically decorated tea table. She is pictured here with the ladies who assisted with the tea arrangements (left to right) Mrs. O. J. Hayward, Mrs. Ronald Passey, Mrs. Robert Hatton, Mrs. Eve Collins and Mrs. Ruby Brooks. Also pouring tea, but not shown, was Mrs. Frank Foster whose husband is chairman of the campaign committee. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

French Canadian Writings Traced For University Club

On her third appearance before the University Women's Club of Peterborough Monday evening, Dr. Laure Riez of Victoria College, University of Toronto, had "French Canadian Literature" as her topic.

Her first visit was in 1941 when she spoke on her native Switzerland and on the second she gave a picture of post-war France and Switzerland.

The French Canadian scene has been her subject for study the past year in preparation for the lecture she will deliver in several Salons of Paris, by invitation, during the coming month. Also, she has written a book on French Canadian poetry which will be out in September.

The Salons to which Dr. Riez will speak are actually outgrowths of the French Underground about which so much was told during war years. She herself is an officer of the French Academy and has been decorated for her services.

French Canadian literature is just about 200 years old Dr. Riez said Hundreds of books had been written about the people who came into French Canada and their efforts to get established there and also about the Jesuits and the heads of the Ursuline convent in Quebec. About 1763 journalism came into French Canada in a tremendous fight to keep their patriotism and French ideals after the conquest by the English.

Finding it easier to express thoughts in poetical form, the first school of poetry, called School of Quebec, was established and the first poems were published in Journals of Quebec.

"You never find in first literature of French Canada, until the end of the 18th century, any mention of love unless it is Divine Love" Dr. Riez remarked. After this there were some new young poets, foremost being a chap who became head of the School of Quebec at 19 years, and they made a complete revolution in the poetry. They began to show ideas, torments, problems and feelings never before expressed.

Next there was found being formed another school of thought in Quebec—to preserve the language of the habitant—and writers got into a freer style and they formed the School of Montreal. Women were also writing poetry in French Canada and one of them was the first to speak of love, with a rather healthy attitude toward it, the speaker added.

"The French are as prolific in writing as in producing children in the 20th century" remarked Dr. Riez. She mentioned titles of a number of French Canadian books and novels that are also printed in English.

Having traced the history of the French Canadian poetry from its beginning, she explained that the same trends can be found in the novels, full of legends of the country. Some of these books contain expressions that are not understandable without a glossary and this is usually conveniently supplied at the back. Politics is one of the themes the French Canadian enjoys most, she said.

Plays have also been written by the French Canadians, usually one act plays, but only one has come to anything Dr. Riez stated.

She feels the writers are essentially Canadian and will do anything to keep their country alive. They have shown that they can mix with most of the writers and can make a work of art which is lasting.

Dr. Riez was introduced by Miss Helen McGregor. Her talk was like a lecture at University, took many of her audience back to pre-graduation days. This thought was expressed by Miss Margaret McCoulloch in her message of appreciation, which was extended by president Miss K. Macdougall from the chair.

Explorer's Have Initiation

George Street church Explorer Group held the fourth initiation ceremony in the Coronation Room Monday afternoon. Six new members were admitted, and Chief Councillor Mrs. J. R. Foster conducted the ceremony presenting pins and pictures.

Presentation of stars took place afterward with Councillor Mrs. A. W. Jones officiating. The new girls have completed their Explorer work books and received their first red star, and other girls have completed their projects.

First blue star went to Marion Trueman, Catherine Macdougall, Margaret Trueman; second blue star to Mary Hucks, Bonnie McColl, Pamela Jarvis, Penny Macfarlane, Rosemary Mathews, Carol Race, Catherine Tetlock, Marjorie Elliott, Carolyn Anderson, Molly Pammett, Diana Sue Delahey and Marion Armstrong.

Chief Explorer Molly Pammett was in charge of the expedition, Councillor Mrs. Charles Allen prepared the Easter worship service and was assisted by Marion Armstrong, Pamela Jarvis, Penny Macfarlane and pianist Mary Hucks.

Diana Sue Delahey of the blue group won the prize for best attendance and was awarded the Easter basket by Councillor Mrs. N. C. Munro.

It was explained that the missionary project is now completed and the girls have made 20 dolls cradles and dressed 20 dolls. Six have been sent to an Indian residential school in Alberni, B.C., six to a school in Saskatoon and the balance will go to a mission in Labrador.

President of the WMS Mrs. J. M. Beatty was presented with the Explorer's treasure chest by Marion Armstrong. Each Explorer had also brought a donation for a child in Korea which is to be sent in the bale. Mrs. Beatty expressed appreciation for the money and gifts and said she was very pleased that the group had increased since last year and that the attendance was exceptionally good. Ten girls have had perfect attendance at the expeditions.

A tea table centred with pink carnations and tall pink tapers was arranged at the back of the room. Mothers of the explorers and their daughters were served light refreshments by the councillors.

DOROTHY DIX

Cynical Spinsters Influence Demeanor

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm a single woman in my middle twenties with a nice job. Since I work closely with several older women, I am becoming well aware of what happens to them as they grow older, and I visualize myself traveling the same road. They are cynical, selfish, insist on having things their way, and their minds are closed to any suggestions of modernized methods, etc. They are so accustomed to living alone that they are forgetting there are other people in the world. I, too, am getting very irritable over details that don't suit me. While I live with my family, I realize I'm no joy to them. I fuss over trifles, am annoyed when things aren't done as I want them and become very indignant if someone else monopolizes the television or radio. I don't want to be like these older women; how can I avoid it?

W. W.

OLD MAID OF PAST

ANSWER: You are setting the cause of womanhood back two generations by assuming the role of "old maid" as it was lived in the dim past. Fiction (and fact) of the early years of the century was replete with sketches of the unmarried female relative who had a passion for orderliness, an acrimonious tongue and a closed mind. The opening of so many new fields in industry and the professions to women, and also incidental hobbies, supposedly did away with this type; but, apparently, such spinsters are heard of now and then.

With your realization that the "old maid" characteristcs are creeping up on you, you certainly should be able to do something about it. You are mixing with the wrong kind of people and you are not enjoying any of the fun that should be available. You need friends, some interesting activities to provide the mental, emotional and physical stimulation that will rescue you from the little world in which you feel you should reign.

The prescription sounds easy; fortunately, it's equally easy to fill. You live in a large city with every available source of entertainment and education. Though you say nothing about the type of job you hold, my guess would be that it's more or less routine work offering no intellectual challenge. A change of work offering better personal contacts and more stimulating activity would be beneficial for you. It wouldn't hurt to interview a few employment agencies to ascertain what positions might be available. Then sign up for a night course tor two in subjects you have always found interesting. One immediate advantage will be that you'll come home at night too tired to worry about whether the sofa was moved or not. The ultimate good will be the substitution of active thinking for the meaningless round of trivia that now occupies your mind. You are much too young and intelligent to become prey to pettiness. Just do something to break away from the present monotonou grind and give yourself a chance to become a really worth-while person.

DEAR MISS DIX: My fiance is an only child and he feels he should take his parents out every Sunday and holiday. While I like them very much, I think it would be nice if my beau and I went out alone occasionally. Am I unreasonable?

ANSWER: Your contention is certainly fair enough, but at least you are being shown what to expect from your fiance when he becomes a husband. His reluctance to set a wedding date, plus his devotion to his family, make it fairly obvious that he's not in a marrying mood.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have fallen very much in love with a widow who has two children, 7 and 8. The younger child, a boy, is very fond of me, but the girl is very jealous of any attention her mother gives me. Is there any way you can suggest for remedying this situation?

A. W.

ANSWER: The recalcitrant youngster has just become accustomed to being the center of her mother's world and is determineed not to relinquish her position. If permitted to get away with it, she's going to ruin the lives of everyone near her. A consultation at a child behavior clinic would be the soundest approach to the problem.

Fashion Trend For Juniors Has Unbroken Princess Line

In the 9 to 15 size range (and often running to 7 and 17) is a wide choice of dresses, suits, coats and separates that are no longer specifically "junior" styles, but are now "fashion" at its spring height.

Leading silhouette is the unbroken princess line, fitted through shoulder and waist and buoyant of skirt. This allows the junior to indulge her penchant for petticoats. There are also stiffened linings to bolster full skirts this season.

Printed silk taffeta with a tissue paper texture makes a smart junior princess dress. Other important fabrics are silk and worsted blends, silky polished cottons and feather-light wools.

For parties, the junior princess appears in schiffli-embroidered cotton, satin, dramatic brocade cotton and rich, stiffened silks. Small prints in exotic colorings and patterns are popular for day and date, pastels on black or navy a cocktail favorite.

"JOSEPHINE SILHOUETTE"

The "Josephine" silhouette is important in junior fashions. It combines the high waist and full shoulders of the empire with a sheath skirt, and takes well to linens, such as foulard and surah. Sometimes the sheath skirt is for easy movement and fashionable "back interest.

Junior offerings include the tunic dress, especially new with a detachable peplum. There are jumper dresses with separate "baby doll" blouses and there are shirtwaist styles with both narrow and full skirts.

Throughout the junior fashion lineup this spring are similar styles in full or narrow skirts. Date styles are almost all full. And because of a "covered up" look for evening, many daytime styles in dress-up fabrics can double as date wear.

Costumes have joined suits in spring popularity. The spencer jacket is particularly well-suited to the junior figure and comes with a variety of dress and skirt partners. Often the spencer is in cloud-weight wool fleece or washable orlon. There are costumes that include cashmere sweaters with pretty beadwork and encrustations. Others have loose linen coats over "little" linen dresses.

EMBROIDERED LINENS

Linen costumes are newly decorated with beadwork and embroidery and are now safely crease resistant. There is a silk-linen worth junior attention, especially in full-length costume coats.

Pretty details make junior styles additionally exciting. White cuffs and over-collars, pastel leather touches, tiny bows here and there . . . all enhance the "young" feeling that is, in fact, a natural for juniors.

Puritan collars, small collars, with tubing, jewel band necklines are important on tailored styles. Crescent shaped sleeves conform to natural lines and suggest top width with deeper armholes.

New Styles Easy To Sew

If you have berated yourself for lacking a knowledge of machine sewing, you now have one of the best opportunities in years to make the acquaintance of the machine.

Fashion lines have never been simpler than they are for this spring and summer. And the new fabrics are often easy to work with also.

The most popular silhouettes, the "sheath," "princess" and "empire," are very easy to stitch up. In these styles, belts, collars and sleeves present few problems. Sheaths, for example, are usually sleeveless.

If you prefer a dress with an important sleeve, try the dolman; it requires no tedious fitting into armholes.

Lightweight spring-back toppers can also be easily made by the novice. And many handsome beach accessories pose no sewing problems.

Here are a few hints that will help your sewing efforts:

To prevent raveling or fringing, outline your pattern on the fabric with a sliver of soap before you cut.

Plunge pins and machine needle into a bit of soap, too, so they'll slide easily without snagging.

Avoid puckered seams by loosening the tension on your sewing machine.

If you have any doubt about the shrink-resistance or color-fastness of a washable fabric, suds out a sewing.

When you've finished sewing, clean zippers with a soapy toothbrush so that there will be no clinging threads to cause jamming.

Havelock Church First Anniversary

HAVELOCK (ENS)—The Fellowship Baptist church celebrated its first anniversary since it was organized as a church, Sunday, with the Rev. G. W. Searle, of Lindsay, as the guest speaker and large congregations at both services.

Mr. Searle, along with his wife and two sons, Glenn and Teddy, furnished the messages in song. Mr. Searle's subject in the morning was "Consecration." Mrs. Searle rendered a solo, "Take the World But Give Me Jesus." She joined with Mr. Searle and Glenn in a trio.

The Baptist Fellowship served this community as a mission for over three years prior to their organization as a church last year.

Meat Dishes Wanted By Moore's Readers

"More meat dishes, Mary" is what some of you are writing to me.

I'm delighted.

For some reason I am thinking that you want these to be on the economical side. If I have guessed wrongly let me know and I will try again and to heck with cost. Horrors! What have I said?

Last night I made individual beef and kidney pies for four of us. This could have been baked in one large casserole, so the amounts for either way of serving are still enough for four.

BEEF AND KIDNEY PIE

One lb. stewing beef (I used shank), 1 veal kidney or 2 pork kidneys), flour, salt, pepper, water, plain pastry. Cut kidney so that you can trim out the fat portion (the little veinous portions in a veal kidney need not be trimmed out). Cut into 1-inch pieces and soak in cold water while you cut the beef into 1 inch pieces. Drain and dry the kidney and roll all of the meat in salted flour. Saute it until brown in 2 tablespoons fat, then add 2 cups boiling water and some pepper, cover and simmer 2 hours, adding a little more water as it needs it and stirring frequently. Make plain pastry. (I made enough pastry to make an apple pie for today's dinner so I used 3 cups unsifted flour, 1 cup best quality shortening, 1½ teaspoons salt and 6 tablespoons ice water.) Roll enough pastry out to fit either 4 individual casseroles or I large one. Chill it. Turn the prepared meat into 4 caseroles or 1 large one. (This should be quite wet, as the pastry soaks up some of the moisture and the baking evaporatse some.) Fit on top crust. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 375 deg. Fahr. for about 20 minutes or until crust is baked and gravy is bubbling through the gashes.

MOCK CHICKEN LEGS

Buy either ½ lb. pork shoulder or stewing lamb, and 1 or 1½ lbs. very thinly sliced veal steak. Cut the pork or lamb into 6 even chunks and run a wooden skewer through them at the tip. Sprinkle generously with salt and pepper. Cut the thin veal into 6 long strips, and securing one end of it with your thumb midway down the skewer, begin wrapping it around the skewer and piece of pork, in a spiral, making 2 layers of veal by the time you are finished and finishing at the middle of the skewer. Fasten securely with a toothpick. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, then roll in breadcrumbs, then in 1 beaten egg to which you have added 1 tablespoon cold water, then in crumbs again. Let rest on wax paper 30 minutes, turning over once. Brown on all sides in shortening. When meat is well browned, place it on a trivet, add about ¾ cup boiling water to pan, cover and let cook very slowly for about 1½ to 2 hours. Time depends on quality of meat. Or this may be baked at 325 deg. Fahr. for 1½ to 2 hours. You may need to add more water whether they are simmered or baked. They should not be allowed to dry out. To make gravy remove "drumsticks" to hot platter. To the drippings in pan add 1½ cups boiling water and scrape pan to loosen the little hard bits. Stir together 1½ tablespoons cornstarch and 1½ tablespoons cold water. Stir this in until thick. Strain gravy if desired.

BAKED CHICKEN LOAF

This requires 4 cups diced boiled chicken, and is ideal when you find a bargain in boiling fowl but want to make a real swish dish out of it. To 3 slightly beaten eggs slowly add 2 cups hot chicken broth, and 1½ cups soft breadcrumbs, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce ½ cup finely chopped celery, 1 tablespoons chopped green pepper or pimiento, 1 teaspoon of grated onion, 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Mix and pour into greased loaf pan and stand it in larger pan containing hot water. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 1½ hours or until when tried with point of knife it comes out clean. Let this stand in warm place for about 10 minutes before attempting to unmould it on warm platter.

That ought to keep you out of mischief for a while.

Sanitation

the mayor has anything to bring out, it should be brought out in this committee. If we can't handle it, then it can go to a special committee. We're under a certain amount of criticism because of this. Who should know about it if not us?"

"I've got four men here against me," the mayor said. "There's been a letter signed by 25 employees of the santitation department. I have five policemen who will come here voluntarily and give evidence.'

(His Worship's' reference was to a letter charging him with conducting a "campaign of personal grudges and unjust accusations" against the superintendent).

DIRECTION FROM COUNCIL

"I think there's a misunderstanding about there being four men against the mayor," Ald. Gordon Powell said. "'If I recall correctly, this move was directed by the whole council."

(On Wednesday, council endorsed a motion by Ald. Beggs stating that if the mayor did not apologize to employees of the sanitation department for his remarks, they would ask Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar for an investigation.)

"I will not personally be a member of any committee acting as a tribunal to sit in judgement on a man's personal affairs," Ald. McBride said. "'That is a matter for the courts. If it's a question of the administration of the department, that's different."

"You will be, according to section 258 of the Municipal Act," said the mayor, showing Ald. McBride a copy of the act.

(Section 258 of the Municipal Act covers investigations of charges of "malfeasance" and other misdirection of municipal operations but makes no reference to the private conduct of civic employees).

"What I'm interested in is whether the mayor has any information of mismanagement of the department," Ald. Beggs said.

AFFECTING DEPARTMENT

"I feel his character is affecting the department in some cases and the collecting of garbage is affecting it in others," the mayor said.

"Have you had this information for some time?" Ald. Beggs asked.

"Yes, for three years," His Worship said. "I've brought it in so often I'm sick of it."

"How many complaints have you had?" Ald. Rehill asked the chairman.

"None," said Ald. Beggs.

"Then either the mayor has gone out to look for complaints or he hasn't referred them to you and therefore has no faith in this committee," Ald. Rehill said.

"I have had complaints from his own union," the mayor said. "I say your unions are losing faith [illegible]

"How many unions?" Ald. Beggs asked.

"One," the mayor admitted.

"What one is that?"

"The AFL."

(Ald. Beggs is Eastern Ontario staff representative of the United Packinghouse Workers of America, a CIO-CCL union, unconnected with the AFL.)

"I object to any reference to any union whatsoever unless it has reference to the sanitation committee," Ald. Rehill said. "I still say any complaints should be referred to the chairman."

"I can show you letters to Kingston and prices quoted by Pierce and Levack," His Worship said. "Was Pierce given time off to go to Toronto to see Street Commissioner Bradley?"

"I'll have to check that," Ald. Beggs said.

"I was told by Mr. Bradley he hadn't seen Pierce in three years," the mayor said.

A McCARTHY COMMITTEE

"I have no desire to go into this man's personal life," Ald. Powell said as the mayor's charges roamed far and wide. "It looks as though we might have to set up a McCarthy committee to investigate a man's moral purity before we hire him."

"It didn't take them long to investigate me at election time," His Worship said.

"Not by me, Your Worship," Ald. Powell protested.

Ald. McBride then seconded Ald. Rehill's motion to have the mayor table whatever information he had before the sanitation committee but His Worship said he wanted it brought before the whole council at the sanitation committee's expense. He said it would probably cost four or five thousand dollars.

"I'm making this motion," Ald. Rehill protested.

"I think you're being very unfair about it," the mayor said. "Ald. Rehill has had his knife into me since the first of the year."

"I don't know who's got a knife into you," Ald. McBride said. "I haven't and I don't want you to have a lack of faith in the sanitation committee."

"I haven't got faith in the committee right now," His Worship said. "I promised to do a clean-up job; I've cleaned up the police department and I think I've cleaned up the parks department. I asked Butcher today, 'Are you happy?' and he said 'Yes'."

WHAT IS WRONG

"As chairman I want to know what's wrong with the administration of the sanitation department," Ald. Beggs said.

"The men aren't making the proper pick-ups in some cases," the mayor said. "In one case a man was paid for picking up garbage."

Ald. Rehill then repeated his motion to have the mayor place all his information before the committee.

"I would ask Ald. Rehill to include section 258 if he will," the mayor said.

"You can amend it if you will," Ald. Beggs said, when Ald. Rehill refused to ask for an investigation before the committee were given the facts at the mayor's disposal.

"I wouldn't get a seconder," the mayor said: "Besides, my remarks were diretced at the superintendent and I haven't got too much information on that."

His Worship admitted that what information he did have applied to the departmental employees.

"You are stating here that you have nothing against the administration of the department by the superintendent," Ald. Beggs said, repeating his question twice.

"That's right," the mayor admitted. "I'm saying that he shouldn't be in charge of men working for the city of Peterborough.

"If that's the case there's no necessity for a motion," Ald. Beggs said. Ald. Rehill said in view of the mayor's statement he would withdraw his motion.

"As far as I'm concerned then, the matter is closed," Ald. Beggs said. "If you have anything against him personally, that's between you and the superintendent."

Took To Ditch To Avoid Oncoming Car

A man who alleged he took to the ditch to avoid a head-on collision with an oncoming vehicle appeared before Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, today charged with driving without due care and attention.

Represented by W. B. Gordon, the driver of the car, Arthur F. Crossman, 714 Water St., pleaded not guilty to the charge. After hearing lengthy evidence the magistrate dismissed the charge.

OPP Constable Thomas Armitage said he had visited the scene of an accident five miles south of Peterborough on Highway 28 about 1 a.m., February 28. He found the Crossman car had left the road and skidded 126 feet along the left-hand ditch ending up on its wheels in a badly damaged condition.

The three occupants of the car had been injured and the driver had been taken to hospital. When he interviewed Crossman, the constable had formed the opinion that he had been drinking. He that alcohol has no odor. He

NO OPINION

Mr. Gordon submitted Crossthat alchohol had no odor. He asked the constable if he had smelt beer or liquor. The constable did not venture an opinion.

Crossman, with his two passengers, William Allan and Carl Ainsworth, said that an oncoming car, driving on the wrong side of the road, had forced him to take to the left-hand shoulder and ditch. It had been the only means of avoiding a collision.

He said that this car and another one appeared to be racing each other. Their lights had been on full. All the men adamantly stated that they had had nothing to drink during the evening.

Magistrate Philp considered that Crossman could hardly have told in which lane the other car was, in view of the fact that they had been approaching each other on a right-hand bend.

SAW RACE

Vincent Cole, who lives near the scene of the accident, said he had heard the crash and on opening his front door had seen two cars racing south at a great rate of speed. He said that he had not smelt liquor on Crossman's breath immediately after the accident.

Mr. oGrdon submitted Crossman's action had been that of a reasonable man attempting to avoid a head-on collision. It had been the only thing left for him to do.

In view of the evidence brought forward by the defence, the magistrate said he would dismiss the case.

Our political opinions never in any way affected a warm and close personal friendship," said Mr. Drew.

"His deep and hidden pride in Scotland and his Scottish ancestry only served to make him a better Canadian, whose purpose was always to maintain in Nova Scotia and elsewhere those ancient loyalties which were so close to his heart. . . . We can ill afford to lose men like him in these uncertain days."

BERNARD C. TRAVISS

Bernard Traviss Dies At Age 31

Bernard Charles (Barney) Traviss, 31, of 590 Murray St., died early today at St. Joseph's Hospital after a short illness.

Mr. Traviss was born in Peterborough, son of Francis Traviss and Anastasia O'Brien, and attended St. Peter's school and PCVS. He was stricken with rheumatic fever while a boy and suffered a heart condition the rest of his life. Consequently sports and strenuous outdoor activity were not for him. Although he did not marry, his love of children was great and he was often helping them build their model boats or planes; taking a carload of children to school, or making sure they arrived at church on Sunday.

Mr. Traviss became associated with C. C. Pilon in 1946, and in the fall of 1953 he arranged the incorporation of the business and became secretary-treasurer, and a director of the firm. His business associates soon learned that, in Barney, they had an expert on boats and water activities. Although he never learned to swim he loved the water.

Together with his parents, he is survived by one brother, Emmett F. Traviss, of Peterborough, and three sisters, Mrs. Charles Skelding (Doris), of Cobourg, Mrs. Doug Mortimer (Amelda), of Peterborough, and, Mrs. Robert Adams (Bernice), of Waterloo.

Funeral will be from the home, 590 Murray St., to St. Peter's cathedral on Saturday, at 10:00 a.m. Burial will be in St. Peter's cemetery.

City Will Purchase 2 Half-Ton Trucks

Acceptance of two tenders on half-ton pickup trucks were recommended to city council in committee meetings Monday.

The parks committee recommended acceptance of the tender of Duffus Motors Ltd. for $1,871 less an allowance of $94 on the department's 1942 model; net price $1,777.

The sanitation committee recommended acceptance of the tender of J. K. Hughes for $1,867.95, less a trade-in allowance of $372.95 on the department's 1948 model; net price $1,495.

In both cases the recommended American-type trucks. A tender was received on an English-type truck for $1,725 less a trade-in allowance of $400 on the sanitation department's truck.

The parks committee also recommended purchase of one 76-inch Toro power mower and one 80-inch Toro whirlwind mower. As there is only one authorized Toro dealer in the city, tenders will not be called on these items.

Will Ask Connolly Replace Macdonald

HALIFAX (CP) — Lieutenant-Governor Alistair Fraser is expected to ask Health Minister Harold Connolly to carry on as acting premier of Nova Scotia, an authoritative source said today.

Mr. Connolly would serve until the Liberal party holds a convention to choose a new leader, to succeed Premier Angus L. Macdonald who died today. The convention likely will be held in late summer or early fall.

Mr. Connolly is a former newspaper man.

Purchasing Agent

KITCHENER (CP)—A Scarborough man, Frank van Every MacDonald, 41, has been appointed the City of Kitchener's first purchasing agent. Mr. MacDonald assumes his new duties May 17 at a salary of $5,500.

57 Will Receive First B.C. Medical Degrees

VANCOUVER (CP) — The University of British Columbia next month will confer on 57 graduates the first doctor of medicine degrees to be awarded in the province.

Fifty-five men and two women will have completed a course that started four years ago in tarpaper shacks and former army huts. During the years the buildings were slowly converted into first-class laboratories and lecture rooms.

Dr. Myron Weaver, silver-haired and soft-spoken, has taught medical students for more than 25 years. He was appointed dean of the faculty of medicine when it was founded at UBC in 1949.

After the University of Chicago, and later the University of Minnesota, where he was assistant dean, Dr. Weaver surveyed rather doubtfully his new home.

He gathered around him specialists to head his departments of biochemistry, physiology, anatomy medicine, pediatrics, surgery, obstetrics, psychiatry and pathology.

Many worked as internes in Vancouver hospitals. Leagh Hartwell, 25, will become an army doctor with rank of captain.

Mrs. Marjorie Jansch who met her husband at the university spent last summer studying "swimmer's itch" with a parasitology expert to help finance her degree.

Red Hader, 25, worked holidays and nights as an ambulance driver. In addition to financial assistance, he earned valuable emergency experience.

Peterborough Rally To Mark Bible Society's Anniversary

Ten thousand volumes of scripture a day for 150 years. A total of 610,000,000 volumes.

This is the record amassed by one of the oldest organizations of any sort on the world, the British and Foreign Bible Society.

The Peterborough branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society, affiliated with the British and Foreign Bible Society, handles this work for this area. The organization's chief aim is to print as many Bibles as possible distribute them as widely as possible and translate scriptures into as many languages as possible.

1804 parts of the Bible had been translated into 72 languages. Now the British and Foreign Bible Society has increased this figure to 820 tongues, with other societies contributing another 250 languages and dialects for a total of 1070.

The complete Bible, however, has been translated into 200 languages. There are, moreover, 1,000 dialects which have not yet been touched. Currently the society is working on 210 new languages.

The British and Foreign Bible Society is probably best known to the public for placing in hotel rooms and other public places of the Bible by the Gidean Society, which acts as distributing agents.

The 150 anniversary celebrations in Peterborough will be marked by a rally in the Brock St. arena. Theme speaker will be Dr. Emlyn Davies, minister of the Yorkminster Baptist church in Toronto, largest Baptist church in Canada.

The rally will be held May 13, and will roughly coincide with the local society's annual appeal for funds. This drive usually nets between $1,200 and $1,500.

The executive of the Peterborough branch meets tonight to appoint a nominating committee. The new executive will be elected at the society's annual meeting April 25. Present president of the local group is Charles Coleman.

Deny Pike Trapped In Marsh Lands

NEWMARKET, Ont. (CP)—Conservation officer Harold Van Wyck Monday night denied reports that large numbers of pike were trapped in marsh lands that have been drained by marsh gardeners.

He said dikes and ditches have been built to prevent such a situation. The fish swim up the ditches to spawn and are free to return to open water, he said.

Earlier reports said a 100-foot-long carpet of flopping pike that had been trapped by the drain-off into nearby Lake Simcoe was being guarded by conservation officials.

Officials were quoted as saying illegal fishermen were harvesting the fish with pitchforks.

Five men have been charged with taking the fish illegally and are scheduled to appear in court here today.

WA Treasurer Reports Balance Of $200

BONARLAW (ENS) — The St. Mark's WA met on Thursday at the home of Mrs. Everett Heath. Mrs. J. Wellman presided and Canon J. M. Brownlie opened the meeting.

The treasurer reported a balance of more than $200. An invitation from St. John's WA, Stirling, to attend their meeting on April 27th was received. The president, Mrs. Wellman, thanked the WA for the lovely plant she received when she was ill, also all the kindness they had shown her. A lovely pot luck dinner was served by the hostess and a quilt was quilted for the bale.

The May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. George Wellman.

Stolen Furniture Seized By Police

TORONTO (CP)—Three truckloads of stolen furniture, seized by police from two homes they claim goods, were piled in a police station today awaiting identification.

Police charged the stolen furniture was the loot of 12 break-ins last winter. They said tobogans were used to transport furniture to a waiting truck. In some cases, they said, houses were completely stripped. Also seized were 50 tires.

Find Woman's Body Gagged, Bound

MONTREAL (CP)—Police said today the body of a woman, bound and gagged, was recovered from Rivieres des Prairies on the city's outskirts.

Preliminary examination, said police, indicated the woman had been murdered. She was believed to be about 35 years old.

About six months ago in about the same spot police recovered the body of another woman, also believed to have been murdered. Her body was weighed down with cement blocks attached to the neck and feet. The woman has never been identified and no charge in connection with the death has been laid.

2 Railway Shops Will Lay Off 195

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Canadian National Railways' two shops in suburban Transcona and Fort Rouge will lay off at least 195 men shortly, a union spokesman said Monday night. Some workers received their notices earlier in the day.

A railway representative confirmed the report.

Harold M. S. McBain

Funeral services for Harold M. S. McBain, 44, of Cavan township, were held Monday from the Comstock funeral home with the Rev. A. E. Larke officiating. Mr. McBain died after a short illness. He had lived all his life in the Fairmount district. Burial was in St. John's cemetery, Ida. Pallbearers were Harold Ball, Russell Earle, Fred McIndoo, Bernard Preston, Carmen Seymour, and Bill Todd.

Reds Strongest In Nazareth

NAZARETH, Israel (Reuters)—The Communists emerged today as the strongest political faction in this ancient city where Christ lived as a child.

The Reds made sweeping gains in Nazareth's first municipal election Monday, winning six of the 15 city council seats contested by 87 candidates. They also secured 3,034 votes—38.3 per cent of all cast by the 7,973 electorate.

Moslems won four seats, candidates of the United Western churches three and Greek Orthodox church candidates two.

The anti-Communist parties will have to overcome deep-rooted communal differences if they are to keep the Communists from gaining complete control of the city council and making Nazareth the only Communist-governed community in the Middle East.

Nazareth's Communists staged victory parades today in the city, which has an all-Arab population of 21,000, although it is in the Jewish state of Israel.

Funeral Service For Premier Monday

HALIFAX (CP) — Funeral services for Premier Angus L. Macdonald will be held Monday at 10 a. m. (9 a. m. EST) in Saint Mary's Roman Catholic basilica.

The body of the 64-year-old premier who died early today will lie in state in the red chamber, the old Upper House of the legislature, at Province House from Friday until the funeral.

It is almost certain it will be a state funeral with a naval guard of honor because of his wartime connection with that service.

Burial will be in the Gate of Heaven cemetery at Sackville.

Compromise Sought On Impasse

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) United Nations delegates sought today to reach a compromise on an Arab-Western impasse so that the Security Council can get on with debate on the dynamite-packed Palestine issue.

The Arabs, after two fruitless council meetings, still demand that the council give priority to Lebanon's complaint that Israeli forces attacked the Jordan village of Nahalin March 28 and killed nine Arabs.

The United States, Britain and France, at the council meeting Monday, again insisted that Lebanon's complaint—and rival Israeli charges also before the council—should be by-passed for a broad discussion of the increasing violence along all the frontiers between Israel and her Arab adversaries of the 1948 Palestine war.

The council recessed until Thursday.

BRAZIL OFFERS COMPROMISE

Brazil's Hugo Gouthier put forward a compromise proposal Monday. He recommended that the council hold the general debate in it to any of the specific Arab and Israeli complaints, and with the council taking no action against any country until after the whole debate.

Britain, the U. S. and France approved this. But Malik said he would not accept a general debate unless the council first adopted a resolution on his charge against the Israelis.

The three services have already discussed, in a general way, how and when their units in Korea might be reduced or brought home entirely. The final decision rests, however, with the United Nations command.

Spencer Tracy Loaned To Studio That Fired Him

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Spencer Tracy, doing his first loan-out in 15 years, is happy to be back at the studio where he says he was once fired.

Tracy, long a member of the MGM star team, is doing "Broken Lance" for 20th Century-Fox. The price for his services is probably around $150,000, but that's not the reason for his satisfaction. A couple of decades ago, when the studio was just plain Fox, he was under contract there.

"They fired me," grinned the whimsical Irishman. "Those were the days when I was still drinking, and I got drunk now and then. But never on a picture — always between. Anyway, they worried about me.

"I was all set for a big, expensive picture. But they came to me and asked if I was going to behave. I told them, 'that's a heck of a way to get me to behave! If you're worried about me, why don't you let me go?'

MGM CONTRACT SAME DAY

"That's all they needed. I was out of the studio the same day.

"But at 8 o'clock that night, my agent took me over to MGM to have a talk with Louis B. Mayer. At 9 o'clock I was signed to a contract, and I've been there ever since."

The rest, of course, is Hollywood history. Within three years Tracy had won two Oscars for "Captains Courageous" and "Boy's Town."

Tracy who turned 54 last week, is still going strong. His hair is white, but he still has his youthful bounce and lively sense of humor.

LEAVING, REPORTS SAID

There had been reports that Tracy would be leaving MGM, along with Clark Gable, Greer Garson and other long-time stars. Tracy now is one of the longest-lasting stars on the lot.

"But Bob Taylor has been there longer than I have," he said. "When I arrived 19 years ago, he had already been doing shorts for a year.

"Will I sign again? I don't know."

Scandinavian Lands Uncover Spy Rings

STOCKHOLM (AP) — A patrol officer guarding the Karlskrona naval base, Sweden's biggest base on the Baltic, shouted a command to "Halt." The non-commissioned officer prowling through the camouflaged fortifications stood fast.

"What is your authority for being here," the guard demanded brusquely.

The guard laughed. The non-com continued his tour.

On Nov. 14, 1951, that non-commissioned naval engineer was sentenced to life imprisonment at hard labor for military, naval and economic espionage for Russia and gross neglect of his duties in the Swedish Royal Navy.

At his trial he related the incident at Karlskrona naval base, one example of the cold-blooded technique that enabled him to gather military information for the Soviet Union.

The trial of Ernst Hilding Anderson is only one of many major Communist spy cases which have exploded since the war's end in Sweden, Norway and Finland, small but strategic countries on Russia's northwestern flank.

SWEDEN

With two of the most dangerous spy rings ever to operate in Sweden smashed in recent years, Swedes now think they have the espionage situation pretty well under control.

The two rings were recruited among local Communists. According to statements in court, they were directed from the Soviet embassy in Stockholm.

More than half-a-dozen Communist diplomats have been expelled by the Swedish government since the war on charges of being involved with espionage.

NORWAY

Evidence of fifth column activities in Norway was first revealed during the past winter, when Norwegian security officers rounded up two Red organizations.

The first roundup occurred Nov. 15 last year with four arrests. The police acted after interrogation of alleged Russian spy Ivan Hansen, arrested three months earlier. Also involved was a Russian intelligence officer, G. F. Pavlov, who fled to Norway seeking political asylum.

Later three more persons were arrested, all farmers and laborers from the Pasvik valley, which forms the 130-mile border with the Soviet Union.

While espionage activities in the northern province appeared limited and somewhat amateurish, the round-up in Oslo Feb. 9, in which 12 persons were arrested, showed evidence of far more serious implications.

Alleged leader of the group was 47-year-old Asbjoern Sunde, former anti-France fighter in the Spanish civil war, and a well-known Communist guerrilla leader and saboteur during the Nazi occupation of Norway.

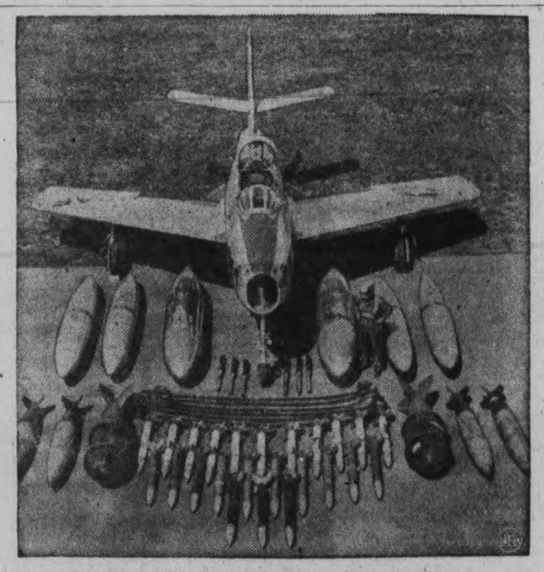
FINLAND

Finland's military capacity is strictly limited under a peace treaty with the Allies. Material of real value to spies is extremely scarce in the country.

It is only as an exception that Finnish spy trials are brought to the knowledge of the Finnish public. But it can be safely assumed that there have been about 10 spy trials in Finland since the war. The biggest ended last Feb. 10 when eight Finns were given sentences up to eight years of hard labor.

Launch Appeal For Youth 16

KINGSTON (CP) — William S. O'Hara, Kingston lawyer, said Monday he has appealed to Attorney-General Porter of Ontario on behalf of 16-year-old Lary Gibson, sentneced to six months in reformatory after he pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking into a tourist camp here March 14.



Mr. O'Hara told the attorney-general that "a grave miscarriage of justice had been carried out."

He said in an interview that the youth pleaded guilty because Kingston police told him he would "get off lightly" if he "played along" with them. The lawyer said the Kingston police "tricked the youth into a confession."

Police Chief Jack Truaisch denied the accusation.

Mr. O'Hara said he knows of at least four persons who can testify the youth was not in the park the night of March 14.

(In Toronto, officials of the attorney-general's department said late Monday they have not yet received the appeal).

Question Two In $1,900 Bank Holdup

Police Seized Car Believed To Be Getaway Automobile

OIL SPRINGS, Ont. (CP)—Police said today they are holding two men for questioning in connection with Tuesday's $1,900 robberby of the Oil Springs branch of the Bank of Toronto.

The men were taken into custody at Wallaceburg, about 25 miles southwest of this Sarnia district community.

Police did not release the names of the suspects.

Officers said they seized in Wallaceburg an automobile which they think possibly was the getaway car. They said it had 1951 licence plates, similar in color to 1954 markers.

VIEWED BY BANK STAFF

Bank employees were aroused early today and taken to Wallaceburg to see the suspects in a lineup. Police did not say whether any of the money was recovered.

Roadblocks were set up throughout the district shortly after two armed men walked into the bank with a white cotton bag and said: "This is a stickup—just put the money in here." Oil Springs is a village about 20 miles southeast of Sarnia.

SAVED $100

Bank teller Mrs. Doris Cameron said the bandits would have got $2,000 but she slipped a $100 bill into a drawer while their attention was diverted. A time lock on the bank vault also baffled the two holdup men.

She said the taller of the two stood at the door with a gun while the other approached her with the bag. She dumped money on the counter while he stuffed it in the bag, she said. The man with the gun covered the four bank employees and a lone customer.

Police said the men may have been in the area for several days looking over the bank to decide on the best time to attack. Police started an intensive check of rooming houses, hotels and restaurants in the area to get a line on the men.

Police said the car they used was probably either stolen or had stolen licence plates.

Opposes Pay Raise

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Churchill today opposed a proposed pay raise for members of Parliament. An all-party House of Commons committee recommended last month that members' salaries should be raised from £1,000 to £1,500. It also proposed a pension scheme.

Call Petrov Most Important Red Deserter

CANBERRA (AP) — Officials expressed belief today that the Soviet diplomat who has brought them a story of Red spying in Australia is one of the most important Russians ever to switch allegiance to the West.

These officials said copies of the mass of "spy" documents which the fugitive Russian third secretary, Vladimir Petrov, carried recently out of the Soviet embassy here probably will be sent on to the other Commonwealth governments as soon as they are translated and investigated. The information might also go to Washington.

The capital still buzzed today over Tuesday's announcement by Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies that Petrov had fled communism and asked for Australian citizenship. Menzies said Petrov, claiming he headed the Soviet MVD state security police set-up in Australia, said the papers he brought detailed evidence of a large-scale spy ring in the country.

The government kept the closest secrecy on all names contained in the documents and oral testimony by Petrov to avoid smears or premature accusations before the investigation is completed.

EXTRAORDINARY POWERS

The House of Representatives today approved a bill giving a royal commission extraordinary powers to summon witnesses for its investigation into the spy-ring allegations.

Reports were current today that those so far translated revealed a pattern of espionage and of Australians helping the Russians to amass information about defence projects, including the super-secret Woomera testing range for British and Australian rocket weapons.

However, one reliable source said leakages of atomic information were not involved in the Pet-

KIDNAPPED, SAYS WIFE

Explore Possibility Of Military Pacific Alliance

PARIS (AP)—France joined Britain and the United States today in declaring it would examine the possibility of creating a collective defence in southeast Asia "to assure the peace, security and freedom of this area."

The agreement was announced in a communique issued jointly by U.S. State Secretary Dulles and French Foreign Minister Bidault after a day of conferences on Asian problems, to be discussed later this month at the Geneva conference.

The communique was in the same pattern as that issued by Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in London Tuesday night, proposing to explore the possibility of a military alliance of 10 nations to oppose further Communist thrusts into southeast Asia and the western Pacific.

This morning's talks were devoted entirely to the Far East situation, especially that in Indo-China.

TELLS OF EDEN TALKS

Dulles gave the French a detailed account of his talks in London and an explanation of the alliance which he and Eden have suggested.

The French - American discussions were said to have been extremely cordial, although Bidault stressed that the French are opposed to any measures being taken before the April 26 Geneva conference on Asian problems.

The foreign minister and the secretary of state first met privately, then were joined by their aides.

After the talks, Bidault was host to Dulles and his aides and French ministry officials at lunch.

Dulles later was to meet Premier Laniel and perhaps ex-emperor Bao Dai, chief of state of Viet Nam.

Bao Dai, who arrived in France Sunday to take a hand in the protracted negotiations for his country's independence within the French Union, left his villa at Cannes before dawn today, and was expected in Paris late this afternoon.

ISSUE COMMUNIQUE

At the conclusion Tuesday of Dulles' two days of conversations in London with Foreign Secretary Eden and Prime Minister Churchill, a communique was issued announcing that Britain and the U.S. will present a plan for a military alliance of countries concerned in Southeast Asia, similar to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

This was the outcome of the "united action" proposals which Dulles had broached to the envoys

Washington before his journey across the Atlantic for personal discussions with the French and British leaders.

Labor Party Divided On Asia Plan

LONDON (CP) — Differences arose today over whether Britain has agreed to form a new alliance against Communist advances in Southeast Asia, or is just negotiating to form one.

The controversy followed Tuesday's communique issued after talks by State Secretary Dulles of the United States with Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Eden on the threat to southeast Asia, pointed up by Communist gains in Indo-China.

Dulles and Eden announced that they are "ready to take part with the other countries principally concerned in an examination of the possibility of establishing a collective defence. . . . To secure the peace, security and freedom of Southeast Asia and the western Pacific."

Such an alliance, they said, would be "within the framework of the United Nations Organization."

ONLY EXAMINATION

Eden, under prodding from opposition Labor members, told the House of Commons he was committed only to an examination of the project alliance—"we could not possibly have gone further."

The foreign secretary added that "the outcome of this examination will be greatly influenced by what happens at Geneva" — the big-power conference on Far East affairs which opens April 26.

Eden also denied an assertion by the left-wing Labor leader, Aneurin Bevan, that he already had made a British commitment "to take certain action in certain circumstances." Presumably Bevan was implying an agreement to send British troops to Indo-China if Chinese troops enter the war there.

CLEAR COMMITMENT

An authoritative U. S. [illegible] said the joint statement "was very clearly a commitment by Britain to associate with a Southeast Asia security pact."

Bevan's attack on the declaration has led to a serious split in the ranks of the Labor party. Bevan has long led the left-wing faction of the opposition group, and moderate members sharply criti-

East Germans Abduct Berlin Leader.

BERLIN (AP) — West Berlin police officially announced late today that the head of an anti-Soviet organization of Russian refugees was "forcibly abducted" Tuesday night by East German Communists who first beat him into unconsciousness.

The police account confirmed an earlier claim by the refugee group and also hinted the kidnapping was carried out through betrayal of the anti-Soviet leader by a friend.

Police said Alexander Truchnovich, 61, chairman of a Russian refugee organization, Tuesday night visited the home in the British sector of Heinz Glaeske, a district head of a German organization of returned prisoners of war.

ABDUCTORS SEEN

Witnesses told police that later an unidentified man was seen coming downstairs from Glaeske's apartment, carrying the unconscious Truchnovich over a shoulder, Glaeske accompanied the two, carrying a rolled-up rug under his arm. Also with them was a woman who waved bystanders away with the statement: "We must go to a first aid station." The party was seen to enter a black limousine which was waiting outside with a chauffeur. The car drove off toward the Soviet sector.

The Communist East German government, in an unusual announcement, declared that the Russians, with a German companion, voluntarily crossed to the Soviet sector and gave himself up to authorities.

An official United States spokesman denied a Communist declaration that Truchnovich was working for "the American secret service."

Launch Highways Inquiry Into Irregularities May 17

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario legislature's committee to investigate alleged irregularities in the highways department will launch its detailed probe May 17. The committee, which held its organization meeting today, decided on that date after it learned that the report of J. D. Woods and Gordon Ltd., Toronto management consultants appointed to investigate the organization and administration of the highways department, would not be completed until the middle of next month.

Duncan Gordon, of J. D. Woods and Gordon, said the report will outline departmental policies and procedures "which we consider have not been the best" and recommend changes.

WILL NOT PREJUDICE

Highways Minister Doucett, in submitting to the committee departmental policies and regulations, contract specimens and reports, said he did not wish to make any statement at this time which would prejudge any persons involved in the investigation. He outlined the procedure followed in the awarding of construction contracts and the duties of the chief engin-

Chairman Kelso Roberts, Toronto lawyer and Progressive-Conservative member of the legislature for Toronto St. Patrick, said the investigation is not expected to "turn into a fishing expedition or a witch hunt."

"We will attempt to make a thorough, unbiased and constant study."

Mr. Roberts revealed that the attorney-general's department it attempting to have the date of the Supreme Court trial of A. M. Mills, former diivsion engineer at Fort William, on charges of breach of trust, put forward to June instead of in the fall as scheduled.

WOULD USE ENGINEERS

Farquhar Oliver, Liberal Opposition leader and a member of the 11-man committee, urged the appointment of a committee of consulting engineers to carry on the work of the highways department during the select committee's investigation.

"The investigation, arrests and suspensions have created an undesirable situation regarding road building in the province. I can't see how the department can spend hundreds of millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money on highways with these charges and suspensions still hanging in the air."

4 Men Sentenced For Part In $11,000 Express Theft

HEARST (CP)—Four men were sentenced today to terms ranging from 18 months to three years for their part in the theft of $11,000 from a Canadian National Railways express train last November.

Magistrate Marcel Leger sentenced Armand Lauzon, 54-year-old lumberjack, to three years in Kingston penitentiary for the "indirect theft of the money." His companions, Theodore Lemire, 44, Joseph Longtin, 54, and Leo Leclair, 54, janitor of the Hearst high school were sentenced to 18 months each.

They were charged with retaining stolen property.

Lauzon said that last Nov. 8 he went behind the cattle ramp on the CNR property at Hearst to pick up a bottle of wine he had hidden there. He "found the large packet containing the money."

CONSTITUTED THEFT

He told the court he divided it up among his three friends. He told the magistrate that he was guilty of holding on to money he knew was stolen. Police said this constituted theft under the Criminal Code. Lauzon pleaded guilty to a second charge of retaining stolen money and was given a three-year prison term to run concurrent with the sentence for theft.

Chief Homer Gauthier of the Hearst police and CNR investigators said they are not closing the case. They say they are inclined to believe Lauzon's story that he didn't actually steal the money. Police are still seeking the person who committed the robbery.

MONEY IN TRANSIT

The money, in five and 10-dollar bills, was in transit from the Bank of Canada at Ottawa to the Imperial Bank in Kapuskasing when it disappeared last Nov. 7.

It was shipped by express. Such shipments are generally locked in iron boxes in express cars. An attendant of the railway signs for receipt of such valuables at each connecting train.

Fort Pressure Being Increased

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—The French high command announced tonight Vietminh troops are "increasing their pressure" on the northwest corner of the fortress at Dien Bien Phu, which may be preliminary to launching a new attack.

The command spokesman said the Communist-led rebels have dug trenches close to the barbed wire defences in that sector, where the Vietminh masses have repeatedly tried to break through.

He announced the Vietminh Tuesday night exploded dozens of torpedo bangalores under the steel matting of the main air strip in their second attempt to stop French planes from using it. Engineers speedily repaired the previous damage.

Would Re-open Redistribution

TORONTO (CP)—George Burt, president of the Ontario Federation of Labor (CCL) in a letter to Premier Frost today asked for a re-opening at the earliest opportunity of "the entire matter" of the redistribution of seats in the Ontario legislature.

The number of seats in the Ontario legislature was increased to 98 from 90 in the session just ended.

In his letter Mr. Burt said a reconstituted select committee should achieve "a more thorough solution of the problems of maldistribution that now characterizes the electoral system of Ontario."

Mr. Burt said the select committee on redistribution "should have been allowed far more time."

Mr. Burt added that if a further revision by the select committee is not made the new House "will be returned on a seat distribution that retains most of the inequities of 20 years ago, plus a few new ones such as the proposed new pocket boroughs of Muskoka and Ontario with about 12,000 electors each."

National Drop In CNR Railway Traffic Will Bring Forced Layoff Of 600 Men

MONTREAL (CP)—A national drop in traffic will bring about a forced layoff of approximately 600 Canadian National Railways employees near the end of this month, a CNR spokesman said today.

The spokesman said there has been a drop of 50,000 loaded freight cars since the beginning of the year and it was this that entailed the layoff of motive power and car shop employees.

About 200 men were to be laid off at Point St. Charles shops in Montreal and 260 men at Winnipeg.

Some 56 employees would be let out at Stratford, 40 at London, Ont., a small number on United States lines and about 80 in the Maritimes.

Railway officials said they hope traffic conditions would warrant taking the men back within a short period.

Strike Ended In Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP) — Tradesmen were back on the job at the new Simpson-Sears store today as striking members of Hod Carriers and Construction Laborers' Union called off their picket line.

Parties reached agreement on union claims, the company agreed to pay a flat rate of $1.10 to laborers, and to recognize the union. Other fringe benefits were negotiated.

Expect Trial Go To Jury

TORONTO (CP) — The murder trial of Joseph Schreiber is expected to go to the jury today.

G. Arthur Martin, defence counsel, submitted in his address to the jury that crown evience was "entirely circumstantial."

He said there was no substantial evidence to show that the accused did anything to cause his wife's death.

Schreiber testified Tuesday that he had only a hazy recollection of events on the night of his wife's death because he had been drinking.

Tight Security Measures As Royal Children Sail

SOUTHAMPTON (Reuters) — Prince Charles and Princess Anne left England today for the first time in their lives — to join "mom and dad" at Tobruk.

The children sailed on the royal yacht Britannia on a 2,800 - mile voyage south to be reunited with the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh.

Five-year-old Charles walked by himself up the red-carpeted gangway.

On board to say goodbye were their aunt, Princess Margaret, and their grandmother, Queen Mother Elizabeth, who firmly held the three-year-old, curly - headed Princess by her hand.

MANY PRECAUTIONS

Tight security measures were imposed as the $6,000,000 yacht prepared to sail on her maiden voyage. Special passes were required to get past heavy police lines on the pier.

CHARLES MUST STUDY

It will not be a complete vacation for Charles. His governess, Katherine Peebles, will see that he studies for two hours each morning in a special playroom on deck.

The children will be looked after by Helen Lightbody and Isabel Anderson, the palace nurses. Official escort to the Prince and Princess will be Lt.-Gen. Sir Frederick Browning, treasurer to the Duke of Edinburgh.

Chances of the children's being sea-sick are slight, as the ship has been fitted with anti-rolling stabilizers and their beds hung between special mountings.

They may have a special trip ashore when they arrive at Malta April 22 for eight days. April 30 they sail for Tobruk.

Can't Agree On Name For Pacific Pact

PARIS (AP)—The proposed Pacific pact against Red aggression in southeast Asia has been baptized, but its parents can't agree on a nickname.

In England and the United States they're beginning to call it SEATO. In France, PATO.

SEATO stands for Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, PATO for Pacific Treaty Organization. Both copy the original NATO, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

So what would a military arm of SEATO or PATO be called?

NATO's is SHAPE, Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers Europe. Would SEATO's be SEASAC? Or PATO's PASAC?

Acquit O'Brien Of Larceny

BOSTON (AP)—A federal jury today acquitted George D. O'Brien, 44, of Quincy, Mass., of larceny in the record $681,700 looting of an armored truck at Danvers March 25, 1952.

The theft, carried out while the armored truck's three-man crew was having coffee in a nearby drugstore, was the largest such haul in U. S. crime records.

After the verdict was announced, Judge George C. Sweeney said he does not personally agree with the decision and asked the jury if any member had been intimidated in any way.

He explained the jury had been locked up because the original foreman's wife had been threatened by telephone. The juror was discharged following the threat.

Planning Crackdown On 'Smart' Drivers

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario provincial police plan a crackdown on "smart alec" drivers who speed along highways at night and then deliberately slow down in front of other drivers refusing to let them pass.

Traffic Inspector Robert Witts said Tuesday there has been an increase of "hilarious young gaffers" who so tease a normal driver that he takes a reckless chance to pass.

Reports Agreement Details

U.K. Ready To Give EDC Armored Division

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain announced today that she is ready to place an armored division in the proposed European army.

Foreign Secretary Eden told the House of Commons that Gen. Alfred Gruenther, supreme Allied commander in Europe, "has been informed we will do this as soon as the (European Defence Community) corps is ready to receive it."

Eden was giving details of the agreement signed in Paris Tuesday providing for Britain's association with the projected European army.

He said Britain had told the six EDC governments that "we have no intention of withdrawing from the continent of Europe so long as the threat exists to the security of Western Europe and of the EDC."

Britain had "undertaken to continue to maintain on the mainland of Europe, including Germany, such armed forces as may be necessary and appropriate to contribute a fair share of the forces needed for the joint defence of the North Atlantic area."

INSISTS ON BRITISH

British troops now are stationed on the continent as part of the Atlantic pact forces. The EDC would consist of troops from France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

France has insisted as a condition of EDC ratification that British forces be closely linked with the six-country army.

Eden said the British government regards the North Atlantic treaty "as of indefinite duration" and is confident that it will develop as "an enduring association for common action between the member states."

Eden said the purpose of the new agreement is to make "as practical and effective as possible" the original 1952 treaty which established a close relationship between Britain and the EDC.

POINTS COVERED

He outlined the following points covered by the agreement:

1. A British minister will attend meetings of the council of ministers of the EDC, and a permanent British representative will conduct day-to-day relations with its executive body, the board of commissioners.

2. The British government will maintain on the European continent, including Germany, "such armed forces as may be necessary and appropriate to contribute a fair share of the forces needed for the joint defence of the Atlantic area."

3. Certain military arrangements had been agreed upon, among them the inclusion of British Army and RAF units in European formations under the command of the Supreme Allied commander in Europe "and vice versa."

Oppenheimer Charges 'Old Story'

Senator Says Criticism Disproved In Earlier Inquiries

WASHINGTON (AP)— The United States capital took a wait-and-see attitude today toward the government's suspension and investigation of J. Robert Oppenheimer, pioneer atomic scientist, on security grounds.

Senator McCarthy meanwhile said he has affidavits purporting to show that Oppenheimer once was a member of the Communist party, an affiliation the scientist has categorically denied. The Wisconsin Republican senator declined to elaborate.

From two other persons familiar with the case came statements that the accusations against Oppenheimer had been reviewed and discounted years ago. In notifying him of his suspension, however, the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission spoke of "additional investigation" last year.

The AEC said in a formal statement Tuesday that President Eisenhower has ordered "a blank wall" placed temporarily between Oppenheimer, one of the chief developers of the atomic bomb, and secret data to which he has had access for more than 10 years.

Pending the report of an AEC investigating panel headed by a former secretary of the army, Gordon Gray, leaders of the Senate-House atomic energy committee fixed a hands-off policy.

SAID LONG OVERDUE

McCarthy told reporters at Phoenix, Ariz., that while Oppenheimer's suspension was "long overdue—it should have been taken years ago," he has no plans now to get into the case with the Senate investigations sub-committee he heads.

Discussing the Princeton, N.J., scientist's case, McCarthy said "I have affidavits that show that he was a member of the Communist party" and that he had "hired and recruited individuals who were Communists or at least had been Communists to handle atomic work." The senator did not say who had made the affidavits.

Oppenheimer, 49, has freely acknowledged associating with some Communists and fellow-travellers years ago, but said he thinks his experience makes him more fit to serve the government. He is contesting the charges and has asked for a hearing.

Former president Truman was asked about Oppenheimer Tuesday night following a speech at the University of Missouri. Declining to comment in detail, he said:

GREAT SCIENTIST

"I inherited Dr. Oppenheimer. He was considered a great Scientist, one of the greatest, in connection with the atomic bomb. Don't convict anybody on implication or gossip."

In Augusta, Me., a former AEC member, Sumner T. Pike, said the charges which brought Oppenheimer's suspension seemed to be the same as those he said had been weighed by at least three government groups previously.

"Personally, I never had the slightest question of Dr. Oppenheimer's devotion to the United States," Pike said in an interview.

Senator John W. Bricker (Rep. Ohio) said the late senator Arthur Vandenberg (Rep. Mich.) had reviewed Communist association charges against Oppenheimer several years ago and had wound up "believing in Oppenheimer's loyalty."

Says Mine Officials Threatened Prosecute

REGINA (CP) — A union organizer told the Saskatchewan labor relations board Tuesday that officials of the Nesbitt-Labine mine in northern Saskatchewan's uranium district threatened him with prosecution under atomic energy control regulations when he attempted to address mine workers.

Mike Ellis, organizer for the Communist-led International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.)—certified bargaining agent at the mine—said mine manager Foster Irwin told him "he would give me six months to think it over—by which he meant six months in jail."

The labor relations board is hearing an application from Nesbitt-Labine employees that the board's April 14, 1953, order certifying the mine-mill union be rescinded.

The 50-year-old head of an organization of 60,000 Illinois merchants, Meek has said he would support most but not necessarily all of President Eisenhower's policies.

Woman Grabs Lioness With Bare Hands

OUTJO, Southwest Africa (CP) A housewife who grabbed an angered lioness with her bare hands was credited Tuesday with saving the lives of her husband and two children.

Mrs. R. C. Els made her desperate grab as the lioness mauled her husband at their farm, 150 miles from here. The diversion gave Els a chance to pick up his gun and kill the animal.

Husband and wife are both in the hospital here with wounds, but are reported to be making satisfactory progress.

NO LICENCE

A spanking new big car has been roaming around the streets of Peterborough for several days without licence plates. Probably the only car in Canada, apart from the Governor-General's without licences. It belongs to W. D. Wallace, commercial secretary to the Canadian Embassy in Djakarta, Indonesia. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace, visiting private friends in the city, bought the car to take back with them to Indonesia, and so it is meanwhile in transit, and bears only a sticker on the back window.

Locked Up n Windsor, Then Freed

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Two Toronto men said today they had been arrested at gun point by Windsor police Tuesday night, locked up and freed again this morning, all without being told the reason.

Eric John Finley and Edwin Francis Hickey, both 20, here on a business trip, said they tried to find out why they had been arrested and that police told them to consider themselves lucky they were going free.

A release was given for their car, which had been taken to a garage. Another blow came when they went to pick it up. They were presented with a bill for $4, including a $2.50 handling charge. They paid it.

DIFFERENT REASONS GIVEN

At various times, Finley said, they were told that the arrest had been made at the request of provincial police in Essex, Wallaceburg and Sarnia.

Finley and Hickey now believe the events may have been tied to the dragnet out for the two men responsible for the Oil Springs bank holdup. No one told them this at the time.

Returning to the police station this morning, the pair asked to see the crown attorney. They were told by a police officer that the attorney was busy.

Needn't Fear For Life—Police

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto police said Tuesday night there is "no reason" for a Montreal business man wanted here on a charge of receiving $80,000 worth of stolen bonds to fear he'll be killed once he gets into custody of Toronto officers.

They made the comment after a lawyer for Abraham Grosser, 41, said at Albany, N.Y., Tuesday that Grosser had been threatened "he would not live 24 hours if he is in custody of Toronto police."

Grosser Sunday completed a 60-day jail sentence for illegal entry into the U.S. He is being held at Albany for deportation action.

A Toronto officer said Grosser had "no grounds" for fear for his life.

He said police here hold a warrant charging Grosser, a dealer in scrap iron and war surplus goods who is also said to be president of a Toronto landscaping firm, with receiving bonds allegedly stolen from a number of Ontario and Quebec centres.

Garage Robbed Tires, Batteries

ROSENEATH (ENS)—Theft of merchandise and cash from the garage of Ford Derry amounted to about $500, the owner said, who located the break-in at 7 a.m. Tuesday.

He investigated immediately and found that during the night thieves had taken 12 new car tires, four 17-plate storage batteries and $25 in change from cash register. Cobourg provincial police investigated the case and report, as yet, there have been no arrests.

Council was told there are 3,653 unemployed in the district. The group decided to ask city council to call a meeting of county, Ontario and federal government officials to try to find a solution.

The group decided to press for all levels of government to undertake public works projects.

More Envoys May Desert Gouzenko Says

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto Telegram today quotes Igor Gouzenko as saying disclosures of spying made by a Red diplomat in Australia proves more Russians will come over to the side of the West if given assurance of protection.

The newspaper, in an interview somewhere in Ontario with the former Russian cipher clerk whose disclosures in 1945 led to a Soviet spy probe in Canada, quoted him as saying the news from Australia was good and that "more will come over to our side if they can be sure they will be safe."

The Telegram recalled that Gouzenko, who is now a Canadian citizen but who still lives incognito, has urged establishment of ironclad provisions to protect and encourage men like him and the Red diplomat in Australia who would provide the West with information on Russian undercover activities.

Gouzenko fled the Russian embassy in Ottawa in 1945 with documents which eventually led to a royal commission probe of Soviet spy activities in Canada and the subsequent conviction of 11 men and women, including a Communist member of the House of Commons.

Lioness Loose In Baggage Car, Lured To Cage

TORONTO—Railway expressmen and yard workers had the routine of their jobs touched up with a spot of excitement Tuesday when a young lioness got out of its cage but didn't know what to do with its freedom—which was fortunate for the humans concerned.

Expressed from the Miami Rare Bird Farm for delivery to the Tapp Zoological Gardens at Montreal, the shipment consisted of two females, but only one got out of its cage in the baggage car. The other decided it wasn't worth the effort and kept on snoozing.

At Newark, N.Y., near Rochester, an expressman opened the baggage car door, to be confronted by the lioness. He quickly slammed the door and hurriedly wired Rochester that a lioness was on the loose. At Rochester it was the same performance; someone opened the door, found himself looking into the large eyes of the beast, and quickly went away from the spot.

Word was passed to Buffalo, and when the train pulled in people from the animal shelter were on hand with meat bait. They lured the lioness back into its crate without any trouble.

Mr. Oliver said the select committee should be the senior investigating group and all agencies appointed by the government should make "full and frank" reports to the committee on their probes to date.

Albert Wren (Lib-Lab—Kenora) asked Harvey Cotnam, provincial auditor, if he would make any statement on the department's top-level policy in the awarding of contracts.

Mr. Cotnam said he preferred to answer the question at his next appearance before the committee, as the current examinations are not yet complete.

The investigations started last October in the Fort William division. Mr. Mills and three other departmental employees were suspended and later charged.

Mr. Cotnam said the provincial auditor's department organized three teams, comprising a member of the firm of J. D. Woods and Gordon Ltd., and a senior member of the survey department of the department of highways, which visited all the divisions and made a spot check of the records actually being worked on to ensure that no other records were in the process of being altered.

"This check satisfied us that nothing of a similar nature was actually going on at that time in the other divisions. It was not, of course, a detailed investigation and dealt only with the current situation and not with the past."

Later, the chartered accountant firm of Clarkson, Gordon and Company was appointed to review the larger contracts undertaken by the department from 1948 to 1952.

"This review has taken the form of an examination of all phases of the contracts with a view of locating those which required further investigation. This work has not yet been brought to a conclusion. Work is proceeding with the assistance of outside engineers so that we may have not only an accounting but an engineering opinion as to whether there is anything wrong and, if so, what steps should be taken."

Mr. Cotnam said the continuing investigation showed it appeared possible that some of the contracting firms employed by the highways department "might have been parties to a conspiracy to defraud the government."

Search warrants authorizing the seizure of these companies' records were served on six contracting firms. This was followed a few weeks later by the serving of search warrants on an additional three contractors.

"I have not yet received the reports on the result of the examinations . . . until this mass of information can be sorted out and studied, it would be impossible and unfair of me to make any comment on the result of our examination of the books and records in the contractors' offices."

Mr. Cotnam said he hopes to be able to give the committee "a much fuller report when certain events which are now contemplated have taken place during the next few weeks."

The provincial auditor said J. D. Woods and Gordon Ltd. is studying a reorganization of the department aimed at:

1. Strengthening fiscal controls;
2. Reorganization of the engineering staff and complete modernization of methods.
3. Revamping the system of tenders, including engineering data and information upon which tenders are made.
4. Greater controls in internal management.
5. Introduction of the best and most modern methods of assessing quantities and reclassifications and other matters having to do with the settlement of contracts.

wants to speak to officials of the embassy."

Among the papers Petrov took from the embassy are said to be an elaborate series of dossiers on Australians, including reporters in the Canberra parliamentary press gallery. However, it was learned authoritatively that no corespondent was involved in anything of a suspicious nature.

It is understood Petrov told Australian officials that the Russians in Australia have almost unlimited funds, and on occasions have made payments for information of value as well as making contributions to further industrial unrest.

Petrov is said to have been the main figure in a Soviet embassy social campaign to form friendships with men in key posts of the Australian department of external affairs some time ago. Security police stumbled across evidence of this campaign and warned departmental officials.

Neighbors who have watched the Petrovs around their modest middle-class Canberra home say they seemed to be a normal, devoted couple. But their premises were protected by a savage German police dog.

8 Truck Drivers Given Awards

Safe driving records that totalled more than nine hundred thousand accident-free miles were recognized here Tuesday night when eight truck drivers for Canadian Oil Company Limited received awards at a banquet in the Empress Hotel.

Under Canadian Oil's safety program, which was launched in 1946, drivers receive a badge for lapel or cap which denotes the length of their safe driving record with the company. In addition, there are special awards for five and ten-year safety records.

The coveted five-year awards (21-jewel wrist watches) were presented to C. G. Cornish of Orillia, and W. M. Watson of Cobourg. Silver badges went to G. Richardson of Orillia and W. Thain of Cobourg (eight-years).

Bronze badges were presented to L. Endicott of Peterborough (four years), J. H. Suffern, Orillia (three years), M. G. Hazilton, Cobourg (two years), and F. W. Travis, Cobourg (one year).

Presentations were made by A. V. Knowles, operations manager, southern Ontario division, Hugh Plowman, district manager, and Mr. H. Price of Toronto. Following the banquet, the district manager, salesman and drivers from Peterborough, Trenton, Cobourg, Oshawa and Orillia, saw films and listened to illustrated lecturs on truck maintenance and safe driving.

Military Funeral For Crash Victim

TORONTO (CP) — The funeral of Rodney Adamson, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for York West, and of his wife, Cynthia, was held today in Trinity church in suburban Port Credit. Mr. and Mrs. Adamson were among the 37 persons killed last Thursday when an airliner and an air force training plane collided over Moose Jaw, Sask.

The military funeral was attended by officers of Mr. Adamson's regiment, the Lorne Scots, and by members of the CWAC, in which Mrs. Adamson served as a major during the Second World War.

Some Anti-Espionage Advice

Gouzenko Has Little New Information

OTTAWA (CP)—Igor Gouzenko, who cracked Canada's Red spy web in 1945, has come up with some anti-espionage advice —but little new information—for Canada and the United States.

The former Russian embassy code clerk here, now living in seclusion under RCMP protection, advises:

Provide inducements such as citizenship, police guards and immunity, for those who show good faith in betraying espionage activities by turning over valuable documents as he did the day he walked out of the embassy in September, 1945, with 109 wartime spy papers tucked under his clothes.

What he tells in the way of spy facts, in a 40,000-word document tabled Tuesday in the Commons, does not add much to the Canada-U.S. story of Red espionage made public during the last eight years.

EXPRESSES OPINIONS

But he expresses some opinions, including that of puzzlement that a Los Angeles man named by him in 1945 as a Red agent was allowed to leave the United States without being picked up by the FBI.

Gouzenko's statements were given Jan. 4, at a secret hideout in the Laurentians, to representatives of the United States Senate sub-committee on internal security headed by Senator William Jenner. The Jenner sub-committee interviewed him at its own insistence, with Canadian officials present but taking little part in the examination.

In making the transcript public with 32 words deleted, Justice Minister Garson said in the Commons it contained little if anything the public did not already know and nothing of a security nature that the RCMP and the FBI did not already have.

Publication of the Gouzenko statements came a few hours after a ring in Australia similar to the network exposed here by Gouzenko in the late stages of the war was disclosed by the walkout of a Soviet embassy official in Canberra.

There, third secretary Vladimir Petrov turned over documents involving Australian contacts or co-operators.

CAME RELUCTANTLY

Gouzenko's testimony before members of Jenner committee—to which the Canadian government agreed reluctantly late last year after long argument that Gouzenko had nothing new to offer—was a mixture of fact, deduction and opinion largely relating to U.S. spy operations by Russia.

One of the opinion points was his view that it was "strange" the U.S. had not picked up a Los Angeles Russian agent he named as "Witczak" in testimony before the Canadian royal commission on espionage of 1945-46.

According to Gouzenko's documented evidence then, Ignacy Witczak was a key Red agent, and other evidence indicated he was carrying a spurious Canadian passport procured by spies in this country.

HADN'T HEARD STORY

In connection with Witczak, though, Gouzenko said he had never heard that the FBI wanted to make spy arrests but was prevented by other U.S. authorities.

In another stage of Gouzenko's evidence, the name of a woman—perhaps a Canadian—came into the examination of Gouzenko by counsel J. G. Sourwine of the Senate sub-committee.

The lawyer asked if while coding messages for the embassy here, Gouzenko had handled messages addressed to a certain person at a Washington address. The name and address were deleted.

Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of the Ontario Supreme Court, presiding at the sitting, said the name was that of a Canadian woman.

Mr. Sourwine said he did not know if she was a Canadian.

Eventually, Gouzenko said he never had heard of her.

Nation's Fight Against Disease Progressing

COBOURG — (ENS) — Russia may have a good medical and welfare program for its people but the free nations had not only a good health and welfare program but also enjoyed freedom, which gave them the advantage over the people of Russia, declared Federal Health Minister Martin, in an address sponsored by the local YMCA and YWCA.

Mayor J. D. Burnet extended a civic welcome to the visting speaker. The federal minister was introduced by Dr. F. G. Robertson of Cobourg, parliamentary assistant to the Minister of Health.

Health and welfare legisaltion were the very foundation of the well-being of the people, the speaker said. At no time in the previous history of Canada had there been both the facilities for public health and the research that had been going on to improve the health of the nation.

Through the co-operaion of provincial and wider organizations, the national health program has made outstanding progress in the fight against tuberculosis. Hospital facilities had been expanded to meet the challenge of national health and the School of Hygiene at Toronto, assisted by funds from the health program, was manufacuring gama globulin. It was hoped to finally conquer polio, he said.

He defied anyone to say that the money spent in health measures was not a sound investment in the welfare of the nation.

At the present time 68 universities were doing cancer research, compared with only three in 1938. No country was making greater progress than Canada, he said, in the research work to eliminate cancer.

Navy Concerned About Mines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Navy has expressed "acute concern" that enemy submarines could lay highly destructive explosive mines in American coastal waters and perhaps block shipping lanes.

Rear-Admiral Wilson D. Leggett, chief of the bureau of ships, discussed the prospect last month in secret hearings before a House of Representatives appropriations sub-committee. Parts of his testimony were made public today.

Leggett said a defence against mines is "one of the knottiest problems we have had to deal with." He referred to experience with Communist mines in the Korean war and added:

"The science of mine countermeasures must make great strides if it is to keep step with the new and complex mines being developed. The old systems and procedures that served us so well during World War Two will no longer suffice.

38 Cases Reported

COBOURG (ENS) — Thirty-eight new cases of communicable disease were recorded for the week ending April 10th by the Northumberland and Durham Health Unit. Scarlet fever led the list with 20 new cases, nine in Hamilton Township, six in Port Hope and the remainder scattered through the counties. Fourteen cases of chickenpox were listed with eight in Port Hope and three in Cobourg. Four cases of mumps completed the list.

26 Polio Cases, One Fatal In '53

COBOURG (ENS) — There were no cases of diphtheria, smallpox or typhoid fever in 1953 but there were 26 cases of polio with one death, and an outbreak of scarlet fever occurred in Port Hope, it is revealed in the annual report of Northumberland and Durham Health Unit for 1953.

The nursing staff was short two members and sanitary inspectors were also short-staffed until late in the year. A plumbing inspector, in accordance with the provincial plumbing regulations, was appointed in November. Two restaurants were given a limited time in which to clean up some condtions which did not conform with health unit requirements and one restaurant was closed because of unsanitary conditions.

Heart disease accounted for 40 per cent of the deaths in 1953 and strokes were responsible for 14.2 per cent. Cancer took 9.8 per cent of those who died, accidents, poisonings and violence accounted for 8.1 per cent; pneumonia, bronchitus and influenza, 7.3 per cent and from all other causes, 20 per cent.

In the list of communicable diseases, 553 cases of measles were listed, 542 of mump and 441 of chickenpox, with 159 of infectious jaundice and 154 of scarlet fever. Immunization clinics number 544 held and 7,723 doses of toxiod and vaccinations were given.

There were 18 new cases of TB listed and one death occurred from this disease. Nineteen TB cases were admitted to sanatoria, am, 23 were discharged and 16 were in sanatoria as of December 31, 1953. Cases on register as of December 31, 1953, were 257.

Equality In Annihilation

The terrible facts about the Hydrogen bomb should make the British and French people easier in their minds about the United States. After the Cold War started in 1947, and since, the United States seemed to many Britons and other Europeans, brash and rash at their expense. There was, for instance, the talk that the United States was planning to use Britain as an expendable aircraft carrier. The hot war which the U.S. seemed to be ruthlessly calculating would, so anxious and bitter Englishmen said, wipe England off the face of the map but leave the United States unscathed. In other words, the two giant antagonists, Russia and the States, would blow the British Isles to smithereens with equanimity. Anxiety mounted the more the pressure of the East-West conflict grew; Britain and western Europe, caught between the great fires of Russia and the U.S., would be sacrificed to the hatred and fears, rashness and rage of Russian Reds and American true-blues.

That was the feeling in the Atomic bomb era. Now the Hydrogen bomb exists, its power has been demonstrated, and its quiet portability to any target anywhere in the world is is assured. The United States and Russia are as vulnerable as Britain and France. Sir Winston Churchill remarked this last week: "To us, in this overcrowded island, and to the densely populated regions of Europe, the new terror brings a certain element of equality in annihilation." Let Britain and Western Europe take whatever comfort there is in this. Since the giants themselves are now open to swift and horrible destruction they are not likely to accept rashly any disposition towards war. Britain and Europe are no longer sandwiched; the whole world is an open sandwich now, spread with terror equally over all parts.

Armorial Illiteracy

From its superior position, as a city with a proper grant of arms from the College of Heralds, Peterborough can afford to look down on Toronto, which is now trying to make up its mind whether to apply for an achievement of arms, or to go on with its present city symbol which is, heraldically speaking, a mess. Toronto opinion seems to be divided. The Mayor favours doing the job in the only proper way; there are others who want to keep the old muddle of wheat, toy boats and the like. One of these, writing in a Toronto paper—let's not be mysterious, in the morning paper—asks who is to stop Toronto from using her 120-year-old design, if she chooses?

The answer, of course, is nobody. Similarly, there is nobody to prevent Torontonians from saying 'I seen', 'he done' and 'she never ought to of', in the place of ordinary grammatical English, if it is their wish to speak in this way. But illiteracy places its patrons at a disadvantage with the rest of the world, and armorial illiteracy (which is what the present Toronto arms represent) places a city at a disadvantage with cities like Peterborough, Ottawa, and several others in Canada, which have taken the trouble to provide themselves with proper city arms.

The symbolism of heraldry has been codified for several centuries; those who are interested in heraldry like to have their heraldic achievements properly presented to the world. If Toronto does not care, it can settle the matter by having no coat of arms at all; but if it wants arms, we think it would be worth the while of a great and thriving city to get a coat of arms for which no apology is necessary.

There is an aesthetic angle to this matter, also. Proper coats of arms have a look of beauty and authenticity which the home-made variety never successfully copy. But the decision is up to Toronto—wayward, beautiful, gypsy Toronto, the Paris of Ontario.

"Britannia" On The Waves

Today the new Royal Yacht set out on her first voyage. With the royal children aboard she is going to Tobruk there to embark the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh, who will complete their grand tour on board her. The 4,715-ton vessel, launched a year ago, was completed in January, at a total cost of about two million pounds. There has been some criticism in the U.K. about the cost. Sir Victor Shepheard, Director of Naval Construction, has explained the dual purpose of the ship, and the wisdom of extra fittings, special designs and the like in order that she may be quickly converted into a hospital ship should the necessity arise.

The Queen's own words at the launching should set aside any quibbling about costs: "I am sure that all of you who are present here realize how much the building of this ship meant to the late King, my father. He felt most strongly, as I do, that a yacht was a necessity and not a luxury for the Head of our great British Commonwealth, between whose countries the sea is no barrier but the natural and indestructible highway". It has been revealed that the Britannia was built with urgency in the hope that the late King could take sea voyages which might improve his health.

And now Britannia is at sea, cruising up to her 21 knots, and smooth despite waves. Unlike the Presidential yacht which rolls, even on a mill pond, like a drunken sailor, the Royal Yacht keeps an even keel, for special stabilizers have been built into her. She hums along on fuel oil (or steam, if a gas attack makes oil power undesirable) without vibration, driven by the specially-designed four-blade propellers which avoid resonance due to "blade excitation". Sir Victor Shepheard admitted that during trial runs the Britannia had an objectionable singing of the starboard propeller. While it has been suggested that the general performance of the ship on trials was so good that the propeller had something to sing about, "it was necessary . . . to restrain its enthusiasm and the spare propellers were modified to fire down the edges." So when the Queen sees her completed new yacht for the first time, and boards her for the first voyage, she will have a regal yacht which is in her Silent Service. Actually, the vessel is, like its predecessors, a Royal Navy ship; she will be transferred to the Merchant Navy only if she has to be used as a hospital ship.

Death Of A Chieftain

It was with deep regret that we recorded yesterday the death of Angus L. Macdonald, who was one of the ablest politicians in the country. His colleagues have commented at length upon his character; our obituary notice gave a full account of his career. But little has been said of Angus Macdonald's personal nature, which was far from the exuberant, voluble, resilient manner of the successful politician. He was of a type uncommon in Canada.

His temperament was that of the Highland Scot—reserved, proud, dignified. His anger was not quickly stirred, but could exhibit itself with startling suddenness and force. A complementary side of his nature was the gentleness and gallantry which he brought with him into the houses of his friends, and a wit which was quiet but lively. He had the Celtic passion for oratory, and a keen appreciation of the beauty of the spoken word, which had been disciplined by his legal training. He was one of the finest political speakers in Canada, and he couched his utterances in English which was not only chosen with a fine regard for words, but spoken in the accent of an educated and scholarly man. He was sometimes called a cold man by those who did not know him but he was [illegible] he enjoyed. He was like nothing so much as a Highland chieftain, who had chosen temporarily to disguise himself as a lawyer and a professor of law—a disguise which was never quite complete.

He served his country greatly, as the virtual founder of our Navy. He was a great figure in his native Nova Scotia. He was a chieftain; is there a Macrimmon in Nova Scotia to play a coronach for him?

The Passing Of Fritzi Scheff

Years ago, when we were young, we once praised a musical comedy star (we think it was Peggy Wood) to a gentleman much our senior, who listened indulgently, and then said—'Ah, but you never saw Fritzi Scheff'. True, we never did see her, but we heard much about her from our older friend and from several of his generation. All their words of praise and affection came back to us early this week when we read that she had died at the age of seventy-four.

In a book of theatre history we have seen pictures of Fritzi Scheff. Her attraction was that of another age than ours; she was a small woman, but stout, and she wore that look of invincible gaiety which used to be associated with the city of Vienna. In some of the photographs she was showing her legs—not as much leg as a modern star is expected to show, of course—and pretty as those legs were, they were not in the modern style. Fashions in women's legs change, from generation to generation, and the short, stout leg, with tiny feet, is not the vogue today. But even from those photographs by Sarony, we could grasp something of what Fritzi Scheff had meant to her admirers, when she appeared in the comic operas of Victor Herbert.

Though we never saw her, we were moved by the news that she had died, for the passing of anyone who has given delight to many thousands of people is an event of importance. We mention her briefly here, thinking that some of our readers may recall her more directly than we do, and spare an affectionate smile for her memory.

H.M's Yacht Britannia

By SIR VICTOR SHEPHEARD, K.C.B.

(Extracts from a paper presented last week to the Institution of Naval Architects in London. The "Britannia" sailed today for North Africa with the royal children, and the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh will board her at Tobruk. The ship was completed in mid-January of this year at a cost of about two million pounds.)

ON April 16, 1953, Her Majesty The Queen launched the new Royal Yacht Britannia at the Clydebank Shipyard of Messrs. John Brown & Co. (Clydebank) Ltd. . . . From Her Majesty's words it will be appreciated that proposals for a Royal Yacht to replace the Victoria and Albert started during the reign of the late King George VI, who took a great personal interest in the development of the design. The project was undertaken as a matter of urgency, since it was the hope of those concerned that a yacht in which His Majesty could undertake sea voyages would greatly improve the chances of his recovery to good health. On this premise — the urgency — the design of Britannia was developed.

IN 1938, the Admiralty considered the possibility of building a ship which would not only replace the Royal Yacht Victoria and Albert, then nearly 40 years old, but which would be economically converted to a hospital ship in the event of war. Outline drawings and a statement of essential requirements were accordingly prepared, and in 1939 these were sent to some of the principal shipbuilders in the country, inviting them to submit more detailed proposals. With the advent of war, however, the matter was dropped.

In 1951 the project was revived, and in October of that year the Admiralty announced that a medium-sized hospital ship would be put into the re-armament programme and would be used in peacetime to replace H.M. Yacht Victoria and Albert, which by then was not seaworthy. Sketch designs were started in the Admiralty on the basis of the 1939 design reduced in size.

IT WAS DECIDED that the ship should be suitable for service in both tropical and arctic waters. A continuous seagoing speed of 21 knots was required, and this meant that a trial speed of 22 knots with the ship in the load condition, with clean bottom and in temperate waters, had to be guaranteed. The endurance required was at least 2,000 miles at 20 knots at load displacement with clean bottom and in temperate waters, allowance being made for the maximum load required for auxiliary machinery and for domestic services.

THE NECESSITY for economy in the cost of construction was kept continually in mind during the design and construction of the ship. It was necessary, however, to ensure that the size of the ship was not so reduced as to impair her seaworthiness when undertaking long ocean passages. Moreover the ship had to be large enough to permit of economical employment as a hospital ship in wartime. After much consideration it was decided that the smallest ship to meet these requirements was one of about 4,000 tons displacement, and every effort was made to produce an acceptable design with a displacement as near to this figure as practicable.

CERTAIN features have been embodied in the design which adds to the value of the ship as a Royal Yacht, but which are not altogether essential for that purpose. They would however be necessary if and when the ship it used as a hospital ship. Such features include ship's stabilizers, certain air-conditioning, large laundry facilities and comparatively high speed, none of which could be added on conversion as a hospital ship except at considerable additional expense and long delay in completion.

AS a Royal Yacht the ship will wear the White ensign and be manned by a naval crew. As a hospital ship she would be manned by a merchant service crew and wear the red ensign.

The design was developed, and statements of requirements were prepared at the Admiralty, by the end of 1951. These were approved by His late Majesty, Later the plans and a model of the ship were submitted to and approved by Her Majesty The Queen.

BRITANNIA has been given a modern appearance with clipper bow and modified cruiser stern. This was preferred to the more traditional swan bow and counter stern previously associated with Royal Yachts—in fact it was the wish of King George VI that the new yacht should be on modern lines, but not too modern. Three masts are a requirement for a Royal Yacht; the Royal Standard is worn at the Main, the Flag of the Lord High Admiral at the Fore, and the Union Flag at the Mizzen. A single funnel is in keeping with a well balanced profile.

From the outset it was obvious that the Royal and State apartments and accommodation for the Household and Royal staff should be aft, with the ship's company accommodated forward. This has led to the after superstructure being slightly larger than one would have desired from a purely aesthetic point of view, but nevertheless it is considered that a well balanced, graceful and dignified appearance, in keeping with the ship's function, has been achieved.

The Royal apartments are on the shelter deck between the main and mizzen masts with a verandah at the after end leading on to a sun deck. A point which may be noticed from the profile is that the deck of these apartments is 2 ft. higher than the general shelter deck level so that the external fore and aft gangways are well below the windows of the Royal apartments.

The main staircase from the Royal apartments on the shelter deck leads to a vestibule on the upper deck about which are grouped the State apartments. At either side of the vestibule are Her Majesty's and His Royal Highness's sitting rooms. The dining-room, drawing-room and ante-room extend the full width of the superstructure without obstruction from pillars. Sliding screens are fitted at the entrance to the ante-room and between the ante-room and the dawing-room. They can be folded back when required to provide a large reception space from the after end of the drawing-room to the foot of the main staircase.

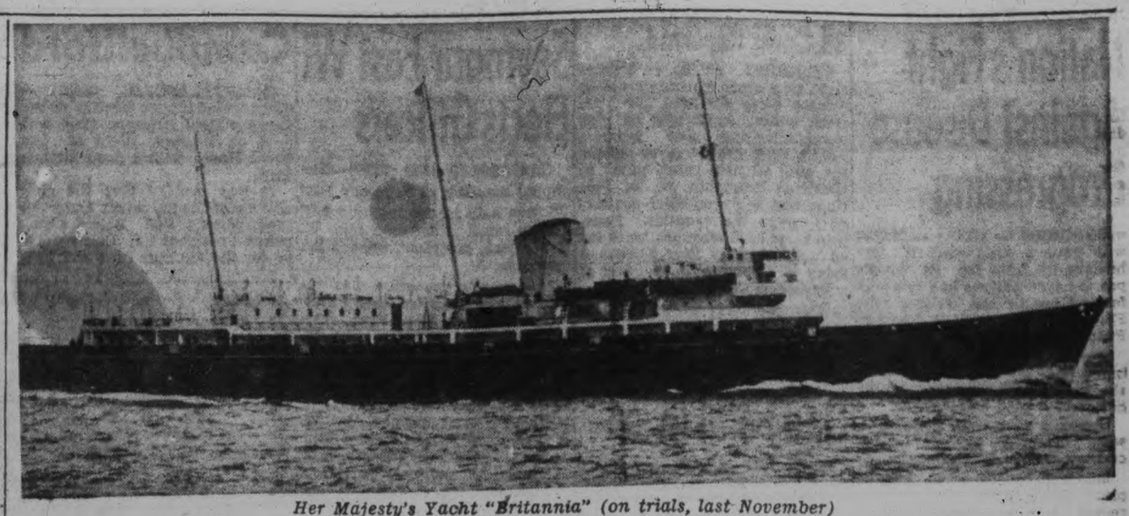
THE main staircase continues down from the upper deck to the main deck, in the vicinity of the main entrance ports. The Household and guest cabins, sitting-rooms and cloak rooms are on this deck. These rooms are fitted out to first class passenger liner standards.

The Royal staff is accommodated on the lower deck, the rooms being fitted to [illegible] Service standards.

A passenger lift is fitted near the main staircase and operates between the main and shelter decks.



The crew of 21 officers and 250 men is accommodated forward in a manner generally in accordance with Service practice except that the C.P.O.'s occupy 4-berth cabins.

THE SUITABILITY of the decorative design and the furnishing of the Royal and State apartments has, of course, been very important. Her Majesty and His Royal Highness The Duke of Edinburgh have both taken a great interest in the work and have personally approved the decorative treatment of the walls and ceilings and the design of new furniture and have chosen the soft furnishings.

In the interests of economy, use has been made as far as possible of furniture from the Victoria and Albert and of new pieces supplied for use in S.S. Gothic for the Commonwealth tour.

Messrs. John Brown appointed Messrs. A. McInnes Gardner & Partners as their decorative architects for this work. Because of its importance from the standpoint of current British decorative art it was considered desirable to have the advice of a second specialist in this field and Sir Hugh Casson was appointed as consultant to the Admiralty. The result of this collaboration has been very successful [illegible] decorative schemes and furnishings [illegible] paper as it has been decided that this information cannot be released until Her Majesty has personally seen the Royal and State apartments . . . .

Letter To The Editor

CONFUSION ABOUT BUSINESS HOURS

SIR: It would be interesting to know who gave out the information of the Retailers' meeting, see Peterborough Examiner, Wednesday, March 31, 1954, "——, and the view has been expressed that, ultimately, all stores will close all day Monday and remain open Friday evening." Those who were present would understand that this is a biased or prejudiced report.

The only specific report was that about Mr. Ed. Butler. The views he expressed about the happenings of the half day Wednesday would apply if the half day were on Monday and if all day closing were on Wednesday, then his problems about getting home to be in the garden would not obtain. The next day, a merchant, not a member of the Chamber of Commerce, pointed out that he might have had a lot to say, but as time was limited and as he was not a member, he did not state some of the views that he had. However, he did mention that he thought "we are acting like a lot of children." Another commented that the whole thing was a headache and with only a couple of grocers on George street or Charlotte street, why should they run the hours for the other merchants? (There might be a butcher shop or two on either streets). This same person ended up by saying "Oh well, we will probably have to come to it too." Both admitted doing far more business on Mondays than Wednesdays.

Someone commented that what one lady mentioned was not too helpful. Her suggestion was that, as we found things fairly satisfactory now for the majority, why make any change until the new store, which is swelling building permits, decides what they are going to do. Fortunately, when the discussion was on when the next meeting might be, someone suggested that they call upon the new manager of S & S. Just about the proposed meeting closing time, one merchant stated that all their staff had been spoken to and they were quite willing to work Friday nights providing they could have Monday weekend off.

One impatient retailer thought that more time should be arranged for discussion. Others wished to settle the matter almost immediately. Quite a few thought that with Easter so close at hand, that the matter should be left until after Easter and be an evening meeting so that all those interested, including the smaller merchants that could not attend the luncheon, could turn out. Meanwhile, the different classifications were requested to meet. We sincerely trust that, as reported in the Examiner, "all retailers will again be asked their views" and it will not be left just to having the heads of the groups or classifications summarize the views.

Is it fair that the Chamber of Commerce or the Retail Section should call the tune? Who is responsible for all these different groups?

Some merchants think that there was less confusion when the retail merchants had their own organization and paid smaller fees.

Before we get back to the heading, we think it is best to review what happened at the last general meeting of retailers. This was held at the YMCA about October, 1952. There were two definite reasons for calling that meeting. Some eight or nine merchants wished to stay open on Friday evenings. There was a move towards a five-day week and dissatisfaction because the retail stores were open Wednesday afternoons during the weeks that there was a holiday in. Everyone favouring all day Wednesday closing were timid about saying so for fear it might lend support to the Friday nighters

Surely everyone remembers that the "Gentlemen's Agreement" to stay closed fifty-one Wednesdays per year, was broken by a couple of managers of chain stores. Others followed suit. Articles started to fly to the paper and questionnaires were sent out. Merchants were disgusted and probably a bit depressed. Before long Easter was near at hand and merchants stayed open a couple Wednesdays before Easter. By changing the wording of the "Gentlemen's Agreement" for fifty-one to forty-eight Wednesdays closed, things might have worked out unanimously.

Maybe the changes in the banking hours had something to with keeping the five-day week alive. Anyhow, as you know, the retailers in general did nothing more concrete from the Fall of 1952, that is until the grocers went ahead and got a by-law through. Perhaps they see the error now of not doing something at that time. Then there is a cry started from a retail section, which formerly was headed by a grocer, to have universal closing.

Maybe some retail store operator, will care to express their views before it is too late. How about the employee that was granted Wednesday afternoon off in the week when there was a holiday? Will he or she get Tuesday morning off to compensate when there is a holiday on Monday if the stores are closed all day Monday?

Well, we have confidence in the majority of merchants in spite of the rush prevailing that they will not go into something, which they will later regret, and would have to be changed again before the end of 1954.

SLOW THINKER.

Saving The Pennies

(Fort William Times-Journal)

When discussing the increased cost of postage in Canada which became effective on April 1, mention was made in these columns of the effect it would have on large corporations which send out pieces of mail by the hundreds daily.

Evidence of this was noted last week by a Fort William citizen. He sends a mortgage payment monthly to a large firm in Eastern Canada. The other day he received the regular receipt, but attached to it was a notice, that said henceforth the receipts would be held back for four months, when they would be sent together — to save postage.

"I wonder what would happen," he said musingly. "If I wrote back and told them that in order to save on the cost of postage, I intended to hold back my cheques for four months and send them in together."

Bible Message

(From The Authorized Version).

And straightway in the morning the chief priests held a consultation with the elders and scribes and the whole council, and bound Jesus and carried him away, and delivered him to Pilate . . . And the chief priests accused him of many things: but he answered nothing.

And the soldiers led him away into the hall, called Praetorium; and they call together the whole band . . . And they bring him unto the place Golgotha, which is, being interpreted, The place of a skull . . . And it was the third hour and they crucified him. (Mark 15:1, 3, 16, 22, 25.)

Now when Jesus was risen early the first day of the week, he appeared first to Mary Magdalene, out of whom he had cast seven devils. And she went and told them that had been with him, as they mourned and wept . . .

After that he appeared in another form unto two of them, as they walked, and went into the country. And they went and told it unto the residue: neither believed they them.

Afterward he appeared unto the eleven as they sat at meat, and upbraided them with their unbelief and hardness of heart, because they believed not them which had seen him after he was risen. And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature . . . So then after the Lord had spoken unto them, he was received up into heaven, and sat on the right hand of God. (Mark 16:9, 10, 12-19.

No Percent American

(Ben Malkin in the Ottawa Citizen)

A friend of mine who came to Ottawa from England a couple of years ago, received a letter the other day addressed to "Dear 100% American." The letter was a form document, prepared by a publishing firm in Washington, D.C., extrolling the merits of a book called "Red Rat Race," in which the story of Sen. Joseph McCarthy (Rep.-Wis.) is set forth. The dear 100% Americans to whom the circular was sent were told:

If you don't think Joe McCarthy (methods and all) was right in rooting Soviet agents out of Washington, the Pentagon and other "Sensitive" spots, you will when you read Red Rat Race. You will realize then that the word "McCarthy-ism" means rugged rough-hewn American-ism, and not what the Kremlin, the Polecat Press, and the Captive Columnists would have you believe.

My friend, who is a statistician by trade, replied politely:

"Dear Sirs: You are misinformed. The writer is not an American of any percentage.

Says Manufacturers Turn Guns On Anti-Combine Laws

OTTAWA (CP) — David Croll, Liberal member for Toronto Spadina, said Tuesday that spokesmen for some Canadian manufacturers have "turned their big guns" on federal anti-combines laws.

Mr. Croll, speaking in the Commons budget debate, took issue with recent statements on combines legislation by J. D. Ferguson president of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, and R. M. Fowler, president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association.

He said the effectiveness of combines legislation as a deterrent is shown by "the loud squeals of big business."

However, some business leaders were attempting to whitewash recent offences against the law.

Mr. Ferguson had said guilty pleas by rubber companies in a recent combines prosecution "did not mean for a moment that they were admitting they had done anything detrimental to the public."

JUSTICE'S OPINION

Mr. Croll quoted Mr. Justice A. M. Schroeder of the Ontario Supreme Court, who heard the rubber combine case, as saying the companies had admitted a combine with features "so obnoxious to the welfare of the community, that if extended, the effect upon the public might become disastrous."

Public confidence in certain business leaders had been shaken by the results of recent investigations.

"It would seem to me that they would be much more reassured if men in the position of the president of the Canadian Manufacturers Association and others were to advise the members of the association that the Combines Investigation Act and related sections of the Criminal Code are the law of the land and are to be obeyed and that infringements of them are not merely technical offences."

Tokyo Maple Leaf Club Hard To Find But Singing Can Be Heard For Miles

By JACK BRAYLEY

TOKYO (CP)—The Maple Leaf Club is hard to find, tucked in a little side-street off the main-drag, unless you use your ears. The rollicking choruses of Alouette and Waltzing Matilda can be heard a mile.

The club, in an old walk-up German restaurant, is sponsored by the Canadian government and is the only club for Commonwealth troops in the downtown area of this rambling city. Gift-shopping, touring and pleasure-seeking troops at the big Commonwealth Ebisu camp 10 miles away can use it for checking, resting, grabbing a hot-dog, hamburger or cold beer or meeting their pals.

It's open from 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. and it consists of a game room, reading room, snack bar, wet canteen where Canadian beer and cigarets are sold; is equipped with Canadian papers and magazines and an array of musical instruments to accompany the sing-songs.

BADGES OF ALL NATIONS

Around the piano, their arms linked, are the servicemen of every nation in the field. Over the bar are regimental insignia, hackles from highland units, divisional patches of American units and badges of other UN troops, left behind by men grateful for the club's facilities.

Running the club is Capt. J. R Roy, a Royal Canadian Dragoon of Ottawa. On his staff are Sgt. R. H. Bonnell of St. John's, Nfld., and an attractive group of Red Cross girls, Kathryn Skinner of River Hebert, N.S., Margaret Learoyd of Toronto and Cayuga, Ont., Brenda Long, Montreal, Margaret McRae, Orillia, Ont., Muriel White, Port Hope, Ont., and Kay Woodhead, Vancouver.

Blond Miss Skinner says that without exception the lads are well-behaved and well-mannered. The inter - Commonwealth arguments are generally good-natured and even when the fleet's in the various branches of the service mix without too much ruckus.

The nightly sing-songs are the big feature with impromptu accompaniment. Each country gets a crack at its own ballads with everybody joining in the old favorites.

There's no planned program but occasionally concert parties visit the club for cabaret-style shows.

When comic artist Mildred Moray of Toronto was whooping it up with one of her lively numbers the other night she said she usually did it with a 10-gallon hat and a six-gun. Before she had time to begin the Aussies had plunked one of their distinctive hats on her head and an American MP gave her his big revolver.

Some of the lads bring in their tiny doll-like Japanese girl friends but most like to chat with the understanding Red Cross girls "because they're like the girls back home."

Miss Skinner says the boys unburden themselves about home and their girl friends, their wives and children. To show their appreciation, the lads buy flowers for the Red Cross workers.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

With all returns in from the sports celebrities' dinner back in February, it is announced that the show staged by the Ontario Sportswriters' and Sportscasters' Association raised $22,545 for crippled children of the province. Besides that, an anonymous donor contributed $12,750 so that the association could pay for the $33,000 project in one year instead of the three years as planned. This project is a big dining hall and community building at a crippled children's camp on Lake Erie. The dinner saw 800 guests paying $25 a plate, and the tab was picked up the Ontario Hotel Association, a bill of $4,982. A mighty fine gesture for a good cause by all concerned.

The 15th annual tourney of the Ontario Bowling Association of the Deaf will be held here at Duffus' on May 1. 'Tis expected that some 40 deaf teams from various parts of the province will compete for championships and prizes, and about 250 persons will dine later at the Kawartha Golf & Country Club. William Mayfield of this city is president of the OBAD and Joe Meyette of Peterborough vice-prexy. The latter heads up the local committees for the tournament, other local chaps working with him being Charlie and Frank Meyette, A. Fox and Mayfield. No doubt some keen bowling competition will be seen at this trundling tourney.

For 10 Pounds Sterling

Quite a history to the battered old piece of pewter known far and wide in hockey as the Stanley Cup. Back in the Gay Ninties, Lord Stanley as Governor-General of Canada donated 10 pounds sterling to purchase a trophy bearing his name. A friend, Lord Kilcoursie, persuaded Lord Stanley to put the trophy up for hockey, or "ice athletics." The cup was awarded as a challenge trophy for amateur hockey at first as there wasn't any organized pro play at the time. Later the Patricks got the Pacific Coast League going and challenged frequently for the trophy, often winning it. When the coast loop folded in the 20s, the Stanley Cup remained in the National Hockey League and the amateurs never get a crack at it now. Top NHL teams now tangle for the historic old $50 trophy, the honor that goes with it and, of course, the extra mazuma.

* * * * * *

Came across the OLA senior scoring list for last season the other day and thought a reminder of it might be interesting. Doug Smith of St. Kitts led with 129 points in the 30-game schedule. Ken Croft of Orillia was next with 113 and Ross Powless of Petes third with 103. Russ Slater of the Trailermen followed with 97 and, after Leo Teatro, came Ike Hildebrand. Other local players well up were Curly Mason, Jerry Fitzgerald and Don Ashbee. The Petes, of course, will miss the punch provided by Powless, but have a high-scoring replacement for him in Denny Peterson, the former blond flash from Mimico Mounties. Denny kept in shape over the winter months by playing senior "B" hockey with the P tes.

Looking Situation Over

Commenting on the COBL six-import rule, the Kingston scribe says: "Petes and Belleville might be short of players now but the Oshawa team seems strongly fortified. The Petes will have to be above the average if they hope to attract a large following in the lacrosse-conscious Liftlock City. Stan Srutton here could round up a formidable machine if the best local players were available, but there are bridges to be crossed before that objective can be achieved. The Kingston Baseball Association commands respect and merits protection. Its clubs are independently operated and each is at liberty to make its own rules regarding the activities of its players."

* * * * * *

Yes, the four COBL clubs are still rebuilding for the campaign ahead and the Petes will field a good team provided they can obtain two more senior hurlers. They're checking into this problem right now. Over the years, we've had some good and bad imports for senior ball up this way. Some of the better ones that pop into my mind where Heckman, Harrison, Ansaldo, Comolli, etc., in the days of Swanston, Whitehouse, Rose, Cherrett Murray Wolff, Holyman, Legon, Hall, and so forth; later, Murphy Kearns, Murray, Doll, Konopka and the rest when Knotty Lee had Foley, Burton, Calladine, the Clarks, Starr, Whatley Kitchen Deydell, etc. and etc. More recently there were Golden, Brown, pitcher Phil Clancy and a few more. Quite a few diamond aces in those seasonal shuffles.

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP)—Don McKenney, rookie wing, scored three goals Tuesday night to spark Hershey Bears to a surprising 7-1 victory over Cleveland Barons in the American Hockey League final playoff.

The victory kept alive the Bears' chances to win the Calder Cup and the AHL championship. Cleveland now holds a 3-2 edge in the best-of-seven series.

The last 10 seconds of play were bedlam on ice as both teams clashed in fist fights and fans threw paper and other refuse on the ice. Three major penalties were the result.

McKenney scored in each period assisted by Murray Costello and Skip Teal. Norm Corcoran scored in the first and Costello in the second. Obie O'Brien and Skip Teal joined with McKenney in scoring the last three goals.

Pafko Beaned By Ball No Fracture Suffered

CINCINNATI (AP)—Andy Pafko Milwaukee right fielder who was beaned by a pitched ball in Tuesday's baseball opener here, probably will be released from hospital today.

A physician said X-rays were negative, indicating he suffered no fractures, and should be ready to play ball in Milwankee against St. Louis tomorrow.

Charge 10 Boston Newspapermen Paid Up To $2,500 By Race Track

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—The Journal-Bulletin says 10 Boston newspaper men were paid sums ranging from $100 to $2,500 each last year by Rockingham Park race track for services ranging from "not doing a damn thing" to assisting in publicity work.

The newspaper says six of the men named by the track are writers for Hearst papers, the Boston Record and American. One is identified in the track's records as an employee of the Boston Post; one an employee of the Boston Globe, one of The Assciated Press and the other of the United Press.

Lou Smith, vice-president and general manager of the Salem, N.H., track, told a Journal-Bulletin reporter, that this practice was "more or less necessary" to run an efficient publicity bureau and that it was an "accepted practice" to assist newspaper men, the newspaper says.

R. M. O'Dowd, secretary and vice-president of Rockingham, also defended the practice.

Sam Cohen, sports editor, Boston Record $2,500
George Clarke, columnist, Boston Record $600
Mel Massucco, reporter, Boston Record $600
Robert A. Waldo, track writer, Boston American $100
William McCauley, track writer, Boston Record $600
Matthew Keany, sports writer, Boston American $500
Sidney Robinson, track writer, Boston Post $300
Sam McCracken, track writer, Boston Globe $500
William R. King, sports writer, Associated Press $500

NOT EMPLOYEE

The Boston Post issued a statement saying that Robinson is not an employee of that newspaper, but "is a private contractor who sells a race service" to The Post and other papers.

Frank J. Starzel, general manager of The Associated Press, said King had been dismissed after the news service investigated reports "received early this year that a member of its Boston staff had received substantial payments from a New England race track in 1952 and 1953 which were not disclosed to his employer."

Bert Masterson, New York-New England division manager of the United Press, released a statement saying Frost "resigned voluntarily from the United Press on Monday, April 12. He had been with the UP for 17 years."

A Record-American spokesman said there would be "no comment tonight."

Yankees Bow To Washington Senators 5-3 As 16 Clubs Open Season For 1954

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Home runs provided most of the drama Tuesday as the major league baseball season opened with a flourish. For the first time in 16 years all 16 clubs saw action.

The weather was ideal. Crowds totalling 236,414 turned out in generally cool, sunny weather, with the largest, 46,994, at Detroit.

The world champion New York Yankees bowed to the Senators in Washington 5-3 when Mickey Vernon slammed a four-bagger in the 10th inning with one on and the refurbished New York Giants upset the National League champion Brooklyn Dodgers 4-3 on a 425-foot blast by Willie Mays.

The Milwaukee Braves lost to the Redlegs in Cincinnati 9-8; the Athletics upset Boston Red Sox 6-4; the Cubs swamped St. Louis Cardinals 13-4; Cleveland stalled the White Sox 8-2; the Pirates whipped the Phillies 4-2 and Detroit Tigers shut out the new Baltimore Orioles 3-0.

SNAPS 3-3 TIE

Mays smashed his homer in the sixth inning to snap a 3-3 tie after Roy Campanella, the majors runs-batted-in champion last year, had cracked a pair for Brooklyn. Speedy Willie's blow, together with Marv Grissom's fine relief pitching, gave Sal Maglie his 19th victory in 25 decisions against the Dodgers. Carl Erskine was the loser.

Vernon homered in the last of the 10th off loser Allie Reynolds to break a 3-3 tie. President Eisenhower, who threw out the first ball, stayed to the end. Sonny Dixon, who relieved starter Chuck Stobbs and stopped the Yankees cold after they tied the score in the ninth, was the winner.

Jim Greengrass cracked four doubles to tie a major league record to highlight Cincinnati's first opening day victory since 1949. The husky outfielder drove in two runs and scored twice.

Philadelphia's triumph over the Red Sox was dimmed when little Bobby Shantz injured his arm in the sixth inning while ahead 5-2 and had to leave the game. Gus Zernial's two-run homer following a bases-loaded double by ex-Yankee Bill Renna in the first inning gave Shantz victory.

FOUR IN EIGHTH

Held runless by Robin Roberts through seven innings, the Pirates pounced on the Philly ace and Jim Konstanty, his reliever, for four runs in the eighth to pull the game out of the fire.

Successive fourth-inning home runs by Wally Westlake and George Strickland opened the gates for the Indians who staged a 15-hit assault on Billy Pierce and three relievers.

Stan Hack's managerial debut was a success as his Cubs shelled starter Harvey Haddix and four other St. Louis hurlers for 16 hits while southpaw Paul Minner was handcuffing the rookie-sprinkled Cardinals to six.

Baltimore made an ignominious return to the American League after 52 years as Detroit's Steve Gromek shut them out with seven hits and fanned nine.

PLAQUE TO WAGNER

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Pittsburgh Pirates presented a special plaque to John (Honus) Wagner, baseball's Mr. Shortstop, in ceremonies preceding the Pirates-Philadelphia Phillies National League opener Tuesday. The plaque, a special tribute to Wagner following his 80th birthday, was accepted by his daughter. Wagner spent 40 seasons with the Pirates as a player and coach.

Canadiens Defeat Red Wings 4-1 To Even Up Series

By W. R. WHAETLEY

MONTREAL (CP)—The 1954 history of the Stanley Cup series, the whole outcome now hinging on the seventh game, can't be written until Friday night and the answer is supplied.

Will Montreal Canadiens maintain their gallant comeback or will Detroit Red Wings regain their vaunted power and prowess on home ice and topple the 1953 champions?

The resurgent Canadiens left no argument as to their superiority in the sixth game Tuesday night when they overpowered the Red Wings 4-1 and evened the series at three-all. It was a far easier task than the 1-0 overtime win they squeezed out in Sunday's torrid battle in Detroit.

Montreal's latent scoring power came to life Tuesday night with a three-goal bang in the second period, enough to squelch the Red Wings. The Detroiters fought back but their fire and dash were gone and their brief rally in the third period was only a token spark.

FORM REVERSED

It may have been Canadiens' determination to square the series that made the Wings look ordinary. In any event, the display of each team was about the reverse of that in Thursday's game here when Detroit romped off to a 5-2 win.

The scoring laurels Tuesday night went to Floyd Curry, Montreal's hard-working wingman whose outstanding specialty in earlier games has been his strong checking.

Curry fired two of his team's four goals, the second coming only a minute and 18 seconds after his first and while he was on the limp waiting relief from his bench.

Curry's tallies followed Boom Boom Geoffrion's goal, a bullet-like shot that zipped past goalie Terry Sawchuk and started the downfall of the Red Wings.

Detroit's single goal went to Metro Prystai and was scored when goalie Gerry McNeil, the underneath man in a pileup, was shoved over the goal line, puck and all. The goal gave the Red Wings new hope, but it died five minutes later when Maurice Richard beat Sawchuk cleanly. It was Richard's third goal in the series.

Line-ups

Detroit: Goal: Sawchuk; defence: Pronvost, Goldham, Kelly, Woit, Allen; forwards: Skov, Leswick, Pavelich, Delvecchio, Howe, Lindsay, Wilson, Dineen, Prystal, Peters Dube.

Summary

First period: No scoring. Penalties: Masnick 2:46, Davis 10:41.

Second period: Montreal, Geoffrion (Beliveau) 12:07; Montreal, Curry (Olmstead, Masnick) 13:07; Montreal, Curry (Lach, Mazur) 14:25. Penalties: St. Laurent 4:22, Pronovost, Moore 8:45, Skov 15:32, 19:50.

Third period Detroit, Prystai 5:11; Montreal, Richard (Lach) 10:06. Penalty: Moore 16:49.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

Matane Edges Sudbury 3-2 To Take Lead

MATANE, Que. (CP) — Matane Red Rocks jumped into a 1-0 lead in the eastern Canada Allan Cup finals Tuesday night as they rattled home two goals in the final period to defeat Sudbury Wolves 3-2.

The Red Rocks, who only managed to tie their first encounter with the Wolves 4-4, are out to stretch their series lead tonight. But with both teams evenly matched their ability to do so is far from decided.

Matane came from behind twice to tie the score and then went on to win on Lucien Gilbert's goal within three minutes of the final siren.

Bigest obstacle to Matane was Sudbury goaler Al Millar. It was mainly his work that prevented Matane's repeated sorties into the Wolves' zone from paying off.

SUDBURY OUTSKATED

Except for a short time at the start of the first period when Matane was busy organizing its defence, the Sudbury crew were outskated and forced onto the defensive most of the game.

It was during that first-period pressure play — while peppering goalie Marcel Paille with shots—that McLellan and Yogi Kraiger teamed up to put the visitors ahead. Kraiger's blue line slap shot bounced off McLellan's stick and into the net.

At 15:05 of the same period, with Fiori Geogan off for tripping, Matane capitalized on a manpower advantage and Bernie Limoges tied it up on a pass from playing-coach Gerry Plamondon.

The Wolves again went ahead late in the rough-and-tough middle frame on a goal credited to Heale. Geogan's long shot appeared to deflect from Limoges' skate into the net, but Heale was given credit for it and assists went to Geogan and Andy Milne.

EVENS IT UP

Desrosiers evened it up for the last time at 8:18 of the third period. Millar stopped Rene Pepin's shot but the rebound eluded him and Desrosiers poked it in. At 17:29 Gilbert took a pass from defenceman Real Lafrenniere and flipped it into the right-hand corner of the net to close off the scoring.

In all Millar took care of 27 shots successfully, the same number as Paille. But Millar's were spread throughout the game whereas the Matane netminder had it comparatively easy after the first period's 17 stops.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower let fly with a brilliant overhand pitch Tuesday to get the 1954 baseball season officially under way. The president and Mrs. Eisenhower watched the band play and the flag raised before the New York Yankees and Washington Senators had at it.

Johnny Sain, the veteran Yankee pitcher, picked up the president's pitch for a souvenir.

Before Eisenhower went into action, Speaker Martin led the way on the traditional 450-foot march to the flag pole, flanked by Calvin Griffith, executive vice-president of the Senators, and Will Harridge, president of the American League. Millions of Americans saw the toss over a national television hookup.

May Ride Colt Blue Sail

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP)—Johnny Longden ace United States jockey, may ride the Canadian-owned Irish colt Blue Sail in the English Derby at Epsom Downs this summer, it was announced Tuesday.

Frank More O'Ferrall, managing director of the Anglo-Irish bloodstock agency, said a licence is being sought for Longden at the request of Calgary oil men Max Bell and Frank McMahon, partners in Alberta Ranches, the turf syndicate which owns Blue Sail.

Longden, a native of Wakefield, Yorkshire, grew up around Taber, Alta., where he learned to ride in company with the late Georgie (The Iceman) Woolf, great jockey of a decade ago. Longden rode several races in England on a visit three years ago. His son Vance, a trainer, is associated with Bell and McMahon.

More O'Ferrall, who represents the Canadian stable overseas, said the owners are eager to have Longden ride Blue Sail, now one of the Derby outsiders.

As a two-year-old Irish-bred colt, by Teheran out of Set Sail, was unplaced twice in small races in Ireland and second in a good juvenile event over a mile at Ascot in October. This was the race which resulted in his trainer, P.J. (Paddy) Prendergast, being suspended by the English Jockey Club for alleged discrepancies in Blue Sail's running.

RETURN BOUT

LONDON (AP)—Promoter Jack Solomons said Tuesday the return bout between Don Cockell, British heavyweight champion and Harry (Kid) Matthews will be over the 15 rounds distance June 1. Cockell won a split 10-round decision over Matthews in Seattle last August.

Van Brabant pitched two innings in relief of Bobby Shantz in Tuesday's 6-4 victory over the Red Sox. The rookie allowed one run and three hits.

Warns Scientists To Speak Up Against Bombs

LONDON (Reuters)—Dr. Albert Schweitzer, who was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1952, says "scientists must speak up" if there is to be any hope of persuading governments to stop hydrogen bomb experiments.

The world-famed 79-year-old scholar, who renounced the world of science to become a medical missionary in French Equatorial Africa, wrote of "the anguish in my heart" in a letter on the H-bomb published today in The Daily Herald, London paper which supports the Labor party.

He wrote from his medical centre in Africa.

TOO MANY PARLEYS

Schweitzer said the problem of the effects of the H-bomb is "terribly disturbing." But he did not favor a conference of scientists to deal with the problem, as has been suggested by The Herald.

"There are too many conferences in the world today and too many decisions taken by them," Schweitzer said.

"What the world should do is to listen to the warnings of individual scientists who understand this terrible problem. That is what would impress people and give them understanding and make them realize the danger in which we find ourselves.

"If they all raised their voices, each one of them feeling himself impelled to tell the terrible truth, they would be listened to, for then humanity would understand that the issues were grave."

Rubber Workers Seek 15-Cent Increase

TORONTO (CP) — The United Rubber Workers (CIO) today announced that its 11,000 Canadian members will seek a general wage increase of 15 cents an hour and a guaranteed annual wage from Canada's rubber and allied industries this year.

The earl's Canadian secretary, Mary Goldie, formerly of Galt, said the couple planned to spend the day quietly as usual at a friend's house, where they are staying. Both are "very well," she aded.

Miss Goldie joined the Athlones in 1946 on the couple's return from Canada. She had spent the war years in London.

Coventry May Now Expect Lady Godiva To Ride Again

COVENTRY (Reuters) — The spirit of Lady Godiva is stirring in ancient Coventry, whose townsfolk are angry and confused at a city council decision to drop civil defence as "a waste of public money."

Lady Godiva, clad only in her blonde tresses, rode through Coventry on a white charger 900 years ago as a protest against unfair taxes imposed by the local ruler, her husband.

Three thousand civil defence volunteers, equally angry, plan a protest march against the socialist city council's stand that the hydrogen bomb makes costly air raid precautions useless.

Unless the council thinks again, the volunteers will step out in their dark blue uniforms—many bearing medals won when Nazi bombers shocked the world by obliterating the city's centre in an "annihilation" raid.

Protests against the council action poured in from civil defence chiefs throughout Britain. They likened the decision to an ostrich sticking its neck in the sands of self-deception. Most newspapers attacked the council as defeatist.

Lord Mayor W. H. Cresswell had said he hoped the decision would shock the nation's leaders into the belief that Britain has a greater destiny than just being "a bomb target for Russia and the United States."

Every English town is compelled by law to maintain some kind of civil defence organization.

Coventry, blitz town turned boom town, probably would be an early target for bombs in a third world war. Its factories, turning out cars, motorcycles, planes and engines and light engineering products, export more goods proportionately than any other town in Britain.

AND EVERY PLACE THAT DAVID WENT . . . David Smith returns to his Marshall, Mich., school class with his pet lamb, two-week-old "Liberace." At the school door to greet the pair are David's mother, Mrs. Eugene Smith, a kindergarten teacher, and some of David's classmates.

Hastings Town Hall To Be Redecorated

HASTINGS (ENS) — Bruce Scott, president of the Chamber of Commerce, spoke to the council regarding the use of the town hall and was given permission.

Miss Kate German, on behalf of the women's group of the village, also asked to use the town hall. The funds raised will be used to redecorate the hall. Council offered any assistance they could render the ladies.

Mr. Camum, counties plumbing inspector, spoke regarding the new plumbing bylaw.

Lloyd Carr waited on council regarding the purchase of several lots from the village. It was decided to sell him the lots for $25 apiece.

Accounts totalling $436.92 were authorized for payment.

2 RAF Transports Stranded In Greenland

LONDON (Reuters) — Two RAF Hastings transports, which have been making training flights in Canada's polar regions, have been stranded at Resolute bay in Greenland, the air ministry announced today.

Engine trouble due to extreme cold grounded the planes, which left Manby Flying College in Lincolnshire April 1.

Training staff and students flying in the aircraft will be flown back in another Hastings, which has flown out three spare engines to Resolute bay.

The Hastings made a liaison visit to RCAF units in Canada before becoming stranded.

efers Country Bank Job o Being U.S. Ambassador

By SAM DAWSON

)N, Ariz. (AP) — Lewis says he gets a better look American economy and world affairs through his as head of a country

an who makes small loans farmers and ranchers once dealt in billions of dollars as President Roosevelt's first director of the budget. Later he was principal and vice-chancellor of McGill University.

He divides his time now between New York and Tucson. He is a top man in the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York, a $2 250,000,000 concern. The rest of the time he's here, putting in a five-day week as chairman of the board of the Southern Arizona Bank and Trust Co., with deposits totalling around $70,000,000.

GETS PEOPLE'S REACTIONS

Douglas says he finds great satisfaction in his work as a country banker.

"In a smaller community you can learn much better what people are thinking, doing, planning, feeling about national and world affairs," he said in an interview. "You can know what is going on. And you can see better what you youself are doing.

"In New York you often are carried away by the emotion of the moment that seems to grip everyone at once."

As a rancher and as a banker to farmers and ranchers, Douglas worried about the Southwest's greatest problem, water. Much of his time just now is devoted to a weather study project he helped start. Scientists from Australia and England will be coming over to help.

Special radar sets on the mountain peaks to the north and automatic time-lapse cameras around the Tucson valley will photograph the rain echoes from clouds forming rain. And later planes will fly through the clouds measuring the size of water droplets and the amount of water involved.

"We don't aim to be rain-makers," Douglas says. "The idea is to study what makes it rain. When we have more knowledge than now, then science perhaps can go on from there."

QUEEN ELIZABETH SCHOOL

"Children and Religion" was the theme at the Queen Elizabeth Home and School Association meeting Monday evening.

Mrs. M. Tedford was in charge of the devotional period and read a portion of scripture. Three young pupils, Darlene Long, Sandra Ellicott and Gail Edwards then sang "Can A Little Child Like Me". This was followed by a short story and a poem based on the Christian home.

Mrs. J. Cochrane and her group provided enjoyable entertainment with three Hawaiin guitar selections and Adele Cochrane sang "Bell Bottom Blues" and "I'm Just A Fellow".

Three speakers for the evening, Mrs. E. B. Wellwood, Miss I. Connolly and Mrs. F. A. Hucks, were introduced by Mrs. A. Long. (Mrs. Hucks had been kind enough to take the place of Mrs. A. Mathews who was ill and could not attend.)

Mrs. Wellwood stressed the importance of planning a Christian home for children to be brought up in. She spoke of how we want our children to be accepted in the community, to be looked up to and, generally, to be someone nice to have around. Children respond to the atmosphere of religion and take it for granted. Some of the things which constitute a Christian home are: love in the home; freedom from worry and fear; sharing family tasks and plans; family worship and teaching the child to pray.

Miss Connolly spoke of religion in the schools. She showed on printed charts the characteristics of different age groups. In kindergarten a child is a believer. As he loves his father and mother so he loves God. In middle childhood (6-8) the child is religiously a discriminator—whether it is fact or fiction, right or wrong. In later childhood (9-11)the child is a spiritual hero worshipper — Joseph, Daniel, Esther. It is in early adolescence (12-14) that two-thirds of all delinquent boys are brought to court. Miss Connolly added that though children are well cared for physically , and intellectually, parents must not forget the third part of a child's nature—religion, for if this is neglected he or she is not complete.

Mrs. Hucks talked of how children in the home are subject to the environment created for them. They cannot escape the learning received in school but religion, which is a basic need of all people, is left choice. Churches cannot help unless they go in. The home, school and church work as partners to make children cultured and educated people. Mrs. Hucks concluded by reading a poem, "What Does Easter Mean To You."

Mrs. R. Willis thanked the speakers and entertainers.

A social half hour followed and lunch was served.

A veteran of two world war, Major Dark was born in England, but spent most of his boyhood in Lindsay. His wife is a native of Kingston.

Study Central Control For Army Canteens

OTTAWA (CP)—The army is considering placing its canteens, normally run by individual units, under central control.

It announced Tuesday it has called a Montreal industrialist, Brig. D. Kingdon Black, back to service to study the desirability of setting up a central organization "to administer and operate canteens and other activities of military institutes."

Such an organization, the announcement intimated, would operate abroad, where Canadian troops are stationed — in Korea, Japan, England, Germany and Belgium—as well as Canada.

Plan To File Claim Statement

TORONTO (CP)—A statement of claim is to be filed here today in the $1,145,485 suit of four pulp and paper companies and a log transit firm against the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

The companies claim that by forming power pools behind three dams on the Ottawa river—Des Joachims, Chenaux and the Otto Holden—hydro has interfered with the companies' absolute right to have their logs carried downstream by normal flow.

The action was started last December by the E. B. Eddy Co., Canadian International Paper Co., Consolidated Paper Corp., Gillies Bros. and Co., and the Upper Ottawa Improvement Co. Attorney-General Dana Porter gave consent to the action. Ordinarily, a government agency cannot be sued.

The companies are asking $745,485 in costs for building materials and equipment, plus $400,000 in general damages. They also ask for a declaration that they are under no liability for $190,000 costs incurred by hydro.

Hope To See Wheat Move In 10 Days

OTTAWA (CP)—The government hopes to see a considerable movement of wheat out of Montreal—weather permitting—in about 10 days, Trade Minister Howe said Tuesday.

He told G. H. Castleden (CCF—Yorkton) that he understands a number of grain carriers are on the way to Montreal and as they dock there to take on grain cargoes, space will become available for grain stored in the Lakehead ports.

Mr. Castleden asked in the Commons for a report on the progress of clearing clogged grain elevators in Montreal and other eastern ports in preparation for grain movements from the Lakehead when the inland shipping season opens late this month.

Drank So Much Had Amnesia

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Kenneth Gray, assistant professor of applied psychology at the University of Toronto, testified Tuesday that Joseph Schreiber had so much to drink on the night of his wife's death that he was suffering from "a form of amnesia."

The doctor testified shortly after Schreiber had testified in his own defence on the second day of his trial for the murder of his estranged wife, Norma who was found dead in their duplex home Dec. 15.

The crown charges she died of asphyxiation due to strangling. The couple had been living apart following a separation agreement.

The crown summed up its case Tuesday and defence counsell will present argument today. The trial is expected to go to the jury today.

France Asked U.S. For B-29 Bombers

NEW YORK (AP)—The air minister of France said Tuesday his government asked the United States last week for B-29 bombers for use in Indo-China.

"We now await an answer," said Air Minister Louis Christiaens at a press conference shortly after his arrival on a combined business-vacation visit.

Boss Of Prizefighter Big Stick In U.S. World Of Sport

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — When a prizefighter wants to take a swing at the big money before the big crowds of New York, Chicago, Detroit and St. Louis, there's one man his manager has to see.

Five years ago this man moved into Mike Jacobs' declining prizefight province, revitalized it, expanded it—and for good measure tamed boxing's terrors of television. He did it with skill, patience, money—and love.

President of the International Boxing Club, James Dougan Norris at 47, is a sturdy handsome fellow with a shy smile who looks as if he might have gone several rounds in the heavyweight class himself a few years ago. But he didn't.

It's true that Norris was born rich and today is far richer. Some of his non-athletic holdings include a huge piece of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad, control of a fleet of Great Lakes freighters, control of the Norris Grain Co., which has the largest grain warehouse in the world, ownership of a big sugar company, several thousand acres of southern plantations, 100 acres in the heart of St. Louis, a couple of hundred thousand acres in North and South Dakota, the furniture mart in Chicago . . .

OWNS MANY ARENAS

It gets downright tiresome listing his possessions.

But the Norris holdings of greatest interest to the armchair sportsmen (skipping over his stable of racehorses) are his arenas in Chicago, Detroit, St. Louis and Indianapolis, and a major interest in Madison Square Garden.

Since the Garden owns the New York Rangers, Norris has a major interest in that hockey team, though he disavows having anything to do with operation of the Rangers. With a partner he also owns the Chicago Black Hawks. A short time ago he sold his interest in the Detroit Red Wings to his half-sister, Marguerite, and half-brother, Bruce.

His love of sport he inherited from his father, who half a century ago shovelled a fortune out of the Chicago grain pit. "Old Jim," as he was called until his death a year and a half ago, seemed to parlay his fortune with his left hand. With his right he always was poking into sports.

Athletics were not just a spectator hobby to Canadian-born old Jim. A Montreal hockey player long before he was a Chicago grain plunger, he had his own hockey rink built on his estate in Lake Forest, Ill., where young Jim grew up. Even the men servants had to be hockey players.

BOXING FIRST LOVE

Young Jim didn't want to learn how to run a railroad; he wanted to learn how to run a prizefight. He bought pieces of a few fighters and made matches in Chicago. When old Jim bought the Detroit Olympia, young Jim extended his operations to that fight town. To keep the customers coming to the extending line of Norris arenas he and Arthur Wirtz, a Chicago real estate man, produced Sonja Henie's ice show—a success for many years.

After four wartime years in the U.S. Navy, Norris emerged into a declining age of American boxing. Joe Louis, his best ring years behind him, no longer was a great drawing card. Mike Jacobs, who knew his fighters and his public, was invalided out of boxing in 1946. His Twentieth Century Sporting Club tottered under a competitive pounding from the tournament of champions, Inc., an amalgamation of millionaires dabbling in boxing.

After carefully surveying the field Norris acted—and his coup surprised even old Jim. On March 1, 1949, he announced the formation of the International Boxing Club. His partners were Wirtz and —surprise—Joe Louis himself. He bought out Jacobs and the Tournament of Champions. He signed contracts for a fight between the leading heavyweight contenders, Ezzard Charles and Jersey Joe Walcott.

Louis sold out his interest and Wirtz seems to be largely preoccupied by real estate and skating interests. Norris runs the show, from a second-floor office in Madison Square Garden.

Jacobs and Tex Rickard, the two biggest promoters of the century until Norris came along, responded to the pressures of matching fighters emotionally. Norris is marked by serenity.

"It's rather like the diplomatic service," he says, "this bringing managers together."

THINKS TV HELPS

He has acted just as purposefully in such problems as television, adapting that invention to prizefighting with weekly shows.

"TV cuts down on gate receipts," he says. "On the other hand, TV has interested more people in boxing than ever before in the history of the sport. An average show goes into 10,000,000 homes."

The job of running the IBC, heavy as that is, doesn't occupy all Norris's time. Although not as active in the family business as his half-brother, Bruce, he keeps a hand in it. And boxing has not caused him to forget about hockey. Then, too, there's his ardent love of racing; he follows closely the fortunes of his horses which race under the colors of his Spring Hill Farm.

About a year ago his wife died after 20 years of marriage. They had no children.

LOSING YOUNG TALENT?

"Octupus, Inc." is a term often used to describe his boxing empire. Boxing men as well as the writers say the Norris empire has wrecked the small boxing club, which can't get a paying audience in competition with weekly televised fights. This, they claim, has ruined the spawning grounds for young talent.

IBC men say in reply that they're greatly interested in developing new fighters. They point to the "talent shows" they've started running in some cities.

Since Tex Rickard's day, the man who controls the heavyweight champion has the big say in boxing. Norris has an exclusive contract on the present heavyweight champion, Rocky Marciano. Any challenger who fights Rocky must also sign an exclusive contract with Norris.

RELIEF PROMISED
For Arthritic and Rheumatic Pain
New relief without pills by greaseless, odourless, stainless cream.

Toronto, Ont. (Special)— Discovery of an entirely new method of relieving pain has been announced here. Science has now developed a cream that acts in a new way to bring relief from arthritic, rheumatic and muscular aches and pains. Sold under the brand name "InfraRUB", this new odourless and greaseless cream relieves these pains without the need of pills and other internal medicines.

InfraRUB does not merely set up a surface irritation but penetrates deep down into sore muscles and joints. This permits fresh oxygen-rich blood to flow freely through afflicted areas and actually helps drive away the pain-causing congestion and pressure.

Another feature of InfraRUB that appeals to so many people is its ease of application. No long and painful rubbing is necessary as InfraRUB penetrates in a few seconds and vanishes with a moment's light massage.

InfraRUB leaves no oily film or pungent objectionable odour on the skin. Users find they are able to put on clothing in complete safety immediately after application.

Written medical reports on the success of this new help for patients suffering from rheumatic and arthritic pains and general muscular aches and pains have been prepared, based on hundreds of cases in British and French hospitals. InfraRUB users claim almost immediate relief from rheumatic and arthritic pains, sore muscles and joints.

Now for the first time, InfraRUB can be obtained without a prescription from your local drug store for only $1.39. InfraRUB is guaranteed to give hours and hours of comforting relief from arthritic, rheumatic and muscular aches and pains or your money will be refunded in full.

SAD DAY — Enos Slaughter, who was with the St. Louis Cardinals since 1938, breaks down after learning that he had been traded to the New York Yankees. Slaughter, sitting in the St. Louis office, said "I can't even talk, this is the most awful thing that has ever happened to me in my life."

BRAIDED BEAUTY — A golden cage with birds was the eye-catcher at a recent swimming-suit show in Paris, France. The three bottom rows and the bars running down from the neck band are braided in golden threads. White birds give the suit a three-dimensional look.

Sale Of Revenue Bonds Would Scuttle Seaway Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representative Jesse A. Wolcott (Rep. Mich.) said Tuesday a proposal to finance the St. Lawrence seaway project through sale of revenue bonds to the public would "scuttle" the project.

Wolcott, in a statement, attacked an amendment offered by Representative Charles Brownson (Rep. Ind.) to a bill that would authorize the United States to join Canada in building the seaway.

Brownson denied his proposal would scuttle the project. He said he "probably" will vote for the seaway bill.

The measure now is before the House of Representatives rules committee, which is expected to decide about April 26 whether to clear it for House action.

Under the bill, the U.S. government would set up a development corporation to build the United States share of the project in the International rapids section of the St. Lawrence river.

WOULD SELL BONDS

The corporation would sell $105,000,000 worth of revenue bonds to the U.S. treasury to finance the construction. Revenues from tolls charged vessels using the seaway would be used to retire the bonds.

The Brownson amendment would provide that the corporation sell its bonds to the public, instead of the treasury, with no government guarantee of the interest or principal.

Wolcott, House banking committee chairman, said the amendment would make it impossible to finance U.S. participation in the seaway project.

Opponents of the seaway "know that that method of financing, without precedent in all the cases of government corporations, will not produce the construction funds without very substantial delay, if at all," Wolcott said.

"And they know that Canada would not be willing to, and need not, accept any such delay—but would proceed on its own."

Takes Own Life

TOKYO (AP)—A prominent figure in Japan's huge shipping scandal probe over a bribery died Tuesday—an apparent suicide. The body of Toshio Miyajima, 53, director and former vice-president of the big Ishi-Kawajima Heavy Industries Co., was found hanging from a rope in a storeroom at his home. Servants said no note was found.

Bracken Heads Liquor Inquiry

WINNIPEG (CP)—The commission which will review Manitoba's liquor laws will be headed by the man who was premier when they were enacted.

The provincial government announced Tuesday that John Bracken, premier of Manitoba for 20 years, has been appointed chairman of the five-member commission which will make recommendations for changing the liquor laws passed by the Bracken administration in the 1920s.

From his farm at Manotick, Ont. where he has lived since resigning as national Conservative leader in 1948, Mr. Bracken, now 70, recalled the days of 1923 when his government brought in legislation which ended prohibition in Manitoba.

"We were a dry party," he said, "but on issues like this we always believed in letting the people decide.

"They wanted it, so I became chief bartender for the province."

To Commission Only 7 Ships

OGDENSBURG, N.Y. (AP)—Because of a gloomy outlook for grain cargoes, the George Hall Corp. of Canada will commission only seven of its 15 freighters Monday when navigation opens on the St. Lawrence river.

Frank A. Augsbury, Jr., president of the company which operates a fleet of St. Lawrence-Great Lakes cargo carriers, said grain elevators in Montreal and other Canadian ports were choked with unsold grain.

Augsbury described the situation as "very bad, a terrific problem in Canada." However, he added that pulpwood cargoes were expected to be normal this season.

The holding of eight Hall ships at anchor will affect 200 employees 25 on each vessel.

The firm will launch two new ships—the U.S. Hutchcliffe Hall on April 19 and the S. S. Eastcliffe Hall May 7—but neither will be put in use until shipping demands increase, Augsbury said.

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Deposed Premier Draws 2nd Sentence

GEORGETOWN (CP) — Cheddi Jagan, deposed premier of British Guiana, Tuesday drew his second court sentence in two days when he and five members of his left-wing People's Progressive party were convicted of holding an illegal procession.

Jagan and his followers were given the choice of each paying a £23 fine or serving a two-month jail term for holding the procession in violation of existing emergency regulations.

Notices of appeal were given for Jagan's five followers. But the party leader will serve his two-month sentence as part of a six-month jail term imposed on him Monday for disobeying a court order not to leave Georgetown.

Man Catches Sturgeon Said 152 Years Old

FORT FRANCES, Ont. (CP)—Biologists Tuesday estimated the age of a sturgeon caught in nearby Lake of the Woods at 152 years.

They said a microscopic examination of a cross section of a fin disclosed the great age of the fish, netted by Harold Johnson of Kenora.

What got them curious was the sturgeon's size—it was just under seven feet long and weighed 215 pounds.

Drew Asks ForConference To Discuss Taxation Plans

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader Drew has asked for a conference of federal and provincial governments to discuss taxation and constitutional issues.

He said Tuesday that national unity has been weakened by bitter speeches made since finance Minister Abbott's budget last week rejected Quebec's request for full federal deduction of its new 15-per-cent income tax.

Mr. Drew, speaking in the Commons budget debate, urged Prime Minister St. Laurent to call a federal-provincial conference so that "we may seek to rebuild that federal structure of which we are all so proud."

The prime minister should say before the Commons adjourns today for the Easter recess that he will convene provincial premiers before the end of May.

NO IMMEDIATE REPLY

Mr. St. Laurent was in the Commons but made no immediate reply.

Mr. Drew, former premier of Ontario, did not take issue with the government's decision against allowing deduction of the Quebec tax.

He said, however, that Mr. Abbott used an unnecessarily provocative manner in rejecting Quebec and was "dealing at arm's length" with Premier Duplessis because Quebec was the only province which had not signed a tax agreement with the federal government.

The problem should be met "before the unfortunate consequences may have gone beyond anything anticipated in the budget speech."

National unity was not helped by making the problem seem an isolated one between one province and the federal government. Some speeches which had been made ignored the fact that there were two sides to the question.

"This is not the time to invite the premier of any province to seek consideration here in Ottawa" Mr. Drew said. "This is not the time for any premier of any province to be told that he may have the illimitable privilege of an audience with a cabinet minister.

". . . This is the time for an invitation to be extended by the prime minister of Canada to the premiers and the governments of the provinces of Canada to meet and to discuss the way in which they can overcome these problems and revitalize and bring back into harmony the details of the British North America Act."

OTHER SPEAKERS

The taxation issue was discussed by other speakers in the debate. It also was mentioned by Finance Minister Abbott in a radio speech Tuesday night in which he said there is no basis in fact or law for Quebec's claim to prior right to levy income tax.

Hazen Argue (CCF—Assiniboia) said a federal-provincial conference would be a waste of time if every province but Quebec was represented.

He urged Mr. St. Laurent to make a statement on the question of taxation rights, but said that any conference should discuss some of the current economic problems and not merely listen to "the beefs of one certain provincial premier."

He described the government's budget for 1954-55 as a "depression budget."

Mr. Argue, a Saskatchewan farmer, said farm income fell 14 per cent last year and will decline further this year. If the fall were not stopped, it would spill over into the rest of the economy and have serious results.

"In parts of Canada, particularly western Canada, the farmers are not waiting for a depression. . . For them it is right here. They have no cash. True, they have all kinds of wheat, but their families are going without many of the necessities of life."

HELPS UNITY

The Rev. Dan McIvor (L-Fort William), said Mr. Abbott's decision against granting income tax concessions to Quebec is intended to help Canadian unity.

"His plan is that he will stick to the constitution of Canada, no matter what anyone says, and will say to any province: Thus far shalt thou go, and no farther."

Mr. McIvor said Quebec stands alone as the only province which has not signed a tax agreement.

"I am sorry that it does, because I think the citizens of that province compare favorably with those of any other part of Canada. . . However, they do not all agree with the premier of that province."

German Workers Sinking Welsh Shafts

By ADRIAN BALL

LLANELLY, Wales (Reuters)—High on the wind-swept moors near this Welsh town, 100 German "shock workers" are striving to give Britain a chilling lesson in industrial efficiency.

The Germans have been called in by Britain's national coal board to sink two steel - and-concrete shafts, each 2,000 feet deep, for a new coal mine.

British firms, which pioneered shaft sinking and sank many mines in Germany between the wars, were unable to handle the Cynheidre contract. Their equipment was already stretched to breaking point on other work.

Reluctantly, the board placed the order with a company established by the late Fritz Thyssen, the firm of Schachtbau - Thyssen Gesellschaft. The British public did not take kindly to the award.

But the Germans have tackled their job in a manner which has won praise from all who have seen them on the job. They have a simple battle cry for work: "Mit tempo . . . tempo!" (speed, speed).

TEA BREAKS BARRED

The German shaft-sinking team—now about 100 men, soon to be doubled—works six days a week. Tea breaks—the cherished right of the British worker—are barred. There is only one rest a day—20 or 30 minutes for eating.

The national coal board expected the job to take "several years." But the Germans are bustling to complete it in 12 months.

The men live on the site, in huts around the shaft. Arc lights are in position to let the work go on round the clock. The "shock workers" seek little outside life.

Cynheidre colliery is a rich prize. Anthracite — Britain's top dollar-earning coal — is waiting there in seams 10 feet thick. Experts consider there are 100,000,000 tons of it. Cynheidre is the first of four anthracite pits being sunk in west Wales.

7 Sentenced To Die

LONDON (Reuters)—Seven persons accused of spying on behalf of the West have been sentenced to death in Communist Albania, the Albanian Telegraph Agency said today in a report from Tirana. An eighth defendant received a 10-year prison sentence. All were called part of an "armed gang of spies and diversionist agents."

A SPY?—Ludmilla Sergeevna Mikailova, 28-year-old White Russian is released on bail after claiming she had been a spy for the Russians and a counter agent for the FBI. The FBI denied the latter claim.

Some Deny Smoking Causing Cancer

NEW YORK (AP)—The tobacco industry Tuesday hit back again at recently expressed medical views linking lung cancer with cigaret smoking.

The industry published a pamphlet in which a number of doctors and cancer researchers were quoted as denying that there is any proof of such a link.

Title of the pamphlet was "A Scientific Perspective on the Cigaret Controversy." It contained statements from 36 medical men and scientists.

HEAT CONTROL

The finance committee Monday night recommended endorsement by city council of a resolution by the Windsor city council requesting the provincial legislature to pass suitable legislation requiring landlords to supply adequate heat for their tenants.

FILM COUNCIL

Dr. David Fowle, of the Ontario department of lands and forests, showed and explained colored slides of Ontario wild life and habitat, at the April meeting of the Peterborough Film Council, Tuesday evening. A national film board film, "Food for Freddy," dealing with healthful food diets, was also screened.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

The conservation association of Pigeon and Bald lakes is initiating a drive for 2,000 members. The purpose of the association is to conserve the natural beauty and breeding grounds of these lake regions, which are expected to be within 150 miles of some two and one half million people in 20 years.

ASSESSMENT STAFF

The finance committee of city council Monday night recommended that assessor J. E. Davis be authorized to employ a junior male clerk. Finance committee chairman Ald. Pat Anglesey explained Mr. Davis had said he was in accord with hiring a clerk to learn assessing in place of a field man. This would result in a saving in salary of almost $500 this year.

FIRST RAILWAY ROCK

Initial rock-blasting at American Nepheline Mines for the foundation excavation of the new crusher plant was set off at 1:30 p.m. A ton of dynamite was used. The broken rock will be trucked below the present mill site to form the roadbed of the private mine switching yards which will probably be built in advance of the main CPR line from Havelock. Tenders for the main 16.6-mile portion are being called for at the present time in Montreal.

City Seeking Hold Wages 1953 Level

Firemen Charge Committee Acting in Bad Faith

City council apparently intends to hold wages of city employees to their 1953 level in current negotiations over renewal of working contracts.

This policy was revealed at Monday's meeting of the finance committee when a letter was received from the Firefighters Association charging the city's negotiating committee with acting in bad faith and without authority from city council to negotiate.

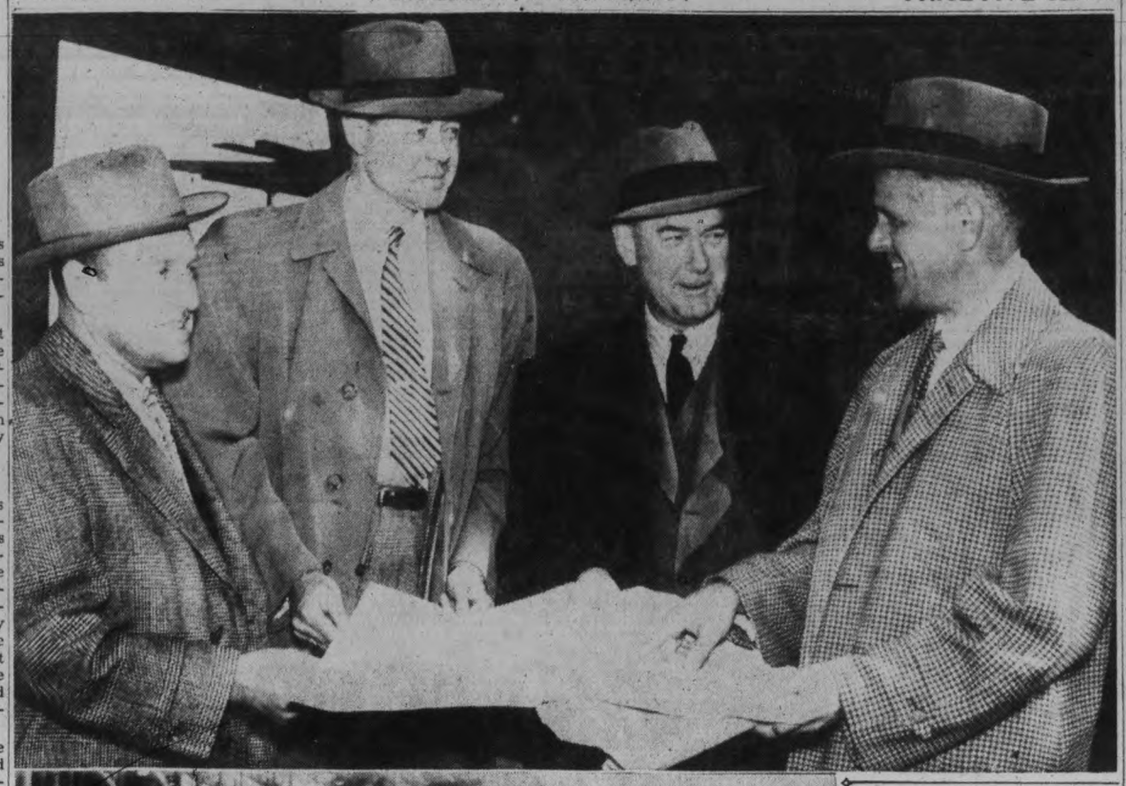
WOULD MEET COUNCIL

A request from the firefighters to renew negotiations with a committee of the whole council was turned down by the finance committee, which comprises the whole council, who expressed confidence in their negotiating committee. They instructed City Clerk E. A. Outram to write the firefighters, informing them that the city's negotiating committee had bargained in good faith and kept council informed of the progress of negotiations.

The firemen charged that the whole negotiating committee had not been present when their provincial vice-president had attended a meeting.

"This comes as a surprise to me and I feel it comes as a surprise to the negotiating committee." Ald. Pat Anglesey, finance committee chairman, said. "I felt the discussions had gone very amicably. We bargained in the best of faith and gave careful consideration to every one of their demands.

"In view of the levelling off in the cost of living and the fact that the firemen's wages were better than average for the city and for firemen in cities of comparable size, we thought this was the year to hold the line. Their negotiating committee seemed to accept that," he said.



Aldermen Bill Beggs and Art Burrows said they were the only two members of the negotiating committee absent from the last meeting.

AMENDMENT ADOPTED

Considerable time was spent in the finance committee discussing a motion by Ald. John Dewart that the firefighters' negotiating committee should be permitted to appear before a committee of the whole council and state their case. Much of the time was taken up by a discussion of parliamentary procedure when Ald. Gordon Farquharson proposed the amendment which was finally adopted.

"I think it would be ridiculous for the committee of the whole

Restrictive Parking Designed To Ease Traffic Problems

A number of measures designed to help clear up some of Peterborough's traffic bottle-necks and parking headaches have been recommended by the city's special traffic committee.

They have all been approved by the finance committee of city council, who have recommended that City Solicitor W. F. Huycke, QC, prepare bylaws where necessary.

One of the recommended bylaws is designed to improve the parking situation near the plant of the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co., about which neighboring residents have complained to council on more than one occasion.

The bylaw would provide for "No Parking" at any time on both sides of Monaghan Rd., between Fagan Ave. and Romaine St., and "one hour parking only" at all times on both sides of Romaine St. from Monaghan Rd. to Mervyn St.

FOR PCVS STUDENTS

Another recommended bylaw aswers a request from the board of education for provisions to make it possible for PCVS students to disembark from school buses on the north side of Murray St.

The bylaw would restrict parking on the north side of Murray St. from George St. to the entrance to the Armories property, for use as a bus stop only, on Monday to Fridays inclusive, from 8:30 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The committee also recommended an amendment to the parking bylaw to provide "one hour parking only" at all times on both sides of Frank St. from Monaghan Rd. to High St.

Other bylaws recommended:

1. To provide "one hour parking only" on the north side of Rink St., from Aylmer St., to the CNR tracks.

2. To provide "no parking" on the north side of Lansdowne St. from Monaghan Rd. to High St. and "no parking" on the south side of Lansdowne St. from Monaghan Rd. to Bell Ave.

3. To provide "no parking" on both sides of Dalhousie St. from George St., to the west side of Jackson Park creek bridge.

In connection with their previously-announced recommendation for a traffic light at Simcoe and Water Sts., the committee recommended relocating the present north-east entrance to the city parking lot in order to make the entrance from Water St. instead of Simcoe St.

Dairy Employees Get Increase, Average 6 Cents

An average wage increase of six cents an hour has been granted approximately 35 employees of Campbell Dairy Products, it was announced today.

The Textile Workers Union of America (CIO-CCL) has just completed negotiations for a new agreement with the dairy. Terms of the settlement have been unanimously ratified by members of Local 1288, according to Ray Ruggles, Greater Toronto Joint Board director of the textile union.

Highlight of the new agreement is an increase in wages ranging from five to 10 cents an hour. The increase is fully retroactive to March 1.

TWUA members also won three additional paid statutory holidays.

VACATION PAY

The new agreement provides for improvements in vacation pay as well. Vacation pay will be based on an average wage over the full year. This should result in a substantial increase in vacation pay, the union's area director said.

Negotiating the agreement for Local 1288 were Ted Robinson, president, Del Rusaw, recording secretary Alex McColl, vice-president and Elwood Northey, financial secretary. Negotiations were headed by Mr. Ruggles.

Doctor Thrown From Car Escapes Injury

Thrown from his car as it rolled over three times on Highway 14, Dr. George Mullin of Madoc had a miraculous escape from death early today. His late model car was a total wreck.

Dr. Mullin was found lying behind his car which was on its side on the shoulder of the highway about five miles south of Bonarlaw. OPP constable Arthur Bolyea, who investigated the accident, said that the car appeared to have been driven onto the soft shoulder and had rolled over in a sharp turn back on to the pavement.

Don Henry, who works at a Marmora bank, came upon the scene of the accident between 1 and 2 a.m. He evidently thought there had been a fatality and immediately phoned the police from the nearby home of Jim Rathwell.

Meantime, Ralph Wellman and Jim Heath of Bonarlaw arrived on the scene and found the doctor practically unhurt.

Dr. Mullin was [illegible] home after making a ca[illegible] armora when the accident occurred.

Spring Freshet Running In Canal

A small spring freshet, according to Trent Canal engineers, is being run through the system at the present time at the rate of 6,500 cubic feet per second. There was no usual winter freshet run off in mid-winter this year because of low precipitation.

The current situation could change if more-than-normal spring rains start before the frost leaves the ground, officials say. Some spring seasons it is not unusual to have twice the present head of water draining off.

The stoplogs are nearly all out of the small control dams along the Kawartha chain but logs are in at all reservoir dams in holding-lakes from Eel's lake north as far as Dorset. This should ensure an adequate summer head of water for lake-level and power requirements.

Grass Fires Herald Spring

Spring is here. Firemen are starting to spend much of their time fighting grass fires.

Most serious fire Tuesday was one set by the CNR at concession one, lot ten of Smith township. Firemen from the No. 2 station used the booster pump, six hand pumps and spent 40 minutes fighting the blaze.

Set by the railway to clear out grass along the tracks, the fire spread under fences to three adjoining properties of H. Ferris, H. Percy and a Mrs. Tilley. Firemen answered the call at 12:29 p.m. Tuesday.

Jack Cuffe of 631 Park N. set a grass fire near his home and brought firemen to the scene at 8:10. Since he had set the blaze without permission he was ordered to put it out, with little damage done.

Two other grass fires Tuesday afternoon caused minor damage to a vacant lot near the Chicken Palace on Lansdowne St. owned by Harry Goodman and to the property of Mrs. E. Tremblay, 366 Chesterfield St. Hand pumps extinguished the two blazes.

Possible serious damage at the home of T. A. Davis of 643 Stormont Ave. was averted Tuesday. Firemen found the householder away and children playing with firecrackers near the house. Mr. Davis' garage was scorched black in places, but no serious damage was caused. A hand pump and the booster pump handled the blaze.

Progress Of New Building Pleases Visiting Officials

"Isn't it nice?" Edgar Burton, president of the Simpsons-Sears Co., beamed as he looked over one of his newest and most modern developments, the huge new Simpsons-Sears store in construction on Lansdowne St., at Monaghan Road. But he may also have been thinking of a huge new warehouse which the firm will build one long block west of the store site facing on Erskine Ave.

This one-floor, masonry-type structure will be built on 20,000 square feet of land. Carroll Cisco, manager of the new Peterborough store, says it will "probably" have a railroad siding.

The warehouse, designed as a repair shop and a supply depot for heavier store merchandise, will employ an estimated 10 to 15 workers. It will take care of all deluxing and refinishing work done by the firm, and will serve customers with business along these lines.

CONTRACT AWARDED

The warehouse will be built by the Kenston Construction Co., a Toronto firm. Tenders were not given Peterborough contractors, Mr. Cisco explained, because several similar structures are being built in a package deal for Simpsons-Sears by this company, across the country.

The warehouse addition will swell the employment complement of the Peterborough store, expected to open in August, by at least 10 per cent to 130. "Most of these will be recruited from Peterborough," Mr. Burton told the Examiner. Management too will largely be homegrown.

One exception is Ivan Morley, now with the Toronto office, who will be moving his family to Peterborough shortly, to join the local store. He will handle merchandising and will assist store manager Caroll Cisco.

Driven by a liveried chauffeur, Mr. Burton visited the store site Tuesday with Mr. Morley, Mr. Cisco and George Trotter, retail vice-president of the Simpsons-Sears company.

ASPHALT PARKING LOT

Floor space in the new store, which Mr. Burton sees as the dream store of the future, measures 60,000 square feet. This is equal to nearly one and a half acres but does not include better than five acres of asphalt parking lot which will surround the property on all sides.

The new store will be an expensive proposition, says Mr. Burton,

Lockmaster's Name Given To Street

The name of a man who was a lockmaster on the Trent canal for half a century will be commemorated by city council.

The suggestion to name a street after the late Danny Edwards was made by Ald. Stan McBride at the finance committee meeting Monday night.

The matter came up when City Solicitor W. E. Huycke, QC, pointed out that there was some confusion caused by a fork in Lansdowne St. just before it crossed the Locks bridge. The short stretch leading to Little Lake cemetery should be renamed, he said.

"Why not call it Huycke St.?" Ald. Gordon Farquharson suggested.

"Not for a small street like that," Mr. Huycke replied facetiously.

"Danny Edwards was lockmaster there for 50 years," Ald. McBride recalled. "Why not name it Edwards St.?"

The committee endorsed Ald. McBride's recommendation.

RICE LAKE OPEN

Open stretches of water on Rice Lake Monday morning spread under the pressure of strong west winds until by sundown the long lake was clear from end to end. Official ice observer Don Sidey of Bewdley advises that the ice went out of Rice Lake in 1953 on March 25 and in 1952 on April 10.

Four People Injured In Minor Mishaps

Four persons, ranging in age from two-and-a-half years to 71 years, were admitted or treated as outpatients at the Civic Hospital following accidents Tuesday.

Janet, baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Anderson of 537 Elm St., suffered a fractured left arm when she fell. She was admitted to the hospital and her condition today was satisfactory.

Lacerations to the head and a possible fracture to the right shoulder were suffered by 71-year-old William Wheeler, 675 Stewart St., when he fell from a ladder Tuesday evening.

Mrs. W. J. Somers of 379 Edison Ave., was treated as an outpatient. Her arm was injured when caught in the wringer of her washing machine.

A 17-year-old Havelock youth, William Buchanan, was admitted to the hospital with lacerations to the foot.

Textile Industry Important To Canada

TORONTO (CP) — Robert J. Bruck, executive vice-president of Bruck Mills Ltd., Tuesday told the Advertising and Sales Club of Toronto that a national realization of the importance of the textile industry to Canada is necessary if the industry is to survive.

The textile industry is at all times "susceptible to business changes, particularly those influenced by style," he said. In recent months, "swamped by foreign imports, it has found itself in a very bad way—mills were shutting down, workers were being laid off and textile sales were steadily dropping."

Complex Electronic Equipment Concealed In Doll's House

By JOHN SHAW

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—A gaily decorated doll's house here conceals complex electronic equipment in children's toys. It is a major research aid at the Mosman Spastic Centre which treats children suffering from such diseases as cerebral palsy and epilepsy.

In the red - gabled miniature house which stands nine feet high, three to four children at a time are able to play to their heart's content while the hidden, sensitive equipment does its work.

Among the toys are a beauty parlor-type electric hair-dryer for girls and a space-man's helmet for boys. These two toys record the spastic patient's brain impulses as they play, relaxed and apparently unobserved, and pass them on to a concealed electro - encephalograph which registers variations in the electrical impulses streaming from the brain in all waking and sleeping hours.

When compared with standard patterns registered by a normally-functioning brain, the recording helps specialists diagnose the brain abnormalities of the spastic children.

Dr. Burton-Bradley, director of the centre, says that recordings will be taken of thousands of cases of cerebral palsy and detailed tabulation made of results which later can be passed on to other spastic centres in Australia and other countries.

The best brain chartings are obtained when the patient is relaxed and unworried, and the play atmosphere and novelty of the doll's house makes the children feel at ease.

The recording equipment is outside the back door of the house and the operator is not seen by the child. For the girls, the cap and cable leads are hidden beneath a miniature beauty parlor-style hair dryer. The boys wear and spaceman's helmet.

Beavers Do Work For Alberta Farmer

His hired help—a band of beavers—do a fast, tidy job felling trees on his land, strip them of small branches then leave the trunks ready for Bob to take to his sawmill.

The beavers have flooded a small field by building a dam in a nearby creek, but here again Bob doesn't mind. The flooded area provides water for his pasture all the year round.

Bob estimates the colony has saved him thousands of dollars in wages.

Rocky Mountain House is 90 miles southwest of Edmonton.

Oilmen Predict New Land Rush

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)— Oilmen see a new land rush in the making.

Spirited bidding for oil leases is predicted when the U.S. government opens its share of the submerged lands off the shores of Louisiana and Texas, possibly this month.

Costs will run high, both for drilling and for leases.

Once Texas cleared title to tidelands for 10 miles out—the federal government holds title beyond that—it got $35,000,000 out of lease sales. The highest price paid for a lease (they cover 5,000 acres on the bottom of the Gulf of Mexico) was $3,000,000.

Oilmen say that the cost of locating a producing well offshore averages three times that of getting one onshore.

"It's getting hard to find rich new oil fields on shore," says K.H. Shaffer, California Oil Co. vice-president with offices in New Orleans. "The tidelands are the one big place around where we're fairly sure there's oil."

Australian Sprinters To Give Commonwealth Nations Trouble

By GORDON TAIT

SYDNEY (AP)—Australians believe they have the fastest sprinters in the world today, both on the running tracks and in the water.

They are even more confident that in Marjorie Jackson, Olympic champion and world record holder, they also have the fastest short distance woman runner.

Two young men who have joined Marjorie this year in the front row of the world's best sprinters are swimmer Jon Henricks, a school boy of 18, and Brisbane's track flier, Hector Hogan, a 22-year-old.

Henricks has been making such times in 55-yard and 50-metre pools in Australia this year that many believe he will crack American Alan Ford's 100-metre world record of 55.4 seconds the first time he dives into a 25-metre pool.

But if Henricks is not the fastest swimmer in the world today, most Australians believe his countryman, Rex Aubrey, has that distinction. Aubrey is studying at Yale University, but will be at the Empire Games in Vancouver this summer.

Flying Hec Hogan in one Saturday afternoon this month equalled the world record of 9.3 seconds, for 100 yards, and 10.2 for 100 metres. The latter time is most unlikely to count as a record as it was by way of being a handicap race of men and women—the men running 100 metres to the girls' 100 yards.

BROAD JUMPER-SPRINTER

Hogan was—and still is—a broad jumper. At 17 he took on sprinting, too, and just three years later took the 1952 Australian 100 - yard championship.

At the time many claimed he had beaten the starter's gun to "get a fly." Several days later, John Treloar reversed the decision in a special race at Sydney to win a place in the 1952 Olympic team.

Hogan retained the national 100-yard title in 1953 and again won this year in the Australian record time of 9.5. At the last championships he also took out the 220-yard and broad jump titles.

HENRICK'S RISE RAPID

Henricks' progress to the position of one of the greatest swimming sprinters ever has been rapid. In the 1951-52 season he had to pay his own expenses from Sydney to Melbourne to compete in the Australian championships. He did well in junior events.

Henricks trained through the subsequent winter and slowly adjusted himself from a long-distance swimmer to a sprinter. Jan. 10, 1953 he clocked 59 seconds for 110 yards. Last August, he became the first non-Japanese to win the 100 and 200 metres championships of Japan.

In Melbourne recently he turned in an amazing lone-effort 110-yard swim of 56.2 seconds for a 55-yard pool. That swim compares with the Olympic record of 57.1 for 100 metres (two feet shorter than 110 yards).

Alan Ford's 100-metre world record of 55.4 seconds was made in a 25-metre pool in June 1948. That was the advantage of three turns in 100 metres, which swimmers agree is a great advantage.

Discontent In Manitoba As PCs Call Leadership Convention June 16

WINNIPEG (CP)—A three-man race for leadership of the Progressive Conservative party in Manitoba is under way. One published report is that the leadership situation may split the party and cause formation of a new farmers' political group.

These three men have announced they are candidates to head the provincial Progressive Conservative organization:

Errick F. Willis, 58, a lawyer-farmer who has been leader since 1936 and called a June 16 leadership convention following rumblings of party discontent;

Dufferin Roblin, 36-year-old automobile dealer who charged last December that the Progressive Conservative party in Canada has failed from top to bottom and has an outmoded policy;

Lt.-Col. J. A. Ross, 60-year-old farmer and former member of Parliament who, the Independent-Liberal Winnipeg Free Press says, may lead a breakaway movement and form a farmers' party.

At this year's legislature session, the Progressive Conservatives, official Opposition in the House, presented a united front despite behind-the-scenes manoeuvring over the leadership. Only Mr. Willis was an announced candidate.

Then, at prorogation March 25, Mr. Roblin and Col. Ross announced they also will run.

Four days later The Free Press reported rumors that re-election of Mr. Willis as party head might lead to a break by the group headed by Col. Ross. It quoted Col. Ross as declining comment on these rumors but saying:

"Fear that a new movement might develop as the result of a weak Progressive Conservative party was one of the reasons I decided to run for the leadership."

Mr. Willis is a son of a former Manitoba Conservative leader, Richard G. Willis, and has led the party both as a separate party and in coalition with the Liberal-Progressives who form Manitoba's government. During the 10-year coalition he was in the cabinet and for a time was deputy premier.

LEFT COALITION

He and his party broke with the coalition in 1950, charging indecision during the Red river flood by supporters of Premier D. L. Campbell. In last year's provincial election, the Conservatives increased their strength to 12 from nine in the 57-member House. Mr. Willis represents the rural riding of Turtle Mountain.

Mr. Roblin's United Empire Loyalist ancestors came to Manitoba in 1877 and his grandfather, Sir Rodmond P. Roblin, was premier from 1900 to 1915.

A war veteran, Mr. Roblin was first elected in 1949 and the following year there was a move to draft him for the Progressive Conservative leadership. He refused to seek the post. Re-elected for the urban riding of Winnipeg South in 1953, he is regarded in Liberal quarters as one of the strongest opposition members. His studied speeches were a feature of the 1954 session.

Col. Ross was MP for Souris for 13 years until his riding was amalgamated with Brandon in redistribution. He left federal politics in favor of Walter Dinsdale of Brandon and was elected last June in the provincial rural riding of Arthur.

He is said to have majority support of Progressive Conservative members of the legislature.

More than 300 persons are expected to attend the leadership convention. Each one-member constituency sends five delegates, and multiple-member ridings in Winnipeg and St. Boniface send five delegates for each member. Members of the provincial House and the three Manitoba members of the federal House have one vote each.

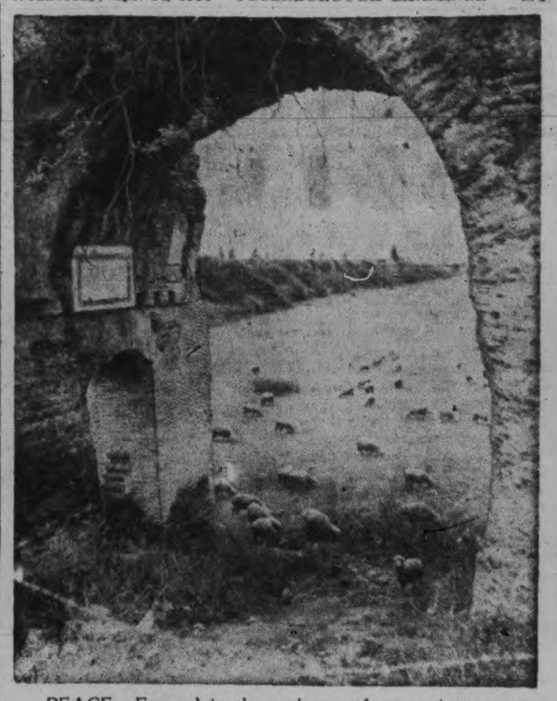
Replace NBC

NEW YORK (AP) — With Arturo Toscanini in retirement, the NBC symphony orchestra will be broken up and will be replaced on the NBC radio network next fall by the Boston symphony orchestra, it was announced Tuesday.

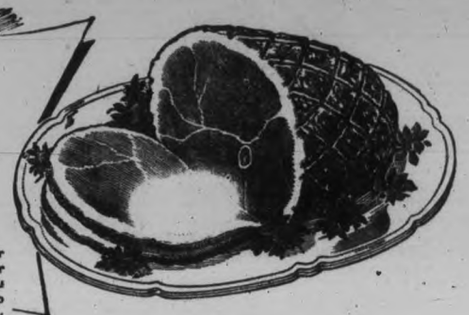


No Commitment By Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said Tuesday Canada has not been asked to make any commitment in Indo-China.

He reiterated before the Commons external affairs committee that Canada could become involved in the Indo-China war only through collective United Nations action.

In reply to Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre), he said the government has been kept informed of the talks in London between John Foster Dulles, U.S. state secretary, and Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary.



On Korea, he said Canada wants to withdraw its forces there as soon as possible. But no decision to bring home Canadian troops could be made under present circumstances.

Team Opens Toronto School

TORONTO (CP) — A man-and-wife deep-sea diving team, believed the only one in the world, is opening a diving school here.

Max Lubker is backed by a master diver's certificate and 51 years' experience in many parts of the world. Mrs. Lubker, a dainty lightweight, has topside duties of attendant and dives occasionally.

Last year she accompanied her husband on 15,000 miles of cross-country travel. She cares for Max's suit, keeps an eye on air gauges and relays instructions by earphone between her husband and workers on shore.

Max's diving began in 1902 when he was called to refloat sunken ships in the China Sea. He went down 70 feet, a feat in those days.

Only once, when working in South Africa, did he fear for his safety. A full grown octupus wound its tentacles around his legs from behind. Max drew his belt knife and slashed wildly through an inky mass. The fish let go and he continued with his work.

He was once called to dive under two feet of ice in January weather.

His record dive in Canada is 165 feet in Lake Memphremagog, Que.

Students who enrol from as far as Vancouver require excellent physical condition.

"Often a diver has to feel his way under water," he said, "and a blind man's sensitiveness to surroundings is a useful asset."

Modern Base

STOCKHOLM (CP)—Transfer of the Stockholm naval base from the harbor to islands in the Stockholm archipelago is expected to be completed in a few years. The shift involves construction of bomb-proof "tunnels" for smaller vessels, and of underground workshops.

Fresh Incidents

JERUSALEM (AP)—Five fresh incidents allegedly involving Arab infiltrators from Egyptian and Jordanian-held territory were reported by the Israelis Tuesday night. Total casualties were reported to be one Arab killed and one wounded and one Jewish farmer wounded.

Truck Collision Brings Suit For Damages

Reginald Hie of Eagle River was on the stand in county court this morning, testifying in behalf of his action for $468 against George Bolton of RR 10, Peterborough.

Mr. Hie's suit grew out of an accident on the Warsaw county road last August 4. Travelling east, he was in collision with a southbound truck, turning west and right off a concession road to the county road. Mr. Bolton is bringing a counter suit for $550.

Questioned by his counsel, W. Donald Bark, Mr. Hie testified he had been driving a three-ton gravel truck at the time of the accident. He was returning from Peterborough after delivering a load of crushed gravel.

Mr. Hie testified he was travelling on the wrong side of the road (the north side) and between 40 and 50 mph at the time of the accident. He said he was on the wrong side because he was passing a third truck.

Mr. Bolton was pulling out from the side road, where there is a stop sign, on Mr. Hie's left. The plaintiff did not see Mr. Bolton until he was 60 feet away and "then I couldn't do anything." He said he could not cut back to the south side because he would have cut off the truck he was passing. The left fronts of the two trucks were in collision.

The plaintiff is basing his suit on an estimated $300 damage to his truck and $168 in losses charged to lost time. He told Judge John deN. Kennedy he was seeking lost-time damages at the rate of $14 a day for 12 days.

Earlier, Mr. Hie had testified that he hauled six cubic yards of gravel at 50 cents a cubic yard in each load he made under contract. At the rate of 12 loads a day $36, less gas, oil, salary to his son and depreciation he estimates his net loss at $168.

PETERBOROUGH'S FIRST WOMAN to be a member of the city council Ald. Alene Holt is greeted in Montreal by His Worship Mayor Camillien Houde. The occasion was the visit of the ornamental swimmers to Canada's largest city to give demonstrations in aid of the Quebec Cancer fund.

Joseph Mackness Recalls Premier As Top Officer

Angus Macdonald, premier of Nova Scotia who died Tuesday, made many friends in the course of an active political life, but there are probably few who remember him with such affection as Joseph Mackness.

Mr. Mackness, who lives at 738 Lock St. in Peterborough was regimental sergeant-major in the First World War of the the 185th battallion, in which Mr. Macdonald, then a lieutenant, was second in command of a company. Lt. Macdonald, the sergeant-major recalls, "was a gentleman and a first class officer."

The two saw action together at the second battle of the Marne, one of the fiercest engagements of the First World War. During and after this battle, Lt. Macdonald showed "he was a good and brave officer and all the men looked up to him."

Nor did the lieutenant forget his wartime friends when he became famous, says Mr. Mackness. In the 1930's there was a dominion-provincial conference in Toronto and "Mr. Macdonald took me around personally and introduced me to all the premiers. I'll always remember that."

Angus Macdonald was the type of man who was always conscientious, feared nothing and would always stand up for his men in the army or his subordinates in public life if he thought their cases deserving."

Mr. Mackness also served with federal labor minister Milton F. Gregg, a visitor to Peterborough last week. Before being transferred to the 185th, Mr. Mackness was quartermaster of the Royal Canadian Regiment in which Mr. Gregg was serving. Mr. Gregg won a Military Cross and a Victoria Cross for his First World War service.

to go over the whole brief with them, which is what they want," Ald. Farquharson said. "We simply haven't got the time.

"It certainly is their right to address council; but I don't think they should expect us to negotiate the whole contract," he said.

"I'm not suggesting the council hasn't confidence in the negotiating committee," Ald. Dewart said. "I'm merely suggesting we extend this courtesy to them."

"I think it's a matter for clarification rather than anything else," Ald. Bill Beggs said. "They apparently think the negotiating committee didn't have power to bargain. But we did form a policy in the committee of the whole and I don't see there's anything to be gained in meeting them unless council wants to change its policy in regard to instructing the negotiating committee."

HOW VOTE WENT

When the two proposals came to a vote, Mayor Norman Graham and Ald. Art Burrows were the only two who voted against Ald. Farquharson's amendment but [illegible] Ald. Dewart [illegible] firemen state their case to the committee of the whole council, only the sponsor and Aldermen Powell, Burrows and Beggs voted in favor of it.

Subsequently, the amendment was put in the form of a new motion and carried with the votes of Aldermen Rehill, Burrows, Knox, McBride, Farquharson and Holt.

Ald Anglesey explained that a similar stand on wages was being taken in negotiations with the Federal union, representing the outdoor workers. With a few minor exceptions, the committee had recommended no changes in hours of work or wages.

"In each case we felt this year that wages should remain at the same level," he said. "It should be borne in mind that they are doing a type of work for which certain wages are being paid across the country and that's what they're getting. Their security benefits are much better than those of outdoor workers in other industries."

"Were you going to give any further consideration to non-cost items?" Ald. Beggs asked.

"There were very few changes," Ald. Anglesey said.

"I don't think among ourselves we had agreed to agree on anything," Ald. Beggs said. "I wonder if it would serve any useful purpose for the committee to draw up a list of proposed changes for council and then we can say what we think can be used in negotiating."

Ald. Anglesey suggested another meeting to discuss "fringe benefit" clauses in the new contract and Ald. Farquharson proposed the negotiating committee be given instructions on wage demands.

"Was the policy established that [illegible]"

"That's right," Ald Anglesey answered.

but he feels the "frills" and extra conveniences will pay off in customer reaction. A unique feature in this line will be a service station at the west end of the building which will sell everything but gasoline, and will provide accommodation for eight cars at a time.

MINOR REPAIR JOBS

Listing the advantages of this service, Mr. Burton pointed out that the shop would sell such varied items at seat covers, motor oil, gaskets and grease. Customers may even get minor repair jobs done while they travel about other parts of the store.

There will be "plenty of room" for cars, said Mr. Burton, sweeping his arm over the stone-pitted acreage about the building. Cars may approach the building from all four sides, and one of the major problem of the new management will be to keep the flow moving smoothly.

The main floor will be two stories. Upstairs, said Mr. Burton, stepping over some boulders in the ladies' wear section, will be such things as furniture, drapes and home furnishings. At the ground level will be appliances, clothing, styles, etc.

Stepping outside, Mr. Burton pointed to an unusual wall trim. All four walls will have large stones spaced along the mortar up to a level of about 15 feet, broken only by occasional window spaces. Above this the wall style will be light-colored bricks. One man spends his day smoothing the stones into place.

SET WORK RECORD

The new store is being built by the Foundation Co. of Canada, a Toronto firm. C. L. Griffin, foreman for this company, pointed out that work is proceeding exceptionally well and that his men "set a new record for Peterborough last month."

The new record, Mr. Griffin continued, was set by the hoisting tower, a huge machine which stretched the height of the building. In one seven-hour period last month it poured 267 cubic yards of cement.

The finance committee of city council Monday night recommended asking the utilities commission to extend the water main 900 feet north on Erskine Ave., specifically to assist in developing the city's industrial area but primarily to serve the new warehouse.

No Freedom Of Press Red Diplomat Says

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A Soviet diplomat charged in the United Nations Tuesday that the real obstacle to freedom of information is the "monopolistic" interest of such enterprises as The Associated Press, United Press, International News Service, the Hearst papers and others.

The charges were made by Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin in the 18-country economic and social council.

U.S. delegate Preston Hotchkis replied that there are no monopolies in the United States. He challenged Russia to lift restrictions on foreign correspondence if she really believes in freedom of information.

Will Ask Canadians To Switch Some Purchasing To Great Britain

TORONTO (CP) — The Dollar-Sterling Trade Council today announced that it will ask Canadians to switch some of their purchases from the United States to the United Kingdom.

James S. Duncan of Toronto, chairman of the council, announcing an intensified campaign to expand two-way trade between Canada and Britain, said the council considers it essential to continued Canadian prosperity that Canada not only maintain, but expand, exports to the traditional United Kingdom market.

"Based on last year's trade pattern, if we could transfer only seven per cent of our imports from the United States to the United Kingdom, it would eliminate Britain's trade deficit with us and put her in a much better position to buy our products. The council's purpose is to assist in this seven-per-cent transfer."

Last year, said Mr. Duncan, Canada bought from the United States goods worth $3,211,000,000, more than seven times what she bought from Britain. This had meant that Canada had a trade deficit with the United States of $758,000,000, while Britain had a trade deficit with Canada of $215,000,000.

SOUNDER BASIS

"It seems obvious," he added, "that it is not in the interest of either Canada or the United States that our trade should be so far out of balance. The seven-per-cent realignment would provide a sounder basis for future growth of mutual trade among the three countries."

The appeal of the council, an unofficial body with representation on it from various parts of Canada and from various business, professional and other groups, will go to Canadian industry and the Canadian public. It will state that goods produced in Canada should be given preference, but if the goods must be imported, "we should lean more heavily towards British sources."

Hungary Deal Concluded

LONDON (Reuters)—Nine members of a party of 22 British business men arrived from Hungary Tuesday night and reported that $9,800,000 worth of deals have been negotiated with that Communist country in textiles, chemicals, drugs and metals. They said discussion on future contracts for en- $12,- 000,000 were "carried on to an advanced stage."

He joined the secret service in 1901 and served in Washington, Portland, Ore., and Seattle. He retired in 1945.

Want Commission On Communism

OTTAWA (CP)—John Blackmore Tuesday urged the government to set up a royal commission to study how communism affects Canada.

Speaking in the budget debate, the Social Credit member for Lethbridge said communism is not a revolution against capitalism or an economic reform, but a "Turko-Mongolian-Red conspiracy" to enslave the world.

Mr. Blackmore, who placed a resolution on the Commons order paper Feb. 11 calling for establishment of a royal commission on communism and withdrew it April 9, said communism "is basically an imperialist conspiracy of eastern European Reds of an ethnic grouping possessed on Mongol and Turkic affinities . . . ."

He did not further amplify his description of communism.

However, this "Mongolian-Turkic-Red conspiracy . . . is aimed aggressively at actual physical invasion, conquest and enslavement of America." The conspiracy employed various brands of socialistic and communist ideology as a sort of sheep's-clothing to disguise the real facts beneath communism.

Identify Last Crash Victims

MOOSE JAW (CP) — Positive identification was given Tuesday to the last two bodies of 37 people killed six days ago in the mid-air collision between an RCAF training plane and a Trans-Canada Air Lines North Star.

X-rays were necessary to establish identity of TCA stewardess M. Le Quinney of Vancouver and Miss J. Finney of London, England.

The x-ray technique used by coroner Dr. J. M. Hourigan and Dr. T. C. Brown of Toronto, Red Cross identification expert, involved comparison of x-ray films taken of the victims during life with x-rays taken of the bodies. Identification is made through comparison of bone structures shown on the films.

Sealed coffins bearing remains of the crash victims moved out of the city by rail and by noon Tuesday the makeshift morgue at the Moose Jaw armory was almost empty.

Meanwhile, RCAF and TCA boards of inquiry have completed on-the-spot investigations into the crash, Canada's worst.

2 British Soldiers Awarded George Cross

LONDON (Reuters)—Two British soldiers, one of them dead, have been awarded the George Cross, Britain's second highest bravery medal, for heroism under Communist torture in Korean prisoner-of-war camps, the war office announced Tuesday night.

The awards went to fusilier Derek Godfrey Kinne, who taunted his captors through months of beatings, and Lieut. Terence Edward Waters, who died from mistreatment in Chinese Communist prison camps.

Use Hunger Strikes To Force Action

TORONTO (CP) — Hayward Avery, 74-year-old, retired lithographer, testified in Supreme Court Tuesday that he went on three hunger strikes while committed to Homewood Sanatorium, in Guelph, to force action on his case.

Mr. Avery, testifying before Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven, said his last hunger strike lasted one month around Christmas of 1950 while he subsisted only on liquids. The first of his three strikes lasted 12 days around Christmas of 1949, and the second in August, of 1950.

"I wanted a court case to bring the matter to the attention of the court and public. I was imprisoned and I couldn't see why," he testified.

In testimony Monday he said that he was committed to the sanatorium while under the influence of sedatives.

He has taken action for unstated damages against Homewood Sanatorium and the four doctors who examined him.

Blames Press For McCarthyism

NEW YORK (AP)—Publisher E. Palmer Hoyt of the Denver Post said Tuesday night the "press without research and without study did a lot to build up McCarthyism."

He added, however, that "there is still nothing wrong with this country that objective reporting with full coverage of all the facts won't correct."

Hoyt made the statements at the 1954 national awards dinner of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society.

The publisher cited examples of what he termed "responsible" press and television reporting in "the job The Associated Press is doing on the junior senator from Wisconsin. . . and the job done by Edward R. Murrow and Eric Sevareid in recent telecasts."

The Associated Press now is distributing a series of articles on Senator Joseph R. McCarthy. Murrow and Sevareid have devoted several television news shows to McCarthy.

RECORD FLIGHT—Sqdn. Ldr. Robert Christie, 30, of Vancouver stands beside the RCAF Sabre jet in which he broke the Vancouver-to-Ottawa air speed record established by the RCAF's Comet jetliner. A test pilot, Sqdn. Ldr. Christie flew the 2,298 miles from Sea Island airport at Vancouver to Ottawa's Uplands airport in three hours and 46 minutes. The previous record time set by the Comet was four hours and 25 minutes. He also established a record time for the Winnipeg-to-Ottawa leg of the flight for one hour and 51 minutes compared with two hours and 10 minutes taken by the Comet.—(CP from National Defence).

Cattle Now Come Custom Bred To Withstand Hot Climate

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

KINGSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—The King ranch of Texas is the home of a new breed of beef cattle, the beautiful, gentle, cherry-red santa gertrudis, now supplying delicious steaks to dinner tables.

These cattle were custom-built for hot climates. They turn grass into meat equally well whether the weather is hot and humid or burning hot and dry—as it usually is in south Texas.

The King ranch is one of the world's biggest. Its land in Texas alone is equal to a strip a half-mile wide and 3,000 miles long, running from the Atlantic to the Pacific. All of Holland has only three times as many windmills working to pump water.

It covers 940,000 acres in Texas, but has branched out into Pennsylvania and Kentucky and, through partnerships, Cuba, Australia and Brazil.

In this sunburned country it may take up to 30 acres of sparse grassland to support one steer. By contrast, in Florida, a single acre can support one or even two animals.

NEW U.S. BREED

More and more steaks and roasts of beef will come from santa gertrudis cattle, the first officially-recognized new breed of beef cattle developed in the United States, and the first new breed anywhere in more than a century.

Santa gertrudis cattle can gain weight on grass alone, turning grass to meat with great efficiency. Range cows weigh 1,100 to 1,200 pounds, and bulls 1,800 to 2,000 pounds at maturity. They usually average 200 pounds or more than other breeds of cattle raised under the same conditions. And the carcass yields a higher percentage of actual meat.

The santa gertrudis was developed from crossing the English shorthorn and the humpbacked brahman of India, combining desirable qualities of each breed.

The painstaking work of establishing a new breed by crossing shorthorns and brahmans began more than 40 years ago. Now many of the 60,000 head of cattle on the King ranch are santa gertrudis, and the breed has spread through half the states and some 18 foreign countries.

King ranch began auctioning santa gertrudis bulls in 1950, and in the hard, drought year of 1952 the top bull commanded $40,000.

NEW PROOF THAT MILLIONS CAN END
THE NEED FOR LAXATIVES

—find relief from constipation this safe, natural way—without the injurious effects of repeated laxative use.

With all the progress of medical science over the past 30 years, authorities say there is no longer any reason why irregularity should be our most widespread human malady.

Nor is there any reason for developing the habitual use of harsh laxatives—of dosing with one preparation after another in the vain hope of finding, in some potion or pill, the "secret" of lasting relief.

Long-continued study of the problem has shown that one of the most common causes of irregularity is lack of bulk in the diet. And when this is the case, the common-sense correction is to be found not in the drug store but in your food store!

IT HAS LONG BEEN A MEDICALLY RECOGNIZED FACT THAT NATURE HAS PROVIDED, IN THE NATURAL FOODS MEN WERE INTENDED TO EAT, ALL THE ELEMENTS NECESSARY FOR THE LIFE-LONG AVOIDANCE OF COMMON CONSTIPATION.

One of these elements is natural fibrous bulk, or vegetable cellulose, which normally and naturally aids the rhythmic process of elimination.

In no natural food is this natural bulk so ideally found as in the outer layers, or bran, of the whole wheat kernel which, as you know, is lost in modern milling.

Because of the known value of bran in promoting regularity the Kellogg Company has produced a complete, whole bran—with nothing taken away to lessen its effectiveness—sold under the name of Kellogg's All-Bran, the natural laxative cereal. How effective is All-Bran? This has been demonstrated in a series of systematic clinical studies reported in leading medical journals.

In one study, 135 people with known delayed bowel function were given one ounce of All-Bran daily for one week. They were studied clinically and with X-ray with tests made before, during and after they ate the All-Bran.

OF THE 135 PEOPLE, 107 SHOWED DEFINITE CLINICAL IMPROVEMENT IN JUST 7 DAYS.

IN A FOLLOW-UP STUDY, BETTER THAN 6 OUT OF EVERY 7 PATIENTS WHO WERE GIVEN ALL-BRAN IMPROVED.

The greatest advantage of All-Bran is that it corrects the cause of irregularity due to insufficient bulk. Chemical or drug-type laxatives, on the other hand, are intended only for overnight relief of a temporary stoppage.

When people use these products habitually—in a way that laxative makers never intended—they punish their digestive system in a way that nature never intended. Instead of correcting the cause, they often actually make their condition worse.

If you think you must take a laxative preparation occasionally, do so. But do it wisely. Read the instructions completely. AVOID EXCESSIVE USAGE. But for natural and lasting relief put your trust in nature. Just eat daily a one-ounce serving of All-Bran for breakfast and drink plenty of water.

This All-Bran plan has helped millions to re-establish and to maintain healthful regularity. Why not you?

Security Police Investigate Crew

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—Security police today investigated reported attempts by Communist agents to induce the crew to desert a British ship loading arms here for French forces in Indo-China.

Union officials refused to discuss details, but it was understood that the crew of the 7,133-ton British freighter Radnor had been offered a hide-out, accommodation and jobs in Australia if they left the ship. The Radnor is being loaded by service personnel since the refusal of dock workers to handle the cargo.

Seven of the crew are reported to have left the ship with their belongings.

Human Guinea Pigs Not Really Normal

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Are people who volunteer to be human guinea pigs in medical experiments really normal?

Drs. L. Lasagna and J. M. von Felsinger of the Harvard medical school told the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology today that he found 25 in one group of 56 male volunteers to be seriously disturbed mentally.

The doctors said the possibility of peculiar reasons for volunteering for such experiments should be considered in making assessments of human reactions to any drug under test.

PLANES DRIVE REDS INTO OPEN—Following bombing and strafing attacks by French planes on a Communist sector of Dien Bien Phu, Indo-China, survivors of the bombardment run out of the fields to surrender to the surrounding French troops.

Health Minister Connolly Sworn In As Premier

HALIFAX (CP)—Health Minister Harold Connolly, 53, was sworn in Tuesday night as premier of Nova Scotia's 15th administration since confederation and successor to the late Angus L. Macdonald.

Premier Connolly told the legislature immediately after Lieutentnat-Governor Alistair Fraser administered the oath of office that he regarded his tenure as temporary "and in due course the Nova Scotia Liberal Association will call a convention at which time a permanent leader will be selected."

The convention was a near-certainty for late summer or early fall.

KEEPS THREE POSTS

Mr. Macdonald died early Tuesday after an illness of only a few days. The death of the builder of Canada's Second World War navy evoked warm tribues from Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent on down.

Mr. Connolly will retain for the time being at least, three of the 11 cabinet posts, the premiership and the highways and health portfolios.

There were no cabinet changes. The other eight ministers went through the traditional procedure of being re-sworn by Lieutenant Governor Fraser.

BY-ELECTION NECESSARY

Mr. Macdonald's death makes necessary a by-election in his riding of Halifax South but there is no indication of the date. The constituency in the past has voted overwhelmingly Liberal.

The late premier's body will lie in state in the storied red chamber of Province House from 2 p.m. Thursday to Monday morning when a state funeral will be accorded the man who fought and won four provincial general elections and led Nova Scotia's Liberals from apathy to ascendancy in 21 years.

Mr. Connolly was editor of the Halifax Chronicle and Star before merger with the Herald and Mail and has had a political career which in some ways paralleled that of the man he succeeds.

Both represented Halifax ridings; Mr. Connolly in Halifax North, Mr. Macdonald in Halifax South. Each entered politics as comparatively young men; Mr. Connolly at 34, Mr. Macdonald at 43. Mr. Connolly is a Roman Catholic and so was Mr. Macdonald.

Driver Bears Full Blame Must Pay $386

Clifford James Keene, Havelock clerk, on Tuesday afternoon was awarded $386.81 damages against Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Metcalfe of RR. 4 Norwood in a civil action brought against the Metcalfes as a result of a two-car collision last July 25.

Judge John de N. Kennedy presiding in county court, found that Mrs. Joyce Metcalfe, driver of the car in which her husband was a passenger, ran into the rear end of Keene's car.

He ruled that her negligent driving was the sole cause of the accident.

Evidence was that Keene had been out for an afternoon drive with a woman friend and was travelling north on Highway 45, a mile south of Norwood, when his car was struck in the rear by the Metcalfe car and bunted about 140 feet north along the highway. It received $386.81 damages.

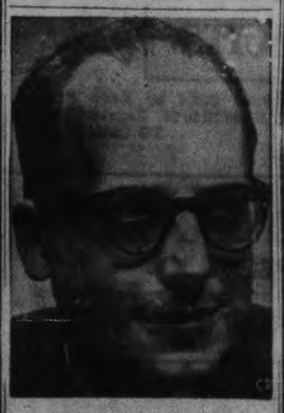
Mr. and Mrs. Metcalfe, the defendants, had their counterclaim of $57.75 damages dismissed by Judge Kennedy.

The defendants claimed that Keene swung to the west as though he was about to make a left turn into a laneway some 25 feet north of the point of impact; then he suddenly turned back to the left side of the road and Mrs. Metcalfe was unable to avoid him.

However Judge Kennedy found Mrs. Metcalfe negligent on three counts:

1. She failed to observe the "elementary duty" of making sure she was able to safely overtake and pass the Keene car;
2. She failed to blow her horn;
3. She attempted to pass the car ahead on the right side.

The circumstances of the accident were such that the onus was on her to prove that she was not negligent, Judge Kennedy ruled. And she failed to do so. He praised the defendants' counsel, Robert Carley, with making the best of a difficult case.



Don Bark was counsel for Keene.

10 Escape

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—The captain and nine-man crew of the motor vessel Cornwall II abandoned the ship in roaring seas Monday and rowed to safety to Grand Bank, Nfld. Captain Frank Collins ordered the 100-ton, coal-carrying ship abandoned after her engine failed and she sprang a leak.

Dusted After H-Blast

TOKYO (AP)—Three Japanese whaling trawlers today were reported dusted from 880 miles away by the big hydrogen blast in the Marshalls March 26. The ships were home-bound from the Antarctic at that time. The newspaper Asahi said that none of the crews was reported affected.

TO JUDGE PLAYS—Herbert Whittaker, Toronto Globe and Mail drama critic, will adjudicate the 16th annual Canadian playwriting competition sponsored by the Ottawa Little Theatre workshop. There are some 67 plays in the competition. Last year Mr. Whittaker was presented the Canadian drama award for his services to the Canadian theatre. He has been invited to attend the British Drama League conference this year as North American representative.

Sees Christian Brotherhood Strike Cure

OTTAWA (CP)—The Rev. Dan McIvor Tuesday offered Christian brotherhood as a cure for the problem of strikes.

"I do not mean partial Christianity," said Mr. McIvor, 81, a United Church of Canada clergyman and Liberal member for Fort William.

"I mean the real, genuine practice of Christian brotherhood will be the cure for strikes, and until we get that I do not think any other plan will really work."

MIGHT NOT WORK

Mr. McIvor, speaking in the Commons budget debate, said profit-sharing has been suggested as a cure for industrial disputes. But that might not work with single industries. In one case he knew of in a single industry, production increased but there was no profit.

Some labor leaders had opposed a Christian approach to labor problems.

"Notwithstanding some of those labor leaders, a cure can be found. If members take it to heart and think it through and through we shall find a way."

HONORS COMMANDER

Mount Allenby, 9,500-foot peak in Alberta, was named after the British field marshal Lord Allenby.

HORSING AROUND — A man's dream came true for Steve Allen, television comedian, as he became a charioteer with three lovely "ponies" to pull him around a New York hotel. High jinks were part of New York Publicists Guild Ball.

Youth Changes Statement About Murder

MONTREAL (CP) — James Rogers, 22, of Montreal, Tuesday repudiated a statement in which he allegedly accused Frank Battaglia, 36, of Oakville, Ont., of the murder of Charles Wagner, whose body was found in the bottom of a creek at nearby St. Mathieu de Laprairie in March 1953.

Rogers, who is co-defendant with Battaglia on the murder charge, said the statement was "forced" from him by police "by threats of violence."

The statement, introduced in court by detective lieutenant Ubald Legault, head of the provincial police homicide squad in Montreal, accused Battaglia of the shooting after a quarrel with Wagner.

The jury was withdrawn during testimony on the statement. Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure is expected to rule today on its validity as evidence.

Earlier in the day, Dr. Jean-Marie Roussel, provincial medico-legal expert said Wagner was still alive when he was thrown into the creek. He died later of drowning.

DEEP SPOT

Greatest depth in the Atlantic ocean is 30,246 feet, north of Puerto Rico.

Brings Ship In Port Earlier

MONTREAL (CP)—River pilot Arthur DeVillers brought an ocean-going ship into Montreal this year earlier than ever before, but it probably will be the last time he'll take part in the famous annual race.

"I'm getting too old for this kind of thing," the veteran of 44 years on the St. Lawrence river said after the 9,700-ton passenger-cargo liner, Manchester Spinner, docked safely March 30.

The opening, bettering by three days the arrival last year of the Seaboard Star, was the fourth time Mr. DeVillers piloted a ship to win the coveted gold cane, awarded annually by the national harbors board.

The veteran pilot brought the ship from Quebec to Montreal and set a record second only to that of Andre Gauthier, senior pilot on the run. Mr. Gauthier has piloted five gold-cane winners during his career.

"This year's trip was dramatic but easy," said Mr. DeVillers.

"There was lots of ice in the river and holding to the shore—I don't think a ship has ever come up before when there was so much ice in the river."

How Many Can Man Have?

By WARREN WHITE

SINGAPORE (Reuters) — How many wives should a man be allowed to have?

Should girls be given in marriage before they are even born?

Should a man be able to divorce a wife simply by sending her back to her parents?

These are some of the questions being debated by the multi-racial public of this British colony.

British colonial law carefully evades such issues, which could conflict with ancient Chinese and Moslem customs and Hindu caste laws.

The subjects of controversy, the Chinese, Malay and Indian women, have shown themselves sharply divided about suggested legislation to define their status.

It is customary among Chinese in Singapore for men to take as many wives as they please.

Moslems are loosely bound by custom to a maximum of four wives at one time.

POLYGAMY 'NATURAL'

When the Singapore Women's Council proposed a "one man, one wife" bill, the newspaper Free Press came out with a headline reading "Hands Off Our Husbands —say Chinatown Wives."

Miss Lucy Tan, a journalist, said: "Polygamy is natural. What would be forbiden by law could be achieved by stealth."

A bill to be introduced in the Singapore legislative council soon aims at making 16 the minimum age for marriage.

It is not uncommon here for Chinese, Indian and Malay girls to be married even before they reach puberty. More rare in modern Singapore, but also not uncommon, are arrangements between families for girls to be betrothed even before they are born.

The Movie Column

Frightened Girl Headliner Of Big Show

By BOB THOMAS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Six years ago a frightened little dancer played a night club here as one of a troupe. Today Eartha Kitt is the headliner at the same spot—and still frightened.

The Eartha Kitt show at El Rancho Vegas is the top ticket in this fabulous town. The sultry songstress' records are selling in the millions. She is the star of a current movie hit, "New Faces." She has enough offers from TV, movies, niteries and the stage to keep her busy for a decade.

But she's scared.

"It wasn't so bad in the theatre in New York, because I was accustomed to the theatre," she says. "But when I played the Mocambo (where she scored her first big hit) I was terrified. And when I opened here I was so frightened I didn't think I would be able to go on."

INTIMATE AS A BOUDOIR

She's no beauty, but she has a fascinating, lively face, which can range from a savage look to one of tenderness. She prowls around the stage with a feline grace. Her songs are as intimate as a wire-tapped boudoir.

For much of her success she can thank the Los Angeles city council. Certain council members objected to her performance at a banquet here for the king and queen of Greece last November. The mayor also chimed in that the songs seemed too racy for royal ears. The king, on the other hand, said he and his wife were delighted.

"There is no doubt that the council gave my career the big push," said Eartha, who was nevertheless abashed by the whole affair. "People began buying my records to see if this girl was as bad as they said."

BIGGEST SHIP

World's largest liner, the Queen Elizabeth, is 1,031 feet long with tonnage of 86,673.

ANY OFFERS?—Spring floods from melting snow and heavy rains turn this Cornwall building sub-division into a miniature lake. Levels are begining to lower and the mile-wide lake is expected to drain into the earth in about a week.—(CP Photo).

Exotic Dances Showing Culture Of Island Presented For Royal Couple

COLOMBO, Ceylon (Reuters)—Ceylonese dancers, spinning and leaping in a kaleidoscopic display of color, Tuesday night provided Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh with the most exotic show of their round-the-world Commonwealth tour.

Nearly 200 dancers and musicians took part in the special theatre performance arranged by the Arts Council of Ceylon to show the visiting monarch some of the traditional culture forms of this island.

Male Udakki dancers, their bare chests adorned with beads and shell designs and wearing tight trousers under white sarongs, beat small drums shaped like hour-glasses as they twirled to the nasal chanting of the choir.

Kandayan dances, among the most classic of all Ceylonese dancing, and the Raban dance, where the performers spin small drums at the end of thin steel rods, seemed to hold the royal couple enthralled.

An Oriental ballet told of the first pilgrimage to sri pada, the holy mountain near Colombo where Adam is said in Ceylonese mythology to have come after his dismissal from Eden. It was accompanied by an off-stage commentary supplementing the mime of the men and women dancers.

A relief from the classic forms was provided by dancers dressed as demons in grotesque costumes, flames spouting from their mouths as they leaped about the darkened stage.

Of Interest to Women

A THREE-PIECE WASHABLE OUTFIT fashioned from durable denim. Red, white and blue stripes, like the shirt, plus white stitching, are used to highlight the cuffs and pockets.

Men's Wear Returning To More Elegant Theme

The recent suggestion that men's clothing "return to elegance theme" has been well accepted by manufacturers and mills.

The removal of drabness has resulted in a rash of dandy duds for the debonair man.

It's expected that the long-time conservative Canadian won't eat up all the fancy fashions . . . but also obvious by store displays and promotions that he'll nibble at a number of them.

Starting at the shoes, this Summer will see nylon mesh in men's footwear as well as women's. Unusual effects have been achieved with this fabric and the look of tweed adds a smart touch to sport togs. There will be novelty toe and vamp treatments as well as combinations of different leathers and colors.

Warm weather offers an excuse to show off the co-ordinated casual wear that's been designed for both smartness and hard wear.

New slacks not only hold their crease but are spot-resistant, moth proof and won't wrinkle. Sport shirts come in matching and contrasting colors, patterned and plain, and often have matching ties.

WHITE ON WHITE

A new dress shirt has a white on white pattern. Like most modern-day shirts, it has a stabilized non-shrink finish.

In the sleepwear departments may be found light-weight pyjamas with half sleeves.

Bright colours and bold patterns are no longer restricted to the golf course. Tartan walking shorts will be seen in town as well as country. Windbreakers and sport jackets are often reversible and feature plenty of contrast on yokes, cuffs and pockets.

Whereas khaki might be a new Summer shade in women's wear, men will forsake it in favour of pale blue and tan in denim sport clothes. Some terrycloth robes put Joseph's coat to shame, as do T-shirts which are no longer considered in the gym class.

A fashion accessory steadily gaining in popularity is the waistcoat manufactured for casual wear in corduroy, flannel and wool tartan, or for formal wear in brocade and tie silk.

Tartan is chosen by the younger generation for the extra jacket, too. But the latest to appear is the flannel or worsted jacket flecked with a silver lurex thread. This has already been seen in sport shirts and it is expected to make its debut in top-coats this fall.

And if the fall fabrics don't appeal to all men, it's doubted whether many could resist at least looking at them, specially with colours like canvas-back tan, mallard blue, ruffled grouse and partridge brown.

BOTTLE-FED BABIES

If your baby is bottle-fed, be sure to watch little bowels closely. Mother's milk has a natural laxative effect which helps take care of baby's need. Lacking this, a bottle-fed baby often gets fretty, feverish and suffers constipation and upset stomach. Let Baby's Own Tablets help you keep baby's bowels on schedule—sweeten upset stomach. Used with confidence by mothers for more than fifty years. No "sleepy" stuff—no dulling effect. Equally good for simple fever, constipation, restlessness and fretfulness resulting from irregularity at teething time, and other minor ills. Get Baby's Own Tablets today at your druggists.

Canadian Women Lack Cultural Life British Immigrant Margaret Clark Tells C.P.

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—When it comes to emigrating to Canada, it's the woman who pays.

That is the reasoned view of Mrs. Margaret Clark, a Scotswoman who went to Canada, farmed on the Prairies, started a kindergarten school in Saskatoon and also lived in Winnipeg and Regina.

Mrs. Clark, now back in Britain, was asked by The Canadian Press for her views on Canada. In a written reply she said she considers it will be many years before Canada is mature enough to offer women a life that is broadly cultural rather than universally provincial.

SAYS WIVES UNHAPPY

"In every case of emigration that I know of," she says, "the wife is very unhappy and either conceals it as well as she can at present because of the opportunities offered to her husband, or cannot conceal it and affects the whole family."

Unlike the malcontent minority found among any group of migrants, Mrs. Clark is neither disgruntled nor embittered. She came back from Canada for personal reasons. She admits some types of women—those particularly interested in the domestic arts or outdoor sports—may be all right wherever they go.

"The unhappy wives I mean are living in all parts of Canada—in Vancouver, Montreal, Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Regina and Kingston, in the great cities and in small university towns. They are all women whose outlook is sophisticated and who are used to a broad cultural background to their lives."

"By this I mean appreciation of beauty in any form, interest in the world and other people in it, and friends with the same kind of interests. Even in remote parts of Britain, it is taken for granted one can have friends with these tastes and who understand for example the use of an object simply because it is useful or practical."

SOCIAL DRAWBACKS

Two disturbing aspects of Canadian life were lack of privacy and the attitude of "nice" women to drink.

"In the first case people 'pop in' or visit no matter what you are doing, and in the second case the social advantages and art of drinking in moderation are not commonly recognized. I realize both are the result of the pioneering days, but it will take a few more years for Canada to mature in these things.

"Personally, I learned a great deal in Canada—to be adaptable, for instance, and to be a good cook. But no one tried to lern anything from me nor indeed was anyone even interested in anything outside her own way of life. I very soon found it was better not to mention my previous interests, as Canadians only thought I was shooting a line. Other women have had similar experiences—I could retell them by the dozen."

There was one exception — a social workers' group in Saskatoon—but that was a professional group whose job was to be interested in others.

HAS NO GRUDGES

In recounting her experiences, Mrs. Clark acknowledged the dangers of generalization and stressed that she bears no grudges whatever. She now lives in Ickenham, Midlesex, "40 minutes by tube from London." She gave this parting tip:

"Let young men look to Canada, but let them look very young and alone. They will be able to make better use of their opportunities and be happier in the long run if they marry in Canada after they have become established."

omestic Tyranny Drives Hubby To Another Woman

AR MISS DIX: Could you a few words on the folly of e tying a husband down so letely that ultimate rebel was the only possible result? husband was almost perfect— vs remebering special occa- with flowers or gifts, un- ng with compliments, devoted s in-laws, who adore him, ing every whim of his insat- wife. erything they own, everything did, was of her choosing. He t permitted to attend his h, to join a lodge, to go on ng trips with his brother, to his parents unless his wife too. He humored her good edly, but eventually turned other woman for the admir- a doncideration he did not t home. He tells his wife he's ng and so confident is she r hold on him that she never doubts his word. I happen to be the "other woman." Our relationship is purely platonic, though I likke the man very much, and I know if I hadn't accepted his friendship someone else would have with, perhaps, different results. Certainly, had he been accorded his rightful place in his home he never would have strayed.

This story is not exaggerated—if anything it's understated in spots and the outcome is unpredictable. I hope is may serve to remind other women how selfishness may affect a good husband.

H. T.

RESTRAINED AUTHORITY

ANSWER: The wise women, in any relationship, are those who know when to restrain and when to relax authority or leadership. The wise mother holds her children with reins that can be slacked when necessary; the wise wife keeps her husband without suffocating him.

"Bonds of matrimony" is not a mere figure of speech, but a significant expression of the martial state. The bonds, however, should be those of mutual love and respect, not of subjugation by one party or the other. The wife, in this case, has certainly lost her husband's love and respect and is well on the way to losing her security and prestige—which, apparently, she values most. Her spouse is awake at last, and it won't be long before his rebellion becomes quite evident. Women who place so little value on good husbands certainly don't deserve to keep them. You have drawn the picture very well and I hope it does deter other wives from a false sense of security in their unrelenting authority.

DEAR MISS DIX: For the past two months I have been going with one of the finest boys I ever met. He is 25, I am 18. He's my first beau, so I'm a little uncertain concerning certain questions. He comes to see me three or four times a week and is exceptionally kind and considerate. He likes my family and they like him. The same goes for his family. Here is the problem. He has never told me he cares for me. Everything indicates that he does, but I don't know for sure.

LOLA

ANSWER: Since everything the boy does clearly show that he cares for you, I think you're being a bit foolish and hasty worrying so much about his feelings. Two months isn't really a very long acquaintance and he probably just wants to be dead sure before committing himself. Do stop fretting and be thankful the good Lord sent you such a fine friend.

DEAR MISS DIX: When I got married I had absolutely nothing, not even a decent coat. I left a home that was cheerless, completely devoid of mother love, for a fine husband and home. Now, whenever I see my mother she does nothing but run down my marriage. She can see nothing but hte wrong side of life and to her everybody is evil. Is there any cure for her?

C. R.

ANSWER: God often does work miracles with people who have acquired, or been born with, dispositions like this. Your only recourse is prayer. Human agencies can do little or nothing with these sorry folks. If your mother's influence is hurting your family, it would be best to curb the contacts between the two households.

GOURD DEED FOR THE DAY—Like operators of sewage disposal plants all over the country, Roy Binder, at Hays, Kan., is plagued by pesy psychoda flies. They snicker at DDT. But wrens, their natural enemy, really destroy them. The plot: Binder harvested a big crop from his garden last fall. He decided that if wren had attractively designed and furnished homes, they would come in greater numbers this summer and enjoy family picnics, with the psychoda fly as the main dish. So he made wren houses out of his gourds, painted them in attractive colors and hung them all around the grounds.

Delivers Fine Message To Trinity Aux.

"The faith of the Easter message is Christ a living Presence and a living Power" declared the Rev. Gilbert Smith, minister of St. Giles' Presbyterion church, in a forceful talk on "The Easter Message," Monday evening at the meeting of Elizabeth Parker auxiliary at Trinity United church.

Mr. Smith spoke of Easter as a time of new life, when there is a distinct break in nature, when people plan redecorating their homes to give them a new look, and that it is a time of new beginning represented by the egg from which new life comes. "But, the greatest emphasis lies in the spiritual message of the Cross when Christ died for our sins that we might be free." The minister described Good Friday as a day of defeat, despair and a lost cause but that the Cross was only part of the Christian message and that Easter Sunday with its thrill of new life and resurrection is the climax of the Christian religion. He stated that without it there would be no New Testament in our Bible. And he further stated that the risen Christ gave the disciples a burning conviction that they were not alone and that He was a living and transforming Presence among them and that with that conviction they spread the message across country to the gates of Rome. He said that because of the Easter message our religion is a living religion that has carried on down through the years, the conviction of a living Presence and a living Power.

Mr. Smith claimed that the Easter message has robbed death of its terrors and that because Christ tasted death for us He opened a corridor into a richer life and put a song in our hearts and a message on our lips for the Lord God Omnipotent.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Broiled Steak On Special-Purpose Menu

"I'll bet anything mother's mother's readers will hear about this pie."

I quote Marianne.

She and Herbie had invited his buddy Don and Don's fiance Lois to dinner and I was to make an apple pie, and Marianne and Herbie were to buy and cook the steak and the rest of the dinner.

Apple pie seems a simple enough thing to promise, but I couldn't find decent Spy apples in our city and when my cooking reputation is at stake I have to have spys. So I wandered through the store looking for other fruits that would do and after much cogitation decided on frozen blueberries—47c for 11 ounces.

Would 11 ounces of blueberries fill my pie plate, inside measurements of which are 8½x1¼ inches? I did not think so. I usually add a little lemon juice and rind to blueberry pie filling as you know, but wanted something to extend those blueberries, so I added the pulp of one large navel orange and omitted the lemon entirely. It was good, so I'm passing it on to you, with my usual modesty.

THE MENU:

Broiled Steak
Catsup
Stuffed Baked Potatoes
Fresh Frozen Peas
Olives Radishes
Carrot Strips
Blueberry Pie
Gruyere Cheese
Coffee

STUFFED BAKED POTATOES

This is an exceptionally good way to use large old potatoes. Bake 1 large potato each, scrubbed eating clean and bake at 450 deg. Fahr. until very tender — about 1 hour at this temperature. Cut slice from top about 3 inches in diameter, scoop out centres, and mash with hot whole milk—for 5 potatoes I used 2-3 cup, and 3 tablespoons butter and I don't know how much salt. Mash until smooth. Refill potato skins, piling them high, sprinkle with old grated cheese and some paprika and put back in oven to heat through and brown a little.

EMEM'S BLUEBERRY PIE

(with frozen blueberries)

One package of frozen blueberries (these were very large—some were ½-inch in diameter), 2-3 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon quick-cooking tapioca, the pulp from 1 large navel orange, trimmed free of all skin and membrane and cut into ½-inch pieces. Mix this together and turn into pastry lined pie plate (see measurements above), put on well-greased top crust, seal edges carefully and flute with thumb and finger. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes, then reduce heat to 375 deg. Fahr. until crust is baked and golden and juice bubbles through gashes. This pie should be made at least two hours before serving time, to permit the filling to set enough to cut without running.

I could not distinguish the pieces of orange in the filling, but their elusive flavor added to the blueberries was definitely a "find" for me.

QUESTION: My cream puffs are just grand but my daughter is not fond of whipped cream filling, and asked if I could make a marshmallow filling... could you help me? Clarissa.

ANSWER:

MARSHMALLOW CREAM FILLING

Cook together ¾ cup white sugar, 1-3 cup corn syrup and ¼ cup water in a saucepan until it will spin a thread when dropped from tip of spoon (240 deg. Fahr.) Remove from heat and immediately add 16 marshmallows cut in quarters. Beat until blended. Pour this hot syrup over 2 stiffly beaten egg whites, while you beat constantly until mixture is thick and smooth.

Men To Wear Gala Apparel

History repeats itself, so they say, and the colorful days of The Cavaliers may well return this summer.

By all reports, it looks like the Canadian male population will turn out in the most gala garb seen in many a season.

Conservatism will be stored with the winter overcoat and men are about to steal the show with such fancy frivolities as embroidered weskits, tartan walking shorts, striped nylon shirts and sport jackets with metallic touches. Interesting neckwear shows ties dyed to match shirts, while others are tipped with matching shirt fabric. Belts, too, come forward in bright tartans.

Women, who have done their share of pilfering from pa's wardrobe, will no doubt rejoice in this glad news.

The introduction of color in everything from pastel tinted underwear to brightly hued outerwear opens new avenues for gift buying, too. And with Father's Day not too far away on the calendar it means there's hope of changing his habit's habit.

Men, too are showing a new interest in jewellery. The vogue for French cuffs has brought about many new designs in links. Various hobbies have influenced their design as well as that of rings, collar clips and tie clasps. Another return to yesterday is the increased popularity of key chains and watch fobs.

But one thing that might not be welcomed is the attachment to rhinestone studded socks and fur bow ties.

It's felt that men north of '49 will only go so far in '54.

Bringing Up Baby

Hints Collected by Mrs Dean Gurlen (Mother of 5)

A salute to an inventive mother for this absorbing "bathing baby." apron! Take two out-size, used bath towels. Use one horizontally for skirt and sew tapes at each end. Cut other towel in half. Bind rough edges. Use one half for bib; add a tape for neck halter. Cut remaining half into two large patch pockets and attach to front of skirt. Presto! You've a protective, practical apron. Pockets make handy repositories for baby oil, powder, cotton, etc.

"Solid" start. When baby's ready for his first solid food (usually cereal), get him off to a good start with Gerber's Cereals. Most tots take to these mild-tasting, easy-to-digest cereals instantly. When mixed with milk, formula or other liquids they have the creamy texture that feels extra-nice, is easy to swallow, too! Gerber's Cereals are enriched with calcium, B-Vitamins and the supplementary iron babies need shortly after birth. For variety, rotate all five: Rice, Barley, Oatmeal, Wheat, and Mixed Cereal.

On the spot. Try this for removing milk spots when your darling disregards the rug or sofa. Sponge spot as usual. Sprinkle on a bit of baking soda. When soda dries, brush or vacuum the spot away.

New products news! Gerber's have now introduced 6 Strained Meats and 3 Junior Meats to their wide variety of foods for baby. Men's Shirts See Return Pastel Colors

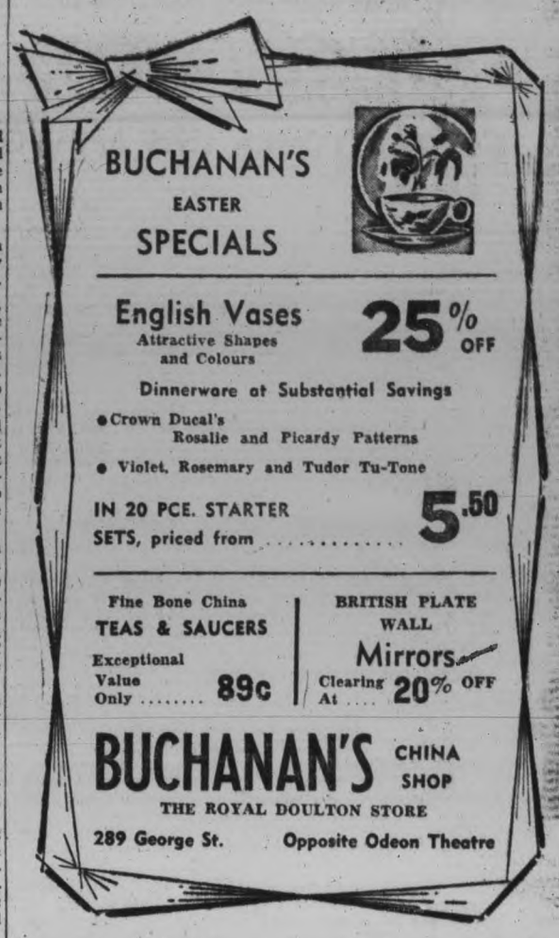
Light is the word for Spring and Summer shirts, in both color and weight. Air weaves are number one on the list and will see a man through the warm weather season in correct style and cool comfort.

Pique is back for a second run by popular demand and chambray will also play a return engagement.



Skipdents, lenos, batistes, lawns, voiles and a new batiste oxford are present in every conceivable manner; not only in the staple models but in the style collars as well. Half-sleeve business shirts will also be increasingly popular this season.

The return of the pastel-colored shirt is an important development on the style scene. The colors most in demand will be blue, gray, yellow and pink, with the latter two bidding for top position among the style shades.

However, any color a man can wear, he's almost sure to find in a shirt this Spring—from subtle muted shades right up the spectrum to bright, rich tones. Solids will continue popular and slim stripes will be a much a part of the Spring scene as dependable white.

Comfort combines with fashion in the neat, soft-fitting collar styles that come to a gently rounded or midly sharp point, and a man can call his own shots when it comes to the button-down, pin-down eyelet or plain short spread collar style.

The popularity of featherweight fabrics is also reflected in the sports shirt picture. With the exception of some of the staple gabardines, most of the casual shirts are featuring light or ventilated cloths.

Find Dulles Pleased With Talks

Believes Greater Unity Can Prevent More Serious Disaster

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — State Secretary Dulles returned to the United States today and said he was "well satisfied" with the results of his talks in London and Paris on Indo-China.

He added that he believes the Geneva conference will advance the cause of freedom in southeast Asia.

Dulles termed the Indo-China war and the general situation in Asia a "disaster," and "this disaster would be compounded if Indo-China were lost."

Dulles read a statement to reporters on his arrival at the Syracuse airport from Paris en route to his hideaway retreat on Duck island in Lake Ontario.

He said a more serious disaster "can be prevented if the free nations are united—that unity of purpose depends on full understanding."

Dulles said the possibility of a 10-nation alliance similar to NATO, proposed for the southeastern Pacific, "has been enhanced by my talks."

The proposed alliance would aim to stem Communist expansion in Indo-China and the rest of southeast Asia.

COMMON PURPOSE

Dulles discussed the matter this week in London with Foreign Secretary Eden and in Paris with Foreign Minister Bidault.

Dulles said "our common purpose" was set forth in joint statements issued after each of those talks.

He pointed out that Thailand already had agreed to participate in the proposed 10-nation alliance and "now President Magsaysay of the Philippines has indicated acceptance in principle.

Dulles said he believed the proposed 10-nation alliance would head off Communist ambition to control southeast Asia.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—John L. Beaird celebrated his birthday by taking a wife, his second. Beaird and Mrs. Bertie Welch, 69, scorned an elevator and walked up three flights of stairs to the marriage license bureau. Beaird said he and Mrs. Welch had been sweethearts for 20 years.

Find 5 Boys Locked In Freight Car

WELLAND (CP)—Missing since early last evening, five boys were restored to their families here early today when a railway car checker discovered them locked in a freight car.

The boys, Ronald Lemelin and Herve Lamontagne, 12, and Paul Jones, Gaston Corriveau and John Babbin, 13, were playing in the car in the Canadian National Railway yards here when the door jammed shut.

When darkness set in and they failed to show up, worried parents instituted a search of the neighborhood, including freight cars, without results. The search continued throughout the night.

Elsie Breitenbach, 20, heard the youngsters banging on the door of the car while checking in the yards this morning.

Hustled to bed at their homes, they were believed none the worse for their 12-hour confinement.

Freight Hits Automobile, Three Killed

Two Sons See Mother, Father In Crossing Smash

CORNWALL (CP)—A mother and her 14-year-old son and another man were killed in a railway crossing smash 12 miles east of here late Wednesday as the mother's two other sons looked on from the family home 75 feet away.

Dead are Mrs. William Watson, 42 and her 14-year-old son, Groulx, and Harvey Martin, 45.

Mrs. Watson's husband, William, was brought to hospital here with serious injuries. Hospital authorities reported today his condition is unchanged.

SAW TRAIN STRIKE

Donald Watson, 10, and his brother, Roger, 9, were just leaving the family home 75 feet from the crossing to go fishing when they saw their father's car cross in front of the speeding east-bound Canadian National Railways freight train.

"I thought dad was going to make it," Donald said today, "then the train hit the back of the car with a terrific smash."

The victims lived in the village of Wales, where both Watson and Martin were stationed as section hands for the Canadian National Railways. The crash occurred at a side road, CNR crossing and police said the wig-wag warning signals were still operating when they arrived on the scene.

Bodies of the dead were scattered in a ditch along the right-of-way. Watson was pried from the car wreckage. The train smashed into the auto into an unrecognizable pile of junk.

The train, en route to Montreal from Toronto on the main CNR line, was held up for more than an hour. It was in charge of [illegible] conductor J. T. Morris of Montreal and the engineer was Joseph Holander of Montreal.

Vietminh Troops Entrenched On French Lifeline

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—The French high command announced tonight that Communist-led Vietminh troops had succeeded in entrenching themselves in the northern part of the main airstrip of the fortress of Dien Bien Phu only 2,400 feet from the heart of the bastion.

An earlier announcement said the rebels had been driven off after blowing up the northern end of the airstrip in a night attack.

The Communist-led attackers got within 100 yards of the French defenders in the hard-pressed northwest corner of the fortress where the airstrip lies. With bangalore torpedoes—high explosives on the end of bamboo sticks—they managed to rip up a big portion of the airstrip's steel matting.

The rebels have poured tons of artillery shells onto the field and put up a curtain of anti-aircraft fire to keep planes from landing. The French have repaired the field each time in the hope of eventually being able to get planes in.

Meanwhile, all supplies are being parachuted in by American-supplied transports.

USING HUGE GUNS

The French today revealed for the first time that huge 155-millimetre cannons have been set up inside the fortress along with the 75-mm and 105-mm pieces. All equipment defending the enemy-surrounded fortress had been flown in or dropped by parachute.

The French did not reveal either their own or the enemy's losses in driving off the infiltrating Vietminh from the airfield.

Aside from the night action at the airstrip, the French reported no other fighting at Dien Bien Phu.

Report Body May Be Frank Battaglia

MONTREAL (CP)—The body of a man was found in the east end of Montreal today and there were unconfirmed reports it may be that of Frank Battaglia, released Wednesday in the midst of his trial for murder.

First reports did not indicate whether the man had been shot or beaten.

The body was found at Boyce and Theodore streets. Morgue officials said there was a suspicion the man might be Battaglia.

Both Battaglia, 39, from Oakville, Ont., and James Rogers, 22, were freed of murder charges in Court of Queen's bench when Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure ruled verbal statements they allegedly made to police were inadmissable.

Battaglia and Rogers claimed statements were forced from them by police. They were accused of the shooting and drowning of Charles Wagner, 26, a waiter, more than a year ago.

Rogers was held in custody overnight and charged today with failing to appear at preliminary hearing last September on a charge of false pretences. He was released on bail on this charge.

Found 70 Cases Of Highways Payroll Padding

TORONTO (CP) — Fictitious names appeared on the payrolls in the Fort William division of the highways department during the last two or three years, Charles A. Robeins, chief engineer of maintenance in the department testified Wednesday.

Mr. Robeins, called before the Ontario legislature's select committee investigating alleged irregularities in the highways department, said at least 70 cases of payroll padding and other "minor" irregularities were discovered by his investigators. They involve day laborers working on maintenance projects in the northwestern division.

Before he could answer a question put by Albert Wren (Lib.-Lab.—Kenora) as to the amount of money involved, committee chairman Kelso Roberts (PC—Toronto St. Patrick) suggested Mr. Robeins not give a reply as it might affect any proposed court action.

Mr. Wren agreed. "I just wanted to get on record that there were irregularities," he said.

Mr. Robeins said that in the departmental staff of from 4,000 to 5,000 men "there is always a percentage of those who cause some trouble."

Have Copies Of Letters Calling Scientist Informer

NEW YORK (AP)—Congressional committees today were reported to have copies of two 1949 letters in effect accusing Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer of attempting to "buy immunity" for himself "by turning informer" on Communists.

Author of the letters was said to be Dr. Robert Condon, former head of the U.S. Bureau of Standards who once was described by a congressional committee as the "weakest link" in U.S. atomic security. Condon in sworn testimony repeatedly denied all such charges against him.

The report of the letters was published today by the New York Journal American and the New York Daily News, which said copies are in the hands of three congressional committees.

The Daily News said after Oppenhimer appeared before the House committee on un-American activities in a closed session in 1949, some of his testimony leaked out and was published in the Rochester, N.Y., Times-Union.

Oppenheimer allegedly had identified Dr. Bernard Peters, a student of Dr. Oppenheimer in atomic matters and then a faculty member at the University of Rochester, as a Communist.

"A GOOD CITIZEN"

Condon subsequently wrote Oppenheimer, saying in part:

"I have lost a good deal of sleep trying to figure out how you could have talked this way about a man whom you have known so long, and of whom you know so well what a good physicist and good citizen he is.

"One is tempted to feel that you are foolish as to think you can buy immunity for yourself by turning informer. I hope that this is not true.

"You know very well that once these people decide to go into your own dossier and make it public that it will make the revelations that have been made so far look pretty tame. . . .

WRITE AT ONCE

"You should write at once to the president of the University of Rochester giving him full assurances that Peters is all right."

Condon wrote the second of the letters to his wife, but its contents were not available.

The newspaper quoted Condon as saying in Corning, N.Y., Wednesday night that early in July, 1949, "Oppenheimer wrote a letter to the editor of the Rochester Times-Union in which he tried to make amends for what he had done."

"As far as I know, not only was Dr. Peters not dropped from the faculty of the University of Rochester, but he was actually promoted."

Strangled Wife Jailed 8 Years

TORONTO (CP)—Joseph Schreiber, 26-year-old brokerage clerk, today was sentenced to eight years in penitentiary for manslaughter in the strangling last December of his attractive blonde wife.

An Ontario Supreme Court jury returned the verdict of guilty of manslaughter at the end of Schreiber's three-day trial on a charge of murder. The jurors deliberated more than an hour.

Schreiber heard the verdict with eyes downcast. His wife Norma was 23 when she died last Dec. 15 in the couple's east Toronto home.

The couple, married in July, 1951, had been separated for some weeks when they met the night of the slaying.

Schreiber testified he and his wife drank for several hours at a downtown tavern, then went to his apartment where they continued drinking. He said that after he returned from a telephone call he saw his wife slumped on a chair. He carried her to a bed and then found she was dead.

May Halt Games Played In Matane

MIDLAND, Ont. (CP) — George Dudley, of Midland, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said Matane, Que., could be given the same punishment which Quebec City received years ago.

Mr. Dudley was referring to the injuries inflicted on two referees last night by irate Matane fans after their team had lost 5-3 to Sudbury Wolves in an eastern Canada Allan Cup final series game.

"At one time we refused to allow games in Quebec," he said. "That could happen in Matane if the home club cannot guarantee protection for officials and visiting players.

"It is the duty of the home club and the arena to provide this protection. Apparently no Matane players were involved in the incident."

Authors Plan Go On Strike

LONDON (Reuters) — Nineteen of Britain's leading authors including poet laureate John Masefield today threatened to go on strike against their publishers.

In a letter to The Times they protested against a plan by the publishers' association that would force all new authors to surrender a share of motion picture, theatre, radio, television and strip cartoon rights. Charging that "publishers are ganging up against new authors," the 19 said they would sign no new contracts if the publishers persist in their aim.

Appeals To UN Investigate Abduction

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—The wife of a Russian resistance leader reported kidnapped by Communist agents in West Berlin Tuesday has appealed to the United Nations for help.

Mrs. Alexander Truchnovich cabled Dag Hammarskjold, UN secretary-general, for aid in getting her 61-year-old husband back.

Tearfully, she told a press conference she was convinced Red agents spirited away her husband from a West Berlin private home. She said an East German Communist announcement saying he voluntarily crossed into the Soviet sector was a lie.

Moscow Deputy On Way Out

LONDON (Reuters) — It would appear to be a safe bet that Comrade Lebedev, the deputy mayor of Moscow, won't be around much longer.

He has just been severely taken to task because he ordered two reporters from the newspaper Izvestia off the premises of Moscow city council.

That was his second crime. His first was that he ranted and raved at women who had been ordered out of a condemned house and had come to ask his advice about where they should move.

Izvestia of April 8 told the story of how reporters L. Sulin and Mrs. N. Monchadskaya heard Lebedev shouting at and scolding the women. He refused to listen to their complaints and addressed the women in "a too-familiar manner."

Then he noticed the reporters and had angrily ordered them off the premises.

Izvestia is the newspaper of the Soviet government. Its hints are usually heeded.

Won't Discuss Security Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Garson declined in the House Wednesday to say whether the RCMP is relaxing its guard over Igor Gouzenko.

In answer to a question, Mr. Garson said it has been the policy of the government not to disclose security arrangements concerning Gouzenko.

The arrangements, he said, have varied from time to time according to Gouzenko's activities.

(The Toronto Telegram reported today that Mr. Garson had said, when interviewed, that Gouzenko is still under RCMP protection.)

Guelph Nurse Gets Damages Of $3,852

GUELPH (CP)—Mrs. Lila McGill, Guelph nurse, was awarded damages of $3,852 including $470 for an operation in an action against the City of Kitchener heard [illegible]reme Court here Wednesday.

Mr. Justice Rene A. Danis found defendants guilty of negligence in connection with a fall suffered by Mrs. McGill in Kitchener auditorium on Dec. 18, 1952 while attending a bingo.

"It seems to me the defendant was more anxious to increase the seating capacity of the auditorium and thereby increase revenue, than to make sure of the safety of the public," said Mr. Justice Danis.

Army Says McCarthy Approved "Threats"

WASHINGTON (CP)—The army has charged that Senator Joseph McCarthy was fully aware of, and gave his consent to, "threats" voiced by Roy Cohn in demanding special treatment for Pte. David [illegible]

Senator Stuart Symington (Dem. Mo.), a member of the sub-committee which will investigate McCarthy's row with the army, today made public the army's "bill of particulars" in the case.

The document charges that McCarthy and his aide "sought by improper means" to get special treatment for Schine, a former McCarthy aide who was drafted last November.

The document says Cohn, chief counsel for the McCarthy subcommittee, voiced threats, in McCarthy's presence, to expose the army "in its worst light" unless favored treatment were given to Schine.

Queen's Visit To Be Curtailed

KAMPALA, Uganda (Reuters)—Queen Elizabeth's forth coming visit to Uganda has been curtailed to avoid cross-country road trips because of "the present security situation" in neighboring Kenya, the Uganda government announced Wednesday night.

The announcement was followed closely by disclosure that a number of members of Kenya's anti-white terrorist Mau Mau organization have been arrested in this colony. Some of them were Kikuyu tribesmen living in the Uganda territory's eastern province, where the Queen is due to open the new Owens Falls dam at the end of this month.

Forty known Mau Mau members also have been arrested in Uganda's province of Buganda, police said.

Squadron Of Planes To Fly In Supplies

TOKYO (Reuters)—A squadron, normally 16 planes, of U.S. Air Force C-119 Flying Boxcars will be sent from Japan to fly supplies to Indo-China from depots in the Philippines, it was announced today.

U. S.-built B-26 bombers, C-47 transports, Bearcat fighters and other Flying Boxcars have been rushed to Indo-China in recent weeks to strengthen the defence of Dien Bien Phu, which has been under fire for 32 days.

The new squadron from Japan will join the big air armada supporting the French defenders of Dien Bien Phu. The planes will be away for about two months.

Plot Fails Father Convicted

Charged with him were three brothers, Victor, 28, Harry, 36, and Cecil Chernick, 30. They pleaded guilty to placing an explosive in the building and charges of attempted arson and conspiracy were withdrawn.

Davison earlier pleaded guilty to attempted arson.

All were remanded until today for sentence.

Crown Counsel Arthur Klein described the case as "one of the greatest attempts to blow up a building Toronto has ever seen." He said "it could have caused $1,500,000 damage to buildings around and untold suffering and probably death to their occupants."

Political Leaders Banished 10 Years

CAIRO (AP) — Egypt's military overnment has banished from politics for a decade all leaders of the three major parties who held office during ex-king Farouk's last 10 years on the throne.

The revolutionary council's order, announced early today, stripping the old politicians of their rights to hold office or lead their parties, struck at most of the past premiers and cabinet members who governed the country before the present military junta seized power in July, 1952.

It also would keep such former political leadership out of the national advisory council which the military regime has said it will set up to assist in the transition to eventual civilian rule.

Newspapers listed a total of 42 politicos affected, but government rulings on some whose past party affiliations are doubtful could raise the number to around 60.

Wants Overflow Go To Canada

LONDON (CP)—A Conservative member of Parliament asked today whether "it would be possible to start a new town somewhere on the Great Lakes of Canada" and thereby provide a population overflow for the London area.

C. F. H. Gough, who represents the West Sussex constituency of Horsham, was speaking in a discussion of London's overflow population.

Commonwealth countries such as Canada and Australia need population and such c[illegible]ntries as Poland and Germany a[illegible] supplying Canada at the moment, Gough said.

"I believe that Canada would far prefer to have migrants of British stock," he said.

He thought a Great Lakes development would allow 150,000 persons to be moved from London's home counties.

Arrested Two Men At Request Of OPP

WINDSOR (CP) — Windsor police chief Charles Farrow said Wednesday the arrests of two men Tuesday night at gun point were made at the request of the Ontario provincial police.

Eric John Finley and Edwin Francis Hickey, both of Toronto, on a business trip, said they were picked up Tuesday night, clapped in jail and released early Wednesday without being told why they were held.

Mr. Farrow said a radio alarm for the car went out from Essex OPP warning the men in it might be armed and dangerous. The arrest was made in conection with a search for the men who held up a bank at Oil Springs, Ont.

Petrov May Sign Statement Debunking Abduction Claim

CANBERRA (Reuters) — Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies said today he will consider letting Vladimir Petrov, fugitive Soviet diplomat, issue a signed statement debunking his wife's claim that he was kidnapped.

Menzies declared that the kidnapping charge made by Mrs. Petrov and other Russians at a Soviet embassy press conference Wednesday was "ludicrous." He had announced Tuesday that Petrov, the Soviet embassy's secret-police chief, had rejected communism, asked for political asylum and turned over evidence of a spy ring in Australia.

A Soviet embassy spokesman today said the embassy has asked to be permitted to see Petrov, whose whereabouts have not been disclosed. The Soviet spokesman denied that any of the embassy's secret documents are missing.

At the same time, informed sources said hundreds of documents handed to Australian security officers by Petrov showed the Russians had not been able to crack the security system at Woomera rocket range or at last year's British atomic bomb tests in Australia.

Two Soviet diplomatic couriers, carrying a bulky suitcase, arrived in Sydney by air today and were met by Russian embassy officials. Passengers on the flight from Rome said the couriers spoke to no one, and were never out of each other's sight.

Menzies deprecated the "sensational speculation" abroad over the case. He said Petrov had agreed that recently bolstered Australian security measures had "enormously increased" the difficulties of Communist spies.

Expect U.S. Promise Keep Army In Europe

BONN, Germany (CP)—Theodor Blank, West German defence commissioner, said today he expects the United States "within the next few days" to give its promise th[illegible] American troops will be kept [illegible] Europe as long as international tension continues.

Blank told a press conference he expects the U.S. declaration to say American forces will not be pulled out of Europe without prior consultation with the six member states of the projected European defence committee.

Blank declined to tell reporters how he knew what the U. S. was going to do.

School Boys Find Body Buried Beside Grand River

GALT (CP)—Coroner Dr. James McQueen said today a partial skeleton found Wednesday night on the bank of the Grand river is that of a man.

There was no indication of the man's identity. Nor could authorities determine from their preliminary investigation whether the body had been b[illegible] where two high school boys found it or had been washed ashore in spring floods.

Police, digging in mud at the scene of the grisly discovery, found a man's shoe, a pair of black gloves and shreds of other items of clothing including what appeared to be part of a man's suspenders.

Dr. McQueen said he doubted the man had been dead more than two years. The skeleton was complete to the hips but police could not immediately find the leg bones.

Officials said the investigation is continuing.

DEFINITELY MALE

The announcement the skeleton was a man's, not a young girl's as first reported, ended unofficial speculation the body might be that of Marion McDowell, 17, of the Toronto suburb of Scarborough township, who disappeared last December and was reported kidnapped.

Another theory was that the bones were those of a transient.

Bill Robertson, 17, and Douglas Crawford, 14, spotted the skull and ribs sticking out of the mud near the Galt incinerator.

Yacht Heads South With Royal Children

WEYMOUTH, England (AP) — Prince Charles and Princess Anne headed due south tonight in the luxurious royal yacht Britannia to meet their parents at Tobruk.

The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh were in Ceylon today on the last stages of the royal tour around the world.

No signals are expected from the Britannia until she reaches Malta, her first port of call on the way to Tobruk.

Sub-Hunting Planes Get Guided Missiles

OTTAWA (CP)—Both navy and RCAF sub-hunting planes are to be equipped with guided missiles.

This guided missile, which also can be launched from ships, is the navy's new "homing" torpedo.

The torpedo, now being delivered in quantity to ammunition dumps under a $40,000,000 defence appropriation, does not have to be aimed at a submarine. As long as it is dropped in the vicinity of the undersea craft, it will "home" on the target and destroy it.

It took two years to produce the torpedo, first such weapon made in Canada. How it works is, of course, secret, but it is believed a long advance over the acoustic torpedo of the Second World War, which "homed" on target by the sound of its victim's propellers.

The navy and air force have not yet received the planes they need to carry this weapon. But they are on order from the United States, the Grumman S2F for the navy and the Neptune for the RCAF. The carrier-borne Grumman is not expected to go into service until 1956; the Neptune before early 1955.

HAD GLIDER BOMB

During the Second World War, the Germans developed a water-borne glider bomb which could be launched from an aircraft out of range of allied ships. It was radio-controlled from the plane.

The answer, discovered by the British navy, apparently accidentally, turned out to be the electric razor. Turning on an electric razor aboard ship jammed the frequency on which the bomb was being controlled.

By the end of the War, however, the Allies had overcome every German sea war device except the fast submarine, which made corvettes obsolete, and the schnorkel breathing device which allowed U-boats to cover vast distances without surfacing. These inventions came too late, however, to help the Germans.

Canada's navy now has more than the new torpedo in its bag of tricks. Besides new and faster ships and planes, there are the anti-submarine mortar, or squid, an advance over the Second World War depth charge, and the improved sonobuoy for locating enemy subs.

Blames Movies For Safe-Cracking

TIMMINS (CP) — Magistrate Marcel Leger, in sentencing three men on charges of safe-cracking and burglary, said today they might have been influenced by magazines and movies dealing with such crimes.

He called such stories and movies "sinister influences" which parents would do well to guard against.

The magistrate sentenced David Sullivan, 20, and Romuald Lalonde, 23, each to two years in Kingston penitentiary and James Newton, 21, to nine months in Guelph reformatory.

Sullivan faced nine charges, three involving safe-cracking.

Twelve charges were laid by Ontario provincial police as the result of break-ins at a service station and a vulcanizing plant.

Heavenly Blue Too Much Of Good Thing

Reporter M. V. Chestnut of the Winnipeg Tribune is also somewhat of a poet. The owner of several thousand "Heavenly Blue" marigold seeds whose flowers are "absolutely breathtaking in their loveliness" he has been deluged with requests from wistful potential gardeners.

Although he wrote in the Tribune that he had enough seeds "to fill every garden from here to Calgary," the busy Mr. Chestnut has recently had to spend most of his day answering letters and avoiding the chilly eye of an overworked postman. He is now pro-rating the seeds at the rate of five to a customer.

One happy beneficiary is Bill McFarlane, the YMCA's physical director. Bill's sister-in-law, Mrs. R. C. Leatherdale of Winnipeg, sent him two of her five seeds and amateur gardener McFarlane is looking forward to seeing what gardener editor Chestnut calls the "exotic, heart-rending beauty of every glorious flower."

You may still be able to, get a seed or two if you send a stamped and self-addressed envelope to Mr. Chestnut. For best results the seeds are warmed before planting, then individually sown in balls of wax paper. Six or seven seeds should be enough to clothe the wall of any garage, while the thousands sent to Mr. Chestnut by a well-wisher ought to make the whole country marigold-conscious.

Death Rate Of Tuberculosis Lowered; Still Prevalent

The tuberculosis death rate has dropped from year to year but there has not been a parallel drop in the incidence of the disease, retiring president Charles H. Elliott told the annual meeting of the Peterborough Tuberculosis Association Wednesday.

The number of district patients in sanatoria is two and a half times 1950 figures, Mr. Elliott pointed out in his annual report. For this reason, he said, it becomes increasingly important that the work of the association in promoting chest clinics in city and county be expanded.

There are five organized projects in Peterborough using the x-ray to detect tuberculosis, said Mr. Elliott. He listed these as follows:

1. Referred clinics, so called because doctors refer patients to either of the two hospitals. Others sent to the hospital clinics are expectant mothers, post-sanatorium patients and those who have been in contact with tubercular people. The local association held 37 of these clinics in the fiscal year just ended, with 1,432 plates (up 255) taken. Costs were borne by the Association through Christmas Seal funds.

2. Mass surveys, held every four years by the department of health, although "we would like to have them every year." Mobile clinics move about the province, and costs are borne by local associations.

INDUSTRIAL SURVEY

3. Industrial surveys, sponsored by the department of health. An industrial survey will be made this fall, and Mr. Elliott hopes that this will become an annual process.

4. Pre-employment chest x-rays, paid for at the rate of $1 a plate by employers. Industry, says Mr. Elliott, responded to this idea "almost 100 per cent." Since then other employers have availed themselves of this service either of their own volition or at the request of their employees. Last year showed a 72 per cent increase over 1952 in the number of examinations.

5. Hospital admission x-rays for which the patient pays. The association is "vitally interested" in this plan, not only for patient protection but to keep the incidence of infections among nurses and other hospital employees as low as possible.

Another important phase of the association's work is in education said Mr. Elliott. He paid tribute to the medical officer of health, Dr. J. P. Wells, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the press and the radio station, and rural Women's Institutes for keeping the aims of the association before the public.

The educational committee of the association has also distributed literature to home and school associations, PTA groups, libraries, industrial plants, and to citizens through the Chamber of Commerce. Educational talks were also given to nurses' graduating classes at each of the hospitals.

BABY SITTERS TOO

A unique feature of the educational aspect of the association's work is with baby-sitters. Recognizing that infected baby-sitters can create tubercular chaos in a home, the local baby-sitting agency now requires its employees to be x-rayed under the pre-employment plan.

Most of the association's revenue is derived from the sale of Christmas seals. Mr. Elliott paused to pay tribute to Mrs. Gordon Pammett, the Christmas seal secretary, and to John Madden, chairman of the last seal campaign.

Mr. Elliott also paid tribute to the board of health but regretted the lack of "an organized health unit in the rural area. We look forward to the time when there will be a Peterborough County Health Unit."

A special word of commendation went to the executive secretary of the association, Mrs. R. J. Ward, who is largely responsible for the rehabilitative aspect of the group's work. Mrs. Ward's annual report appeared Thursday.

Two Charged With Robbery, Loot Recovered

WALLACEBURG (CP) — Two men were charged Wednesday night with robbery of the Bank of Toronto branch at Oil Springs, 20 miles southeast of Sarnia, and police said most of the $1,900 loot was recovered.

Police charged Marcel Hottot, 24, of Wallaceburg and Leonard Howes, 30, of Tupperville. They are scheduled to appear in court at Sarnia today.

Also located was a .45-calibre automatic pistol believed used by two men who held up four bank employees and a customer Tuesday and scooped money into a white sack. They fled at high speed in an automobile.

Police said Hottot guided them to $619 hidden under linoleum under a bathtub in a house here and to a cache of clothing under logs and leaves off River road east of Dresden. They said the pants, shirt and dark glasses were worn by one of the Oil Springs bandits.

MONEY WRAPPED IN SHIRT

In another roadside cache southeast of here, $862 was found wrapped up in a yellow and black plaid shirt.

The pistol was said to have been bought here but it was unloaded. No ammunition was available for it here.

Howes was taken into custody late Tuesday night after police put a watch on a car whose description matched the one used in the robbery. Bank employees were called from their beds early Wednesday morning to view a lineup that included Howes.

About 7 a.m. Wednesday Hottot was arrested at his home in nearby Tupperville.

Jailed 4 Months For Intoxication

Harry Brown, 58, of no fixed address, admitted a third offence of intoxication to Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, in court today.

Replying to the magistrate, who asked him where he lived, Brown said "I stay around here most of the time."

However, he will not be staying around here for the next four months. The magistrate gave him a four-months stay at an Ontario reformatory, with an added two months indefinite imprisonment.

Alexander Williams, 53, of Lakefield, pleaded guilty to a second offence of intoxication. He was fined $50, costs $2.50, and in default, a month in the county jail.

Cameron Cline, 27, of 450½ George St., today pleaded guilty to having submitted an incorrect address when purchasing liquor at the Water St. store.

Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, imposed a fine of $100, costs $2.50, and in default two months in prison.

the letting of contracts, said the division engineer can make minor changes in the contracts himself, but, if the changes involve several thousand dollars, they must be authorized by the department.

Mr. Wren asked if the changes by the division engineer could involve up to $5,000. Mr. Clarke said he was not certain. Under further questioning by Mr. Wren, the acting chief engineer said the division engineer could change by 10 to 15 per cent a miscalculation in a contract.

"The chief engineer's job is mainly administrative. He has to depend on persons lower in the department to make those decisions."

Mr. Wren said the division engineer then was the "sole arbitrator" between the contractor and the department. "Is that good?" he asked.

"We have to trust these men," replied Mr. Clarke. "The department can't check everything."

WITHIN 10 PER CENT

The acting chief engineer said that contracts let in 1952 which amounted to approximately $8,000,000 and which now have been completed, were within 10 per cent of the original estimate. "Some projects were over-run by 50 per cent but the over-all is about 10 per cent."

Mr. Roberts, replying to a question put by Mr. Wren, said the committee has the power to examine the books of nine construction firms seized by provincial police in recent weeks.

The committee adjourned after the one-day session until May 17 when it will receive the report of J. D. Woods and Gordon Limited, appointed last January to investigate the organization and administration of the highways department.

Mr. Roberts indicated that at that time the committee would hold regular sittings.

Commissioner To Indonesia Visiting City

They don't call it winter and summer in Indonesia. It's the dry season (June to October) and the wet season (Octobar to May) and the temperatures are fairly constant from one end of the year to the other—an average of 80 to 90 degrees. Humidity is high. That is why Canadians like Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Wallace find Djakarta, capital of Indonesia, quite hot.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace have been visiting Peterborough for the last several days, as guests of their friends, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Allen, Walkerfield Ave.

Mr. Wallace is Commercial Secretary at the Canadian Embassy in Djakarta. He returned to Canada in February on leave and to make the tour of Canada customary with trade commissioners. They refresh themselves on their knowledge of Canadian business and industry and acqquaint industrial and business people with the trade opporunities which exist in the country to which the commissioners are accredited.

The return voyage from Indonesia to Canada through the Suez Canal and Mediterranean took Mr. and Mrs. Wallace 26 days. They could have come through the Pacific up to the west coast of this continent, a voyage of similar length.

Great changes have taken place in Indonesia since the war and since it secured its independence from Holland (1949). Administration and much of the business on rice and rubber plantations and in towns is carried on by Indonesians themselves. President Sokarno of the new Republic is expected to call the first elections the country has ever had next year. Illiteracy is high, the people are not used to democratic procedures.

The Canadian embassy was opened in Djakarta in May last year, with an ambassador, a first secretary, and Mr. Wallace as commercial secretary. Their three private secretaries are Canadian girls; the rest of the help in the Embassy is recruited from the country itself.

Indonesia is "enormously wealthy in natural resources", and offers great possibilities for reciprocal trade. At present Indonesia buys agricultural equipment, automotive supplies, pharmaceuticals, tires and flour from Canada, and Canada buys tea, kapok, rubber, tin, coconut products (copra and dessicated coconut). Chief economic activities are rubber, rice, tin and petroleum.

In Peterborough Mr. Wallace has renewed contacts with Quaker Oats Company officials. In Montreal he had consultations with Outboard Marine company officers. Outboard Marine sells outboard motors to Indonesia.

Indonesia consists of about 3,000 islands of which the largest is Java. These islands extend over 3,000 miles and 80 million people live on them, 50 million on Java. About 70 per cent. of the people are engaged in agriculture. The Malayans are a brown race. There is a great admixture of people, Dutch, Eurasians, Australians, Chinese and natives. The Chinese are the capitalists of the country, and, with the Dutch, are the chief professional class.

Indonesia is a member of the Colombo Plan for development of South-East Asia. So far, most of the help has been in the nature of technical assistance.

Djakarta is an old Dutch city, built for 100 to 500 thousand people. At present it has two to three million working in it, so it is very overcrowded, and supplies of drinking water and electric power are inadequate. Electricity is made from steam, diesel and hydro installations. Native housing is of bamboo or anything else they can find to put up a roof. The educated, artisan and commercial classes live mainly in small Dutch-type brick houses. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace have just bought a house in Djakarta, but under a lease system; there is very little freehold property there.

The Canadians in Indonesia, apart from the embassy staff, are few; some missionaries, and a group of ICAO (International Civil Aviation Organization) men training Indonesians to fly and man aerodromes. The country is served chiefly by BOAC, the Australian airline system Quantis, and the Dutch KLM.

The Wallaces have a Dutch doctor and a chinese dentist. There are German professionals, too.

Indonesia, while completely independent, is a member of the Dutch Union, a kind of Dutch 'Commonwealth' which includes The Netherlands and its colonies. The Dutch no longer have special access to and privileges in Indonesia, and are under the same currency restrictions as other nationals in Indonesia.

Mr. Wallace, a stocky business-like man in early middle years, is a native of Fernie, B.C. After making their tour of Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace will return to Indonesia in July, for another two-year term. They left Peterborough this afternoon.

Oshawa Merchants Won't Play In League

OSHAWA (CP) — The Oshawa Merchants baseball club today notified officials of the Central Ontario Baseball League that the club will not participate in league play this season.

The club's executive said the operation of two senior clubs in Oshawa would be too great a financial risk.

Oshawa Transporters, Intermediate A champions of Ontario last year, the other senior club, will play in the Toronto Viaduct senior league.

Manslaughter Charge To Be Laid

OTTAWA (CP) — A charge of manslaughter probably will be laid in connection with the death of Roland Dean, 38, police said today.

Three men were picked up for questioning, including 35-year-old Harold Scharfe who, police said, was involved in a scuffle Wednesday night on Dean's front verandah. Others questioned and released were Clifford Scharfe and Thomas Fitzsimmons.

An autopsy on Dean's body was to be performed and a report was awaited before police confer with crown officials to determine what charge will be laid and against whom.

WIFE TELLS OF FIGHT

Dean's wife told police that Harold Scharfe, who seemed to have been drinking, rapped on the window of Dean's home. Scharfe, who earlier in the evening was sent out to buy a case of beer, asked to be invited inside for a drink.

"When my husband refused him he started to curse and swear," Mrs. Dean was quoted as saying. "Suddenly there was a fight and Roland was thrown to the ground."

Dr. A. J. Cross, coroner, said Dean apparently died of a head injury.

Barbershop Singers Hold Annual Harvest

Fifth annual international harvest of barbershop harmony is being held Saturday evening in PCVS auditorium under the auspices of the Peterborough chapter SPEBSQSA Incorporated.

Among the six groups who will sing at the harvest the O-At-Kans of Warsaw, N.Y., (Quartet), will play stringed instruments as well as sing; they are considered to be an ace attraction and have performed in the city several times. Ontario district champions, the Rhythmnaires of Toronto, district favourites, the Dulci-Tones of Oshawa will also sing.

Peterborough chapter's Note-Wits, fourth quartet is composed of George Berthin, John Dinsmore, Dick Beck and Bob Grant. There will also be two choruses of about 25 members of each one from the city chapter and the other from Orillia.

Officials responsible for staging the harvest are: president, Harold Coulson; stage manager, Ed. O'Brien; chorus director, Victor Farrant and master of ceremonies, former Peterborough recreational director, Alex Sinclair. A social gathering following the performance will be held at Canadian Legion hall.

W. J. A. Fair And Wife Just Missed Fatal Plane

A thought for convenience probably saved Peterborough lawyer W. J. Arthur Fair, QC, and Mrs. Fair from almost certain death in the ill-fated North Star airplane which crashed at Moose Jaw on April 8.

Mr. Fair, who was flying west for several court cases, had intended to catch the plane which crashed. At the last moment he decided it would be more convenient to fly by a later airliner which left Toronto at 9:15 a.m. on April 8. When his plane touched down for re-fueling at Winnipeg, the news of the crash had just been released.

Bevan Resigns Party Post; Split Widens

LONDON (CP) — The opposition Labor party reeled today under a wide-open split touched off by the failure of former prime minister Clement Attlee to oppose the United States - sponsored Pacific defence pact proposal, and West German rearmament.

Aneurin Bevan, leader of the party's left wing and chief contender for Attlee's party chieftainship, walked out Wednesday night from a caucus after resigning from the faction's policy - making "shadow cabinet."

The walkout poses a grave threat to the control of the party by Attlee, deputy leader Herbert Morrison and other moderates. Seven weeks ago Bevan came within two votes of a caucus of defeating Attlee's demand for endorsement of West German rearmament.

The rebel Welshman Wednesday night bitterly accused Britain of "surrendering to American pressure" in the Indo-China talks just concluded between State Secretary Dulles and Foreign Secretary Eden. He expressed deep shock that the Labor party did not immediately rebuke Eden for agreeing to negotiate for an alliance against Communist expansion in Southeast Asia.

"MILITARY ENCIRCLEMENT"

Such an alliance, said Bevan, is "tantamount to diplomatic and military encirclement of Republican (Communist) China."

Attlee had asked his party to soft-pedal opposition to government policy on the issue to avoid wrecking the April 26 Geneva conference on Korea and Indo-China. He said Bevan's strong stand could jeopardize those talks.

Attlee declared that Communist China is "showing imperialist aims in Korea, Tibet and elsewhere," and "although we wished China to take her place in the United Nations, it must be remembered that she has been declared an aggressor."

Later Bevan told reporters that, besides his opposition to any Southeast Asian defence pact, he opposes Labor backing of the European Defence Community, particularly the rearmament of West Germany.

Russians Buy Technical Data

NEW YORK (AP) — Russians have shown up again at an aircraft forum here, buying up exhibition booth literature as well as copies of speeches, technical papers and promotional material.

The four-day forum, which ends today, is sponsored by the Society of Automotive Engineers. More than 1,000 U. S. aircraft designers and executives have been attending sessions.

Wednesday, Lt.-Col. Boris Bogatyrev, Soviet assistant air attache, and Lt.-Col. Sergei I. Sokolovsky, assistant military attache, showed up at the forum.

The men registered at the meetings without using their military titles, and used Washington home addresses.

SAE officials said little could be done about the Russians' attendance unless it could be shown they attended "confidential" sessions on Tuesday. But admission to these, official said, was available only to persons having written air force security clearances which were checked carefully at the door.

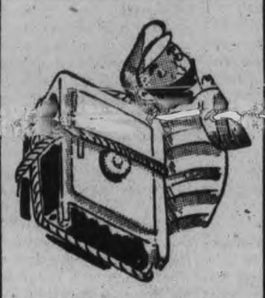
Campbellford To Start School Patrols

CAMPBELLFORD — (ENS) — Traffic Officer Don Mackay of the Peterborough police department spoke to the Campbellford Home and School association meeting held in the kindergarten of the public school on Wednesday night. Mr. Mackay explained the organization and the operation of the new safety patrols which are soon to be set up in Campbellford.

During the past few weeks, a great deal of preliminary work has been done, and students have been selected to act as patrol officers at five intersections in the town. William Rothwell, principal of the Campbellford public school, Constable Don Mackay and Chief Constable George Rose have been instrumental in getting the patrols organized. Chief Rose introduced Mr. Mackay to the meeting.

The patrols will start after the Easter holidays.



Bert Whitfield, Grade VII teacher, demonstrated the new film strip projector the school recently purchased, and showed an interesting film on the life and habits of the Canadian beaver.

A large number of parents were on hand for the meeting, and Mr. Rothwell's class was winner of the attendance banner for having the most parents present.

Dr. W. W. Baker, chairman of the Public School Board presented crests to members of the school hockey team, who won the hockey championship in their class this year.

It was decided to ask Charles Weir of the Department of Education to attend the next meeting, to be held in May, to discuss the possibility of holding educational classes this coming winter for parents.

DEATH ENDS LIFE SENTENCE — Harry Orchard, a native of Ontario, who blasted a trail of violence through the Western United States that ended with the bomb-slaying of a former Idaho Governor, died recently in the Idaho state penitentiary at the age of 88.

Lindsay Native, W. Jeffers, Retires As Financial Editor

While attending high school in Lindsay a teen-ager named Wellington Jeffers heard the late, great Sir John Willison of the old Toronto Globe speak to the graduating class on journalism as a career. Thus began an interest in journalism which spanned more than 60 years.

Today Wellington Jeffers, now 75, retires as financial editor of the Globe and Mail. His 'Finance at Large' column will continue to appear in the top left corner of the financial page, but the page will be edited by Ralph Blackmore.

Mr. Jeffers was born in Oakwood, the son of a doctor. In a day when newspapers were flamingly partisan, he aroused consternation in his Conservative family by expressing an interest in the Grit Globe. But the Globe was not yet ready for him in any case.

After finishing school in Lindsay, young Mr. Jeffers moved to Montreal where he became banking clerk of a grain brokerage house. Wanting to see where the grain came from, he headed for Winnipeg and drifted into the journalistic field.

In Winnipeg Mr. Jeffers became secretary to a young editor who became Canada's greatest journalist. He worked three years with this pioneering editor, John Wesley Dafoe of the Winnipeg Free Press.

Mr. Jeffers' next years sound like something out of Maugham. He worked on a Hawaii sugar plantation while writing on the side for a Honolulu paper, spent a year in Australia and ended up in England with 12 shillings. Back in Canada eventually he made a stopover in Toronto and, between trains' joined the Toronto Globe.

Mr. Jeffers had been with the Globe ever since, with occasional spells at the Montreal Gazette and with Saturday Night. He returned again in 1937 the year of the merger between the Globe and the Mail and Empire.

The retiring financial editor also spent a term as editor of the Financial Post. Main reasons for his 1937 switch to the new Globe and Mail was pressure from publisher George McCullagh who effected the merger.

Ralph Blackmore, who succeeds Mr. Jeffers, is an honors post-graduate in economics from the University of Michigan. The announcement of his appointment, and Mr. Jeffers semi-retirement was made by Harry G. Kimber, publisher of the Globe and Mail.

Long-Time Employee Fired Suddenly

WASHINGTON (AP) — A long-time employee of the United States Navy's hydrographic office said today he had been fired without explanation after being cleared by a security hearing board. He suggested anti-semitism was involved.

Abraham Chasanow, who started in the office 23 years ago at $1,440 a year and became a $8,360 distribution control officer, protested that he has always been "a firm believer in our constitution and our democratic and capitalist system."

Through counsel, Chasanow asked reconsideration of a decision dated April 7 by J. H. Smith Jr., assistant secretary of the navy for air, which held Chasanow to be a security risk. Smith said he acted after a second review board reversed the first panel's findings.

Queen Visits Curious Rock

POLONNORUWA, Ceylon (Reuters)—Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh today visited the curious Sigiriya rock which juts up 400 feet sheer from flat jungle country 30 miles from here.

They did not try to scale it.

The rock was discovered in the fifth century by Ceylon's King Kassapa, who built an impregnable fortress on the top.

The Queen walked with the duke from the royal car to the foot of the rock and gazed at the ancient city on top through their binoculars.

Last February Lord Soulbury, the governor-general, and Finance Minister Sir Oliver Goonetilleke, both in their 60s, climbed to the top of the rock to see whether it would be too strenuous for the Queen. They decided it was.

The Queen and the duke later drove through packed villages in the surrounding tea, rubber and coconut plantations. At Matale the Queen passed a parade of nearly 20 gaily-decorated elephants from local plantations.

Our Trees

The reason that the view of Peterborough from the Watertrough Hill (Highway 28 south), from the Chemong Road or from Armour Hill is so big and splashy just now, and in the winter, is that the foliage of trees does not obscure the buildings, streets and lights. Peterborough has a notable lot of trees, as anybody can see for himself who goes next month to take in the view of the city from any of the vantage points mentioned above. Then one will hardly see the city for the trees. Much as we are impressed by the panorama when the trees are naked, we would not for the biggest cyclorama in Christendom forgo the foliage for the view. Peterborough's trees are among its chief assets. We greet with pleasure the announcement that this year the Parks Department is again to plant five hundred trees.

The new trees will do no more than replace dead and dying ones over the total acreage of the city; indeed, one wonders if only five hundred will be sufficient replacement. The majority of the trees to be planted will be maple, but some chestnuts will be put in, too. Good. The chestnut, as a native of Ontario, was wiped out some decades ago. It is a beautiful tree and new plantations of them should be encouraged. The flowering chestnut, so beautiful in England and France, is rare here. May we have some flowering chestnuts which "cast their flambeaux" please, Mr. Butcher?

Bought But Not Read

This year marks the 150th anniversary of the founding of the British and Foreign Bible Society. And, inevitably, we have seen many repetitions of the statement that the Bible is the world's greatest, unfailing best-seller. But who reads it? Recently, in a pastoral letter, the Archbishop of York spoke of the Bible as being 'to many an unknown book'. We agree with Dr. Garbett. What does it matter how many Bibles are sold, or given away, if they are not read?

We base our opinion that the Bible is little read only upon our personal experience; we meet a great many people in the course of a year, and in conversation we find that most of them do not readily understand references to Scripture. We also write a good many thousands of words in the course of a year, and we have almost given up making Biblical references in what we write, because we find that they are confusing to many readers. We do not bring forward our personal experience as if it were of great importance, but because we have compared notes with other writers who have regarded a knowledge of the Bible as common property, until experience told them that this was far from being the case.

As we have said in these columns many times, the Bible is a classical library contained in one book. A classical background is a great advantage to any man or woman, because it gives him a frame of reference for his thinking, and an acquaintance with what was done and said in the past by people of great wisdom and insight. We who speak the English language have an inestimable treasure in the Bible—quite apart from its spiritual significance—because it gives us a classical literature in a translation which is itself one of the supreme classics of our language. But apparently we don't read it.

It is curious, but common, to meet people who do not know anything about Nebuchadnezzar, about Saul, about David; who have never heard of the treachery of Esau, Naboth's vineyard, or the Cities of the Plain; who have never heard of Simeon, of the Children in the Fiery Furnace, of Daniel, of Ruth and Naomi, of the conversion of Saul. We wonder sometimes what their minds are furnished with. We wonder why they appear to have rejected all their links with the mighty past.

Yet the Bible apparently sells in extraordinary numbers. Not many people grow from childhood to manhood without being given at least one Bible. Every Ontario schoolchild has one, and must read some portions of it in school. Yet an acquaintance with its principal incidents—we do not expect detailed knowledge—seems to be uncommon.

One of the great objects of the Reformation was to provide every person who could read or listen with the Bible in his own tongue, and this aim has been pursued by the Bible Society with the utmost diligence. The Bible, we repeat, provides a store of wisdom upon which a life may be built, and from which every life may draw the richest inspiration, solace, and food for thought. A man who knows the Bible and Shakespeare with some degree of thoroughness may fittingly call himself educated, and will never lack for a word or an image in his speech or writing. Yet this gift appears to be widely neglected. What happens to all the Bibles that people buy?

Frank Ministers Of Finance

Britain and Canada have Ministers of Finance who wear the burden of taxing jauntily. The British Chancellor of the Exchequer can quip in the midst of a Budget speech, Mr. Abbott can grin when he says bear it. Mr. Abbott commented a few weeks ago that he personally is going in the hole each year: salary as cabinet minister less than the total of family expenses and taxes. Mr. Butler, who brought down Britain's 1954 budget the same day that Mr. Abbott brought down his last one, was outspoken, too: "When you think of the amount of tax you take off people, you leave them their shirt and call it subsidy."

Fortunately neither gentleman has the courage of his frankness, or rather, the capacity to cut taxes in accord with his own personal dislike of them. This sort of personal detachment from the official responsibilities of budgetting according to national interest rather than personal desire helps make both men good finance ministers. They are sound in their economic outlook, cautious in planning, and unfretful in doing the job. They tax heavily, but the people seem to want what the money will provide (social welfare and the like) and the country seems to need the defence it will buy.

Even the Conservative Chancellor—politically wise to the popularity of public health measures and other services—seemed to apologize that he could not increase the present social services until the inexorable growth in the cost of the system had been brought under control. The bigger the bill for these services, the higher the taxes must be to provide them. Critics of the Abbott budget say the tax cuts were too few and too small. The same critics forget to point out that if the cuts were larger and more numerous, there would be a deficit, a big one. As it is, the budget is very close to the line; Mr. Abbott mentioned the possibility of a deficit of a hundred million dollars being created if he has guessed wrongly about economic trends.

Cheapskate Torontonians

Last Sunday 14,000 people filled the Maple Leaf Gardens for a variety show staged on behalf of crippled children. The show would have cost, it has been estimated, $50,000 to produce, if all the artists and the management of the Gardens had not donated their services. That was their contribution, the contribution of the talents of Lois Marshall, the Leslie Bell Singers, Luigio Agostini, Foster Hewitt, entertainers, orchestra players, television artists and so on. The 14,000 people who entered free put $4,300 into the collection plates to help crippled children. The average contribution of the people in the audience, children as well as adults, was therefore just about 30 cents. They could not have seen a show like it for less than $2.00 for the cheapest seats.

It is not only church collection plates which are weighted down with big nickels from cheapskates.

A Place For Music In Montreal

Canada's largest city has no concert hall. Therefore major concerts must be given in makeshift places. For instance, the orchestral concerts of Les Concerts Symphoniques are performed in a school auditorium. Admittedly, Plateau Hall was built with an eye to its uses as a public stage and auditorium as well as to school assemblies, but it is a poor place to house Canada's second most important symphonic orchestra. Toronto has Massey Hall, gift of the Massey family. It has Convocation Hall. Montreal has school auditoriums, the barn-like Her Majesty's Theatre, and smaller semi-private halls.

Montrealers have long been agitated by the lack of a proper concert hall, partly because music is one of the two arts which draw both major racial sections of the city together. (The other is painting, but it is on a much less popular front.)

Last Wednesday Montreal City Council did what it has been toying with for years: it took action. It ear-marked a million dollars towards the building of a concert hall worthy of the city.

Business men are interested in promoting the enterprise, and two years ago the Provincial authorities said they would co-operate with civic authorities in bringing a concert hall into existence. How much their financial help will be is in question. Montreal seems to be the forgotten city, as far as the Duplessis Government's handouts are concerned; it supplies more than half the Province's total tax revenue and gets shockingly little in return, not even adequate Legislative representation . . . The site recommended for the proposed hall is the block on Osborne Street at the south end of Dominion Square.

PARIS LETTER

Something To Smile About

By DENNIS BLOODWORTH

IT IS said that there is no defence against the hydrogen bomb. Nevertheless a limited number of unarmed Frenchmen have turned anxious frowns into smiles a few days ago. They did it simply by ceasing to argue. Deputies of the National Assembly, they adopted a Bill for tax reform after all-night discussion which may lighten the burden for everyone. The honest father earning eight hundred thousand francs a year will pay in some cases, as little as a quarter of his previous income tax; and although a few carping citizens may complain that when they evade taxation now they will be saving less than they did before, there is widespread rejoicing.

This does not match the exuberance of the bespectacled middle-aged lady, discreetly dressed in black, who last week distributed eighteen ecstatic kisses among six legal gentlemen in a Bordeaux courtroom. But when after five years of prison and two long trials, Marie Besnard, originally accused of murdering thirteen friends and relations over a period of twenty years by feeding them arsenic, was granted bail for one million two hundred thousand francs, she could not refrain from expressing her heightened regard for her defence counsel.

A CLIMAX in the hearing arrived after six other gentlemen — among the most eminent toxicologists in the country — disagreed violently in court as to whether the arsenic found in the remains of Marie Besnard's alleged victims had been administered by the accused or absorbed after death from the soil. There was a dangerous moment when the prosecution affirmed dogmatically that arsenic found in the hair of the deceased must have been taken internally. But this was followed by a dramatic intervention. Professor Truffert of Paris quietly demolished this axiom of forensic medicine by describing how he dipped hair in an arsenical liquid and found not only that arsenic attached itself to the hair, but it could not later be washed off.

News of this novel shampoo caused general consternation. The trial was abruptly suspended. Marie Besnard was granted bail, which Charles Trenet, the singer, and a Parisian newspaper (which wanted the exclusive rights to her autobiography) vied to pay. The court appointed three members of the Academy of Science to re-examine the technical evidence, and to report their findings in three months' time.

THE LAST time chemical experts were given two months to present their views on the case, it was two years before the trial could reopen, and the only thing the experts then proved was their own incompetence.

The suspension of the trial is not all. In a parallel poisoning case two experts have now suddenly declined to give any opinion, and a super-expert pleads that he is too ill to attend. Further, Paule Guillou, gaoled several years ago for allegedly poisoning her lover, claims to be innocent and is demanding retrial. Professors of medicine throughout the country are revising their lectures on toxicology, for what the H-bomb did to the atoll, Professor Truffert's arsenic bomb has done to medical jurisprudence. Detective story writers are tearing up their plots and starting again. Poisoners are expected to follow suit.

THE FRENCH nevertheless continue to show a predilection for conventional weapons. Some of the foreign customers at a Paris cafe might well have been surprised last week for example. M. Roger De Vewert toured the tables offering to sell them three second-hand sub-machine guns at reasonable prices. The police detained him, wishing to impound his stock-in-trade (he had no hawker's licence), decided to fish for it on the basis of information received at Ivry-sur-Seine. Here a frogman brought up from the muddy river bottom a comprehensive arsenal of rifles, sub-machine-guns, hand grenades, detonators and several thousand rounds of ammunition.

The market, it seems, is not hard to find. There was some excitement a few days ago at the famous Lycee, just opposite my flat, when police discovered that the favourite pastime of the boys in one class was a profitable arms traffic, and that revolvers, of which seven were later found, were changing adolescent hands from prices rising to twenty thousand francs. It was easy to evade supervision in an establishment of four thousand pupils, divided up into classes sometimes more than forty strong.

TROUBLE led to exposure. Of the two teenage students, Eric Malan shot himself with a Mauser pistol because he was not as wicked as he thought, and Gilbert Lion threw himself off the Solferino Bridge into the Seine (but was rescued) because he thought himself more wicked than he was. Malan moved in the tough set which collected guns, played poker in class and stole cars. One day he planned armed robbery against any lone pedestrian he could find in the Bois de Boulogne, but when a victim appeared Malan could not bring himself to act. Disgusted with himself, he took his own life.

LION'S pitiful story shows how closely vice is intertwined with childish make-believe in juvenile cases. He had run a black market in American cigarettes which he sold at suspiciously cut prices in school. The death of his friend convinced him that he himself had become an irretrievable criminal and that his only expiation lay in suicide.

It had, in fact, cost him a considerable sum to appear so satisfyingly shady. For the cigarettes he sold were not stolen goods. He bought them at legal prices from licensed tobacconists and sold them at a loss, just to create the desired effect.

THE ATTENTION of Parisians was effectively switched from this tragic affair when a mysterious Mr. B. . . . set fire to the Chateau of Versailles. Listeners were horrified when he broke into a Radio Luxembourg programme to give an eye-witness account of this national catastrophe. People in Versailles itself, unable to believe that this was more than a broadcasting stunt, rushed out into the streets to be greeted by the sight of flames and smoke billowing up from the Palace.

There was much weeping and wringing of hands, and in fact all went splendidly until some busybody thought of seeing what the firemen were doing. These unpatriotic sluggards were found sulking in their station, listening with only faint interest to Radio Luxembourg. Others were indeed on the scene of the "conflagration," and the fire captain himself finally came to the microphone — to explain that the flames arose from a large collection of harmless fireworks set off by the radio programme's producers.

Mr. B. . . . organised the stunt to bring home to Frenchmen how much the chateau meant to them and to persuade them to contribute funds for its preservation. But listeners did not take to it kindly, and it is perhaps fortunate for Mr. B. . . . that his name still remains little more than a row of dots.

Letter To The Editor

CONFUSION ABOUT UNEMPLOMENT INSURANCE

SIR: I wish to commend Mr. Alfred Rose for his letter which brings up the subject of Unemployment Insurance. This is a fund to which most wage-earners in Canada are compelled to contribute, and yet, how many of us are completely familiar with the benefits received or how adequate they are for a lower income family.

In all innocence we approach the local office to set up a claim; we are asked the usual routine questions; forms are filled out for us, and we sign them, without being fully aware of all the implications involved which may be to our advantage or disadvantage.

The pamphlets issued for our information are vague and incomplete, and it would seem that the civil servants (employed by the people of Canada to operate this insurance bureau), are more intent upon building up a surplus, than upon assisting claimants in filing to their best possible advantage. Alas, at times, the reception is extremely "uncivil," and the "service" leaves much to be desired. Should the unemployed be made to feel they are applying for charity, when they are merely seeking entitled remuneration against a paid insurance policy?

There are so many loop-holes and deviations possible, that I feel Canadians should ask to be more fully informed of the facts, especially when the rules are constantly being revised and adjusted. Judging by the number of claims accepted "without question" which are definitely not legitimate, and offset by those which could legally be set up to better advantage, there seems to be a great deal of laxness on the part of the office in determining the validity and attempting to procure sufficient proof, for or against.

Benefits are paid in accordance with the denomination of the stamps, and the number of days contributed. On a strictly insurance basis a single person, and one with dependents should receive equal benefits for an equal premium paid. But this is not so, and I quite agree that a married man is entitled to a greater allowance.

On the other hand, how is it remotely possible for a married man with several dependents, to subsist on the meagre sum apportioned to a man with only a wife to support? Or am I wrong in this assumption? It is high time something was done to set up this fund on a similar basis to most hospital plans, whereby benefits are received per capita as needed — and as soon as needed!

A few questions cross my mind, and no doubt other citizens have more to ask. For instance, how many employers when deducting for stamps, realize that there is a difference in setting up a claim for a 5, or a 6-day week when you are out of work? On short-time claims this could mean the loss of one day's benefit per week.

Similarly, once a benefit year has been set up, and the five days "waiting period" has been established, why should the first day of unemployment, in any ensuing period of unemployment, be "non-compensible"? For anyone working a 3-day week due to lay-off, I gather that benefit can be received for one day only per week due to this silly ruling — if the claim has been set up on a 5-day week basis. Unfortunately, a family has to eat and keep warm for seven whole days a week.

In other instances, by accepting temporary work on one of your "unemployed" days, it is possible for a claimant to lose more money than he would if he refused the intermittent job. And is this point made clear to us?

More knowledge should be available as to when a man and his wife (having 2 or more other dependents, and both adults claiming unemployment benefits simultaneously) can mutually benefit by each claiming a dependent. And why cannot a wife, when unemployed, claim for proven dependents other than children, without having a claim discredited, and judged with an eye on the husband's income?

People are [illegible] dependently, according to their jobs and wages, then they should be able to place claims likewise, without other wage-earners in the family becoming an influencing factor.

After this past season of increased unemployment throughout the entire country, any dissatisfaction should be brought out for mutual discussion and enlightenment, if this Unemployment Insurance Commission is to continue to function as a democratic service with sufficient advantages to warrant its existence.

Bible Message

(From The Authorized Version)

And the Lord said unto Moses, Speak unto Aaron thy brother, that he come not at all times into the holy place within the vail before the mercy seat, which is upon the ark; that he die not: for I will appear in the cloud upon the mercy seat. Thus shall Aaron come into the holy place: with a young bullock for a sin offering, and a ram for a burnt offering . . . And there shall be no man in the tabernacle of the congregation when he goeth in to make an atonement in the holy place, until he come out, and have made an atonement for himself, and for his household, and for all the congregation of Israel . . . And this shall be an everlasting statute unto you, to make an atonement for [illegible] Lev. 16:2, 3, 17, 34.)

The law having a shadow of good things to come, and not the very image of the things, can never with those sacrifices which they offered year by year continually make the comers thereunto perfect . . . Chataway Looking Forward To Running In Summer Empire Games At Vancouver

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—A young Oxford graduate with a shock of auburn hair and a quarter-interest in a world running record is happily contemplating the Empire Games at Vancouver this summer. He says he will run "any event they ask me to."

The easy-to-please chappie is Christopher Chataway, apprentice brewer formerly known as the "Red Fox of Oxford," and regarded as one of the best of England's running aces.

He was one of the four athletes who last year set a world-beating time of 16:47 in the four-mile relay, in which each ran one mile. His best time in the mile is a highly respectable 4:08.2, and he's prepared to run anything up to six miles.

CASUAL ATTITUDE

He has a relaxed attitude to running, which extends to his training habits. He may, like a lot of Britons, be deceptively casual about it all.

"The attraction in this running game is the time just around the corner—in the next performance. You may come up with a time a lot better than you have ever done before," said Chataway in an interview at a Thames-side track while waiting for his good friend Roger Bannister to appear for a practice canter.

Is there a special diet, extra sleep or just plain hard work in this running game?

"Oh no," said Chataway. "Nothing like that for me. I may run several times a week for several weeks and then not see a track for two weeks or more. I just do what I can."

GETS RESULTS

The Chataway formula contrasts with the sweat-and-strain routines followed by such English track notables as Gordon Pirie and Jim Peters, the marathoner, who may gallop miles a day. Yet Chataway—whose leisurely attitude corresponds to the training habits of mile king Gundar Haeg, the retired Swede who last year asked Chataway to visit him—gets results.

He expects to run the three-mile event at Vancouver. The distance he says he runs best—two miles—isn't a common one competitively.

Chataway, now 23, came into prominence with a gritty performance in the 5,000 metres at the 1952 Olympic Games, when he paced Emil Zatopek of Czechoslovakia to one of his three victories. Chataway was ahead when he stumbled and fell, finishing fifth.

ADMIRE ZATOPEK

"It wouldn't have made any difference," said Chataway, a medium-sized, deep-chested boy. "I was beaten." He may meet Zatopek again at the Bern, Switzerland European games in August.

He holds the iron Czech in high regard. "A wonderful chap—a wonderful sense of humor."

Chataway thinks Zatopek might be able to smash the four-minute mile if so minded. And he thinks the long-sought mark will be reached this year, by any one of six runners including Bannister, Australian John Landy and American Wes Santee.

"But everything must be right—the weather, competition, the track and the athlete's mind and body." Would Chataway settle for the four-minute mile himself? "Wouldn't you," retorted the redhead.

Chataway visited Canada and the United States last year as captain of the joint Oxford - Cmbridge team which met eastern U.S. colleges and visited Montreal for a small meeting. Chataway spent a day or two in the Laurentians. "Wonderful," he recalled.

"RED FOX" — A young apprentice brewer, Chistopher Chataway, is one of the athletes who probably will represent Britain at the British Empire Games in Vancouver this summer. The 23-year-old runner, sometimes called "the Red Fox of Oxford" because of his red hair, is regarded as one of the trump cards in England's clutch of running aces. He may try the three-mile event.

Lawyer Argues Monopoly Not Interested

TORONTO (CP)—J. J. Robinette, Toronto lawyer representing 20 fine paper merchants charged under the Combines Act, argued Tuesday that they did not intend any monopoly and could not be convicted on the recorded cases.

The merchants are charged along with seven paper mills with price-fixing conspiracy in restraint of trade in the fine paper business in Canada.

Mr. Robinette said that the merchants controlled only 35 per cent of the fine paper going to the consumer and "if their purpose was monopoly they certainly didn't come near it."

ARGUE ABOUT PRINTERS

Mr. Justice W. F. Spence asked if a small Toronto printer had to go to Cornwall for his paper, would that not be undue restraint.

Mr. Robinette replied in the negative.

His lordship said he could not think of anything more undue than that.

Mr. Robinette said it was not ruthless to eliminate the inefficient, small printer; it was best for trade and public.

His lordship sharply disagreed and said "this is not elimination by competition, this is elimination by combination suggesting the group ganged up on the little fellow."

Long-Distance Calls Dropping

NEW YORK (AP)—A slowing down in the rate of growth in telephones and long-distance usage in the United States was reported today by American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Cleo F. Craig, president, in the quarterly financial report to stockholders, said the ATT-Bell system added about 400,000 in the first quarter this year, compared with 540,000 in the same period last year.

First-quarter net income was $109,920,000 or $2.50 a share, compared with $101,310,260 or $2.56 a share on a smaller number of shares a year ago. For the year ended March 31, net income was $430,090,000 or $10.25 a share against $372,922,103 or $10.08 a share on a lesser number of shares the preceding 12 months.

The Bell system, consisting of ATT and its principal telephone subsidiaries, had consolidated net income of $129,539,695 for the three months ended Feb. 28. In the like quarter a year ago, net income was $116,263,614.

Bell system operating revenues for the latest quarter were $1,143,571,850 against $1,067,652,210 a year earlier.

The decline in new installations was the first reported in several years.

Has No Control Over Newstand

OTTAWA (CP)—Transport Minister Chevrier says the management of the Chateau Laurier Hotel in Ottawa has no direct control over the type of literature sold by the newsstand in the hotel lobby.

Mr. Chevrier made the statement Wednesday in the Commons in reply to a question asked Tuesday by Wallace Nesbitt (PC—Oxford). Mr. Nesbitt asked whether the CNR, which operates the hotel, approves the sale of "trash" by the newsstand.

Mr. Chevrier said the newsstand is operated by a concessionnaire and the hotel has no direct control over it. However, the hotel management brought complaints about publications offered for sale to the attention of the operators. If the complaints were justified the concessionnaire was ordered to remove offending books.

3 Legislatures Have Prorogued

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Legislatures in three Canadian provinces prorogued Wednesday, leaving only the provincial government of Newfoundland still in session.

In British Columbia, Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace gave royal assent to 69 bills to wind up the second session of the province's 24th legislature. The session saw passing of the Social Credit government's first complete budget in the province. It calls for spending $210,000,000.

The New Brunswick legislature also prorogued. Among the 175 bills introduced in the two-month session was legislation to raise the gasoline tax to 15 from 13 cents, and to reduce to three-per-cent the four-per-cent sales tax in the province.

The Nova Scotia legislature, in mourning over the death of Liberal Premier Angus Macdonald earlier this week, prorogued quietly. Royal assent was given to 131 bills.

Hold $22,881,111 In Trust For Indians

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada holds $22,881,111 in trust for Indians who numbered 136,407 at the last departmental census in 1949.

This information was contained in a return tabled Wednesday in the Commons for Henry Mang (L—Qu'Appelle). The return said the increase in Indian population over the age of seven was 26.4 per cent between 1939 and 1949.

Interest rate on about $1,000,000 held in trust is six per cent and on the remainder five per cent.

Free Car Licence

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Manitoba government has provided free motor vehicle licences for 145 veteran paraplegics under legislation approved by the legislature last year. Registrar R. B. Baillie said similar legislation has been passed by British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and New Brunswick.

Chinchilla Experts

WINNIPEG (CP)—An increase in chinchilla breeders in the province was reported at the annual meeting of the Manitoba branch of the National Chinchilla Breeders of Canada. Pelts now being received in quantity will be sold this year in New York.

GRANT'S SPORT CORNER

By DON GRANT

Let's take a little ride today with the Peterborough Motor Sports Club stopping off first at their rally this weekend, then for some baskeball, track and field, and then a few extras.

These sports car rallies have been the rage for some years across the pond in the British Isles and on the continent. With so many newcomers to our country from these lands the rallies are increasing in greater numbers.

Until a year ago most Peterborough drivers never heard of the sports rallies. Then one happened to pass through Peterborough, followed up by the first annual Easter rally by the city motor club.

At a glance most people believe these rallies are like high-speed motorcycle and race car events. Actually they're more of an endurance test for both the car and the driver with emphasis on the driver's skill not speed.

Over various roads, paved and unpaved, for distances of 300 miles or more the entrants must pace the car's speed (never more than the speed limit). With the help of a navigator the car must reach the various check points at appointed times. When a car reaches these points early or late they lose points.

The Peterborough rally will include some 40 cars including several Jaguars, Austin Healeys, some MGs (the symbol of sports cars), Morris Minors, Austins, Renaults, Volkswagens and, of course, Canadian and American models. Entries are from Toronto, Hamilton, Oshawa and Peterborough.

While most of us are tucked between the covers, these cars will be hiking their way through a 450-mile course of a 12-hour duration, beginning Friday night from the city hall parking lot at 8 p.m. They will begin to straggle into Peterborough about 7:30 a.m. Saturday.

This 450-mile jaunt will take the entrants through the black of night throughout Central Ontario. Take a gander at their route: Havelock, Stirling, Trenton, Picton, Belleville, Madoc, Bancroft, Apsley, Burleigh Falls, Fenelon Falls, Lindsay, Dale, Baltimore, Cobourg, Trenton, Stirling Marmora and then back to Peterborough. That's a fair night's drive.

Besides check points at Picton, Bancroft, Fenelon Falls, Lindsay and Dale, there'll be a special unknown stop. This one will probably make drivers lose a few points.

Sleepy-eyed and just plain tired, the drivers will face other tests upon their arrival in Peterborough. Elimination driving tests will be held at the exhibition grounds (the final stop).

There must be better ways of spending a night.

City Hoop Artists

Since it hasn't been noted in other sports columns, here's a note on former Peterborough boys now in the Canadian senior basketball finals in Toronto.

Unless Toronto Tri-Bells broke Winnipeg Paulins' tight zone defence, the westerners are likely senior champions today (the Paulins led the best-of-five series 2-1 when this column was scribbled). But Don Griffin and Ray Thomas have been doing their part for the Bells.

The red-headed Ray who played most of his basketball around the Y in his early days has been a top scorer in the final series against the Paulins. Ray has had 15 (tops for the Bells' in Tuesday's game) and 14 in the previous game as the supposed Bell "stars", Ray Monnot, Peter Potter and Freddie Thomas fail to produce in large quantities.

Don, whose work played hob with his basketball this season, had his best game Tuesday night, keeping up his high standard of play which placed him on the college all-stars four years in a row.

Peterborough certainly has been making appearances in Canadian championship play.

Request Turned Down

It's interesting to note that a request from the Board of Education for permission to allow PCVS students to practice track and field a Nicholls Oval was turned down by the parks committee.

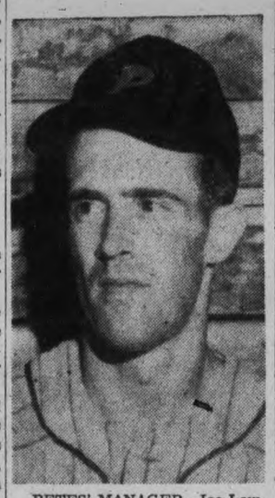
Anyone who has followed sports probably has noticed the parks' policy in refusing various sports use of the park when there is a chance the grassy oval may be damaged. It has happened particularly in football. And it is understandable.

Just the same if the revival of track and field is to be a success, there must be adequate facilities for practicing and competing. There are no such facilities as yet in Peterborough.

The large campus at Kenner Collegiate offers an excellent opportunity for this development. It could follow a similar plan to that of East York Collegiate where directly beside the school is a football field, large bowl stands, a good cinder track and jumping pits.

Here are a few stop-overs:

There'll be loud shouting and wailing from a southern Ontario lacrosse centre shortly . . . all directed at Peterborough.



Congratulations are in order for Roy (Army) Armstrong, hockey-football player, who marries Joan Krogh, former PCVS cage star, today.

It's out. The ice has been taken out of the Civic Arena for another year. From now on it's roller skating.

Lowrey Chosen Manager Of COBL Petes

The COBL Petes' executive, at a meeting last night, chose Joe Lowry to manage the team this season. The speedy centre-fielder (who can pitch in a pinch, also) will pick a coach to assist him shortly, and is presently after Fd (Gunner) Whitehill for this position, Ed being especially good at coaching pitchers. The manager plans early indoor PT drills for prospective players until they can work outdoors. Joe came here five years ago from Connecticut, making his home in Peterborough since. A fine fielder, he is an ace base-runner, and a steady hitter, being a popular player with his mates.

The meeting also decided to call back what $5 draw tickets on the $1,000 bond they have sold already, and will substitute $2 tickets instead, selling 1,500 of these, instead of the 600 planned at the higher price in order that more average working men will feel they can afford the tickets. Meantime, the club is checking on two new pitchers for this year's team.

PETES' MANAGER—Joe Lowrey, classy centre-fielder, last night was named playing manager of the senior Petes' ball team in the COBL. Joe will choose a coach to assist him at the spring training program to commence shortly and for the season of play ahead.

ALL OVER FOR ANOTHER YEAR—The ice has been taken out of Civic Arena for another season. Since OHA hockey, school hockey and figure skating ended the 1953-54 season a week ago, the arena has been empty and the freezing plant was turned off. This week ice removal started. Wednesday it was just a matter of carrying the ice outisde (above). It looked quite gloomy even with all the lights on.

Unsolved Problem In Ursus' Win Over The Villains

Let A represent Atkins, H stand for Henning and U for Ursus. Does A plus H equal U?

That little (well, not so little, just about half a ton) mathematical-wrestling problem went unsolved Wednesday night. The wrestling fans still don't know if Fred Atkins plus Lee Henning equal the Mighty Ursus.

The problem wasn't as clean cut as it looks from a first glance. But true blue mat enthusiasts on a second reading would realize that little tricks and gadgets by Henning and Atkins would unbalance the problem, leaving the huge Ursus unequal to their tactics.

The sinister, rough-house Henning and the mean Atkins used kicking, fists, wire, the corner tag rope, the ring ropes, hair-pulling, gouging with additional well-concealed tactics on Ursus.

Not satisfied with bruising Ursus one at a time (they were wrestling under tag team rules), Henning and Atkins worked Ursus over in the corner, one keeping referee Bunny Dunlop away while the other worked the mighty one over.

MUCH STRONGER

When it came to wrestling, the mean boys just didn't stand a chance against Ursus. His power-packed arms spelled briuses and unconsciousness, his muscle-bound legs meant head-crushing scissor holds, and his whole huge frame was disaster for Henning and Atkins.

Ursus weathered a storm of choking, punching and kicking in several corner brawls during the first 12 minutes. Then suddenly the partners' plans went hay-wire. Ursus objected to the treatment, grabbed Henning, and after three mighy slams, Henning was ripe for a back-breaker. Urusus won the first fall.

For many fans the problem was solved. Ursus was Henning's and Atkins' equal. But Henning and Atkins weren't satisfied with that solution.

The boys started the second fall by tempting Ursus into their den. There like wolves they tore Ursus apart. But again Ursus indicated his temper is just as mighty as his strength and fighting mad he grabbed Henning.

That seemed to be the end. Henning dangled on Ursus' shoulder in the back-breaker ready for the fall. But it didn't come.

AID FROM ATKINS

Ursus hadn't counted on Atkins. The sly Australian, supposedly neutral, punched Ursus in the back. Down dropped Henning, saved.

Henning tagged up and Atkins raced in against the downed Ursus. Atkins applied a head roll and with Ursus semi-conscious, the boys tagged a second time. Henning took over and pinned Ursus with a top spread.

Not satisfied with that both bad boys kicked the prostrate Ursus until shooed by Dunlop.

Ursus literally walked into the den to start off the third fall. Atkins drew Dunlop's attention while Henning gave Ursus the corner treatment. Finally Atkins rolled Ursus from the ring.

Every time Ursus attempted to crawl back in, Atkins charged over and Dunlop had to force him back. While Dunlop was holding Atkins away, Henning kept kicking Ursus off the mat.

Dunlop finally caught on. He just had a glimpse of Henning's punts and that was all. He jumped from the ring, took Ursus' arms and waved it. Ursus was the victor on a disqualification.

The bout therefore ended with the little problem unsolved. Does H plus A equal U?

ILIO GETS WIN

Ilio DiPaolo, the Italian beauty-wrestling champion, also had his hands full of meanness, namely one Mike Paidousis from Ohio. The former all-American football player introduced line tactics on DiPaolo, but the Italian champion soon changed the bout back to wrestling from football and won.

DiPaolo hoisted Paidousis up three times and three times sent him crashing into the corner ropes. The fourth time DiPaolo flipped the American into the ropes. Paidousis bounced back, landed on DiPaolo's shoulders. Immediately DiPaolo went into a plane spin and finally dropped Paidousis for a top spread fall.

In the preliminary Johnn Barend and Johny Harmon gave a good demonstration of scientific wrestling, much to the fans' dislike. They wanted blood.

After 23 minutes of good holds, they finally went into a series of flying mares. Barend eventually came off the ropes and applied a flying hold on Harmon. They dropped and Barend won the fall.

Marmora Sews Up Series In Trent Valley Loop At 2-2

MARMORA (ENS)—The finals of the Trent Valley League look destined to run into seven games now that Marmora on their own rink Wednesday secured the victory over Point Anne by the score of 6-5. The Ox Pointers had as much of the game as the winners but Lady Luck smiled a little more on the Millionaires and they had a well-earned victory to place two wins for each team in the present standing.

Although Leonard opened the scoring for Marmora in less than a minute of play the homesters retired at the end of the first in arrears by one goal. This Jones removed half-way through the second with the only goal of the period. In just 25 seconds of play in the third, Stubby Trumble placed his team ahead. Then goals were scored alternately and when Point Anne found difficulty in responding to Marmora's sixth goal, another from the stick of Jones, they pulled Bates with two minutes to go to no avail and were lucky not to be further scored against. Another fine crowd of close to 1,100 saw the encounter which was clean despite 11 penalties, seven of which went to the losers.

Cleveland Wins Calder Cup

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Barons won the American Hockey League playoffs and the Calder Cup for the second year in a row Wednesday night by defeating Hershey Bears 5-3.

The victory gave Cleveland the final series by a margin of four games to two.

Hershey took a 1-0 lead in the first period on a goal by George (Red) Sullivan. Fred Shero and Chuck Blair scored for Cleveland early in the second period.

Arnie Kullman tied it for Hershey at 2-2, but Gus Karrys and Fred Glover then rifled goals that put Cleveland ahead to stay.

Elmira Leads Lindsay By 3-0 In Set

LINDSAY (ENS) — The high-flying Elmira Polar Kings are one game away from the OHA intermediate "A" final berth after their thrilling 6-3 overtime win over the Lindsay Muskies here last night.

The Kings now hold a 3-0 lead in the series with the fourth game scheduled for Elmira on Saturday night.

A packed arena roared its approval of the fine hockey displayed by both teams through the first three periods as the squads battled on even terms throughout in a free-wheeling game that gave goaltenders Denny Mooney of Elmira and Mucker O'Connell of the Muskies a chance to show their best.

GOALIE SHARP

Mooney, the ex-Guelph Biltmore netminder was especially effective as he held the muskies off during the second frame and the first half of the third when they had a wide edge in play. Both teams scored twice in the first period. Carroll and Trapp counted for the Kings both while the Muskies were short-handed, while Vic Corley scored Lindsay's goals, one with Elmira playing two men short. Referees Crombie and Walsh kept the box well-filled throughout the period with no scoring and five penalties in the second.

The break in the game appeared to have favoured Muskies in the third when Stu Hicks notched the third goal for the homesters with only three minutes remaining. The Kings came back however and scored when Bowman and Martin broke out alone from the Elmira end. O'Connel stopped Martin cold, but Bowman rapped in the rebound to force overtime.

The Muskies were too worn out to battle the Kings in the extra session. At 6:25 Jack Oberle notched the winner and less than a minute later Stoddard added the clincher. A last tally came from the stick of Schnarr slap shot from the blue line.

Martin, Oberle, Stoddard, Lacey, Wildfong, Schnarr, Carrol and Mooney were best for the powerful Kings; while Hicks, Corley, Hutton, Packer, Sinclair, Weddup, Green and Al Burns turned in an outstanding game for the Muskies.

Ready To Root For Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore baseball fans today stopped talking or listening about the "good old days," and turned to rooting for their own big-league Orioles.

There was plenty of excitement in advance of the Orioles' game with Chicago White Sox, first American League fixture here in 52 years. A sell-out crowd of some 50,000 is expected.

For half a century, the old-timers have been ear-bending about the "Old Orioles." To be sure, there was plenty to talk about. Just before the turn of the century they won three straight National League pennants and twice took the Temple Cup series, forerunner of today's world series.

Today was practically a holiday in Baltimore. Schools were closed, and most city and court employees were excused from work to watch the game and also the big three-mile-long parade to the stadium, with 33 floats and 22 bands.

Playfairs had high game of 881 and Dinkies best triple of 2439.

Remember When—

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Barney Ross abdicated the world's lightweight boxing title 19 years ago today because he could no longer make the 135 pound weight limit. He recaptured the welterweight title that year from Vancouver's Jimmy McLarnin, and held it until beaten by Henry Armstrong in 1938.

Newcombe Hurls Dodgers To 6-4 Victory

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Don Newcombe finally rid himself of the shadow that had hung over him for 2½ years when he hurled Brooklyn Dodgers to a 6-4 victory over the Giants at the Polo Grounds in New York Wednesday night.

Although he wouldn't admit it, the triumph must have been in the nature of sweet revenge for the Negro righthander. It was in the same park back on Oct. 3, 1951, that Newcombe suffered the saddest moments of his life.

That was the fateful day when the Giants' Bobby Thomson hammered that heard-around-the-world homer in the ninth inning of the final playoff game to snatch the National League pennant away from Brooklyn.

Newcombe, who had been batted out of the box earlier in that fatal game, soon after served two years in the army.

ONLY NIGHT AFFAIR

The Giant-Dodger scrap was the only night affair in Wednesday's five-game schedule. In the afternoon, Philadelphia, behind the four hit pitching of Curt Simmons, vanquished Pittsburgh Pirates 6-0. Third-baseman Willie Jones, the former Toronto Maple Leaf star, who was moved up from seventh to lead-off in the batting order, drove in three Philly runs with a home run, a double and two singles.

In the American League, Bob Lemon threw a three-hitter at Chicago as Cleveland Indians whipped the White Sox 6-3 to sweep the two-game series. The veteran ace permitted only one hit after the first inning. Wally Westlake poled his second homer in two days and his Cleveland team-mate, Bill Glynn, socked four singles.

ERRORS HELP

A pair of palpable ninth-inning errors by second-baseman Wayne Terwilliger presented New York Yankees with the winning run at Washington as the world champions nipped the Nats 2-1 behind Eddie Lopat. It marked the 12th straight triumph for the veteran southpaw over the Senators.

Baltimore Orioles achieved their first American League victory in 52 years, edging out Detroit Tigers 3-2. Righthander Duane Pillette permitted six hits.

Truckmen Down Stouffville

Oshawa Truckers pulled out a 3-2 victory over Stouffville Clippers in Kingston last night to take a 3-1 lead in their best-of-seven OHA senior "B" semi-final playoff series. The victors scored two fairly soft goals in the close tussle before 1,525 paid fans.

After considerable argument following the game, Stouffville agreed to play the fifth game in Kingston on Good Friday with the next one slated for Stouffville on Saturday. No decision was reached on a possible seventh game.

Wings, Canadiens Still Showing Even NHL Strength

By W. R. WHEATLEY

MONTREAL (CP)—Looking for the Stanley Cup winner on the basis of past performance gets you nowhere and only emphasizes the even strength of Detroit Red Wings and Montreal Canadiens.

Both in games and goals throughout the regular National Hockey League season and on into the cup final, now down to the seventh game for settlement, it's virtually a dead heat.

The home-ice advantage that weighed heavily during the NHL campaign disappeared in the cup final, each team winning once and losing twice at home. The deciding seventh game is in Detroit Friday night.

In the 14 league meetings each team won six games. Detroit took only one game in seven in Montreal. Canadiens couldn't win at all in Detroit but salvaged two ties.

SCORING RECORDS

In the regular season each team scored 27 goals. The favorable home-ice margin was exactly the same, 13 goals. The Red Wings scored 22 goals in Detroit against Canadiens' nine. In Montreal, Canadiens' total was 18 and the Red Wings' five.

The scoring parity has been almost matched in the cup final. In the six games played, Detroit has scored 12 goals and Montreal 11. Curiously, the visiting team has outscored the home team. The Red Wings have an 8-6 goal edge in Montreal; Canadiens a 5-4 edge in Detroit.

The parallel between the two clubs goes on back into Stanley Cup history. Since the Red Wings came into the NHL in 1926 they have won the cup five times. So have Canadiens, although they were also winners in 1924.

Each team has been a back-to-back repeater once. Canadiens won in 1930 and 1931 and the Red Wings in 1936 and 1937 a win for Canadiens Friday would give them the edge in doubles, since they defeated Boston Bruins in last year's final. Toronto Maple Leafs are the only club ever to win the cup three times in a row, in 1947-48-49.

STILL ON TOP

Montreal's Maurice Richard, who led the NHL with 37 goals this season, is top man with three. Gordie Howe of the Wings, who had 33 in season play, has scored only once but has been a big threat in every game.

Bernie Geoffrion, a 29-goal man, and Floyd Curry, with 13 during the league season, have each scored twice. Against these two-goal producers, the Red Wings have five—Ted Lindsay, Alex Delvecchio, Johnny Wilson, Metro Prystai and defenceman Red Kelly.

Coach Dick Irvin of Canadiens said he had no lineup changes in mind, indicating that unless something unforseen happens between now and Friday he is satisfied to stick with the lineup that brought him two wins to square the series.

Angry Fans Mob Referees At Matane

MATANE, Que. (CP)—Terrible-tempered fans took things into their own hands here Wednesday night after Sudbury Wolves defeated Matane Red Rocks 5-3, evening their eastern Canada Allan Cup final series at one win each and one tie.

Irate spectators roughed up Ottawa referees Hap Shouldice and Stan Pratt just after the game, sending Pratt to hospital for five stitches to close a cut over the left eye and leaving Shouldice with a cut on the side of the mouth.

Neither could be reached after the brawl for comment.

Sudbury won on three unanswered goals in the third period. It was these goals and allegedly bad officiating in the penalty-ridden first period that roused the crowd's dander.

SAY ALL OFFSIDE

Many spectators thought each of the third-period goals was scored after a Sudbury player should have been ruled offside. Matane playing coach Gerry Plamondon deplored the melee but added that the refereeing was "unjust."

Some 100 seething fans, out of the crowd of about 2,000, piled onto the ice and surrounded Pratt and Shouldice. Fists flailed and the officials were rescued by 30 regular and volunteer police who escorted them out of the arena.

The Sudbury players, apparently unscathed, were escorted out in similar fashion and left, along with Shouldice, for home by bus. Matane players had left the ice before the fracas began.

Next game of the best-of-seven series is scheduled for Saturday in Sudbury, where all remaining contests will be played.

Star of the night was Sudbury goalie Al Millar. He made 16 stops in the last period to push his total to 33.

Ed Harrison scored the winning goal mid-way in the final frame, and Fiori Geogan added an insurance marker with 28 seconds to go after Matane netminder Marcel Paille had been removed.

Andy Milne, George Defelice and Tatter McLellan also scored for Sudbury. Gilles Desrosiers, Bernie Limoges and Bob Brault were the Matane marksmen.

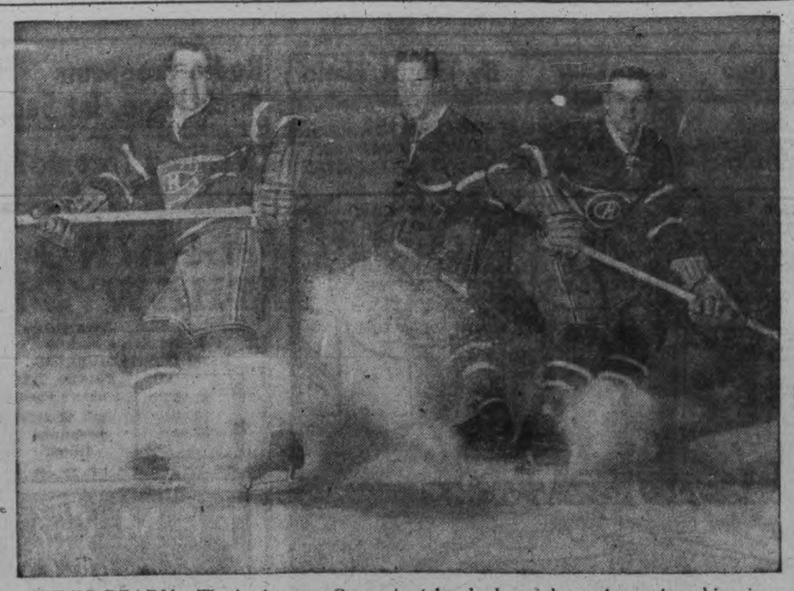
Tri-Bells Beat Winnipeg 59-55; Thomas Gets 11

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Tri-Bells came from behind in the last quarter to defeat Winnipeg Paulins 59-55 Wednesday night and tie up the Canadian senior men's basketball championship at two games each. The deciding game of the best-of-five series will be played here Friday night.

Paulins, paced by centre Carl Ridd's six-point effort, squeezed to a 12-11 lead after a see-saw first quarter. Tri-Bells came back in the second when Ray Monnot scored 12 points to tie it up 30-30 at the half.



Tri-Bells, down 45-40 at the end of the third quarter, came up with a tremendous fourth-quarter attack to overtake the tiring Paulins.

Marlboros Break Winning Streak For TeePees With 5-3 Victory

TORONTO (CP)—St. Catharines TeePees had their winning streak of six consecutive playoff victories broken Wednesday night when they were defeated 5-3 by Toronto Marlboros.

The Marlboro victory, watched here by 6,013 fans, also stopped the TeePees from taking the Ontario Hockey Association junior A championship in the minimum number of games. Leading the best-of-seven series 3-1, the TeePees will try to wrap it up in St Catharines Friday.

The Dukes were forced to come from behind to take the victory. They spotted St. Catharines a 1-0 lead in the first period but bounced back with two goals in the second and were never headed. They added their last three goals in the third session before allowing the TeePees to round out the total.

Dave Reid, Wally Maxwell, Bob Pulford and Gerry James each notched a goal and an assist for the Marlboros. Defenceman Bob Baun scored the other Marlboro goal. The Cullen - Barlow - Cullen line accounted for the St. Catharines total, Brian Cullen and Hugh Barlow each scoring a goal and an assist and Barry Cullen firing the other goal.

Referee Jim Boddy of Owen Sound handed out 13 minor penalties, nine to Marlboros. The TeePees scored their first goal during a Toronto penalty. Marlboros later notched one while they themselves were playing one man short.

Barry Cullen scored the first goal of the game while Billy Harris was off for elbowing. Barry shot one that Toronto netminder Johnny Albani stopped but Hank Ciesla got the rebound and passed it back to Barry who slipped it in this time.

Dave Reid tied the score in the second period while teammate James was sitting out an interference penalty. Reid broke away from a St. Catharines power play, split the defence of Brian Cullen and Vasko and drove the puck past Marv Edwards in the TeePee nets.

James just got back to the ice from his penalty when he got the puck, sped down right wing and passed to Baun who made it 2-1 for the Dukes. James made it 3-1 at 3:34 of the third period on a protested goal. TeePees said the puck didn't go into the net. Two minutes later Maxwell scored the fourth Marlboro goal and Pulford increased the lead to 5-1 at 16:55.

Here And There In Sports

NEW YORK (AP)—A new $100,000 barn designed to be as fireproof as experts can make it, was unveiled Wednesday at Jamaica Race Track where a blaze caused the death of eight thoroughbreds last spring.

The experimental barn has a radical "M" shaped roof instead of the customary inverted "V" or peak covering. The new metal roof has vents designed to permit explosive gases to escape in event of a fire. Most stall floors are covered with straw which could produce intense heat up to 2,000 degrees.

The barn, of concrete block, has 18 stalls, with an automatic overhead sprinkler—which would be set off by excessive heat—in each stall.

Senior OHA Teams Have Money Troubles

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario's senior hockey clubs, pitched about on heavy financial seas, have reached the season's end. Some had successful sailing. Some had trouble. One foundered in a sea of red ink.

Most teams in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series and the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A southern group, drew large enough crowds to meet operating costs which ran as high as $90,000 for the season.

Clubs like Sudbury Wolves and Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds of the NOHA and Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen of the OHA won solid support.

But others, such as North Bay Trappers, the fledgling Niagara Falls Cataracts and Sarnia Sailors, wound up with empty pockets.

SAD SARNIA SEASON

The Sailors died last December in mid-season. They drew only 15,539 fans to 11 games, after starting off with a total operating budget of from $30,000 to $35,000.

Sarnia's weekly payroll ran to $1,400. The club paid up to $500 for some players' contracts. The arena, with a 3,150 capacity, scaled the prices from 75 cents to $1.25. By Dec. 10, the club was $12,000 in the red.

The Trappers needed a crowd average of 1,800; they drew only 1,500. The 48,000 fans attending 32 home games paid a top price of $1.25. Gross receipts totalled $38,497 to meet a $50,000 budget.

The weekly payroll averaged $1,650-$1,750. The Trappers spent heavily on players, paying Victoria Cougars of the Western Hockey League $1,500 for forward Stan Maxwell.

The Cataracts, along with Chatham Maroons, Hamilton Tigers and Stratford Indians, have not revealed their profits and losses, but an average attendance of 645 fans a game for 28 games—the Falls' arena holds 4,552—indicates they took a financial dunking.

Hamilton officials admit senior hockey wasn't a paying proposition. Fans complained the $1.75 top admission was too high.

Chatham Maroons drew 67,000 fans to 27 games, an average of 2,481. Stratford Indians drew 72,000 fans to 28 home games, an average of 2,600.

WOLVES TOP LIST

Senior hockey flourished in the hockey-mad cities of Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie. Sudbury Wolves drew the largest crowds in the province — 154,779 fans for 30 games, an average of 5,159 in a 6,637-capacity arena. Gross receipts were $179,901. The club's share was $98,994. Included in the gross figure was $19,764 for Ontario hospital tax.

The NOHA southern group was the only senior loop in the province to pay hospital tax. To qualify for hospital tax exemption, a club must not pay more than $20 a game to 60 per cent of its players and those players must have other employment. The remaining 40 per cent may be paid any amount. The tax amounts to 11 per cent off the top of the ticket.

The Wolves had a weekly payroll of $2,400, an average of $135 a player. They paid top prices for players, including $1,000 to Chicago Black Hawks for Pete Horeck.

Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds operated on a budget of $90,000 and had a weekly payroll of $2,400 to $2,500. They attracted an average of 4,000 fans each game into their 5,500-capacity arena. Gross receipts reached $129,140, with prices scaled from 85 cents to $1.50.

DUCHMEN AVERAGE 3,527

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, 1952-53 Allan Cup winners, played to an average of 3,527 a game in their 8,180 - capacity auditorium, largest in Ontario outside Toronto. The fans paid from 75 cents to $1.25 and up to the end of February gross receipts totalled $80,576. The club's share was $50,869.

The Dutchmen's weekly payroll was approximately $1,500, averaging $50 to $125 a player. The club bought one player, Jack McKenzie, of the Toronto Marlboros juniors, for $750.

Windsor Spitfires, another senior fledgling, ended the season on a successful note. Starting with new players and equipment, the Spitfires grossed $76,000, of which the club's share amounted to $60,000. The club operated on a $73,000 budget. The weekly payroll averaged $1,800. The club drew 80,000 fans to the 5,400-seat arena, at a top price of $1.75.

Owen Sound Mercurys operated on a "share-the-wealth" system and came out on top. The players averaged $1,235 last season which included $10 for each road trip to cover losses suffered in leaving their jobs temporarily.

The Mercurys' home arena, smallest in the circuit, has a capacity of 2,320. Total attendance for 28 home games was 47,182, an average of 1,681 a game. Tickets were 50 cents to $1. Gross gate receipts amounted to $41,000. The club paid the arena $8,400 in rentals. The Mercurys paid $800 to Syracuse Warriors for Bill Hagen, only player purchase of the season.

Gas Pipeline At Calgary Gives City Dwellers Cheap Fuel

CALGARY (CP)—Eastern Canada residents who wrestle with fuel bills each year can be forgiven a look of envy at Calgary, centre of Canada's largest gas pipeline system.

Millions of cubic feet of natural gas daily roar under pressure through hundreds of miles of pipelines stretched like a spider web across southern Alberta.

Most of the gas is drawn from wells in Turner valley, 40 miles southwest of Calgary, and Jumping Pound, 25 miles west. Pipelines reach as far as Foremost, 150 miles southeast, and to Banff, high in the Rockies, 85 miles west.

The system can handle more than 160,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day.

Availability and abundance of the gas makes it cheap to Calgary consumers. Monthly gas bills for an average five-room house range from about $3 in summer to $11 and $12 in winter, while the annual bill totals about $80. The consumer rate is $2.50 for the first 2,000 cubic feet and 26 cents for each additional 1,000.

TORONTO COSTS HIGH

By comparison, it costs about $125 to heat a six-room Toronto home through a winter season using coal or oil.

Operators in the Manchester high pressure station of the Canadian Western Natural Gas Co. in Calgary, key point in the pipeline system, maintain round-the-clock supervision. They see that equal pressure is maintained for gas reaching homes and industrial plants.

A 12-inch pipeline carries gas from the Jumping Pound field. Three others, 14 inch, 10 inch and six inch, spring from Turner valley. The four lines converge near Calgary into two 16-inch pipes shooting gas under high pressure through the plant's main control room.

To Stand Trial For Shooting

KINGSTON (CP)—Fred Knapp Wednesday was committed for trial on charges of shooting with intent to maim and carrying a gun without a licence in connection with a shooting in a Kingston house April 3 in which a man was hurt.

Samuel Greer testified at a preliminary hearing that he and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hynes went to the house and there had been an argument over money.

Greer said Knapp fired two revolver shots into the ceiling. Then he said Knapp went outside and a shot came through the window. Greer said he and Hynes went outside and there were more shots from the driveway.

A provincial pathologist testified a wound Greer said he received in his right thigh during the shooting was made by a bullet. Dr. W. D. Hay said five or six bullets had passed through Greer's clothing.

No Horse-Drawn Buses Ever Patrolled City Streets

Peterborough never had horse-drawn buses for public transportation, Matthew McMahon of Maniece Ave. told The Examiner today in reference to a recent news item.

"One of my memories is the laying of the electric street railway tracks. That was the first transport service we had in Peterborough. I got to know the engineer in charge of that work. He hired a saddle horse from the livery that used to be on Hunter St. near the Oriental Hotel. That was a convenience for him in getting around on the job."

Mr. McMahon related several other recollections that stand out in his reflections on the past.

"The grandest wedding Peterborough ever saw was the marriage of a daughter of the Rev. Mr. Beck, who was the rector at St. John's Church, to Mr. Max Dennistoun, the lawyer. Practically everybody was there. In those days families were generally known. They weren't lost in the greater number that we have today. They were a grand young couple, as the elders like myself can say, and a sister of Mrs. Dennistoun married Arthur Stevenson.

LONG PROCESSION

"What I remember is the long line of the procession by horse and buggy after the wedding, from the church to the Dennistoun home, which was north of Smith St., now Parkhill Rd.

"It was one of the big houses of the city, the lot extending through from George to Water St., with entrance from both. The house didn't face on either street, but looked to the south.

"Just about every buggy in town was in that wedding procession, and everything about it was in the best of order. No shouting and horns and tins, and all that; wouldn't expect it any way. Bob Gibbs was the driver of the hack for the married couple after the marriage ceremony, and I was driving number two. We weren't in any great hurry away from the Dennistoun place. There was no tremendous rush in those days. Another memory is that Ham Burnham brought out a bottle of champagne so that all the hack drivers at the wedding could drink a toast to Mr. Dennistoun and his bride.

"You know the story of Max Dennistoun, the lawyer, with Peck, Kerr and Stevenson. He went west and became a Chief Justice or something away up in the law."

Mr. McMahon went back further in his memories to his school boy days.

"Coming home from school after 4 o'clock one day, I saw a big fire on Water St. south of the building that is now the Liquor Control Board store. Hopkins and Montgomery had a big livery stable immediately south of that old Fitzgerald building. And it was big. Mr. Hopkins, I know, was related to the late George Morrow. You can see the scorched part of the wall of the liquor store even today. There was no post office at Hunter St., and Mr. Kerr's office wasn't there, just a clapboard building, occupied on the ground floor by the Massey-Harris implement people."

Urge Teamsters Be Licensed

KITCHENER (CP) — Licensing of teamsters using horses for bush work in northern Ontario's logging industry will be recommended to the Ontario government by the Ontario Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Executive members of the society made the decision at a meeting Wednesday.

The society will also recommend that teamsters found abusing their privileges have their licences suspended and be fined or given a jail sentence.

This action was prompted by investigations of alleged cruelty to bush horses in the Sault Ste. Marie and Sudbury districts, members said.

David Askew of Newmarket, general manager of the society, and Ontario provincial police recently made investigations of alleged cruelty to horses in that area. Two charges were laid as a result of the probe.

Firemen Save Two

TORONTO (CP)—Firemen working with a ladder rescued Charles Ellis, 33, and his 15-month-old son, Stephen, from the third floor of a blazing midtown roominghouse early today. Four other persons escaped from the $2,600 blaze, one by jumping from a second-storey room to a garage at the rear of the Madison Ave. house.

Lakefield IODE Gives Council Queen's Picture

LAKEFIELD (ENS)— Mrs. T. W. Chaplin, regent of the Catherine Parr Traill chapter, IODE, accompanied by former regent, Mrs. J. A. Arnott, was present at this week's meeting of the council, and presented, on behalf of the chapter, a framed portrait of Queen Elizabeth to the village of Lakefield, with a request that it be hung in the auditorium of Memorial hall. The gift was accepted by Reeve. William C. Grant on behalf of the council and the village.

A request by Kenneth Morris that additional street lighting be put into effect on Concession street between Colbourn and Queen streets on the north side, as the lack of proper lighting encouraged breaking and entering into property of the estate of W. J. Charlton, was referred to the street commmittee to investigate and report. Mr. Morris also asked that the drain at the intersection of Charlton Place and Concession street be fixed.

The salary of Clinton McCall will be raised to $2,650 as from January 1954, and the car allowance for Chief of Police Price Morris's car set at $400.00.

Clerk Harry T. Hill was directed to negotiate for the purchase of lots 1, 2, 6, 7 and 11 from the Canadian National Railways for storage purposes and if necessary get in touch with Senator William A. Fraser of Trenton to assist him.

Notices will be set to all citizens with respect to the dog bylaw, pointing out the necessity of payment of dog taxes and section governing the restraining of dogs from running at large.

The rate of pay for the village's fire department members was set at $1.50 per hour for practises and fire fighting and $1.00 per hour for Hall patrols.

The council also sanctioned the purchasing of the following equipment for the fire department, 22 feet of 2½ inch Dunlop double jacket redflex fire hose; 12 universal spanner wrenches for 2½-inch rocker lug couplings; 200 feet of 1½-inch Fire Marshal brand hose and 2 electric lanterns.

That the people of the village will know more on fire matters, the clerk, with the assistance of the chairman of the fire committee, will prepare and distribute a pamphlet on this subject.

Fire Chief Allen H. Clark, will be asked to submit a report as soon as possible after, on any fires outside the village limits, at which the department is called, and will be requested to submit one on the Eldon Johnston and Tate fires at which the department was present.

Tenders will be called for the painting of Memorial hall outside. The specifications will include: (1) two coats of paint, (2) reputty of any windows needing same to be done, (3) paint screens, (4) paint hose tower, (5) paint eavestrough and down pipes.

It was decided that at least two outside valuators will be called in to place values on the lots in Lakefield park, Councillors J. R. Hull and A. G. Buchanan to appoint the same.

The finance committee recommended payment of accounts totalling $5,857.38.

QUEEN ELIZABETH smiles to the crowd as she emplanes with the Duke of Edinburgh for one more stage of their Royal tour. The Queen and the Duke will be re-united with their children at Tobruk on May 1.

Given Probation On Sex Charge

Delvin Rusaw, 17, of Norwood, appeared before Judge John de N. Kennedy, Wednesday afternoon for sentence. April 2 he pleaded guilty to having the carnal knowledge of a 13-year-old girl who also lives in the village. He was at that time convicted and remanded until a probation report had been prepared.

Judge Kennedy said that he was prepared to give a suspended sentence with probation, in view of the Crown's consent.

"This is a very serious offence, Rusaw," said the Judge. "You could be sent to prison for life, but since this is your first offense you will be placed on probation for two years."

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC, and defence lawyers J. Arthur Fair, QC, had no submissions to make to the court prior to sentence being passed.

Under the terms of his bond, Rusaw will be required to report regularly to the probation officer during the two years.

There is scarcely a person who at one time or another has not suffered from functional stomach, kidney, liver or bowel disorders, making them feel rundown, tired, nervous and full of aches and pains. No claim is made that Syntona will help every one suffering this way, but in thousands of cases where these troubles persist it has given remarkable results. Many of these people say their troubles had been of long duration and that ordinary things them.

Trouble Began Year Ago

"About one year ago my stomach started giving me trouble, and I would have awful gas, sour stomach and belching up of hot, sour liquids after my meals. I would get sick, dizzy spells, became very nervous and couldn't sleep after going to bed at night. I felt tired out from the time I got up in the mornings. More recently aching pains set into my back and joints.

Soon Felt Better

"I had been trying one thing and another without getting any noticeable relief and finally a relative of mine suggested trying Syntona. After I started taking this medicine I was surprised how much better I felt in only a short time.

"Now I sleep better as Syntona helped the nervous, dizzy feelings and cleared up the distress in my stomach. So, I have a much better appetite and constipation which troubled me for a long time is relieved. The soreness and pains in my back and joints does not trouble me now and I feel so much better in every way that I think Syntona is a grand medicine and am glad to recommend it to others."

Easy To Take

of Nature's Finest Herbs and Roots, it is extremely pleasant to take because of its fine flavours. As a medicine of this nature it is unexcelled, and the results you get are quickly felt. Almost any one who has used it praises its genuine merit.

Nine Fatalities In Ontario In One Day

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Nine persons lost their lives in Ontario Wednesday, including three in a level crossing accident near Cornwall.

Three others died in traffic accidents, two were drowned and at Ottawa a father of three died in a fight at his home.

A speeding freight train crashed into a car at a level crossing 12 miles west of Cornwall, killing three of the four persons in the automobile.

Mrs. William Watson, 42, and her 14-year-old son, Groulx, were killed along with Harvey Martin, 45, in the collision only 75 feet from the home of the Watson family. Mrs. Watson's husband, William, was severely injured and taken to hospital at Cornwall.

At Ottawa, Roland Dean, 38, died during a scuffle on his front verandah. Police held three men for questioning. Police said the men had been drinking and that an inquest will be held.

TRAFFIC DEATHS

Traffic deaths were: Alan Sommer, 7, killed at Dresden on his way to school when he jumped from the back of a truck in which he was riding into the path of a car; Harvey Smith, 15, similarly killed at Watford when he jumped from a tractor-drawn wagon into the path of a car; W. A. Spring, about 72, of Dorchester, killed near St. Thomas when his truck collided with another truck at an intersection.

Drowned were Christina Cook, 18 months, believed to have tumbled into the Humber river at King north of Toronto and Walter Parker, 6, who died in the town creek at Timmins.

Two Chairmen Testifying On Behalf Of Oppenheimer

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The two former chairmen of the United States Atomic Energy Commission plan to testify at the security hearing for pioneer atomic scientist J. Robert Oppenheimer—both of them apparently in his behalf.

David E. Lilienthal, who headed the commission from the time it was formed in 1946 until 1950, said in a statement in New York Wednesday night that he will testify for Oppenheimer.

Gordon Dean, who succeeded Lilienthal and served until last summer, said he had been asked to testify by Oppenheimer's counsel. While he would not discuss what he will say, his acceptance of an invitation by the defence presumably means his testimony will be favorable to Oppenheimer.

Another prospective witness is Dr. Vannevar Bush, wartime head of the U.S. office of scientific research and development.

The hearings for Oppenheimer, suspended from access to government secrets by order of President Eisenhower, is going on in a secret room somewhere in Washington. The procedure is guided by strict rules promulgated by the AEC in September, 1950, in an effort to provide maximum protection for the rights of individuals and for the government's interests.

RARE ANNOUNCEMENT

The AEC has announced only that Oppenheimer was suspended and that a hearing is in progress.

Expressions of confidence in Oppenheimer came Wednesday from Dr. David Hill, chairman of the Federation of American Scientists, and Dr. Howard Meyerhoff, executive director of the Scientific Manpower Commission, a group set up by eight major U.S. scientific socieities.

Defence Secretary Charles E. Wilson implied Wednesday that Oppenheimer had been eased out as an adviser to the armed forces last year. He said the committee on which Oppenheimer served had been abolished last July.

Senator McCarthy, the Red-investigating Wisconsin Republican, said he has considered Oppenheimer a security risk for years, and added: "One man in a key spot can do more damage than a thousand in little ones." The senator also told reporters he is "deeply concerned about security on new developments of the H-bomb" and said "we've got our eyes on some other fellows besides Oppenheimer."

DENIES SOME CHARGES

Oppenheimer's own release of an exchange of letters with K. D. Nichols, general manager of the AEC, brought out the nature of the charges against him and his own reply, including denials.

In short, the man who played perhaps the leading scientific role in development of the atomic bomb, and who foresaw the hydrogen bomb, has been accused of having associated with known Communists, of having belonged to various Communist front organizations and of having sought to delay the H-bomb. Oppenheimer has strongly denied ever having party membership, but acknowledge some small association with Communists years ago. He said he advised against all-out work on the H-bomb in 1949, along with other scientists, but did all he could to further it after former President Truman gave the go-ahead.

Oppenheimer has successfully undergone various security clearances in the past. But under 1953 rules laid down by the Eisenhower administration, all persons against whom there had been "substantial" derogatory information were ordered reinvestigated.

Mayor Blasts Crash Stories

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP) — Mayor L. H. Lewry says that some reporting of an air crash in Moose Jaw last Thursday was "shocking sensationalism."

The crash, a mid-air collision of an RCAF trainer and a TCA North Star airliner, claimed 37 lives.

Mayor Lewry in an interview Wednesday said copies of some eastern newspapers he has seen showed some of the newspapers had little regard for personal feelings of relatives and friends of the victims. He said in his 15 years as a western Canada newspaper man before becoming mayor, he had never seen such "complete disregard" for objective reporting.

Some newspapers in Toronto quoted persons involved as eyewitnesses, officials and himself with such "reckless abandon" that he could not refrain from severe criticism, Mayor Lewry said.

Reporting of the tragedy by Moose Jaw and Regina newspapers maintained a high level. But several "outside" reporters left only a black mark in the minds of Moose Jaw citizens.

Was Harmonica Champ

TORONTO (CP) — James John Lawless, 77, who claimed to be a world champion harmonica player, died in hospital Tuesday. Born here, Mr. Lawless estimated he had taught harmonica playing to 100,000 Toronto boys and girls during his lifetime.

Ribs Americans To Learn More About Canada

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States Chamber of Commerce, searching for ways of getting unwilling Americans to learn more about Canada, has decided on a new approach—the ribbing kind.

"Are Canadians Really?" it asks in a light and entertaining new booklet, designed, as chamber executive Sam Ericsson says, "for people who don't care for Canada."

"Maybe in this way," he confides, "we can lure them into learning a little."

The orange-jacketed booklet, now rolling off the press by the thousands, may do the trick. It talks of Canada's growth in rather jocular fashion, but intertwined are some hard and significant facts.

And it hits home at some typical American misconceptions about Canada, says the 38-year-old Ericsson, American secretary of the chamber's Canada-U.S. committee. The chamber represents some 1,500,000 U.S. business men.

The chamber's aim, says Ericsson, is to eliminate some of these popular misconceptions and points of ignorance about Canada:

WILD, ILLITERATE PEOPLE

Most Canadians are somehow French; Britain owns Canada; Canada supplies raw materials only; Canada is a wild place, its people uncivilized, possibly illiterate; U.S. investment in Canada is relatively small; Canada's aid to rehabilitate war-torn countries is inconsequential.

"There are those who say that Canadians really are just Englishmen who don't care how cold it gets, and others who say Canadians really are just Frenchmen who know which side of the Atlantic their bread is buttered on," says the chamber's booklet.

But, the booklet adds, Canadians also could call themselves Americans, since they live in North America, but decline to do this, because it would be "frightfully awkward" to have neighbors who would have to call themselves "United States-ers" to make clear who they are.

Quebec is so French that it enchants visiting Americans, says the booklet.

"It gives them an opportunity to exercise their high school French without having to take a trip abroad. It also gives the French-speaking Canadians a chance to be amused."

SENATORS LAST LONGER

As for a comparison of Canadian and American senators, "they are similar in name only, says the little book. Senators in Canada haven't "nearly so much fun" as senators in the U.S., but they last longer. They are appointed for life."

While Canadians and Americans may quarrel on their own continent, it really is a different story on their joint foreign approach.

"The U.S. would go to war for Canada if an aggressor so much as plucked one leaf from a Canadian maple tree. Canada would go to war for the U.S. should any aggressor so much as reach for the tail feather of a bald eagle. These are facts admitting of no debate."

2,000,000 Watch Cancer Operation

CINCINNATI (AP) — An estimated 2,000,000 persons Wednesday night watched on television as doctors removed a cancer of the bowel from an elderly woman.

The telecast from Cincinnati's General Hospital was carried by stations WKRC-TV, Cincinnati; WHIO, Dayton, and WTVN, Columbus.

The Columbus and Cincinnati stations reported favorable reaction from most persons who telephoned after the show, but the Dayton station said most telephoners objected to the show.

The telecast was designed to bring home the fact that "cancer, caught early, can be cured."

The patient and surgeons were not identified.

To Build Addition

WHITBY (CP)—A $200,000 addition to Fairview Lodge, a home for the aged, will bt built in this Oshawa district town, Ontario county council decided Wednesday.

Many Ways Found To Help Victims Of Tuberculosis

"A patient's frustrations disappear when he knows that the Peterborough County Tuberculosis Association is on the job," executive secretary Mrs. R. J. Ward told the annual meeting of the association at the YWCA Wednesday.

Most of the 27 patients under the wing of the Peterborough County Association are in sanitoria at Toronto and Gravenhurst. Figures for 1953 show 42 patients in sans a year ago, 16 admitted during the year, and 31 discharged.

These people are, of course, sick, but the main emphasis of the Association is to keep them from becoming bored and out-of-touch with life as well. Association members act as counsellors, placement officers, friends, and sometimes even provide a shopping service.

ENCOURAGE INTERESTS

The association co-operates with sanitorium staffs to encourage patients to take academic courses, or occupational therapy which, in the words of Mrs. Ward, "will give them a new interest and at the same time prepare them for a better and easier way of earning their living on discharge."

Some occupational work — leathercraft, jewellery, knitting and sewing—often prove to be "nice money-making hobbies" both in sanitoria and after discharge. Other patients finish their high school or take university courses.

Crucial point in a tuberculosis patient's life is the "hardening-up" period after he has spent three to six months under post-sanitorium care. Mrs. Ward and her assistants visit with former employers and pave the way for a return to the job and also counsel patients on job opportunities.

A more difficult problem, Mrs. Ward pointed out, is the housewife, whose convalescent activities are not easily regulated. The association has a schedule for such women to "eliminate wasted effort and leave undone non-essential fussiness in housekeeping."

Mrs. Ward also visits each patient in sanitoria with toilet articles, writing material, gifts of fruit or stamps. Each patient, too, is given an opportunity to keep in touch as the association provides each with his local newspaper.

Personal problems left by a patient when he is forced to enter a sanitorium can "often be very frustrating." The association seeks to find solutions to these problems because "peace of mind is very important in the treatment of tuberculosis."

Tremendous strides have been made in the care and treatment of tuberculosis in the past several years, said Mrs. Ward, but it is still dangerous. No age group is immune to tuberculosis and many children are stricken. Says Mrs. Ward: "I must admit that I always leave the children with a heavy heart, wishing that tuberculosis were strictly for adults."

Mrs. Ward paid tribute to the support of all members of the Association, to the staffs of the sanitoria, to Dr. J. P. Wells, medical offficer, and to Miss Mary E. MacIlveen, supervisor of the public health nurses, and her staff.

Charge Stratford Mayor Frightened Workers Interested In UAW Union

TORONTO (CP)—An official of the United Automobile Workers (CIO - CCL) charged Wednesday that Mayor Lawrence Feick of Stratford inspired "real fear" in employees at the auto parts plant where he is personnel manager.

John Eldon, international representative of the UAW, told an Ontario labor relation board decertification hearing there was interference from Canadian Fabricated Products Ltd. when the union was organizing employees of the plant. He said also there was collusion between the firm and the rival union now in the plant, a local federal union of the Trades and Labor Congress.

The UAW is seeking to have the certification of the TLC union thrown out and given to it, or failing that a ruling from the board that the TLC union's name should not appear on the ballot if the board orders a vote. Mr. Eldon said it should be a choice between the UAW or no union at all.

SAYS VIOLATIONS

The UAW official sought to prove that the TLC union and the company violated two principles established by the board. First, that the company voluntarily recognized the TLC union in the shadow of an organizing campaign by the auto workers. Mr. Eldon also claimed the company and the TLC union violated the board's so-called "kiss of death" doctrine; that the union sought and received support of the company.

J. R. Kimber, counsel for the TLC union, said it could not be held responsible for what Mayor Feick did as personnel manager of the firm. "If he says (to two workers) "I'm disapointed in you girls for joining the CIO,' is that the kiss of death to our campaign?" Mr. Kimber asked. "We can't prevent him from saying those words."

Mr. Eldon said that because of the fear inspired by Mayor Feick the Auto Workers had to go underground while the situation cooled off.

He added that Mayor Feick "checked" on workers who had attended a UAW meeting, contrary to the Labor Relations Act. He charged that because of Mayor Feick's "interference our people were scared" of being fired.

SAYS NO ACTIVITY

It was for that reason there was no activity by the UAW from Sept. 15 until early November, said Mr. Eldon.

The TLC union claims the Auto Workers only became interested in the plant after it had signed an agreement with the TLC group last Nov. 7.

The case, which has been heard by the board at four sittings and will continue at a fifth, is important to the UAW since it is seeking to hold on to auto feeder plants as they move out of Windsor to smaller, less unionized towns.

Plead Not Guilty To TV Charges

NEW YORK (AP)—Warren Hull, master of ceremonies, and Walter H. Framer, producer, of the radio-TV show, "Strike It Rich," pleaded not guilty today to a complaint of soliciting funds without a department of welfare licence.

Magistrate Milton Solomon set May 7 for a hearing.

The welfare department, which brought the complaint, contends the program publicly solicits funds for needy persons and that it therefore needs a licence under the city's administrative code. The complaint listed 14 alleged violations.

Select Name "Wendigo" For New Game Fish Species

TORONTO (CP) — A five-man board of judges has selected the name wendigo—an Indian evil spirit—for a new species of game fish developed from a cross between lake and speckled trout. Biologists who developed the fish called it splake, after both its parents.

P. K. Ketcheson, Ontario conservationist, reported that wendigo was submitted by two entrants in his contest to pick a name—T.F.C. Cole of Toronto and D. Milner of Honey Harbor, Ont.

The judges were: Dr. F. A. Urquhart, director of the Royal Ontario Museum of Zoology; outdor writer for Toronto's three daily newspapers, Robert Turnbull of the Globe and Mail, King Whyte of the Star and, Pete McGillen of the Telegram; and Byng Whitteker of the CBC, Toronto.

BIOLOGIST DEVELOPED IT

The splake was first developed by Dr. Victor Solman, Dominion government biologist. He stocked waters in the Banff area of the Rockies.

The Ontario department of lands and forests began developing the new fish, using male speckled trout to fertilize lake trout eggs. Nearly 10,000 were planted last year in lakes in the northern part of the area between Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie.

Department officials declined comment on whether they would accept the name, the Algonquin term for an evil spirit.

In Ottawa, Dr. Solman said "that name is all right with me."

J. P. Cuerrier, who is conducting further experiments with the new fish said "I don't care too much what they call it."

Mr. Cuerrier said there is still a lot more work to be done and it will be another two years, if not more, before the department has perfected the new species.

He said the fish has reproduced in hatcheries to the third generation, but it is not known yet if it will reproduce in natural settings.

Doucett Makes Appeal To Easter Drivers

TORONTO (CP) — Highways Minister Doucett Wednesday appealed to Ontario motorists and parents to prevent Easter holiday traffic accidents, especially those involving children.

"Holiday week-ends are always peak travel periods with extra travel hazards for drivers and pedestrians alike," he said in a statement. "The coming Easter week-end is no exception. It is the first holiday week-end of the year and as winter relaxes its grip, more and more people take to the road. The Easter holiday releases from the daily discipline of school at- [illegible] school children."

Mr. Douett suggested that parents remind children of safety rules and set a good example themselves. He urged drivers to make sure their vehicles are in good condition.

5 Provinces Sign

MONTREAL (CP)—Labor Minister Gregg said Wednesday five provinces have signed rehabilitation service agreements with the federal government and some other provinces have indicated they likely will enter into such agreements. He did not name the five provinces.

Addressing the annual meeting of the Welfare Federation of Montreal, Mr. Gregg said that in rehabilitation service "the work of voluntary agencies such as those represented here will be enhanced and given greater purpose as part of an over-all scheme to help all disabled."

SETTING UP GROUND RULES—Sen. Everett Dirksen (R., Ill.) chats with Ray Jenkins (right), chief counsel, as the Senate Investigating Subcommittee met in closed session at Washington to decide on ground rules for the Sen. McCarthy Army probe. Dirksen is the senator who recommended Jenkins to the subcommittee.

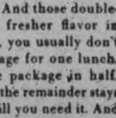
RECIPES FOR MEATLESS MENUS

By Elsie the Borden Cow

CHATEAU-AND-EGG-GRILL

Just centre a poached egg on hot toast, top the egg with slices of Borden's Chateau. Then pop under the grill until the Chateau melts. If this doesn't cause a sensation at mealtime, nothing will! The mellow-mild flavor of Borden's Chateau Cheese makes a terrific hit with children and men alike. Chateau is so versatile for meatless dishes. See what a difference it makes with macaroni, with rice-and-tomato. Keep a good supply on hand all the time.

BAUMERT CHEESE PARTY



Here's how to prepare an oh-so-tasty party snack your guests will really go for. Leave 4 pkgs. Borden's fresh-tasting, creamy Baumert Cheese [illegible] to soften. Then add ½ cup milk, ¼ tsp. salt, 1 tbsp. salad dressing, ½ tsp. onion juice, ½ tsp. mustard and beat until smooth. Serve on tray surrounded by potato chips or crackers. Ask your guests to "dip in"—and watch it disappear!

LUNCHES ON THE DOUBLE

With double-length Borden Cheese Slices. If your man carries his lunch to work, he'll love you if you use Borden's Cheese Slices in his sandwiches. They have that mellow-mild zip that men go for. And those double-length slices mean fresher flavor in every slice. You see, you usually don't use the whole package for one lunch, so you just cut the package in half, across. Use half, and the remainder stays wrapped and fresh till you need it. And always remember—it's easier to separate King-size Borden Cheese Slices from the cut edges.

IF GUESTS DROP IN:

It's like waving a magic wand the way you can come up with a snack for surprise visitors . . . if you keep Borden's Elsie Roll on hand. It slices into circles just the size for those dandy round crackers. Try Elsie Roll with salads too, and with apple pie.

SOUPED-UP SOUP

You can add extra zest to soup by sprinkling on a little Borden's Grated Cheese. A natural for spaghetti! Keeps for weeks in its handy canister.

Borden's Fine Cheeses

"If it's Borden's, it's GOT to be good!"

Federation of Agriculture Dinner at Norwood Ended Successful Winter Programs . . . . June Set-Aside Objective $400,000 Announced by Dairy Farmers . . . . Holstein Breeders' Banquet Wednesday, April 21 . . . . Lakefield Forestry Club Planting Date May 5.

More than 550 Peterborough farmers attended the series of Federation of Agriculture dinners ending at Norwood Monday night with an attendance of 132 men and women, mostly of East Peterborough.

This was a stimulating conclusion also of the Farm Radio forum season, and altogether indicated that the spirit of the Federation in this county is lively and progressively well informed.

The other meetings were at Westwood, 16th line of Smith, Springville, Keene and Stewart Hall. President Henry Sharpe was chairman at all of them, and like the other members can now respond to the call of the land, without preoccupation of dinner affairs and their friendly and encouraging companies.

The speaker at the Norwood dinner was Charles Milligan of Napanee, past president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, who presented an intresting review of the work of the Federation during the 15 years of its establishment. William Graff, Peterborough librarian, was the speaker at Stewart Hall.

Apparently the Federation has no intention or wish to quarrel with the Western Farmers Union, whose Manitoba representatives recently held a number of meetings in Central Ontario. Mr. Milligan said the Ontario Federation had been built up by the farmers of all the counties, and had distributed its assistance and leadership broadly through successful commodity groups, Junior Farmers, marketing agencies, Farm Forum, new organizations such as Co-Operative Medical Services, and generally could point to a long record of achievement.

Ontario farmers had given their support to the Canadian Federation on a broad and energetic basis. Its representation across the nation was evidence of the effects of its activity.

29 Calves For 4-H Club

At the Federation of Agriculture dinner at Norwood Monday night, G. A. Brethen, president of Norwood Fair, informed Frank C. Paterson that 29 of the purebred Holstein calves recently distributed among boys and girls of East Peterborough, will be available for a 4-H Calf Club.

That is strong promise of a notable gain in Peterborough 4-H Club organization. Leader of the Norwood 4-H dairy calf club will be Walter Clark. First meeting will be Wed. April 28 at Norwood Town Hall. Mr. Clark will be home from Kemptville Agricultural School by that time, completing his two year course. He will have a calf club set up for him, and it is likely that most of the 29 boys and girls are prospective members.

Dairy Day At Lindsay

Ontario's second annual Dairy Day will be Wednesday June 16 at the farm of William J. Murphy, Lindsay.

This event was organized last year in an effort to place before the dairy farmers of the province everything that was new in the management of dairy cattle. Demonstration this year will be staged with reference to milk production, cattle diseases, grass silage, and so on. Experts will be on hand to answer questions.

Dairy Day is sponsored by the dairy branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, in co-operation with its agricultural representatives branches, Ontario Agricultural College and Veterinary College. Various breed associations and representatives of processors, distributors and producers organizations will assist in the program. An invitation has been extended to dairy equipment manufacturers to demonstrate the lastest equipment for the dairy farmer.

Nearly 10,000 dairymen attended the first Dairy Day last year. W. J. Murphy's home is just east of Lindsay. He is an exponent of good pasture management, and is widely known as a Holstein breeder and exporter.

Meeting At Westwood

Dr. Harold Worton, Toronto, provincial veterinarian is coming to Westwood Tuesday afternoon to discuss with Asphodel farmers organization for the enforcement of the Brucellosis Control Act. He and F. C. Paterson, agricultural representative, are 'ex officio' members of the directing committee of whom three other members are to be appointed.

Asphodel is the first township in the county to adopt this control measure. Warrant was obtained by petition of the dairy cattle owners, and with almost unanimous response, the sequent step was the township council's passing of a by-law to invoke the legislation.

This record is the fifth largest for fat ever made by a Canadian Holstein in this class and qualifies her for a certificate of Superior Production.

This outstanding cow has been classified as very good in selective registration and is a daughter of Glenafton Ray Apple Alert who is classified as XXX in selective registration and who was exported to Chili after having twice been named All-Canadian. BECAUSE the number of Grade A (top) quality hogs has been declining in market deliveries, Peterborough Hog Producers Association arranged for a demonstration of an average run of carcasses at Canada Packers Ltd. Wednesday. The ultimate reason for the campaign, which extends throughout the industry, beginning with producers themselves, is shown in the picture at the upper left. Sam Killen of Ennismore, one of the Peterborough county directors, is indicating the fat strip of the "A" carcass, with Bruce Graham (right), Westwood, president of the Association. Keendale Lass On Honor List

Keendale Lodge Pietje Lass a member of the purebred Holstein herd of Stewart Nelson, Keene, Ontario, has qualified for a silver seal certificate of long time production presented by the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada. This certificate is presented in recognition of her nine lactation lifetime record of 152,793 lbs. milk containing 9,322 lbs. fat. All her records have been made on twice-a-day milking.

Not only has Pietje Lass gained fame as a producer, but she was an outstanding show cow in her younger days and has also gained recognition as a great group cow.

It was back in 1943 after being Grand Champion at the East-Central Ontario Championship show at Orono that Pietje Lass was made Reserve All - Canadian three-year-old. She was again Grand Champion at the East-Central Ontario Championships Show held at Warkworth the next year and for the three following years was Grand Champion at the Peterborough Championship Show. In addition to her individual honours she was a member of winning get-of-sire and produce of dam at both these Championship shows.

AND STILL MILKING

Pietje Lass has been classified as Excellent the highest attainable rating for confirmation. She is again on test as a fourteen-year old and promises to add materially to her lifetime total since her owner reports that she is in excellent condition.

Her son, Keendale Lochinvar was recently classified as Extra by the Holstein-Friesian Association this being the highest honour attainable by a bull. He is the first Holstein bull to be classified as Extra since 1950. The award was made on the basis of his daughters in the herd of Lorne B. Reid, Ripley Ontario. The bull himself is now in service in the Michigan Artificial Breeders Co-Operative at East Lansing Michigan.

1956 Completion Of Centre Spring Show Directors Hope

A. O. Dalrymple of Stirling, reported a deficit of 85 in a preliminary financial statement of the Central Ontario Spring Show at a diretcors meeting here Tuesday with James T. Brown, Newcastle, presiding.

The question of continuing a four day show next March was thoroughly discussed, and then referred with approval to the annual meeting after the Royal Winter Fair.

The Show could have left a credit balance if it hadn't been for several items of expense for the convenience of the attending public.

RECORD OF VALUE

Ed A. Summers of Bowmanville stressed the accomplishments last year: the showing and sale of close to 1,000 bushels of registered seed; a Junior Farmers Day that brought 85 boys of the district together in their judging competition; a 4-H Club display of seeds that was decidedly attractive and interesting; satisfactory reports from exhibitors at the Show.

"I'd want that Junior department if we had nothing else," was Mr. Summers' rating.

"Probably we should not leave out of our reckoning the Show's contribution to the extension work of the Department of Agriculture," Mr. Brown said.

"We had the best show of grain in our record, but we were a little like Peterborough Exhibition," said George McLaughlin of Elmcroft Farms. "The Exhibition last year was the best agricultural show they ever had here, but they were down at the gate."

It transpired that some of the directors came to this post-Show meeting more or less dispirited by the lack of the improved accommodation which the Spring Show board has been expecting since they decide to settle down in Peterborough.

"What are the prospects of the new building (Centre) being completed by 1956?" was one of the questions asked.

Ald. Harold Rehill, city representative on the Spring Show board, told the meeting there was the factor of financing to be reconsidered, and possibly the building of one unit of the Community Centre might be finished by March 1956.

Henry Sharpe, Federation chairman, reported receipt from the new Centre committee of an enquiry about prospective wishes and needs of agriculture in the planning of its details. He said there would be an early meeting at which the farm phase would be discussed.

Another question was whether the Show should be reduced from four to three days, and the final note advised carrying on unchanged through 1955 energeticallly as possible, with increased concern for a program of practical interest to the farmers of the counties.

Given fresh emphasis was the fact that the directors of the Show are not primarily concerned about profits. They have $1,300 to their credit, and as policy and purpose they are interested in spreading the practice of sowing only good seed.

And 40 per cent of the seed last year was certainly not of sowing quality, Mr. Summers said.

"Maybe it was just a little lag in spirit this year. It seemed to be general," Mr. Brown commented.

The directors like to think that by the spring of 1956 they will be showing in the building which they have heard mooted at Peterborough for the last four years.

$7,500 For First Son Of 'Armada'

The first son of "Calrossie Armada" has been sold for $7,500 from the Louada Manor Farms herd of Scottish Shorthorns to W. C. Anderson of West Liberty, Iowa.

"Louada Consort" is a twelve months old son of one of the imported Shorthorn dams at the Louis Cadesky farms in Harvey township. At the Anderson Farm at West Liberty he should be an acquisition to one of the leading Scottish show herds in the United States.

W. W. Donaldson, superintendent at Louda Manor, said today they are getting a lot of fine calves from the herd.

As announced some time ago, the Central Ontario Shorthorn field day will be held at the Cadesky farms on June 26, an event of special interest to Shorthorn breeders. At present in the herd is the yearling bull, "Creiffvecther Laban" bred by W. D. Bron of Perth, Scotland. It is understood that this young bull is going on to Wisconsin after the field day.

Lesage Says Quebec Trying To Tax Federal Coffers With New Taxation Law

OTTAWA (CP) — Northern Affairs Minister Lesage says Quebec is trying to tax federal coffers by demanding full deduction of its new 15-per-cent income tax.

He said Quebec seeks to blame the federal government for its own decision to impose the tax.

Entering the Commons budget debate Wednesday, he was the first cabinet minister to refer to the tax issue since Finance Minister Abbott's budget April 6 rejected Quebec's bid to have the tax fully deductible from federal income tax payments.

The taxation question was the main topic in the third day of the budget debate, a half-day sitting before the Commons adjourned for the Easter recess until Monday, April 26. The House, with only scanty attendance, rose 40 minutes before the usual 6 p.m. adjournment.

Mr. Lesage, who represents the Quebec constituency of Montmagny-l'Islet, said Quebec is asking for the privilege of deciding what amount of money it may take from the federal treasury by deductions for its own income tax.

TAX THE TREASURY

"In other words, what is asked of us is the power to tax not the taxpayers but the treasury of the federal government."

The double taxation was due solely to the Quebec government's decision, but Quebec now was trying to throw the blame on the federal government.

"This reminds me of the little boy who pulled the cat's tail and replied to his father who had told him to stop: 'I'm not pulling, the cat is.'"

A Progressive Conservative motion of non-confidence in the government, now before the House, criticizes the government for having "failed" to reach agreement with the provinces on reallocation of taxing powers.

Mr. Lesage, speaking in French, said the Quebec government at no time has entered negotiations seeking full deduction of its new income tax. However, the federal government stood ready to co-operate in finding a solution to the problem.

THREATENS UNITY

The dispute was threatening the unity of French-Canadians.

"There is no insoluble problem for men of good will, ready to discuss seriously, in all good faith and without fanfare, a question on its merits."

He referred to the federal-provincial tax agreements, in which all provinces but Quebec have given the federal government full power in certain tax fields, including income tax, in return for annual grants.

The tax agreements, he said, allow less prosperous provinces to carry their financial responsibilities. General application of the principle of allowing a 15-per-cent deduction of provincial income taxes would lead to chaos.

J. Waldo Monteith (PC—Perth) criticized various aspects of the income tax laws and said tax inspectors in rural areas should have prior farming experience to give them more understanding of the costs of running a farm.

Mr. Monteith said he does not like the method of taking sworn statements from farmers on their financial operations. It was almost impossible for them to remember all their petty expenditures and they could easily make wrong statements with the best of intentions.

Farmers should be given more help in making out income tax returns. They were the one class not trained to keep financial records of their operations.

Mr. Monteith also criticized the government's intention to tax mutual fire insurance companies. He said those companies were usually made up of farmers and were not in business to make money. They had been formed because commercial insurance companies were unwilling to insure farms against fire loss.

Judge Tosses Out Police Statements

MONTREAL (CP)—Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure Wednesday tossed out statements submitted by police and granted a motion to drop murder charges against James Rogers, 22, of Montreal, and Frank Battaglia, 39, of Oakville, Ont.

The two men were accused of killing Charles Wagner, 26-year-old former Montreal night club waiter.

The crown's case hinged on statements made by the two suspects and introduced in court by provincial police. Mr. Justice Lazure ruled, however, that the statements were inadmissible as evidence.

CITES PRECEDENT

He cited a legal precedent in which a woman's statement was ruled inadmissible because she had been held nine days by police before being brought before a judge.

He said Rogers and Battaglia were held for more than a month before being brought before a magistrate, suggesting undue influence and creating a presumption or doubt which would be entirely lacking if the crown wishes a statement to be accepted as voluntary.

The statements attributed to the suspects said Wagner had been shot after the trio went to dig up stolen jewels at nearby St. Mathieu March 28, 1953. Wagner, still alive despite the bullet wound, was thrown into a creek and a boulder tossed on top of him. A medico-legal expert said he died of drowning.

Both Rogers and Battaglia said the statements were obtained by threats and force and had no basis in fact.

SAYS POLICE BEAT HIM

Battaglia said provincial police told him they could shoot him and say he had tried to escape. The former boxer said he was hit repeatedly in the face and kicked in the kidneys. Blood had to be drained from his ear and a coroner told him he had two cracked ribs.

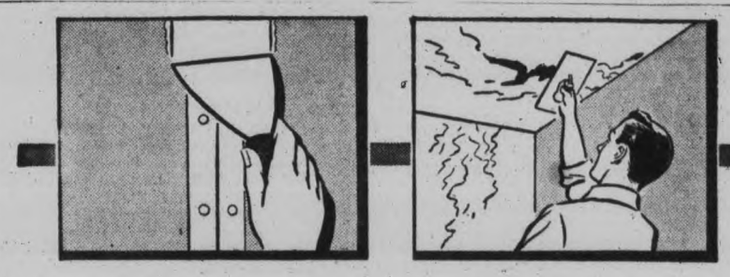
Detective Nick Anderson admitted hitting Battaglia but only after the man had been about to strike Mrs. Wagner, who had hit him.

Mr. Justice Lazure commented that he could not understand why Mrs. Wagner was visiting the cells in the first place. He said the detective had no reason for hitting the man.

Unconscious 2 Weeks After Inhaling Gas

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—John Orval Mitchell, 32, has been unconscious for two weeks after inhaling a poisonous gas while fumigating a tobacco green house, hospital authorities said Wednesday.

Doctors say there is no specific antidote for the gas, methyl bromide. Mitchell, an employee of a chemical firm at St. Thomas, took his mask off to blow his nose while fumigating a greenhouse near Delhi March 28, said John Campbell, one of his employers.



Scott-Paine Dies

GREENWICH, Conn. (AP)—Hubert Scott-Paine, 62, noted boat and aircraft designer who devised the Second World War PT (Patrol Torpedo) boat, died Wednesday. A native of England, he became a U.S. citizen in 1948.

MEETING POSTPONED

The city council will not meet Easter Monday. Instead the meeting has been postponed to Tuesday.

STILL SOME SNOW

A few mounds of snow can still be seen by fence corners and on the shady side of hedgerows west along Number 7.

NEARLY ENOUGH FOR JURY

Three more prisoners in the magistrate's court this morning and there would have been a jury, at least that is the way it looked. Six prisoners sat sombre-faced in the box and three others sat on chairs immediately forward of them. However, within an hour Magistrate Philp had dealt with them (without the injunction of a jury) and the prisoners' box was bare.

FALSE ALARM

A telephone cable at the old Auburn mill, River Rd. N., was short-circuited late Wednesday afternoon as workmen were doing a repair job. The short circuit caused an automatic alarm to sound at the fire hall and a pumper was dispatched to deal with the situation. The crew returned after finding out the cause of the false alarm.

HAD APPROVAL FOR FIRE

On Wednesday it was erroneously stated that firemen answered a call to go to Jack Cuffe's place, 631 Park St. N., because a grass fire was burning without permission, having been given for it. A later check in the department's log showed that permission for the fire had been asked and was given.

EASTER Y PROGRAM

The YMCA is planning a busy Easter week in all phases of the physical department. Particular emphasis will be on recreation for school children, often at a loss for something to do in the Easter vacation. Teen-agers will particularly be looking forward to the Hi-Y annual "Bunny Hop" to be held in the gym April 20. Meanwhile five Hi-Y delegates from Peterborough are attending the provincial Hi-Y conference in Windsor over the weekend.

CHICKS DUBIOUS

Easter is a soul-stirring time but not for several dozen chickens in the window of a George St. department store. Crowds of shoppers have gathered about the store window, watching the brightly painted yellow and red chicks huddle together for warmth. Easter eggs and well-arranged displays contribute to the seasonal atmosphere of the window, though the chickens are unavailable for comment on their part of the show.

Long, Long Weekend

It pays to work for the government, at least around Easter time. Today all government offices closed for a four-day holiday. They will be open for business again Tuesday morning. Bankers are not quite so fortunate. They will have to be at work Saturday morning when the banks will be open for business from 9 a.m. until 11 a.m. and then will close again until Tuesday morning.

25 Resort Owners Protest Changes In Law

A spirited meeting of 25 members of the resort section of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce was held on Wednesday evening to discuss a common problem, the department of lands and forests recent ruling to abolish non-resident family fishing licenses. That and the ommission of the department to specify that children 16 years of age and under might fish without charge.

There were many individual instances cited and opinions expressed in orderly fashion and in order of frequency these were as follows:

The new license ruling that forces a man and his wife to each pay a $6.50 fee was going to hurt the resort business in the lower earning-bracket classification.

Contrary to department officials explaining that the reason for increased individual license fee to conserve fish populations, all members agreed heartily that the new ruling now made it possible for families to take home twice as many fish as in former seasons. The measure would soon deplete fish in the Kawarthas. Accusations were made by a few hot-headed individuals that the government was "selling fish."

SOME CANCELLATIONS

Some resort operators have already received reservation cancellations due to the unfavourable publicity in American newspapers which were not informed that children under 17 years of age might fish for nothing.

Others argued that their experiences as Canadians in trying to obtain hunting licenses in the United States, cost, in proportion, a great deal more than Americans pay for the privilege of fishing in Ontario, even at the new advanced rates. Though Americans are complaining now about the rate increase the overall effect on tourist business in general in the Kawarthas would be negligible.

If the government needs money to husband the supply of game fish and control the taking of it there most certainly should be a $1 resident rod license enforced to assist in conservation programs. This announcement brought unanimous and loud approval from all members present. They adopted a resolution that they would go on record, as an association, to forward this request to Queen's Park.

The second resolution passed was that the government should be querried to find out whether or not the abolishment of family fishing licenses is a temporary or permanent measure.

To confirm their third and last resolution — that district questionaires be mailed to the 475 resort operators as to the tourists' view on the new license ruling—plans were tentatively made to supply all operators with minutes of the meeting together with sample questionaires. Members present agreed to receive twenty hundred blanks each and have them filled out by guests. These will be returned to the chamber in the fall and the findings tabulated and forwarded to the department.

Members were present at the meeting from Stony, Buckhorn, Catchacoma and Rice lakes areas and some who were not members of the resort section attended to voice their opinions on the pressing matter of increased rates.

City Churches Observe Easter

Special Services Over Weekend Mark Anniversary

City churches will be holding special services during the weekend, starting tomorrow, Good Friday.

The age-old question, "Is it nothing to all ye that pass by?" from Lamentations, 1: 12, will be the theme of the annual three-hour meditation on Christ's last seven words from the Cross at All Saints' Anglican church on Good Friday.

The service will be held from noon to 3 p.m. These were the sixth to the ninth hours of the crucifixion of Christ. The ministerial association of Peterborough will sponsor the service, and seven local clergymen will speak on each of the seven last words.

Clergymen participating in the traditional service are listed in the order in which they will speak:

Major H. Roberts, Salvation Army; the Rev. Dr. D. N. Patterson, Mark St. United; the Rev. L. Shorten, St. James' United; the Rev. G. Smith, St. Giles' Presbyterian; the Rev. H. G. Douglas, Knox United; the Rev. A. S. Roblin, Park St. Baptist; the Rev. M. P. Poole, All Saints' Anglican.

IN ST. JOHN'S

Another three-hour service will be held from noon to 3 p.m. at St. John's Anglican church, conducted by the rector, the Rev. F. G. Ongley. There will be a series of addresses on the seven last words, with hymns every half hour. Mr. Ongley asks that all who attend the service arrive before it starts, or enter the church at the half hour intervals.

There will also be an ante-communion service, with litany, held at St. John's at 10 a.m. Evensong will be held at 5:15.

Communion will be served at none of these services, for it is the Anglican tradition, said Mr. Ongley, never to celebrate this sacrament on Good Friday. This is the only day of the year on which Communion is not normally served.

A pre-Good Friday service will be held Thursday night at Murray Street Baptist church. Three Baptist churches will co-operate in this service, and Communion will be served. The Rev. Ivan Morgan of Murray Street Baptist church extends an invitation to all Christians of whatever faith to participate in the Communion.

The meditation on the last supper will be given by the Rev. George Downing of Lakefield Baptist church. Mr. Morgan, the Rev. E. C. Smith of Gilmour Memorial Baptist and the Rev. A S. Roblin of Park Street Baptist also will take part.

These three city churches will co-operate in the service, and deacons of the three will be on hand. The combined choirs of Murray Street and Park Street churches will sing.

EASTER WEEK

In the Roman Catholic churches of the city and diocese Easter week began with Palm Sunday, and continued today as Holy Thursday commemorating the institution of the Blessed Eucharist. Holy hour will begin at 7.30 this evening.

Good Friday morning will begin with the mass of the presanctified at 9 a.m. at St. Peter's Cathedral; reading of the Passion from the gospel of St. John at 2.30 and the Way of the Cross at 3 p.m.

At 6.30 a.m. on Holy Saturday there will be the blessing of the Easter water and Paschal candle, followed by High Mass about 8 o'clock

Masses Easter Sunday will be at the usual hours, with the expectation that the celebration of the feast of the Resurrection of Jesus Christ will be marked by general communion of parishioners.

EASTER PREVIEW was attended by two five-year-olds, Barry Kelly (left) and Gary Cromie when they visited the rabbit hutch of Bob York, 709 Orpington Rd., when he was away at school. Their unanimous comment was, "We like these rabbits; they are so soft." There was some doubt in their minds, however, whether these two bunnies could produce enough colored Easter eggs that they hope to consume.

Hockey Receipts At Arena Show Decided Increase

The 1953-54 skating and hockey season was a financial success at the Civic arena this year. Receipts from hockey games and the canteen, covering a period from October 1 to April 6, were well above the previous season. Skating receipts were down slightly.

The senior "B" Petes and the Junior "B" Petes home games gave the arena almost $6,000 more than last year. This year the arena's hockey gross was $8,609.62 as compared with $3,741.11 a year ago.

PLAYOFFS IN LEAD

As expected the bulk of the receipts were during the playoffs in March. Then the teams grossed $3,285.35. In November, December, January and February the hockey games averaged more than $1,000 a month. October, when the season opened, netted $450.22.

In drawing 31,536 to their 28 home games the senior Petes averaged 1,126 a game and totalled $21,153.30 in gross receipts. After the arena had paid its part-time help such as ushers and ticket-takers, its net share was $5,688.

Meanwhile the junior Petes with only 14 home games drew 5,855 fans (an average of 418 and grossed $2,761.75. The arena's net (after help paid) was $512.68.

Arena manager Walter Smillie pointed out the outdoor skating rinks were better this year and therefore caused a slight decrease in attendance at the arena.

Just the same skating receipts amounted to almost as much as the gross from the OHA hockey games and after help has been paid probably will net more than the hockey.

$8,109 FOR SKATING

This year the gross from skating was $8,109.15 as compared with $9,191.75 a year ago. The net receipts from skating are not yet available.

October, November and December, the poor months for outdoor skating were the arena's best. After that attendance dwindled.

October was the best skating month. Then some 8,487 people (4,959 adults and 3,528 children) grossed $2,747.55 for the arena. December was the second best with an attendance of 5,200 (2,657 adults and 2,543 children) and with a gross of $1,754.15.

Other months' figures were (attendance, then gross receipts): November 4,528, $1,596.35; January 2,620, $984.85; February 1,511, $537.70; March 1,223, $394.65; April 266, $93.90.

The total attendance during the past season was 23,835 (14,099 adults and 9,736 children) as compared with 29,638 (17,570 adults and 12,068 children) in 1952-1953.

In addition 10,602 children skated during the 192 hours of free time set aside for public and separate school skating and hockey.

The playoff hockey in March also increased the gross receipts in the canteen. March's canteen receipts of $2,804.44 accounted for the increase this year from $10,540.26 in 1952-1953 to $12,280.89 this season.

The arena's annual financial report, covering the fiscal year April to April, will be presented at the arena committee's May meeting.

Oliver Will Address Liberals On April 20

Farquhar Oliver, recently elected leader of the Ontario Liberal Association, will be the speaker at the annual meeting of the Liberals of Peterborough city and county Tuesday, April 20.

This will be a dinner meeting at the Empress Hotel beginning at 6 p.m. T. J. Carley, QC, president of the association, will be chairman.

Mr. Oliver accepted the Peterborough invitation as the first riding engagement since his election to the provincial leadership at the convention in Toronto last week.

Main business of the meeting will be the election of officers for this year.

Given Federal Grant

OTTAWA (CP)—The University of Ottawa has been given a federal health grant of $9,725 to assist its study, through the use of radioactive isotopes, of the effect of fluorine on teeth, Health Minister Martin announced today.

Mrs. Swanston Elected Head Of TB Ass'n

Mrs. M. J. Swanston, wife of a former mayor of Peterborough, was elected president of the Peterborough County Tuberculosis Association at its annual meeting in the YWCA Wednesday. She succeeds Charles H. Elliott.

What retiring president Elliott described as "the smallest crowd ever to attend an annual meeting" approved a slate of officers brought in by L. H. Ingram, Charles J. Ray and E. W. Armstrong.

Others on the new executive are vice-presidents R. R. Stewart and Mrs. William Richardson; treasurer E. W. Armstrong; Christmas seals secretary Mrs. G. H. Pammett; executive secretary Mrs. R. J. Ward; honorary president, Herb Martin; honorary vice-presidents Mayor Norman Graham and Warden Willard Waterman.

Councillors for 1954 are Mrs. Wallace Shearer, H. J. Tudhope, Gerald Grady, J. M. Heffernan, W. F. Mason, F. R. Revoy, L. H. Ingram, Mrs. G. H. Cutmore, Mrs. G. David Morgan, Mrs. Fred Leslie, William Chambers, Bruce Piercey and Miss Ethelwyn Dix.

The Peterborough County Tuberculosis Association had a balance of $9,377.64 at the end of the fiscal year, treasurer E. W. Armstrong reported. The group began the year with $7,711.69, took in $8,193.19 and spent $6,527.24.

CHRISTMAS SEALS

Major source of revenue was the Christmas seal campaign which brought in $8,161.20. Largest expenditures were for Christmas seals supplies and advertising ($1,179.86) and for x-ray and clinic costs ($2,474.25).

The Association unanimously adopted a new constitution although few voting for it knew what was in it. Said R. R. Stewart, presenting the constitution for the Association's approval: "It would not add up to your entertainment to have it read." He made no reference to the terms of the new constitution.

The Peterborough County Association had been without an official constitution since 1948. The present document is designed to clarify the aims of the organization. It has not yet been approved by the provincial branch of the association.

Edward O'Brien, executive secretary of the Ontario Tuberculosis Association, was on hand at Wednesday's meeting, calling for closer liaison between the Ontario group and the various local organizations. He said that all have a citizenship responsibility to tuberculosis patients and convalescents.

The city was represented at the annual meeting by Ald. Gordon Powell, as Mayor Norman Graham sent his regrets. Also among the guests were Ald. P. J. Anglesey and Ald. J. A. Dewart.

Mr. Anglesey is president of the Victorian Order of Nurses while Col. Dewart is chairman of the board of health.

Hotel Clerk Arrested With Money After Flight To Oshawa

Donald McNeil Will Be Charged With Theft, After City Police Called and Oshawa Constable Informed

A young man's venture into the world of crime came to a short, sharp stop early today. Donald McNeil, who has been employed as night desk clerk at the Empress hotel for two weeks, gathered up about $200 in cash from the till and made a hurried departure from Peterborough shortly before six a.m. However, he is back now, this time reposing in the county jail awaiting a trial for theft.

It appears that McNeil arranged with a girl friend to take an early morning cab ride to Toronto. The girl, whose name was not divulged by city police, arrived with the cab at the Empress about 5:45 a.m.

She became suspicious when McNeil asked her to hide the hotel cashbox under her coat. She refused, so the clerk bundled some money into a bag and off they went in the cab.

McNeil waited until the cab had reached the city limits and then informed the driver that he wanted to go to Toronto.

PLAYED ILL

However, the girl friend did a little smart thinking and decided to become ill. While the cab was stopped on the road, another motorist pulled up and she managed to convey to him that she was in trouble and needed the police.

The motorist phoned straight through to Inspector of detectives William (Bud) Clarke, who in turn arranged with the OPP to set up a road block. However, the cab was not held up until it reached Oshawa where McNeil intended to change cabs.

By this time the cab driver was making two and two add up to four, so he slipped a warning to the nearest policeman who happened to be constable Collins of the Oshawa city force.

With the assistance of Sergeant Taylor, the constable detained McNeil, the girl and the cab and its driver.

Inspector Clarke arrived later in the morning and brought McNeil back to Peterborough. He also got back the money taken from the hotel.

It is expected that McNeil will be charged with theft.

Dr. D. Mitchell New President Of Dental Health

Dr. David Mitchell on Wednesday night was elected president of the Peterborough and District Dental Public Health committee. He succeeds Dr. Ralph Honey.

Other officers elected at the meeting held in the city hall conference room were: Dick Stewart of Otonabee, vice-president; William Ashton, and seven executive committee members: Miss Jean Buck, Mrs. Vert Reynolds Miss Rachael Young, Mrs. Clarence Coones of Lakefield, and Drs. Al McDougall, Bob Nelson, and Ralph Green.

The committee was set up to educate the public— particularly parents — on dental diseases in young children. This is accomplished through movies and talks to groups such as home and school clubs.

The program is carried out throughout the city and county.

SPECIAL WEEK

This year the committee's program will be publicized by a dental public health week, beginning Oct. 4. A public meeting will be held some time in May to decide on details of the program.

Among those present at the Wednesday night meeting were Mrs. Reynolds of the Home and School council, Mrs. James Wharry, and Miss Rachael Young of the Children's Aid Society, and Miss Jean Buck of the Peterborough Red Cross. The Parent-Teacher representative was absent.

UNEMPLOYMENT TALK

Leslie Wismer, director of research for the Trades and Labor Congress, will be the main speaker Monday night at the unemployment meeting sponsored by the two Peterborough labor councils. Union members, unemployed, as well as the public, are invited to the meeting at 8 p.m. in the Labor Centre.

Weekend Staff Writer Wins Feature Award

Gerald Clark, winner of top honors for feature writing in the National Newspaper Awards, is a staff writer of Weekend Picture magazine, the Examiner's Saturday magazine section. The award is for six feature articles which Clark despatched from Moscow and which appeared in the Examiner last November.

These articles, which gave a visitor's impressions of the Soviet capital, were the first from Russia by any Canadian professional newspaperman since the beginning of the iron curtain era. They were followed by a series of five articles in Weekend Picture Magazine which won Clark wide recognition that resulted in invitations to appear on radio and television shows and to make more than 20 public addresses from coast to coast. He addressed the Peterborough Rotary Club early in the year.

Sentiment Wins Day

Sound Of Peanut Whistles To Be Heard

Lo, the winter is past; the snow is over and gone; the flowers appear on the earth; the time of the singing of birds is come; and the sound of the peanut-vendor's whistle will be heard in our town.

In fact, two whistles.

In 1949 city council decided that peanut pushcarts were becoming a traffic hazard and resolved not to issue any more vending licences to them. When another application turned up three weeks ago, the board of works turned it down in a split vote.

In casting the deciding vote, the chairman, Ald. Art Burrows said he thought council ought to abide by the resolution already on the books, although Ald. Stan McBride had said, "I sort of like to hear the whistle of the peanut roaster."

This sentiment found sympathy in the breast of Ald. Gordon Farquharson, who said, "Like Ald. McBride, I liked to hear the sound of the whistle; it seemed to add something to the atmosphere of the streets."

TWO APPLICANTS

Well, there appeared to be enough fond memories of gentler days to bring the matter up again at the meetings of the finance committee Monday night. In fact the committee approved two applications, one from the original applicant, Peter Andrews, and another from William Cinese.

Ald. McBride reiterated his opinion that the pushcarts "would add to the atmosphere of the town" but Ald. Powell was afraid they would be the cause of holding up the busy flow of traffic.

Ald. Farquharson said the movements of the carts could be left to the control of the chief constable. Ald. McBride's motion to grant the licences was seconded by Ald. Alene Holt; but once again the question resulted in a tie vote.

This time Ald. Pat Anglesey was chairman and cast the deciding vote in favor of the peanut vendors, protesting that he had never been against them, although reported otherwise in The Examiner.

City Clerk E. A. Outram suggested there was a problem in connection with an application from Eroica Industries Ltd. to operate vending machines throughout the CGE plant. The machines would be stationed at 21 points throughout the plant and would dispense sandwiches, cupcakes, coffee and soft drinks in addition to the traditional stock-in-trade of coin-in-the-slot gadgets.

21 OR ONE

The problem was whether or not the company should require 21 licences—one for each machine—or just one licence for each category of merchandise, as with a canteen or refreshment booth.

"I don't think there's any problem," Ald Harold Rehill said. "If you had a store selling milk at the back as well as the front, you wouldn't assess it for two licences."

Finally it was decided to ask the clerk to find out what was the policy, if any, in other cities faced with the same situation.

Meanwhile, the committee recommended issuing the company with three licences, one for milk-vending at $2, one for cigarettes at $10 and one for a refreshment booth at $20.

Another matter of policy was discussed in connection with licencing transient peddlers.

"If they have a previously good character and record of legitimate dealings, we recommend them, as a rule," Mr. Outram said. "Otherwise, we sometimes invite them out of town."

Well Entertained While Detained At Sanatorium

TORONTO (CP) — Hayward Avery, 74-year-old retired lithographer, testified in Ontario Supreme Court Wednesday he went out 419 times during his 33-month stay in Homewood Sanatorium, Guelph, to baseball and hockey games, dances, bingos, and wiener roasts. He said he was always accompanied.

"I didn't know where the money was coming from—I imagined it was coming from my estate," he said. "I didn't think Homewood was paying for it and I knew my son Donald couldn't."

Mr. Avery was testifying in the third day of his action for unstated damages against the sanatorium and four doctors who examined him. He charges conspiracy, false imprisonment, malpractice, breach of statutory law, and common law negligence. Action against his son Donald, who allegedly had him committed, was dropped earlier.

Edson Haines, counsel for the sanatorium, said the total bill for "sundries" while Mr. Avery was in the institution was $1,571.63—an average of $47.75 a month. Mr. Avery said he had not been given an account.

Mr. Avery said that while at Homewood he had his own radio and had no complaints about food. Visitors could come at any time.

"I took in everything," he said.

Would Relax Ruling On TV

OTTAWA (CP)—A former radio news analyst says the time is rapidly approaching for the government to permit establishment of more than one television station in any one area.

Elmore Philpott (L—Vancouver South) said in the Commons Wednesday that Parliament should make up its mind to retain the publicly-owned CBC as the dominant partner of broadcasting development. But it should not be guilty of frustrating the unhampered development of free enterprise broadcasting.

Mr. Philpott recalled his association with the CBC for which he was a news analyst during most of the Second World War. He said he also gained an intimate knowledge of operations of private broadcasters.

In 1952, Revenue Minister McCann who reports to Parliament for the CBC had said "it may not be long before there is a sufficient degree of national coverage to justify the government and the CBC giving consideration to permitting two and perhaps in some cases more than two stations in certain areas."

Angry Magistrate Stalks Out Of Court

WINDSOR (CP) — Magistrate Angus W. Macmillan stalked angrily out of his own court room Wednesday after an argument involving a defence lawyer and assistant crown attorney.

Fred Weslowski, 68, of Windsor, was charged with having liquor in his home which had been declared a public place. The case was adjourned to May 4 after the argument.

Defence counsel Morris Kamin and assistant crown attorney John Whiteside clashed several times over testimony. Mr. Kamin objected to Mr. Whiteside cross examining his own witnesses.

The magistrate warned the Crown, then left the court when the attorney tried to submit a further question for consideration.

Nurses Reject Pay Increase

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto private - duty nurses have decided to do something about the high cost of living—they voted down a daily $2 pay increase for themselves.

It was proposed at the annual meeting of the central registry of graduate nurses that daily wages be raised to $12 from $10.

The proposal was turned down by more than two-thirds of the members present on the ground it would place a heavier financial burden on patients.

Miss Jean Brown, registrar-general of the central registry, said the nurses felt that everyone is having a hard time financially these days and the average patient just can't afford to pay more for nursing services.

The registry represents more than 1,000 private duty nurses in the city.

Are you sure you're using the right milk?

LEARN the facts about Carnation Milk

MAKE THIS 7 DAY TEST

The easiest way to learn why more and more women are using Carnation Milk, is to try it yourself. Make this simple test. For one week use Carnation Evaporated Milk in place of your present milk — for cooking, for creaming coffee, for desserts and cereals. Even after only a week of using Carnation, we are sure that you will say, "This is the milk for me."

YOU'LL SEE that Carnation is much creamier in color — how smoothly it pours, like rich cream.

YOU'LL TASTE Carnation's richer flavor — that makes the family ask for second helpings.

COOK WITH CARNATION — here is milk that does fine things for cooking that no other form of milk will do. Carnation is heat-refined and double-rich. It makes recipes smoother and better flavored. In place of bottled milk, use undiluted Carnation Milk mixed with an equal amount of water. In place of cream, use undiluted Carnation. Whips beautifully, too.

Juvenile Delinquency Result Of Three Influences

MILLBROOK (ENS) — William Little, superintendent of the Ontario Training School for Boys, Cobourg, was special speakker at the Home and School Association meeting Monday night.

It was necessary, he said, to try to assess the causes of juvenile delinquency. Did the fault lie with the community, the family or with the child personally?

The answer was usually that all three to some degree were at fault. In 65 per cent. of the cases with which the school dealt, one or other of the parents for some reason was absent from the home.

Economic conditions were among the main causes. The majority of boys came from poor homes where the problem of where to get money for rent, clothing and food was so pressing it excluded training in acceptable social behavior. Housing conditions also contributed to delinquency where several families were crowded into living quarters intended only for one family.

Minority groups from which, no matter how they tried, children could not gain acceptance with their fellows, also contributed to delinquency. The children developed aggressiveness or an I-don't-care attitude because of their feeling of insecurity. They found they got attention only when they got into trouble.

SIX SCHOOLS

In Ontario there were six training schools, three Roman Catholic and three Protestant. In each case, two of the three were for boys and one for girls.

In the boys' school in Cobourg there were 150 boys, in Bowmanville about 200 and in Galt 120 girls. The schools were all filled to capacity.

Eight years ago the average stay in the training school was 18 months. Now, on account of lack of accommodation, the average stay was less than nine months. The population of Ontario is increasing at the rate of 10,000 a month, and the size of the institutions has not kept pace with this increase. The speaker hoped the time could be returned to 14 or 15 months at least so that the school would be better able to rehabiliate the boys in society.

SELF-DISCIPLINE

Self-discipline was the hardest lesson of all to teach. It had to come from within. The staff of the school try to get the boy to wish to conform and to be happy in doing so.

The speaker was introduced by Alex. Gilbert and thanked by Mrs. Bruce Ingham.

Mrs. W. W. Kennedy, in her current events report, mentioned the X-ray clinic for TB in Millbrook next month.

Mrs. W. H. Raper gave the publications report. Fraser Carr sang a group of two songs, accompanied by Miss Mabel Clarry. Mrs. B. B. Dawson, president, was in the chair.

Miss Burnham's room won the attendance award in close competition with Mr. Hamilton's room. Mr. Hamilton's room and the high school were tied, just one point behind.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Wilfrid Elson and her committee.

Transatlantic Cable Rates To Increase

OTTAWA (CP)—An increase in rates on transatlantic cables handled by the government's Canadian Overseas Telecommunication Corporation was forecast Wednesday.

In its annual report tabled in the Commons, COTC said increasing operating costs make it "apparent that some adjustment in rates cannot much longer be deferred."

The corporation, formed by the government four years ago, handles all cable business crossing the Atlantic direct from Canada. Some other Canadian traffic is routed by way of cableheads in the United States.

No indication of the size of possible rate increases was given.

Rusia Recalls Tass Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Tass, the official Russian news agency, has recalled its Ottawa correspondent.

Ivan V. Tsvetkov, 35, informed the parliamentary press gallery Wednesday that he has been ordered back to Russia. He has been a member of the gallery since last September when he was able to satisfy members who had raised objections to his membership application in March, 1953.

His original application was rejected by a general meeting of the 70-odd members of the gallery on grounds that Mr. Tsvetkov came to Canada on a diplomatic passport and was attached to the Russian embassy here. Later, he obtained a non-diplomatic passport and was accepted as a gallery member.

Tass correspondents have been regarded with some suspicion since a royal commission disclosed that a Tass correspondent, Nicolai Zabotin, was attached to a wartime Russian spy ring. This was the ring exposed by Igor Gouzenko, Russian embassy cipher clerk who sought asylum in Canada in 1945.

Senate Approves Malan's Plan

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — The South African Senate Wednesday night approved by a vote of 21 to 8 Prime Minister Daniel Malan's call for a resumption of negotiations with Britain on the transfer to South Africa of the protectorates of Bechuanaland, Basutoland and Swaziland.

Now that he has received authorization from both Houses of Parliament, Malan is expected to make an early approach to Britain for new talks.

His motion was approved Tuesday by the House of Assembly.

The three British protectorates cover about 300,000 square miles of land adjoining South Africa and are inhabited by 1,000,000 natives.

Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons Tuesday that Britain would stand by its original pledge not to transfer the protectorates without consulting the wishes of the natives living there.

Curtail Arrangements

NAIROBI (CP) — The Uganda government Wednesday curtailed royal four arrangements to guard against the possibility of an attempt on the Queen's life by Mau Mau terrorists from this neighboring British East Africa colony.

Support Board Buys 130,024 Lbs. Butter

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's agricultural prices support board has bought 130,024 pounds of adulterated butter since July 1, 1952.

The government, in a return tabled in the Commons Wednesday for Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre), said the butter came from four creameries and was bought through two brokers, none of them named.

The return said one broker has refunded the full price of the 56,420 pounds it sold. Action was being taken to recover the cost of the remainder.

Willys Employees Vote For Pay Cut

TOLEDO (AP)—Toledo production workers at Willys Motors, Inc. Wednesday voted a paycut for themselves to bring the company's labor costs in better competitive position with other automobile manufacturers.

The almost-unanimous vote may cost the workers as much as 10 per cent of their weekly earnings.

But they may recover part of this later, if a new bonus pay plan can be worked out.

Willys currently employs about 7,000 men and women on its production line, at an average weekly wage of $80. A 10-per-cent reduction could save the company about $56,000 a week.

Loses Citizenship

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Federal judge William F. Smith Wednesday stripped Albert Anastasia, reputed head of the old Murder, Inc., mob of killers, of his U.S. citizenship. The action opens the way to Anastasia's deportation to his native Italy.

Tribute To Cassino

CASSINO, Italy (Reuters)—Gen. H. D. G. Crerar of Canada Wednesday paid tribute to the heroism of British Commonwealth soldiers at a ceremony marking the 10th anniversary of the Battle of Cassino.

More Nickels Being Made Than In Previous Years

OTTAWA (CP) — The apparent decline of the five-cent piece, with the disappearance of such things as nickel coffee and pay phone calls in many areas, would seem to be a fiction from the annual report of the Royal Canadian Mint.

Its report, tabled in the Commons Wednesday, showed the mint's presses stamped 16,635,352 nickels in 1953. That was a big jump over the 10,891,148 of the year before.

The mint both produced and issued more of every kind of coin except the half-dollar.

Fifty-cent production slumped to 1,630,429 from 2,397,185 the year before. No reason was given for the slip.

The mint also said it received in fine gold during the year 3,684,073 ounces, against 3,953,158 the year before. The drop probably was accounted for by a long strike in the northern Ontario and Quebec mines.

TORONTO (CP) — Six Canadian newspaper men and one woman were named today as winners of the fifth annual National Newspaper Awards.

Three others — two reporters and a free-lance photographer — won special citations.

The awards and citations cover work done in 1953. The annual competition is open to men and women employed by Canadian daily newspapers and news associations. Winners receive $400 each and a certificate of award.

Citation-winners receive an engraved memento and a certificate.

Awards:

Editorial writing—T. E. Nichols, Hamilton Spectator.

Spot news reporting—Judith Robinson, Toronto Telegram.

Feature writing—Gerald Clark, Canada Wide Feature Service.

Staff corresponding—Jack Scott, Vancouver Sun.

Spot news photography—Orval Brunelle, Lethbridge Herald.

Feature news photograph—Bill Dennett, Vancouver Sun.

Cartooning—Robert W. Chambers, Halifax Chronicle - Herald and Mail-Star.

Citations

Doug Collins, Calgary Herald, and J. Alex Hume, Ottawa Citizen, for spot news reporting.

F. W. Lahrman, Regina Leader-Post, for news photography.

Awards and citations will be presented at a dinner in Toronto May 7 given by the Toronto Men's Press Club. The prizes, designed to reward and promote excellence in Canadian newspaper work, were originated by the club in 1949, with the support of the late George McCullagh who guaranteed funds for five years.

The basis of support has since been broadened. The following newspapers and groups contribute to the awards fund:

Southam Newspapers, Thomson Newspapers, the French - language dailies of Canada, Halifax Chronicle - Herald, Montreal Gazette, Montreal Star, Ottawa Journal, Toronto Globe and Mail, Toronto Star, Toronto Telegram, London Free Press, Windsor Star, Winnipeg Free Press, Regina Leader-Post, Saskatoon Star-Phoenix, Vancouver Sun, Victoria Times and Victoria Colonist.

—Editorial Writing—

The award to Nichols in editorial writing was made on a selection of editorials ranging from local to national issues and across a wide range of interest. Singled out for special comment was one on "The Myth of Parity," a discussion of artificial price-fixing.

Two other writers were particularly mentioned in the final judging — E. A. Collard of the Montreal Gazette and Gerard Filion of Montreal Le Devoir, both former winners of the award.

—Spot News Reporting—

Miss Robinson won the spot news award with her disclosure from Regina last April of "cheque-kiting" involving an official of a defaulting construction company and a Liberal member of Parliament who subsequently resigned his seat. The story was an interesting sidelight on a situation which had been the subject of vigorous parliamentary debate.

In this category the judges recommended citation of Collins's exposure as a hoax of "The Canadian Who Wouldn't Talk," the man who won international reputation for resisting enemy torture rather than disclose military secrets.

They recommended also a special citation for Hume for an election-day forecast, province-by-province, which came within two seats of the exact result of the Aug. 10 federal election.

Among other entries highly-regarded by the judges was Charlie Whipp's coverage for the Windsor Star of the Sarnia tornado last May.

—Feature Writing —

Clark's award - winning stories in the feature-writing class comprised a series from Moscow last November in which he wrote of daily life in the Russian capital as it seems to the visitor—rush-hour traffic, theatres, sports, barber shops and language difficulties. The series appeared in the Montreal Star and other dailies.

—Staff Corresponding—

Scott, a columnist, won the staff corresponding award with a series of stories on South Africa's racial problem. They were written on the scene at the time of Prime Minister Malan's return to power last April.

—Photography—

Brunelle won the spot news picture award with his shot of Lethbridge's mayor transfixed by electric shock as he grasped a microphone at a civic ceremony.

The feature award went to Dennett for an unusual shot of a chihuahua nipping a thoroughbred mare on the nose when the mare interposed between the small dog and his friend, the mare's colt.

Cited for excellence was the unusual picture of three whooping cranes obtained by F. W. Lahrman, Regina free lance, first published in the Regina Leader-Post.

—Cartooning—

Judges in the cartoon category remarked on Chambers' consistently perceptive comment on world and Canadian affairs and noted that "his originality and good humor give his cartoons an outstanding and individual character."

Singled out as an example was a cartoon which appeared last May at the time of Prime Minister St. Laurent's visit to Washington. It shows him riding a horse labelled "Parliament" and confronting at the border a smug-faced horse labelled "Congress" astride a resigned - looking President Eisenhower. The title: "Different Countries—Different Customs."

DIFFERENT COUNTRIES—DIFFERENT CUSTOMS—This cartoon by Robert Chambers in the Halifax Mail-Star was chosen winner of the fifth annual National Newspaper Award for cartooning.—(CP Photo).

SPOT NEWS—Judith Robinson of the Toronto Telegram won the fifth annual National Newspaper Award for spot news reporting. Her disclosure from Regina last April of "Cheque-kiting" involving an official of a defaulting construction company and a Liberal member of Parliament, who subsequently resigned his seat, was considered an interesting sidelight on a situation which had been the subject of vigorous parliamentary debate. Miss Robinson, daughter of the late John R. Robinson, editor for 40 years of The Telegram, entered newspaper work in 1929 with the old Toronto Globe.—(CP Photo).

Canada In Direct Line Of Jet Stream

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Karl Buckthought, University of Toronto physicist and wartime meteorologist, said Wednesday Canada could be in the direct line of a jet stream which might pick up radio-activity from Pacific hydrogen bomb tests if the men in charge of the experiments made an error.

Dr. Buckthought, who said earlier this week that H-bomb explosions could pollute the air with lethal radio-activity lasting perhaps thousands of years, issued a statement today in reply to a comment by Dr. J. S. Foster of McGill University. Dr. Foster said the persons conducting the tests "know more than we, or anyone else about these explosions."

Dr. Buckthought said jet-stream radio-activity would be more likely to fall on cities than on desert regions because there is usually smog and water vapor over populated areas.

Ask Permission To Drain Marsh In Cavan Twp.

MILLBROOK (ENS) — At the Cavan township meeting for April Reeve Lloyd Hooton told that two different groups of people, one from Toronto, and the other he supposed also from the same place had approached him about the purchasing and draining of swamp land on the 13th concession of Cavan township.

Their purpose was to use it for gardening as had been done with the Holland Marsh. It was agreed that the council should meet these delegations and plans were made for setting a date.

A. V. Thorn, collector of rates, reported that of 1951 taxes $227.12 outstanding, $109.41 had been collected leaving a balance of $117.-71.

Of the $1,488.37 taxes outstanding for 1952 $468.94 had been collected leaving a 1952 balance uncollected of $1,019.43. Of 19,-747.92 outstanding taxes for 1953 $12,025.29 had been collected leaving a balance of $7,722.63. He recommended 10 properties for registration.

He told also that dogs assessed to W. Walker and W. Woodrim be written off as they did not at present own dogs.

On motion of Councillor Thorn and deputy-reeve J. H. McKnight it was voted that the collector should send by registered mail a notice to those in arrears in taxes, that taxes must be paid by May 4th. Failing this a reasonable answer must be made, and a definite date set when they will be paid.

ASK FOR ROAD WORK

A delegation consisting of H. Patton, W. Seward, M. Todd, H. Morton and L. Olan addressed the council asking that work should be done in the west-end of the fourth concession road, the Zion Line, near the Marsh school.

Melville Wood made a similar request, and the Durham County District high school board also asked that the west end of the Zion Line be repaired to facilitate the transporting of pupils to Millbrook high school.

The reeve informed them that council had considered that piece of road last year. They would look at it again when out on road inspection, but at the present time the bylaw for road appropriation had not yet been approved by the department of highways, and nothing could be done until it was.

On motion of Councillors Cathcart and Kinsman the road superintendent is to be asked to put up signs east of Cavan on the way to Cavan CPR station, near the new highway prohibiting dumping.

It was passed that the council as a whole should atttend the meeting held April 12th in Newcastle to inspect blue prints for a new high school to be built in Port Hope and an addition to the present high school in Bowmanville. It is believed that Port Hope and Hope township will go ahead with the building of Port Hope school whether they remain in Durham County high school area or not.

The clerk read the auditors report for the year 1953, in which the township finished the year with a surplus of $1,778.50 as compared with a deficit a year ago of $1,068.58. North Cavan public school area finished the year with a deficit of $1,734.02, and South Cavan public school area with a deficit of $1,068.58.

The auditor felt that the amount of outstanding taxes at the end of December was too high and he recommended that continued pressure be maintained to collect these taxes. He found assessors, collectors, and treasurers' books all to be well kept and in good order.

ASKS FOR GRANT

Leonard W. Smith addressed the council about a grant to the Millbrook Livestock Show, which was being held in Millbrook fair grounds on June 9th. The usual grant of $220 was voted to this enterprise.

The clerk, Mrs. P. J. Bentley gave a full report of the Ontario Rural Municipal Convention held in Toronto in March to which she had been sent as delegate.

A cheque for $7,120.53 was received from the department of highways, the balance of the total $16,948.64 subsidy on roads for the year.

A letter of appreciation was read from Edward Larmer, T. W. McCamus and Piercy Pitt, rural mail carriers for the fine work "the ploy boys," Harry Tully, Wilfred Gillis and Arnold Fallis for keeping the roads in such excellent condition all winter.

The biggest item in the accounts to be paid out was $4,254.40 to the treasurer of roads pay roll and vouchers No. 3.

Norman Earle received $40 for one sheep killed and $10 for shooting a dog. William Fair received $30 for a sheep killed.

United Counties hospitalization amounted to $144,45, $200 went to Ray Dilling for the municipal audit and the same amount to W. L. Elson, the assessor.

Confirm Banishment Of 3 Newspapermen

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The Court of Appeals Wednesday confirmed banishment of three newspaper men to the desolate province of Aysen in southern Chile for their criticism of the Carlos Ibanez government.

Ordered banished from the capital were Raul Morales, managing editor of the Tabloid Noticas Graficas, sentenced to four years in Aysen and payment of 10,000 pesos fine; and editor Luis Montero and Segundo Hidalgo, a reporter, both sentenced to lesser terms and fined 6,000 pesos each.

The judgment against the three men would deprive them of their citizenship rights for life.

Aysen is 24 hours by train and two days by ship south of Santiago. It has a climate comparable to that of Newfoundland.

Critics Hail Alec Guinness

LONDON (CP)—Alec Guinness, back on the stage for the first time since his appearance last summer in the Stratford Shakespearian festival, was hailed today by critics as a "superlative" actor of "immaculate sincerity."

Guinness opened Wednesday night at the Globe Theatre in the role of an Iron Curtain cardinal charged with treason in Bridget Boland's "The Prisoner." The play chronicles the successful efforts of his captors to extract a confession of guilt.

There are only three speaking roles—that of the cardinal, who is on stage for all but three minutes of the 2¼-hour play, his interrogator and his jailer.

The Daily Mirror's Harold Conway termed Guinness' work "master progression — or recession—from lofty intelligence to a craving for the relief of madness."

Both The Times and The Telegraph critics said they were disappointed in the play, but praised Guinness' performance.

The by-election was caused by the death of Labor MP Alexander Anderson.

Tito Reviews Turks

ANKARA, Turkey (Reuters)—Soviet and other Iron Curtain diplomats looked on Wednesday as President Tito of Yugoslavia took the salute at an eight-hour parade of all branches of the Turkish Army. Infantry, artillery, tanks, engineers and cavalry regiments dipped their flags in salute as they passed the presidential box on Ankara Racetrack. A calvary regiment rode past at full gallop.

Miss Greta Clark Tells Story To George St. Aux.

George Street church Evening Auxiliary meeting was held Wednesday. President Mrs. D. Munro opened with a reading "What does Easter mean to me?" Miss Edna Manning, supply secretary, gave a gratifying report of new clothing received from members and friends. Layettes have been sent to the WMS hospital at Mathison and also supplied for a bale to Dr. Florence Murray in Seoul, Korea.

Worship was led by Mrs. Walker Jones and her group. A solo on the Easter theme was contributed by Mrs. Arnold Bennett who was accompanied by Miss Dorothy White.

Mrs. W. J. Armstrong introduced the guest speaker, Miss Greta Clark who is well known for having spent the past 34 years serving under the Anglican church missions in China, the last two years being under the communist regime.

Miss Clark commenced by reading from Phillips' translation of the New Testament and based her talk on the Chinese parable of the Bamboo Tree. She told how in a time of drought a man climbed into the hills where there was a spring surrounded by water-loving bamboo trees. He cut down many large trees and one small tree to which he attached a two inch knife and cut away thick membranes of the otherwise hollow trees. He then put one tree in the water of the spring and one by one added other trees, until the water was piped down to the plains.

"In the same way, Christians are the pipelines of God's love and are used by Him to carry the message of His eternal love to all the world" said Miss Clark.

She told also of the circumstances of her decision to remain in Shanghai with the christian students of Varsity Fellowship when they knew the Communists were coming, and of her life there and later departure. Only one letter has reached Miss Clark since her return to Canada and it told how the Christian Chinese continue to worship and read their Bibles by the only night light available, the street lamp.

Following this talk a social time was spent by the ladies and refreshments were served by Mrs. Jones and assistants.

HAVELOCK (ENS)— Marilyn Quinlan and Evelyn Stevenson conducted the worship service at a meeting of the Havelock CGIT Monday evening in the Sunday school auditorium of the United church.

Thirteen members were present. Plans were discussed for future activities and a recreation period was enjoyed under the direction of the leader, Mrs. R. G. Newman, who was also the pianist for the sing song.

The CGIT purpose and hymn were used in the opening exercises. Lunch was served by Jean Kennedy, Evelyn Stevenson and Marilyn Quinlan. The meeting closed with taps.

MARK STREET

This week Mark St. CGIT enjoyed a banquet provided by the WMS of the church. After supper, Miss Marion Brown led a lively singsong. The intermediate group, under leadership of Carol Noyes and Phyllis Collins, presented a skit entitled "Gargle Juice." Accordion music by Miss Shirley Hubart was enjoyed.

Worship service was led by Mrs. H. Mansell. Janice Berry read a poem and Bev Bacon read the scripture. Shirley and Margaret Fell sang a lovely duet "Shall I Crucify My Savior?"

The annual affiliation service was held and the CGIT renewed their vows with the WMS. Carol Noyes presented the membership fee to the WMS.

A film was then enjoyed. It showed what Canadian missions are ding in Korea.

Mrs. K. Ferguson announced that Velma Hendren was nominated to represent Mark St. CGIT at camp council. Mrs. N. D. Patterson closed the evening with benediction after Velma Hendren had expressed thanks to those taking part.

Women Choose Clothes To Catch The Eye Of Men

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The old maxim that women dress for men and not for other women has been reiterated by Hardy Amies, designer to the Queen.

This dark-haired bachelor, 45, in an autobiography called "Just So Far," (Collins) says most women know instinctively what will be most attractive to men and accordingly choose clothes that are best for that purpose.

Amies agrees that women are deeply interested in what other women wear and love to outshine them, but "only in the sense that there is rivalry between the window-dressers of stores."

The author dedicates his book on fashion interests and problems "to the women who cannot afford my clothes, especially those who buy them."

SERVE AS TONIC

Amies says his idea of fashion is to make dresses fresh enough in design to be a tonic to the wearer, but not so revolutionary that they make obsolete her entire wardrobe. He illustrated this point in outfits designed for the Queen's Canadian tour in 1951. The then princess's clothes were never so progressive that Canadian women could feel outdated in styles.

The ideal woman, says Amies, changes her shape to suit the fashions. Women, for instance, have added at least three inches to their hips in the last 15 years.

"The true lines of fashion develop as naturally as do the outlines of a tree," Amies wrote. Sleeves swell, and then are lopped, fall off or wither away. "Dress designers are like horticulturists," he added. "They can produce freak growths and often do."

The three most important requisites for a dress designer are "invention, intelligence and taste," says Amies. He does not think women have half the chance that men do of becoming successful designers.

MUST BE OBJECTIVE

"To be a successful designer you must be objective; you must be able to view womankind and their clothes as a whole." Few women can do this, he says.

Amies, who has made several North American trips, was once asked in New York why he puts all his decorations on the front of his clothes.

"Because I noticed the Good Lord had the same idea," was the prompt rejoinder.

The designer started his own salon after wartime army service —and soon set up house in Savile Row, stronghold of men's tailoring. He has about 200 employees and produces about 2,000 garments a year. It costs an average of 80 guineas ($230) for a suit from his couture collection and between 30 to 40 guineas in the boutique, or ready-to-wear department.

Most of the famous couturiers today supply designs to manufacturers for reproduction. Thus, fashions change faster than they did when former top-liners like Lelong, Molyneux and Chanel made dresses that could not be copied and did not easily date.

Home and School Association News

LAKEFIELD SCHOOL

LAKEFIELD (ENS) — Mrs. L. Raper of Peterborough was guest speaker at the April meeting of the Lakefield Home and School Association held in the public school and reviewed the film "Shyness." The meeting was then divided into groups for discussion on the various points of the film.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Stanley Burger, president of the association, who presided for the meeting, and Murray Paterson expressed the appreciation of the gathering to her and others who took part in the program.

Harry Rath, winner of the boys' section of the public speaking contest, sponsored by the Lions Club, gave his speech on "Choosing A Vocation." Harry will compete in the finals for Ontario and Quebec being held in Barrie in May.

Mrs. D. J. Kennedy, convener of the school fair, thanked all those who had made the evening so successful and stated that $205 had been realized as a result of the venture. From this money the executive recommended that a piece of furniture and a silk screen be purchased for the teachers' room, and two dozen additional cups and saucers. Several items will be bought for the lunch room also.

It was announced that Mrs. A. R. Gariepy will be guest speaker at the May meeting and will speak on "Swimming and Water Safety." A second announcement was that of the meeting of the Puppet Society of Peterborough to be held in Queen Mary auditorium on May 14.

Mrs. L. O. Bailey and Mrs. William Webb were tea hostesses and were assisted by mothers from Mrs. Watt's and Miss Benton's rooms.

CAMERON STREET SCHOOL

There were 56 parents present at the first meeting of Cameron Street Home and School Association on Tuesday evening and Mrs. A. H. Downer, membership convener was at the door to receive new members.

President Mr. Stan Reiten was in the chair. Mrs. J. Holt, speaking for the Red Cross, asked for blood donors for the special clinic to be set up on May 18th for gamma-globulin that will be given to those persons suffering with poliomylitis. Conveners who have been appointed for the different works in the association were introduced by the president.

Mrs. Phyllis Kingdon, speaker of the evening, was introduced by Mrs. D. Abraham and spoke with authority and a thorough knowledge of her subject, "nutrition for the whole family" and also with a great deal of wit and humour.

Some of her points were: variety is the secret of good nutrition; never neglect fruit or vegetable juices for breakfast; always use brown sugar on cereal—white is harmful to the teeth; for a child that will not drink plain white milk, add vegetable colouring and coloured straws to make it more appetizing; honey is much better in place of jams and jellies. Use brown bread instead of

Easter Message From Minister To Trinity Mothers

An Easter message was presented to Trinity Baby Band mothers at their meeting Wednesday evening by the Rev. Gordon S. Maxwell. Mr. Maxwell chose for his topic, "Why we believe in Jesus Christ—Because of the Resurrection." It is through the resurrection of Jesus Christ that He and His Kingdom become universal to all people in all countries, he explained. Christ proved by His resurrection that love is the strongest force in all the world.

Mr. Maxwell told the mothers that they should all be saying this Easter message to themselves and to everyone about them. He was introduced by Mrs. W. Cuppy and thanked by Mrs. W. Coones.

Mrs. W. Swayne led the devotional with the theme, "He is Risen—He is not Here," and offered an Easter prayer. Mrs. M. Belch read the scripture and Mrs. O. Davis read an Easter meditation.

Trinity Federation choral group sang "Aleluia, Alleluia" by Brander, and a French plainsong, "Hallelujah in Laud and Praise," a modern form of the 16th century melody. Mrs. J. A. McNeill also sang "My Task."

President Mrs. E. Wellman presided during the business meeting.

The forthcoming party was discussed at length. It will be colorful, gay and tuneful. Picture a Brazilian carnival: brilliant flowers, tables adorned with variegated colored cloths, laughing clowns, dancing girls, even fireworks portrayed on the walls. Through a picture window framed with palm trees there will be seen glittering city lights, aglow in a Brazilian night scene, glimpse of the market square where dainty sun suits and children's clothes, candy and home baking will be displayed, and weaving all this into a complete pattern, South American music will play softly in the background. Such is the picturesque setting, the decorating convener, Mrs. H. Gray, and her committee are creating for the evening of May 5 from 7:30 to 10 o'clock.

The group also discussed the Baby Band picnic and June 10 was the date decided on. Mrs. M. Elliott and Mrs. J. Pierce volunteered to convene this outing.

New members introduced and welcome were Mrs. S. L. Rutledge, Mrs. R. Wiley, Mrs. E. Stevens, Mrs. O. Ferguson and Mrs. J. Pratten.

The evening closed with refreshments served by Mrs. Swayne and her north group.

THE BOLERO worn by Audrey White is made of eight ounces of poodle wool. The dogs with her wear two poodle wool coats, their own and hand-knitted ones of two and one-half ounces each. They were appearing at a London fashion display.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Easter Dinner Features Glazed Ham

After wandering around town pricing ham in all its various guises I decided to talk to my good friend Norm, manager of a large packing house.

If you really would like a ham for your Easter dinner you can have it without disjointing your housekeeping accounts. In my area, smoked "picnics", bone in, will retail at 49c per pound; smoked ham, bone in, will sell in the neighborhood of 70c per pound; cooked ready-to-eat hams, bone in, at approximately 10c more; and, of course, the roast . . . we all want, smoked boneless ham, you will not find it at less than $1.05 per pound (if you do please let me know) Between Norm and I we figured the average family could buy a half smoked ham bone in for $5.00.

So since there is a fair choice range I'm staying with the traditional Easter menu—and giving you a real slick glaze to dress up any one of them that you choose.

Egg Canapes
Glazed Smoked Ham or Picnic Ham
Riced Sweet Potatoes
Spinach Mounds
New Cabbage, Carrot and Radish Salad
Easter Egg Nests
Unfrosted Sponge Cake
Coffee

EGG CANAPES

Cut stale white bread in small rounds and panfry on 1 side. Spread other side with mayonnaise. Spread with smooth mixture of chopped hard-cooked egg white and sardine or anchovy paste. At centre put a small mound of sieved hard-cooked egg yolk, and make border of fine pimiento strips.

GLAZED SMOKED HAM OR PICNIC HAM

Ham should be warmed to room temperature. Place whole or half ham or picnic ham, fat side up, on trivet in uncovered roaster. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for large hams weighing 12 lbs. or over, and 25 minutes per pound for smaller hams or half hams or picnics. Test at centre with metal skewer toward end of cooking period. If you overcook the ham it will be difficult to slice attractively. When done, remove from oven, pour excess fat from pan and add about 2 cups hot water to pan. With scissors, make a lengthwise slit through the skin and remove rind carefully. Spread with Glaze: (Increase glaze for hams over 15 lbs.; decrease for half ham or picnic.) 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar, 2 tablespoons of flour, ¼ cup corn syrup or honey, and about 2 tablespoons pineapple or apple juice or cider—enough to make all of these glaze ingredients into a very thick paste. Mix smoothly. Pour over top of ham and with a fork spread as uniformly as possible, being careful to prevent it coming down on sides too far. Place ham back in pan, put in oven at 425 deg. Fahr. and bake about 20 minutes or until nicely glazed.

SPINACH MOUNDS

Wash 2 lbs. spinach until perfectly clean. Drain. Place over high heat, and in 2 minutes turn it over. Do not add water. Turn over frequently until it wilts, and when it is barely tender, chop it with sharp knife while it cooks. Stir into it a mixture of 3 tablespoons melted butter, 1 teaspoon lemon juice and 2 tablespoons flour, until thickened (or ½ can diluted mushroom soup). Heat it through. Serve in mounds around glazed ham on platter, alternately with piles of riced sweet potatoes.

NEW CABBAGE, CARROT AND RADISH SALAD

Shred new cabbage and carrots as finely as possible. Moisten with mayonnaise or French dressing. Just before serving garnish with paper thin silces of radishes.

EASTER EGG NESTS

This is a fussy business but the children will love it.

Save egg shells where only the tip has been broken away when the egg was removed. Wash and dry them thoroughly. Make 4 different colors of packaged gelatin dessert, and fill the egg shells with them and stand them in egg cups to set until jelly is firm. Break away shells. Have ready in fluted paper cups a "nest" of stiffly whipped cream, topped with shredded ccooanut. Lay a colored jelly egg in each nest. Have your unfrosted sponge cake in a very large chop plate. Make a border of the nests around it and place one in the centre hole if your cake was baked in a tube pan.

DOROTHY DIX

Keep Wedding A Secret Mother-In-Law Is Angry

DEAR MISS DIX: Herb and I were married two years ago, shortly after we finished our graduate work. We didn't tell our families until after the ceremony, feeling there would be less chance of a rumpus once the marriage was performed. I had never even met Herb's mother until we were married. However, after everything was over, we settled out of town and got along quite well with both sides of the family.

Now I can sense a change in my mother-in-law, and feel that her attitude is threatening the happiness of our marriage. At first she seemed to like me, but now she doesn't speak to me. We were even afraid to tell her when I became pregnant, and she didn't know about it until two months before the baby was born. My nervousness over the affair is being taken out on Herb. I know I'm nasty to him, complaining everytime he visits his mother, and berating him when he comes home. Probably each of the three of us is partly at fault, but placing the blame isn't nearly as important as trying ot get our marriage back on a sound basis.

MIRIAM

CONTEMPTUOUS INDIFFERENCE

ANSWER: Any mother-in-law, no matter how patient and long-suffering, would be apt to resent the almost contemptuous indifference of which you and Herb have been guilty. Any mother likes to know the girl her son intends marrying, and for Herb to break the news that he was married—and to a girl his mother had never met—was a callous thing to do.

Your parents apparently had met the young man, why shouldn't the boy's folks have been granted the same consideration from you? Here was no teen-age hasty romance; you both must have been about having finished graduate work to have accepted the situation gracefully, at that, until you permitted a minor blowup to assume the proportions of a major battle. It really looks as though you had been looking for just such a chance to put on the guise of injured daughter-in-law and take to the sulks. Keeping your pregnancy a secret was another mistake. Evidently you believe in keeping everything a secret—except your antagonism.

Undoubtedly there is some fault at each of the three points of this triangle, and I'm glad to see you are sensible enough to admit it. If you really want to get on a good footing with your mother-in-law, why not take a decisive step in that direction, instead of petulantly waiting for Herb to act? A heart-to-heart woman talk between you both will certainly iron out many of the difficulties and give you both a chance to admit where you were wrong.

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm a boy of 16, my parents are separated; I live with my mother and two younger sisters. My mother treats me like a baby, telling me what clothes to put on in the morning, what to eat, supervises my studying, sitting next to me all the time. How can I make her realize I'm growing up?

L. L.

ANSWER: It would be to your mother's advantage, as well as yours, for her to change her present attitude. You are indeed growing up and no amount of pampering or babying will keep you a child. You have a sensible approach to life, and I think by talking seriously to om you can make her appreciate how you feel. It will take time but, if you can substitute pride in your achievements and thus discourage your mother's present desire to dominate your every move, you can accomplish your purpose. Make the most of every opportunity you have to win distinction in school, pointing out to your mother that these are not childish things, but evidences of your adulthood. Working along these lines will prove, in time, that her child is now a young man.

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm 17 and in love with a boy the same age. We've been courting for several years, but I'm tired of courting and want him to propose. He was my first beau, and I'm his first sweetheart. Is that true love?

MARILYN

ANSWER: The mere fact that you were "firsts" in each other's lives doesn't necessarily prove true love, but your steady dating, which must have begun pretty early, would indicate a sincere fondness for each other. However, more than love is needed for marriage. The wherewithal to support a family is quite important, too. Give the boy a chance to get a job and earn money before becoming impatient about marriage.

Sailors Tops In Toppers This Spring

Petite and sweet are the keywords when it comes to Easter bonnets this spring. And those on parade are indeed the smallest, prettiest headgear of many a fashion year.

Three main top fashions will be seen in Peterborough this season. They vary slightly from Parisian chapeaus and New York trend setters. You can be up to the minute Peterborough-wise without worrying about those $150 creations just unveiled at Paris and New York millinery shows. Milliners hint they're not too flattering, may die a sudden death, never be copied in medium priced headgear.

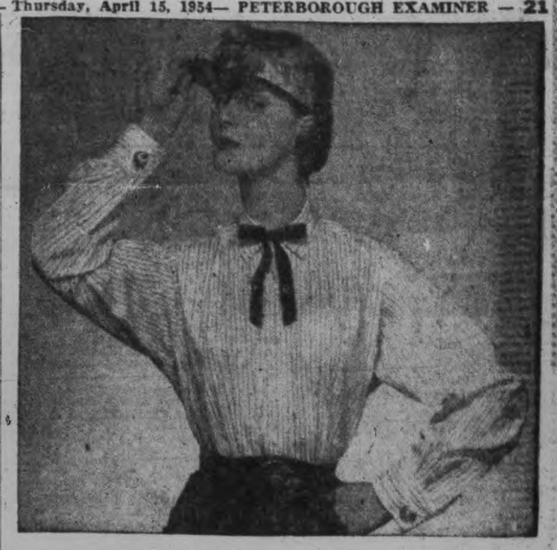
Tops in toppers will be the sailors—about as big as a minute, with a little lift in front. The French sailors dip down—a hard line to wear. American designers have turned them up and made them more becoming to most women.

A little starchy pillbox may be your second choice this spring. Trimming here, as in all the new hats, is very crisp, very wispy. You see it in a sliver of a feather or frill at the front, in the light touch of a single flower, in the use of starched organdy as trimming. Sometimes the flower trim will come forward and drop down a little. Very light, little and fresh seems to be the motto.

The canopy or shell hat completes the big three hat silhouettes. It sits flat on the head, is shallow and has a soft rippled crown. It benefits most from the new things designers are doing with straw. "I've never seen straw handled as they are handling it now," said one buyer. "They use it like a fabric, achieve wonderful draping, rippling and curving with it."

It's straws in spring winds almost exclusively this season and variety in types of straw is greater than ever. Fine braids compete with newly twisted body straws, unusual woven patterns, buttercup stitching. Colors vary from navy to nasturtium, burnt toast, pink and natural shades. However, white is the big hat color and will be seen most often.

They're betting you won't see too many Planters' Hats this year. The current rage sponsored by American fashion magazines is the newest version of the cloche so reminiscent of Garbo's face hiding headgear. It may be the big thing in New York and here (in custom-priced millinery) but they're difficult to wear.



Buyers are shying from forward tilting hats, too. "We'll be back to elastic bands at the back, if it catches on," they claim. However, some of the prettiest French hats do tilt dangerously forward. Gilbert Orcel shows one in Watteau pink taffeta, a pillbox, gaily flowered.

Not everybody wears everything so there will be hats around this spring that are not of straw, are not pillboxes or sailors. You'll see flower hats, head hugging caps, bandeaus and some veils. And there will be some big hats.

The nicest suit hat is a navy sailor with a tiny touch of red under the brim; the smart straw —panamalac—lit with a sheen that is a perfect match with patent leather accessories. One well worth trying on had a single rose trim.

Prettiest trim was on a white straight-sitting sailor, pink organdy draping and shaped rose setting off this little piece of confectionery. Best seller is bound to be a shallow white sailor uplifted at the front, with a wisp of a white feather careening across the crown.

Most likely trend setter—an Albouy made entirely of a pink organdy rose tipped over the forehead and held in place by a pink straw band at the back. Loveliest hat—a bow of blue straw by Simon Cange, in juliet cap shape, trimmed with a lattice of pale blue flowers.

THERE'S A CRISP CHARM to this Mr. Man cotton shirt with its Windsor collar and French cuffs. The velvet bow tie accents the color of the candy stripe.

In Memoriam

[illegible] loving memory of my dear mother, Hannah Preston, who passed away April Fifteenth, Nineteen Forty-three.

Just why God came Down and took you
Mother Dear,
I'll never know,
Because I loved you so,
Much more than I
Can ever say—
For no one knows but I
What your passing meant,
The heart-aches and tears
I've shed the last eleven years—
How often I long
To have you near,
For comfort, advice
Or a few words of cheer.
When I'm tired and weary,
And my cross grows heavy
And at times hard to bear,
With no one around
My troubles to share.
As I sit all alone
With only my memories
That will linger forever
Like the morning dew
On the roses that grew
In our garden fair.
Midst flowers of every hue
Each one holding Fond memories
Of the happiness we knew,
Just we two—
However, I keep on going
From day to day,
Praying each night
For guidance and strength,
That I may carry on
And live as long as I'm let,
Doing the best I can
And hoping some day,
When I'm laid to rest
That you'll be waiting
With outstretched hand
To take me with you,
Thru the Pearly Gates
In that far off Distant Land.

—Sadly missed by Sherman.

WALL—In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. Maude Wall, who passed away April 15, 1932.

Only a memory of bygone days,
And a sigh for a face unseen,
But a constant feeling that God alone
Knows just what should have been.
Sometimes it's hard to understand
Why some things have to be,
But in His wisdom, He has planned
Beyond our power to see.

—Ever remembered by Cressa (Mrs. A. Pilling).

WILLIAMS—In loving memory of Lt. J. F. Williams killed in action April 15, 1945.

Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear
Fond memories linger every day
Remembrance keeps him near.

—Always remembered by June Tripp.

THANKS TO FIREMEN AND ORGANIZATIONS

I am deeply grateful for the noble efforts of the Campbellford, Peterborough, Hastings, Warkworth and Brighton fire brigades which battled the conflagration involving my block recently, and wish to hereby express my sincere thanks and appreciation to these firemen and all who assisted them in a difficult task. I would also express my deep gratitude to the various organizations who rallied to the emergency call and provided shelter and necessities for the fire victims, and hot drinks and sandwiches to the fire-fighters. Many thanks to you all.

TOKYO (AP)—United States Far East Air Forces headquarters today announced the temporary transfer of a C-119 Flying Boxcar Squadron to the Philippines to airlift supplies to Indo-China. Squadron personnel normally will not travel the Indo-China run but will serve in maintenance, supply and administrative capacities. The number of planes and men affected was withheld.

TB Disease Of The Masses Hits Mostly Men Over 40

In 1928 tuberculosis descended almost completely impartially upon the sexes. Today, for every two women with tuberculosis, five men have been stricken. Males over 40 are particularly susceptible to the disease, and form the largest group in sanitoria.

These were among the ever-changing statistics on tuberculosis presented to the annual meeting of the Peterborough County Tuberculosis Association by Dr. Hugh McLintock at the YWCA Wednesday. Dr. McLintock is director of the Gage Institute, world-famed tuberculosis clinic in Toronto.

Tuberculosis is a "disease of the masses" which increases in step with the march of civilization, said Dr. McLintock. Thus, while better treatment and new drugs have lowered the death rate appreciably, the incidence of the disease remains high.

Tuberculosis is an endemic disease which becomes more and more invidious in heavily populated areas. Thus while some areas may be relatively free from the disease, particular locals have in the past, produced up to 30 of the death rate.

NEW INDUSTRIAL'

Examination of the tubercular record of many nations shows that tuberculosis hits the newly industrialized areas first. Then, said Dr. McLintock, it spreads fanwise to other and more rural parts of the country.

This process, prevalent in the United Kingdom in the last century, may be now seen in the Phillipines. With 298 of every thousand deaths attributable to tuberculosis, this country has the dubious distinction of being one of the world leaders. In Canada the ratio is eight per thousand as opposed to 400/1000 a few decades ago.

There is considerable evidence, said Dr. McLintock, that tuberculosis recurs in waves of 100 years or so, the march of medical science notwithstanding. The crest of the wave in Great Britain 100 years ago is now being reached in Latin America and has been passed in Scandinavia. Great Britain may develop more TB susceptibles in the next wave.

But because some generations appear to be more susceptible than others, there is no reason, said the speaker to regard tuberculosis as a disease which "ebbs and flows uncontrolled." Concentrated work by medical researchers in this century, particularly in the past 10 to 20 years, has tended to arrest a trend to a higher TB incidence.

The tuberculosis problem is, however, "still very serious." In 1952 tuberculosis led all other infectious diseases in a fatality ratio of approximately 39/35. This was despite the fact that the death toll has been cut 70 per cent in the past 10 years.

EXAMINE MORE

Each year more and more people are being examined to see if they have or have had tuberculosis. Patch tests among high school students show about eight per cent reacting positively although this does not necessarily mean active tubercular lesion. Of the 264,000 examined by Dr. McLintock's Gage Institute in 1953, 563 were found to be actively tubercular.

One must be cautious with such statistics as these, Dr. McLintock pointed out, because "the incidence is probably much higher among those who have never been surveyed." The Peterborough County Tuberculosis Association and others like it, can, he said, take an active role in ensuring that more and more people are examined.

The falling death rate can be attributed to new drugs of which streptomycin was the forerunner, and then to the more limited extent of the disease among patients admitted to sanitoria. Whereas patients admitted to sanitoria 30 years ago were usually too far along for there to be much hope, the battle against tuberculosis in 1954 is more and more an offensive action to nip the disease as early as possible.

But a chilling thought for the future is that atomic radiation may render all tuberculosis statistics meaningless, Dr. McLintock warned. No one knows, he said, what changes might take place in the tuberculosis bacillus and in human resistance to the disease if there ever is an atomic war. Radioactivity might send the tuberculosis toll soaring again.

Recently the fight against tuberculosis has been waged on several specialized fronts. Dr. McLintock recalled that the incidence of the disease among Toronto foodhandlers had been sharply reduced by the Gage clinic. He pointed out that this was not only of benefit to the foodhandlers but prevents spreading.

CONTINUED STRUGGLE

This endless war against what was once the most implacable of killers has been going on since the time of the Pharaohs, and "it is still a long way from over." Dr. McLintock recalled that mummies disinterred from the Egyptian pyramids had been shown to have tuberculosis, and the disease has plagued man with intermittent regularity ever since.

Dr. McLintock was introduced by Dr. Lloyd Thompson as one of the foremost tuberculosis authorities in the country. A graduate of the University of Toronto (1940), Dr. McLintock served at Christie St. hospital in Toronto under world-famed specialist Dr. George Anglin. He was appointed director of the Gage Institute in 1948.

The speaker was thanked by Col. J. A. Dewart, chairman of the board of health. Retiring association president, Charles H. Elliott also expressed his appreciation to the speaker.

Youth Admits Cheque Phony

The 18-year-old Ottawa youth, James Baldwin, who became friendly with a Peterborough highschool girl and then substituted 85 of her dollars for a bouncing cheque, appeared in court today. He pleaded guilty to the theft of $85 and was remanded to April 22 for sentence.

Baldwin had been keeping company with the 17-year-old school girl for about a month. One Sunday afternoon he gave her a cheque for $85 and she gave him the money. The next day he took the cheque back and they both went to the bank to cash it. However, the bank refused to do business.

Baldwin told the girl he would cash it somewhere else, so she went off to school, and Baldwin hit out for parts unknown.

Constable Sherman Keliele, who told this story to the court, said that he understood Baldwin intended to make restitution.

Baldwin told Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, that the girl was 20 years of age. He also said that he had no intention of cashing the cheque at a bank, but had had to make a show of doing so, when the girl insisted on going with him. He said he had intended getting the money sent from Ottawa.

Baldwin added that the money for restitution would be in Peterborough within the next two days.

Start Petition On Brucellosis

Fifteen farmers of Otonabee are volunteering to circulate in the township next week, a petition for the adoption of the Brucellosis Control Act. Its provisions were discussed at a meeting Wednesday night at Keene representing the main sections of the municipality, Indian River, Stewart Hall, Mather's Corners, Villiers.

F. C. Paterson, agricultural representative, reviewed with the dairy group the procedure of petition to the township council, the necessary preliminary to the council's passing of an enabling bylaw. Most farmers in Otonabee follow the practice of calfhood vaccination for Brucellosis control.

Township clerk James McCarthy said today that the Keene meeting appeared to be unanimously in favor of a petition. "If there are any opposed to it, they were not present Wednesday night," he remarked.

The adjoining township of Asphodel has already passed the bylaw, and go on to the organizing stage next week.

Too Many Demands For Charity–Charge

BARRIE (CP) — Robert M. Campbell, vice-president and joint managing director of J. Walter Thompson Company Limited, Toronto, says that the large number of charities people are being called on to support every year "is a burning hot potato all across Canada."

He said [illegible] because "the people are getting tired of being nicked by too many people for too many causes."

He was speaking Wednesday night to a retail merchants conference. He sugested that appeals should be co-ordinated so that the public would be faced with only one appeal a year.

Wives Make Best Car Driver, So Say Experts? But Their Husbands Must Teach Them

By JACK OLIVER

"What's wrong with women drivers?" asks Ottawa Journal writer Eileen Turcotte. Not waiting for answer, she goes ahead to tell the world at large about a man (or at least a male) who says that women are better than men behind the wheel.

This male, incidently, he runs a driving school in Ottawa, added insult to injury by stating that there is nothing wrong with women drivers as long as their husbands have not had a hand in instructing them. Husbands, he says, are very adept at passing along all the little niceties such as aggressiveness, impatience, "sneak" tactics and cheating.

The lady columnist appeared to enjoy her interview with the instructor. Not only was he young, but she considered him a "good-looking, crew-cut, auto expert in whom the fine flow of chivalry is still in full bloom. Possibly he had the bedside manner too!

So with the flower reabloom[illegible] for the writer, the auexpert unfolded his special litehates of men drivers. He thinmen blow their horns to shwho is boss around the place.

May be they do too, but thare rarely to be seen blowitheir noses, or adding make-while a long line of patient driers queue at an intersection.

Then there is the one abosneak parking. According to tauto Galahad, this practice istypical male trick . . . sliding ina parking space ahead of someone else. To the average drivemale or female, it is a case ofirst in, first served. After allsomeone has to get there first.

Men are cheats too, says the[illegible]or. "No matter how big a stopn is, most men try to get byth slowing down instead ofning to a dead stop".

t is supposed that women drivsare not within the same classcation if they don't stop. Morn probably they never see thens, so of course they cannot bemed for the ragged nerves ofore husky road users.

Stu Green, for that is the name this Ottawa tutor, considersmen also learn to drive morekly than men. They relaxore and they usually co-ordin-their actions sooner, he says.Yes, after reading this auto ex-rt's idea of men drivers, it isough to make any self-respect-g male creep down the nearestman-hole . . . at least, there,e should be safe even from himself.

Before the columnist signed off her interview with Mr. Green, she asked him if he would teach his own wife to drive.

"I did,' he replied. "But that was before I married her. She was one of my first pupils."

We wonder who is teaching who now?

The West Area Conference will be held at Trenton on Saturday, April 24 at 10:00 a.m.

All those interested in attending should get in touch with G. Cruse—telephone 24897—as he is arranging for transportation by special bus.

The troop held a hike to the caves past Indian River. The scouter planned to take the scouts by truck to Warsaw but due to an unforseen mishap, the truck's radiator sprung a leak so all unloaded and the hike proved longer than anticipated. Fourteen scouts cooked their dinners over patrol fires. Bill Trude of Wolf patrol passed his fire lighting. The patrol competition flag was awarded to Lion patrol.

The Ganaraska Camporee will be held May 7, 8 and 9.

The investiture was conducted by Scout Leader Herb Reynolds assisted by George Siddall and Norm Johns. The scout leader impressed upon the boys the importance of scouting and the fun they will experience in trying and passing tests and becoming first and second class scouts.

U.S. May Send Troops Aid French

Nixon Statement Sets Off Political Uproar

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice-President Richard Nixon says American troops might be used in a last-ditch effort to save Indo-China. The statement brought prompt challenges from both Republican and Democratic lawmakers.

The vice-president said he does not believe such action will be necessary because he thinks Indo-China can be saved from the Communists by other means. But in the unlikely event that French forces withdraw, he said, this country would have to send in troops.

Nixon expressed his views in an off-the-record address to the American Society of Newspaper Editors. He permitted newspaper men to report his remarks on condition they not be attributed directly to him.

But he was connected with the statements from several sources. The London Times included in its story a statement that the only high administration source making a speech here Friday was Nixon. And the Niles (Mich.) Daily Star said Representative Clare Hoffman (Rep. Mich.), expressing opposition to the statement, had identified Nixon as its source.

Nixon has acted as spokesman for President Eisenhower on several recent occasions. In outlining his views, he repeated Eisenhower's words that "we cannot afford any retreat in Asia."

Senator Bourke Hickenlooper (Rep. Iowa), a Senate foreign relations committee member, said in a interview that he doesn't believe any decision has been made to use American troops in Indo-China under any circumstances.

"If we have such a policy, I'd like to know about it," Hickenlooper said, "But I don't think we have."

Senator Russel Long (Dem. La.), a former armed services committee member, said no U.S. troops should be sent to Indo-China without a Congressional resolution approving it. And he said he would vote against any such resolution.

President Eisenhower told a press conference Feb. 10 that no one could be more bitterly opposed to getting the U.S. involved in a hot war in Indo-China than he was. Consequently, he said, every move he authorized was calculated, as far as humans could do it, to make certain that did not happen.

Winters Urges U.S. Ease Trade Policies

Asks Long-Term Development of Natural Resources Be Encouraged

WASHINGTON (CP) — Hon. R. H. Winters, Canadian minister of public works, today appealed to the United States to encourage long-term development of natural resources of the free countries.

He urged that the U.S. not erect tariff or other barriers against the import of raw materials in peace-time, saying it is necessary to stimulate production in other countries such as Canada for strategic reasons.

Mr. Winters, former resources minister, spoke out bluntly against trade restrictions in an address prepared for delivery before the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Canadians believe in letting private enterprise operate, he said, and they would like to see their major trading partners follow the same policy.

"Canadians are disturbed," he added, "when tariff barriers are raised, import quotas are imposed in response to special pleas, or domestic industries are subsidized to keep competitive foreign products out of the country."

"We in Canada believe that government interference should be kept to a minimum," he said.

While Mr. Winters said he was not thinking only of Canada-U.S. relations, his references pointedly were to types of action which the U.S. has been accustomed to take for the protection of home business.

In urging an opportunity for the development of resources of friendly countries—through use of the U.S. market—Mr. Winters said there is serious doubt that an atomic war would allow time for the development of new mines, plants and other facilities.

While the U.S. was sympathetic to this strategic view, it still felt the first consideration should be for domestic suppliers, even though these could meet requirements only at higher costs than foreign producers.

"By denying other countries the opportunity to sell competitively in the American market," he said, "they are prevented from earning dollars needed to buy more from you or even to pay you for what they already bought . . .

"In any event, come an emergency, all the high-cost mines in the U.S. taken together cannot possible meet strategic raw material requirements. You have to come to other countries, and Canada, being your next door neighbor, is one of your most natural sources of supply."

2 Children, Soldier Fatalities

Havelock Youngster Rushes In Front Of Car, Dies Instantly

Two children and a soldier have met violet death in traffic accidents in the Peterborough district over the Easter holiday todate.

Robert James McGowan, two-and-one-half-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. McGowan, was killed instantly in front of his home on Highway 30 at the old Havelock corners, at 5.15 p.m., Friday. The child apparently rushed in front of a car driven by Cecil Richardson, a young electrician in Trent River, and was thrown to the side of the road. Death was almost instantaneous due to a fractured skull.

Dr. D. J. Holdcroft, who was on his way to the McGowan home to attend Mr. McGowan, arrived at the scene, a mile south of Havelock, minutes after the accident occurred. Dr. Herbert Young established the cause of death. PC Archie Eady of Campbellford and Havelock chief of police Robert Hall, investigated.

Besides his parents, the McGowan child is survived by a brother Jack and a sister Jean.

GIRL KILLED

Georgina Noble, 11, a ward of the Children's Aid Society, was killed Thursday when struck by a car on Highway 14 north of Belleville. The driver, Gordon Faulkner of Stirling, was arrested and charged with dangerous driving.

Car Rams Bus, 3 Killed, 16 Injured

MONTREAL (CP) — Three men hurtled to their death on the Montreal - Ottawa highway Thursday night when their car, apparently out of control, rammed into the front of an Ottawa-bound bus near Hudson, Que.

Nineteen of the 36 persons in the bus were injured, three of them seriously.

Police identified the dead as LAC. Paul-Emile Turmel, a Quebec airman stationed at Uplands near Ottawa, Gnr. Frank William Roger McKenzie, a Nova Scotian with the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery at Petawawa, and John A. Telfer, a Toronto salesman recently moved to Ottawa.

DRIVER PINNED

The bus driver, Anthony Kirkoff of Ottawa, was knocked unconscious and pinned behind the wheel. He was freed by survivors and brought to hospital at Lachine along with two seriously - injured passengers, Mrs. Ernest Davidson, 56, of Hawkesbury, Ont., and Raymond Davidson, 8.

They were reported in good condition early today.

Kirkoff is suffering from multiple rib injuries, a fractured right thigh and a bruised right ankle. Mrs. Davidson has a fractured knee-cap, while Raymond is being treated for a fractured left knee and dislocated right hip.

The other 16 injured passengers were taken to hospital in Hawkesbury and were released Friday after being treated for shock and minor injuries.

Siamese Twins Die In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Siamese girl twins, after a 20-day battle for life against prohibitive odds, ied Friday despite an emergency operation aimed at saving the life of one of them.

One of the baby girls, children of Mr. and Mrs. James Savage, died while being transferred from Catherine Booth Hospital, where they were born, to the Montreal Neurological Institute. Doctors operated in an attempt to save the life of the other twin, but failed.

The twins were born in a rare triple birth March 27. The third child, also a girl, is doing well at home. The mother and the normal child were released from hospital a week ago.

Although there have been two previous reported cases of Siamese twins arriving as part of a triple birth medical annals show none has survived. In both previous cases the children died shortly after birth.

It was reported that doctors attempted to separate the twins in a bid to save the life of the healthier girl. Officials at the hospital would not officially confirm or deny the report.

It Rained Ducks

DUNN, N.C. (AP) — It rained ducks here Friday. At least 26 ducks, each weighing about two or three pounds, plunged from a cloudy sky during a thunderstorm. They fell a few moments after lightning had touched off a $500,000 fire at a tobacco warehouse, causing speculation that they had been electrocuted in flight.

Didn't Happen—Scientists

Hundreds of Windshields Damaged In Seattle Area

SEATTLE (AP)—Washington state residents who have been reporting a mysterious wave of automobile windshield damage were faced today with a report by a committee of scientists that said in effect, "It isn't so."

The scientists, all from the University of Washington physics, meteorology and chemistry departments, qualified their denial slightly, but said:

"The most likely explanation at this moment is that the pitting is the result of normal-driving conditions in which small objects strike the windshields of cars."

They reported on a survey of parked automobiles and said the number of observable pits in windshields bore a direct relationship to the age of the car and its mileage. Damage was almost entirely confined to windshields. Rear windows were not damaged.

The scientists left room for the possibility of vandalism, particularly in Bellingham, Wash., where police officials say windshields suffered unmistakable man - made damage.

The report also confirmed with an observation by Sgt. Max Allison of the Seattle police laboratory who said the damage was "five per cent hoodlumism and 95 per cent hysteria."

New reports of damage still are coming from many other points, although the rate has dropped markedly from that of Thursday when thousands of car owners in the Seattle area claimed their windshields had suffered.

HUNDREDS OF REPORTS

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Police have received hundreds of reports of auto windshields having been blemished in a mysterious manner in surrounding Stark county. Similar reports have come also from neighboring counties in northern Ohio.

A supervisor at a closely-guarded parking lot told police the windshields of 63 cars in the lot were found pitted Friday.

Charged With Theft

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Teen-age soldiers, said to have been occupants of a stolen car which was left suspended at a 45-degree angle in tree limbs overhanging the Thames river after an 85-mile-an-hour chase through downtown streets, have been charged with theft of the vehicle.

Charged are Pte. Gerald Edward Rushton, 17, whose home is in Nova Scotia, and Pte. Wiltse Carl Lamb, 19, of Smiths Falls. Both are stationed at Wolseley barracks here.

Question Two In Gang Death

MONTREAL (CP) — Police said today they are still holding two Toronto men for questioning in the case of Frank Battaglia, believed to have been hanged or strangled to death less than 12 hours after he had been freed on a murder charge.

Police have termed his death gangland vengeance.

Six men have been picked up by police since Battaglia's body was found Thursday in a Montreal East vacant lot. Four were released after questioning. Names of the Toronto men still held were not disclosed.

Rogers, kept in custody overnight and arraigned Thursday for failing to appear at a preliminary hearing on a fraud charge, was released on bail and went into hiding.

Rogers' lawyer said today his client has prepared a statement exposing the mobsters who may be out to get him.

"He does not fear for his own safety," said counsel Daniel P. Gilmour, "but he has prepared a statement as insurance . . . He does not intend to reveal what is in it unless he meets the same fate as Battaglia."

Indo-China Situation Forced Juin To Act

PARIS (AP)—Marshal Alphonse Juin has told President Rene Coty that he turned against the proposed European Defence Community in its present form because the Russian menace had decreased while France's insecurity over Indo-China was increasing.

France's controversial top-ranking soldier made his thoughts on the subject known in a letter to the president published today.

Juin was ousted March 31 from his post as senior military adviser to the government after he criticized the EDC.

In an accompanying outline of procedures of the chiefs of staff, Juin explained he believed many amendments needed to be made to the EDC treaty and his recommendations on these points had not been accepted by the government.

No Mercy In Massacre

Jungle Fighters Slaughter 100 Passengers On Train

PARIS (AP) — Agence France-Presse today said Communist-led Vietminh jungle fighters stopped a Cambodian train with mines and slaughtered more than 100 men and women passengers.

The agency gave this account of the massacre reported to have taken place Monday on the Phnom Penh-to-Battambang line 60 miles from the capital of that Indo-China kingdom.

Five hundred Vietminh attackers rushed from the surrounding jungle brandishing knives, rifles, hand grenades, sub-machine-guns and regular machine-guns.

Wounded persons in the coaches were sprayed with gasoline and burned to death. Passengers who tried to flee were caught and put to death with knives and hatchets. Old people and children were slain.

The agency said it took two days for the bodies of the victims to be identified.

The Cambodian government has issued a communique appealing to the conscience of the civilized world and demanding a solemn condemnation of all acts of barbarism committed by the Vietminh on the soil of Cambodia.

Cambodia recently protested to secretary-general Dag Hammarskjold of the United Nations against the Vietminh incursions, which have stepped up in the last two weeks. Previously the tiny kingdom in the French Union of Associated Indo-Chinese states had been left more or less at peace by the rebels.

Fake Provost Man Arrested By Police

NEWMARKET (CP) — A man who claimed to be a member of the Canadian Army Provost Corps asked police this week to help him track down Canadian Army deserters he said were in this area, about 25 miles north of Toronto.

Bruce McAulay, of Washington, D.C., dressed in civvies, said he was on a special assignment search for the army runaways.

While they checked on suspected deserters described by McAulay, Newmarket and provincial police also checked on McAulay.

A real Canadian Army Provost Corps sergeant arrived Friday to take McAulay to Toronto charged wit hdeserting the army.

Army officials said he had joined the medical corps in December last year and had been missing from Camp Borden since February.

'Panty Raid' Costs Students $1,300

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A "panty raid" on a women's residence at University of Western Ontario is going to cost the students involved a total of $1,300.

Little damage was done to Spencer Hall in the Wednesday night raid but each student was fined $50 or a choice of writing his examinations in August. The second choice would amount to suspension until August.

The raid started about 10:30 p.m. when 26 students forced their way into Spencer Hall. A free-for-all water fight with the 70 girl residents started and police were called in. The raiders left with their underclothing trophies.

Police picked up three students outside the residence grounds. When the three showed up before a faculty board Thursday, 23 other raiders came with them.

Each student was fined $50.

U.K. Expects Will Talk To Petrov

CANBERRA (CP) — Security officers from MI-5 — Britain's anti-spy organization — are flying to Canberra, it was learned today, to pick up new tips on Russia's espionage system from Vladimir Petrov, Russian embassy official who asked Australia for political asylum earlier this week.

The British sleuths will help Australian security officers question Petrov — ostensibly third secretary at the embassy but identified as chief of the Russian secret police in Australia — who told officials here of a Soviet spy ring in Australia.

Petrov, 45, fled the embassy—and his 35-year-old blonde wife—on Wednesday with hundreds of top-secret documents.

HEADS FOR MOSCOW

Authoritative sources said today that Mrs. Petrov will leave by air for Russia Monday. She will be accompanied by two Communist couriers who flew here from Europe soon after her husband's defection was announced. According to one source, the two men have been questioning members of the Soviet embassy staff and examining official files.

Mrs. Petrov, who told a press conference Wednesday that her husband had been "kidnapped" by Australian security officers, today paid her last visit to the trim brick house where she and her husband had lived for the last three years.

Then she was whisked away in a black Russian-built limousine to the embassy.

MENZIES, EVATT IN ROW

Prime Minister Menzies today answered criticism from Herbert Evatt, Labor Opposition leader, who accused Menzies of being too eager to exploit the affair for political ends before the general election next month.

Menzies described Dr. Evatt's statement as "a curious and hysterical outburst." He added that if Evatt's statement was a fair sample of what the opposition leader regarded as a non-party contribution to the Petrov episode the election "should be a pretty lively one."

Cold, Snow Grip Europe

ROME (AP) — A storm whipped down from the Alps into Italy today, endangering shipping and giving the country a touch of wintry weather.

In the rest of Europe it was unseasonably cold and generally stormy. Blizzards in central Austria hampered a search for 13 German students and teachers missing since Thursday night in the rocks and slopes of Dachstein mountain. Little hope is held for their survival.

Fierce winds sent large and small craft all along Italy's Mediterranean and Adraitic coast into shelter Friday night. One passenger was killed and 19 injured aboard the post boat Lazio, crowded with foreign tourists among its 360 passengers. Giant waves smashed against the ship and forced it to return to Palermo.

Britain had a promise of sunny but chilly weather for Easter — being celebrated as a holiday from Thursday night until next Tuesday morning.

France had sun and snow. Berlin shivered in chill winds with snow or rain threatened for Easter Sunday. There were prospects of more snow in central and southern Germany, and in Switzerland.

Drop Troops, Equipment To Aid Fort As Rebel Noose Tightens

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—Waves of Dakotas and Flying Boxcars dropped men and equipment to the besieged garrison of Dien Bien Phu today. The Communist-led attackers clung to dugouts only 800 yards from the heart of the fortress despite heavy ground fire and air attacks.

Men parachuted in as reinforcements included a number of volunteers from the Red river delta area. A French high command spokesman said they would be held as reserves for critical moments during the next Vietminh assault. That blow, which would be the third big one, is expected soon, before the Geneva conference opens April 26.

Garrison soldiers, backed by planes, tanks and artillery fire, counter-attacked against the Communist-led rebels at all points around the saucer-shaped plain.

French drives Friday against infiltrating Vietminh units entrenched on the northern part of Dien Bien Phu's main airstrip failed to rout them. And today at the airstrip, the rebels clung to dugouts just 800 yards from the bunkers where Brig.-Gen. Christian de Castries, the fortress commander, has his headquarters.

COMMANDER PROMOTED

The 50-year-old De Castries was hard at work directing the fortress defences when he received word Friday night that the Paris government had officially promoted him from colonel to brigadier-general. In acting on his promotion nomination, the French cabinet reversed an earlier decision that a promotion would be withheld until the battle for Dien Bien Phu had been decided. This had stirred up a political dispute, with the government denying Hanoi reports that De Castries, feeling slighted, had threatened to resign.

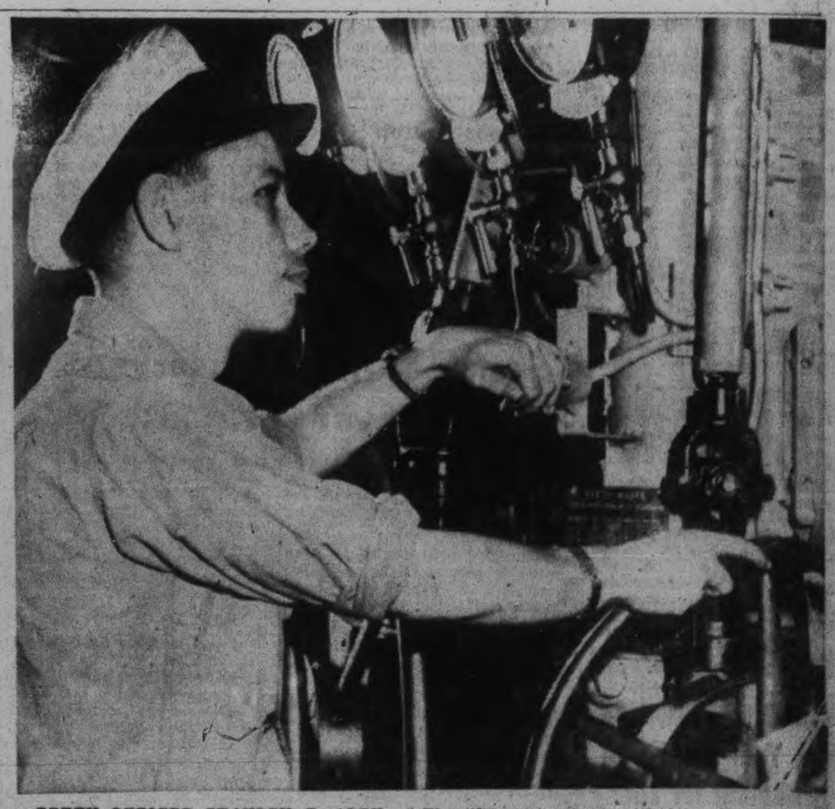
Discharged Boy, 16 Set Stable Blaze

BOSTON (AP) — Police said a 16-year-old discharged stable boy confessed today he set a fire which destroyed a large barn and four race horses at Suffolk Downs race track Friday night.

A stablehand and a firefighter were injured fighting the blaze.



The stable boy, who identified himself as Samuel White Jr. of New Orleans, was booked on a charge of arson. White helped to rescue a number of horses.

Contaminate Sea For 3,000 Miles

TOKYO (AP)—Japan's fishery board said Friday 20 fishing boats have been found radio-active from U. S. hydrogen blasts. It expressed "fears" the Pacific had been contaminated for 3,000 miles east and west of Bikini.

U. S. nuclear physicists and fisheries experts have said the danger of fish contamination is slight because radio-activity diffuses rapidly. But Japan is going ahead with plans for its own survey of Pacific fishing grounds next month.

The fishery board's report said one of the 20 boats which turned up radio-active was 2,200 miles southwest of Bikini and another was 1,000 miles to the northeast.

Fear 14 Men Drowned As Tug Sinks

Disaster Struck Without Warning Off Alaska Coast

VANCOUVER (CP)—A lone rowboat beached on a rocky shore at storm-lashed Cape Decision may be the key to the fate of 14 crew members of the Vancouver tug Chelan, lost at sea Thursday.

En route here from Skagway, Alaska, with a barge load of ore concentrate, the 140-foot tug mysteriously sank four miles west of the cape. The scene is 150 miles south of Juneau, Alaska, and 650 miles north of here.

U.S. Coast guard officials in Juneau said late Friday a Coast Guard cutter had spotted an unidentified rowboat on the beach. It was unoccupied. Rough seas prevented a landing party from the cutter from going ashore.

There was no other sign of survivors. Wreckage of the tug and the 240-foot barge was sighted Friday by Coast Guard planes.

SEARCH BEACH

Two men were reported to have set out on foot from Cape Decision to search the beach, but no reports had been received early today from the rugged Alaska panhandle coast area.

Thirteen of the crew were from the Vancouver area. The 14th was Robert A. Thistle of St. John's, Newfoundland.

From Vancouver were: Capt. Cecil Roberts, officers Daniel MacDonald, Richard Child, Brock Haines, Barrett Kirley, and John Whitworth; and crew members Frank Hykawa, William Sheddon, Norman Fenton, Alfred Manning, William Grabowski, Egon Jurgenson, and Won Kim.

Disaster apparently hit the 541-ton wooden tug without warning. An S O S and a cryptic "sinking" were picked up Thursday evening by the Cape Decision lighthouse.

The wreckage was found four miles away, at the entrance to Sumner strait and off the northern end of Prince of Wales island. The area is honeycombed with small islands and inlets.

Two coast guard cutters and four planes searched Friday for crew members who might have struggled through the icy water to shore.

Southbound from Skagway, the Chelan would reach the open Pacific off the cape. From there, she would have turned northwest into more sheltered interior waters.

VISIBILITY POOR

Winds reached 52 miles an hour in the area at the time of the sinking, kicking up 14-foot waves. Some snow was falling. Visibility was poor.

Owned by Frank Waterhouse and Co., the tug was bought in 1952 by Union Steamships, Ltd., parent company of the owners.

She was the "Veta C" when sold by Capt. Charles Clark of North Vancouver.

Capt. Clark said: "She was one of the toughest tugs afloat. She certainly wouldn't capsize. You could go anywhere in the world in that ship.

"A sister of hers once easily rode [illegible] Aleutians. It looks to me like she hit a reef or rock."

The disaster was her fourth accident. A smashed forefoot resulted from hitting a reef in Alaska when she was a U.S. army transport vessel. She collided with a freighter in Puget Sound in 1952, then hit another reef in 1953, getting to Vancouver under her own power.

Another sister ship plies the rough west coast of Vancouver island for Canadian Pacific Steamships.

Built in Bellingham in 1944, she had five-inch planking.

Haile Selassie Plans Visit To Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Emperor Haile Selassie, the tiny, bearded ruler of 15,000,000 Africans, will be in Ottawa on Thursday, June 3, for a one-day state visit.

The Emperor of Ethiopia, entitled the Conquering Lion of the Tribe of Judah, Elect of God and King of Kings, will fly to Ottawa from Boston and will stay at Government House as guest of Governor-General Vincent Massey.

The spunky ruler who claims descent from both King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba will be making his first visit to Canada.

Plan 21-Gun Salute For Queen's Birthday

OTTAWA (CP)—Twenty-one gun salutes will be fired by active and reserve army units at saluting bases across Canada Wednesday, the Queen's birthday.

The salutes will be repeated June 10, the date set aside this year for official observance of the Queen's birthday.

The salutes will be fired at noon in all provincial capitals and at Ottawa and Vancouver.

Think Water Made 52 Ill

TORONTO (CP)—Health authorities said today an outbreak of dysentery which sent two children to hospital and afflicted 50 other North York apartment buildings may have been caused by seepage of foreign matter carried into water pipes by animals before installation.

Dr. Carl E. Hill, township medical officer of health, said he believed that dirt seeping into water pipes servicing the buildings may have caused the disease.

One child was in hospital two weeks, the other five days.

Water tests are being conducted. Until they are completed it will not be known if the outbreak was caused by drinking water.

"Right now we are not sure that it couldn't be food or milk," said Dr. Hill.

Meteorites Rain On Farm

MITCHELL, Ont. (CP) — Herbert Britton says a shower of meteorites rained down on his farm recently in nearby Hibbert township. With little trouble he found a 12-pound meteorite.

Residents of this area say it's nothing unusual.

They say a range of hills that run east and west to the south of this town appears to attract the heavenly bodies. In recent years the "mountains" have been the target for small meteorites.

One was found in the hills about two feet in diameter and exhibited in Mitchell high school.

The letter was received by the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada, sponsors of the campaign.

Official Says Oppenheimer 'Loyal Citizen'

WASHINGTON (AP) —A high-level member of the Eisenhower administration says he feels that atomic scientist J. Robert Oppenheimer is a "loyal American," even though "the information in his file is voluminous and makes a ... case of security risk."

This official gave his opinion to reporters, but stipulated that his name not be disclosed. He has had contact with the Oppenheimer case since 1948 when the pioneer physicist, credited with a leading role in development of the atomic bomb, was questioned by a Congressional committee.

Oppenheimer has been barred on President Eisenhower's orders from further access to United States atomic secrets pending a review of his case. A special three-man atomic energy commission panel has been sitting in the case.

PANEL DECISION

The administration official said it is up to the panel, headed by a former secretary of the army, Gordon Gray, to decide whether Oppenheimer is a security risk.

"Dr. Oppenheimer, at least on the evidence I have seen, in my opinion is a loyal American," he said. "On the other hand the information in his file is voluminous and makes a 'prima facie' case of security risk."

One of the allegations against Oppenheimer is that he opposed development of the hydrogen bomb even after president Truman ordered in 1950 that work on that super-weapon be pushed. Oppenheimer has asserted that he dropped his opposition as soon as Truman made his decision, and that he went at the task with a will.

SENATOR ASKED

Senator Bourke Hickenlooper (Rep. Iowa), a former chairman of the Congressional atomic energy committee and now its vice-chairman, was asked on a CBS radio program Friday night whether disloyalty figured in the H-bomb delay.

"I wouldn't pass judgment on that particular matter at this time," Hickenlooper replied. "I will say that there were definite and powerful objections to proceeding with the H-bomb program. That is as far as I would care to go."

The New York Daily News says today in a copyrighted story from Washington that Oppenheimer told the House of Representatives un-American activities committee five years ago that Dr. Bernard Peters, a fellow atomic scientist, was scornful of the Communist party because it "was not sufficiently dedicated to the overthrow of the government by force and violence."

Easter Will Be Observed With Prayer For Peace

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The first Easter of the H-bomb era will be observed around the world Sunday with prayers for peace and salvation.

Rejoicing that Christ is risen mingles with fears that man has fashioned a weapon that could doom civilization.

The Easter hope of men, women and children everywhere is that the occasion never will arise to unleash the bomb's fury.

In Rome, the Pope will appear on the loggia of St. Peter's Basilica, to impart benediction to the world. He will also deliver a brief radio message at noon (6 a.m. EST).

The Christian feast of Easter, by coincidence, comes this year on the same day as the Jewish feast of Passover, which commemorates the flight of the Israelites from Egypt.

They coincided in 1923 and 1927, but will not again until 1981. The date of Easter is determined by the Gregorian calendar, based on the earth's position in relation to the sun, and that of Passover by the Hebrew calendar, based on the moon's position in relation to the earth and sun.

HOLY LAND SERVICES

Although the Holy Land itself is torn with Jewish-Arab tension, church bells will call worshippers to Easter services as usual in old Jerusalem, scene of the Crucifixion and Resurrection.

In a traditional gay note, women will don their new finery. The weather man promised "ideal" conditions for New York's annual Easter parade on Fifth Avenue.

In Boston, the U.S. Navy will conduct a Protestant sunrise service at 5 a.m. aboard the frigate Constitution, world's oldest war vessel still in commission.

Not Surprised Given Pardon

AACHEN, Germany (AP)—Otto Abetz, Nazi ambassador to occupied France just freed from a 20-year war-crimes sentence by the French, said today that a prison warden at Lille, France, woke him up Friday night to tell him he had been pardoned.

Abetz at first rebuffed reporters and denied his identity, but later apologized to an Associated Press correspondent and admitted who he was. He arrived here early today and went to a local hotel.

Abetz' pretty French-born wife, Suzanne, clung to his arm as he talked to reporters.

He said he was not surprised by the pardon "for there had been rumors of it in the air for some time."

Rejected Rail Union Demands

OTTAWA (CP)—Unions seeking multi-million-dollar "fringe" benefits from the railways have accused them of "callousness" in turning down the requests.

They contend the railways' estimates of the cost of the concessions are exaggerated and claim the railways have taken an "uncompromising attitude" that is unjustifiable.

The top negotiator for the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (CCF), largest of the 11 non-operating unions involved, discloses details of the secret discussions in the CBRE's magazine.

W. J. Smith of Montreal, member of the national executive of the 32,000-member CBRE — Canada's biggest transport union—says [illegible] rejected the union demands outright.

Up to now, it had not been made known officially whether any compromises were offered.

Following a breakdown in negotiations, the issues now are being dealt with by a federal conciliation board.

Military Science Devising New Bomb-Killer

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Military science has or is devising a selective arsenal of weapons to kill multitudes.

The thermonuclear bomb is getting major popular attention now because of the Pacific island tests and the fantastic power revealed.

But behind the scenes, scientists are working in other fields, improving and perfecting radiological, gas and germ warfare.

Overshadowed by the official announcements and speculation about the H-bomb and the A-bomb is the so-called "C-bomb."

Actually, a "C-bomb," in itself, will not be an explosive weapon designed primarily for mass destruction by blast and heat but a deadly vehicle for radiological warfare. It would be an additive to a powerful explosive weapon, like a fusion or fission bomb. The explosion would disseminate the radio-activity impregnated in the element cobalt.

LOSES CONTAMINATION

As the March 1 test at Bikini demonstrated, an exploding H-bomb generates an immense amount of radio-activity incidental to the fusion-explosion process. But, the "ash" and contaminated moisture from a fission or fusion bomb loses its poisonous quality rapidly.

The possible need of keeping alive, at a deadly high level, the radio-active contamination. And in the mineral element cobalt military scientists are finding their answer.

Some forms of cobalt such as the element Cobalt, 60, have a prolonged radio-active life when impregnated. Its dangerous contamination can last for several years. But of equal significance militarily, other atomic forms of the element have much shorter life spans.

So there is selectivity for the duration of contamination—it can be short (days) or long (years). If the military plan requires friendly forces to move in soon, the contamination can be made short-lived.

GAS KILLS QUICKLY

But suppose masses of an enemy must be killed quickly?

Here gas fits into the picture, specifically the nerve or "G" gas.

Gas may be absorbed by breathing, through the skin or eyes or swallowed. Here is what happens to victims:

He becomes confused mentally; the skin turns bluish; there is vomiting; blood pressure drops sharply to the point of shock; the heart slows down; the pupils of the eyes constrict to pin-points. There is a "sudden inability to breath," coughing, choking, spasm —and death.

Gas masks have been designed to cope with nerve gas. If detection is made soon enough and the material is readily available, atrophine may help save the victim.

Hint Moscow Recalls Envoy

CANBERRA (AP) — The Soviet embassy today booked four airline seats on the route to Moscow, setting off speculation that Russian ambassador Nicolai Generalov has been called home to Moscow to explain his Petrov troubles.

Eisenhower Pledge Doesn't Excite France

PARIS (Reuters) — President Eisenhower's pledge to keep troops in Paris if an European army is established was warmly received in western capitals Friday night.

But French and British political leaders doubted it would make a real dent in the French opposition to ratification of the army treaty.

In Paris, the reaction of those opposing the treaty was, in effect: "It is about the least thing Unied States could do, considering that they are pushing us into the European army."

President Eisenhower announced his message to the six nations of the proposed army — France, West Germany, Italy, Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg — at Augusta, Ga., Friday.

AWAITING RAIN

Observers believe Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, the veteran Communist who commands the rebel armed forces, might be waiting now for heavier monsoon rains which would bog down French armored mobile units and hinder air attacks.

Giap is reported to have 45,000 fresh regulars and recruits to throw into the sheets of gunfire the French can lay down from their trenches, bunkers and gun emplacements.

(French censorship has not permitted correspondents to report the size of the defence force at Dien Bien Phu. However, The Associated Press has received information from a reliable source giving the number of defenders as 14,000.)

78 People Fired For Link With Reds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Air Force has reported the dismissal last year of 24 civilians and 54 uniformed personnel accused of links with Communist or Red-linked organizations.

Recruit 4,000 End Terrorism

CASABLANCA, Morocco (Reuters)—Four thousand fierce Moroccan tribesmen, specially recruited as auxiliary police, took up action stations in the Arab quarters of Casablanca today in a new effort by French authorities to stamp out terrorism.

Outbreaks of terrorism, usually directed at pro-French Moroccans, have been an almost daily occurrance in the Arab quarters. The Nationalist Istiqlal movement has also ordered a boycott of European goods and has forbidden Moroccans to buy sugar or use the normal transport facilities.

Homesick Wife Stows On Ship

WOKING, England (Reuters)—A homesick young English mother, wife of a Canadian, told a court here today that she stowed away aboard a British ship at Saint John, N. B., last month because she was "absolutely fed up" with life in Canada.

"I really did want to get home to England," said Mrs. Irish Lilian Weagle, 29. "Conditions and life in Canada are very hard."

The magistrates fined her £5 for stowing away and, citing "exceptional circumstances," gave her six weeks to pay.

Mrs. Weagle, mother of two children and due to have another next month, had lived in Canada since 1945, the court was told.

While working as a waitress at Saint John she persuaded two British seamen who had been drinking to smuggle her aboard the 5,626-ton Isaac Carter so that she could get home to her mother here.

Charges of aiding and abetting against the two seamen involved were adjourned until April 27.

The rodent walked on to a 13,000-volt power line at the crown-owned rubber plant and caused a short circuit that threw the plant into darkness. It had to close down between 11:30 p.m. Thursday night until about 2 a.m. Friday.

The short circuit closed off steam supplied by Polymer to Fiberglass, Canada, Ltd., Dow Chemical of Canada, Ltd.; Cabot Carbon of Canada Ltd., and Imperial Oil Ltd.

Taber Labels Seaway Plan "Ridiculous"

AUBURN, N.Y. (AP) — Representative John Taber (Rep. N.Y.) Thursday night labelled plans for the St. Lawrence seaway ridiculous," said the project would cost the United States at least $5,000,000,000 and added that he didn't think it would be approved by the House of Representatives at this session.

Tiber, chairman of the House appropriations committee, said in an interview that his estimate of $5,000,000,000 was what he considered a "conservative figure."

He said it was based on a estimated cost of dredging canals, channels and harbors along the proposed inland waterway to accommodate large ocean-going vessels.

Present seaway legislation, now bottled up in the House rules committee, proposes the creation of a St. Lawrence development commission authorized to issue a maximum of $100,000,000 in revenue bonds to construct the American part of the waterway in the international rapids sector of the St. Lawrence river.

Taber said the $100,000,000 wouldn't begin to pay for the project, which has been the centre of debate in Congress—on and off—for at least 25 years.

SAYS DRAFT TOO SHALLOW

Taber contended that any vessel drawing less than 35 feet of water cannot operate successfully as an ocean-going craft.

The proposed 27-foot seaway depth, he held, only would be suitable for ships with a 25-foot draft.

Taber said that in New York state harbors at Cape Vincent, Oswego, Sodus Bay, Rochester and Buffalo all would have to be deepened.

The Buffalo project alone, he estimated, would cost $100,000,000.

Canada plans to build the seaway alone, and has indicated recently that she will do just that whatever the U.S. decides.

31 Sailors Jump In Sea

The 250-ton minesweeper, afire from stem to stern, blazed like a torch on the waters, then capsized and sank. Cause of the fire is not yet known.

Friends of the family said she was weak today but that her suffering seemed to lessen as the signs of the stigmata departed.

Seize Cobalt Hidden In Truck

VARESE, Italy (AP)—Nine tons of pure cobalt, concealed in a truck under a layer of bricks, were intercepted by treasury guards today near Viggiu, en route from Italy to Switzerland.

Police believe the load was bound for the other side of the Iron Curtain. When agents halted the truck [illegible] about the cobalt, they thought they were carrying bricks into Switzerland for a bulding business.

An investigation is under way.

Cobalt is a metallic element which has been mentioned as a possible basis for a super-destructive new type of bomb.

Youths Wreck Stolen Auto Convicted By Magistrate

COBOURG — (ENS) — James Davis and Leo Tremblay of Montreal were found guilty by Magistrate R. B. Baxter on a charge of theft of a Port Hope car on April 4. The magistrate remanded the two youths one week for sentence.

Three Toronto teen-agers Margaret Hepson, Susan Jones, and Joyce Gambrielle were also charged with car theft but the [illegible]

The two Montreal boys stole a car at Port Hope and rolled it over near Belleville, spilling the three girls out during the wild course of the careening car which ended up against a tree. Chasing the car was OPP Constable D. W. McAlonen of Belleville.

OPP Constable H. E. Sears of Belleville testified that on April 4 he received a radio call to intercept a stolen car. He took up a position about two and a half miles west of Belleville and walked out to the edge of the highway. He said it was his intention to get in the cruiser as soon as he saw the wanted car approach. He then intended to drive ahead of it and cut it off.

TERRIFIC SPEED

"I saw the car coming at such a terrific rate of speed that I had no time to get in the police cruiser and drive ahead of it, so I waved the red flasher light at it and it slowed down a moment and then accelerated and swung sharply to pass a car ahead of it" Sears said.

It struck the car a glancing blow and then went out of control and rolled over. A rear door opened and three girls rolled out like a ball on the highway. The car kept on and hit a tree, top head on. One of the girls seemed dead. It was the Jones girl, but the other two got up on their feet.

"I heard screams from the car and Davis got out the left front door and jumped on Constable McLlonen who had come up in the other car. The other boy was still in the car, cursing and screaming and finally he got out. Davis told us that he was the driver of the car."

CAR BROKE DOWN

Chief C. W. Graham testified that the Port Hope car was stolen after a car stolen in Montreal had broken down and the two boys and three girls continued on towards Montreal, getting as far as the spot where they smashed [illegible]

Tremblay told the court that Davis took a car at Montreal on April 2 and they were going to drive to Toronto to see their girl friends. After they arrived in Toronto to see their girl friends. After they arrived in Toronto, Tremblay intended to go back by train but on April 4 he got a phone call from Margaret that their car had broken down near Port Hope.

He and Susan Jones hitchhiked to Port Hope where they met the others in a cafe. While they were there, Davis went out and came back with another car and they got in and started out for Montreal.

Nehru Warns Threats Won't Settle War

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Prime Minister Nehru warned today against trying to settle the Indo-China war by means of "threats" or "military activities" aimed at influencing negotiations at the coming Geneva Far East conference.

Nehru did not mention any country by name in a speech to the lower house of Parliament, but he said such military action or threats "are not helpful" to successful negotiations.

At the same time, he said, a cease-fire "can open the way" to negotiations for a full peace between French Union forces and the Communist-led Vietminh.

Veterans Plan Use Steamer

KITCHENER (CP) — Channel steamer gets the call over assault craft for the 1954 "invasion" of Normandy by veterans of Canada's 3rd Infantry Division of the Second World War.

It was originally intended that the veterans group, which will visit western Europe in June, would re-enact the 1944 [illegible] assault landing craft.

But thoughts of how a channel storm almost wrecked the 1944 invasion and of what even a modest blow might do to a landing craft led to a change of plans.

Transportation officer Clare Millar of Kitchener said that almost 100 ex-4th divisioners have enrolled for the trip and registrations are still coming in.

The 10th D-Day anniversary ceremonies will begin June 5 at Bernieres-sur-Mer, landing point for the Eighth Brigade.

Six Fatalities Reported Over Holiday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Six persons died violent deaths at the start of the long Easter weekend in Canada as thousands headed for holiday retreats by car, plane and train.

Bad weather — rain and snow—delayed some flying schedules on Good Friday and made driving hazardous. However, there were comparatively few serious traffic accidents.

Most serious occurred on the eve of Good Friday when a Montreal-bound car plowed into the front of a Montreal - Ottawa bus near Hudson, Que., 30 miles from Montreal. Killed were three occupants of the car, LAC. Paul-Emile Turmel, 22, of Terrebonne, Que.; L.Cpl. Frank W. R. MacKenzie, Sydney, N.S.; and John A. Telfer, 46, of Toronto.

Near Barrie, Mrs. Georgina Dorsey, 82, was found dead in a pond in the garden of her home where police believed she had stumbled. At Wroxeter, Ont., Wilfred Sheill, 22, was killed when his truck ran off a road and hit two trees.

In Montreal, Pierre Curney, 8, was found dead of a fractured skull at a city intersection. Police said they believed he had been hit by a truck.

NOT A DAY UNDER 94, but Mrs. Edward Patterson is as bright and interested in life around her as ever. Much of her time is spent keeping abreast of the current news, and when that's done she works on her tatting, of which she is a master. Mrs. Patterson lives in Norwood where she has been active in school and church work all her life.
—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Mrs. Edward Patterson, 94 Still Expert At Tatting

Mrs. Edward Patterson of Norwood, is celebrating her 94th birthday, today, and she intends to do it quietly at the home of her niece Mrs. Charles McConnell.

Except for a slight hearing difficulty, Mrs. Patterson, known as Auntie Jen to her friends, is as bright and interested in things around her as ever. When she isn't tatting, she is catching up on the news or reading the latest magazine. Her tatting, however, results in some minor works of art. Nimble fingers and a quick eye are necessities if one is to make a success of the difficult crochet work which is her specialty.

Using a very fine white cord and a tatting bobbin, which includes two plastic arrow-shaped prongs, Mrs. Patterson's fingers move with the speed of a Litz' interpretor, forming and tying tiny knots into such things as doilies, mantillas and table cloths of delicate pattern. A nephew of hers insists that the fundamental knot is the same as a figure eight, but as yet, she has not mastered the building process.

ACCIDENTAL DESIGN

Once, while tatting what was to be a doily, Mrs. Patterson noticed that the lace being produced was [illegible] by her fingers. The result was a piece of lace, that, when joined end to end, resembled something like a cup in shape. Her niece, Mrs. McConnell, added a sugar solution to the woven string, colored it, and made a dainty candy holder. A number have been made since then.

Mrs. Patterson learned the art of tatting from a maid at her home in Asphodel, when she was a young girl. But, she had a natural flair for design, learned from no-one, which shows itself in the many articles she has tatted and sewn.

Mr. Patterson, who died in 1938, farmed in the Norwood area much of his life. Shortly after their marriage in 1882, the couple moved to Peterborough where Mr. Patterson was employed for a time with the Trent canal system. He was in charge of the lift lock shortly after its construction. Later they farmed near Norwood, and in 1922 the couple retired to the village.

One son, Ernest, now farms the homestead, and his mother lives there much of the time. Two other children, Sherman and Ella May, died while still young. There are two grandchildren, Kenneth and May (Mrs. James Dallman) and one great grandchild, Teddy Dallman.

IRISH-LOYALIST STOCK

Daughter of Matthew Knox, an Irishman, and Ellen Richards, a United Empire Loyalist, Mrs. Patterson is one of a family of six. Another sister, Mrs. Annetta Winterbourne, of Winnipeg, celebrated her 82nd birthday recently, and she is noted for her dexterity with the brush and easel.

Not at all in favor of all the modern inventions, Mrs. Patterson thinks the world would be a better place to live in if the horse were still in vogue. But she still regularly attends the Norwood Baptist church, where she taught Sunday school for some 30 years.

A "good appetite" is her secret for longevity and health.

TV NEWS

By Ken McCannan

There is one program carried by every television station designed to test your TV set yet it has the lowest audience rating of all.

We refer, of course, to the "test pattern" which virtually every TV owner views at some time during the week but which few give any attention to. For few folks realize that the circles of the pattern are one of your best guides to the condition of your receiver.

Firstly, allow your set to warm up for ten minutes so that all parts will reach their best operating temperature—then check the circles.

All the circles should be ROUND and egg-shaped circles or any other irregularity indicates something is wrong. The pattern as a whole should be centered on the screen and should have no blank spaces top, sides or bottom. On the inner circle you should be able to detect shadings from hard white to black.

If your set shows signs of good health on all these points there's no need to call the doctor . . . but just in case some emergency should arise the number to remember is 5363.' As hundreds of satisfied TV owners in this area know that's the direct line to McCANNAN ELECTRIC and the highest grade of television workmanship in the business. If you're thinking of a new set or if you're not yet a TV owner then 274 George Street is the address to keep in mind. There, you'll find our large stock of 1954 ADMIRAL, PHILCO and DUMONT will give you a variety for choice and comparison. And our low prices will surprise you too! Our reputation stands back of every set we sell and we never forget for one minute that your opinion of us is what keeps us in business. SEE US TODAY FOR THE BEST BUYS IN TV. In Vernali Tempore

The time of the singing of birds is come. The festival of Easter, deeply Christian as its significance is, is also universal in its meaning, belonging to all creeds and all lands at the time of the rebirth of the year. The Christian possession of the festival was preceded by pagan observances, and in some ways the rites of the Christian Easter are an extension, not a replacement, of early celebrations. This is shown in Easter carols, songs to the resurrected God, songs for the reborn Earth. So one of the best of the Easter carols, "In vernali tempore" from Piae Cantiones; in Steuart Wilson's translation:

Now the spring has come again,
joy and warmth will follow;
Cold and wet are quite forgot,
northward flies the swallow;
Over sea and land and air
spring's soft touch is everywhere
And the world looks cleaner;
All our sinews feel new strung, hearts are light that once were wrung,
Youthful zests are keener.

All the woods are new in leaf,
all the fruit is budding,
Bees are humming round the hive,
done with winter's brooding;
Seas are calm and blue again,
clouds no more foretell the rain,
Winds are soft and tender;
High above, the kingly sun
laughs once more his course to run,
Shines in all his splendour.

God is in the midst of her,
God commands her duty;
Earth does but reflect his light,
mirrors back his beauty;
God's the fount whence all things flow, great and small, above, below,
God's their only maker:
We but poorest patterns are of that Mind beyond compare,
God our great Creator.

Bungling Our Fishing Front

This district relies heavily on fish as tourist lure. There are no spectacular historic sites to visit, no magnificent resort hotels equipped with luxurious golf courses, Arabian steeds, glittering bars and gambling dens; no monumental ruins of churches; no great festival of the arts. Tourist business here has been built on the call Return To Nature, Take to the Kawartha Waters, and Take Some Fish. It is unfortunate that fishing has been the chief bait for our tourists, as it used to be. The reason for that is —too many tourists taking too many fish.

The Ontario Department of Lands and Forests is aware that Ontario's fishing grounds are being rapidly depleted. It also knows now that it cannot keep the waters sufficiently stocked, either from hatcheries or by natural means, as long as local and visiting fishermen fish so hard, so long, and waste so many fish.

In addition to other measures taken in earlier years, the Department this year cancelled the family fishing licence of $9.50 for non-residents, and substituted individual licences—$6.50 each. It also reduced the bag limit from two to one day's catch. In other words, tourists (both Ontario and American) may now take home with them after their two-weeks' holiday only one days' permitted catch—six bass, two lunge, six pickerel. The aim is good, the way in which the changes were announced, particularly in the States, was bad.

The amount of unfavourable American publicity which has attended the changes in regulations will require a good many thousands of Ontario Travel Bureau dollars to correct it. The Department of Lands and Forest fluffed; it was not smart. Instead of explaining the reasons for the changes carefully and pointing out the good aspects, the leaflets issued imply that every visiting fisherman from grandson to grandmother must have a $6.50 fishing permit before he can drop a line. In fact, the regulation is that every non-resident of seventeen years of age or over must have a licence, but their children under seventeen may fish free, provided that they are accompanied by a member of the family who holds a permit. (This was not stated in the leaflet issued to visiting fishermen.) Thus, while the family licence has been abandoned—and let Americans remember that in only three states in the union is there a husband-wife permit—the total cost of permits for family fishing has been raised very little. If the husband and wife each take out a permit the cost would be $13.00; the family licence used to cost $9.50. Under the new regulations, too, all non-resident children under seventeen may fish freely, if one older member of the family has a $6.50 permit. The cost is not excessive considering that in most American states the fishing permit for non-residents costs $2 to $3 a day each, or $8 to $15 a year. And the fishing in these states is poor.

It is in order to preserve the good fishing available in Ontario that the new regulations have been made. The reduction of the take-home bag limit is particularly important. Every resort operator in this district who puts his customer's fish in a freezer for him to take back knows how great the wastage is. The visitors catch more fish than they are allowed to take back, and at the beginning of their visit, will keep quite small fish in case they get no more. When the time comes to go home they may have five times as many fish as the two-day bag limit of last year allowed. They take the biggest and throw the rest away. The new one-day bag limit should reduce this wasteful plunder of our fishing resources.

Dien Bien Phu

The Geneva conference of Five Powers on the Far East will meet under the smoke of the biggest battle waged since the close of the World War. This is the still continuing battle for Dien Bien Phu, a small dry Indo-China valley in the middle of nowhere. The attacking Vietminh (Communist-led) forces have had at least ten thousand killed and wounded in the past few weeks. The France-Vietnamese garrison, which at the outset consisted of thirteen battalions and has at intervals been reinforced by another three battalions sent in by parachute, has lost two-thirds of its total strength. Thus the long war in Indo-China—it has been going on since shortly after the close of the World War—has reached a terrible and costly climax. It is at this point that France, Britain, Russia, the United States and Red China are conferring in Geneva to try to see what can be done about the Far East, Indo-China as well as Korea.

Fortunately for the West, the Franco-Vietnamese garrison has held the enemy off. It is not a victory but they have avoided the defeat which might have done France great damage before the conference. The American statement that Indo-China must be held and not allowed to go into Communist hands has supported both France and the beseiged garrison.

What has all this to do with Canada? Indo-China is not another Korea, to which Canadian arms and men were, and still are, committed, for it has not been made a U.N. war. Yet, as in Korea so in Indo-China the United States has declared the territory strategically important to the defence of western democracy. Mr. Dulles, American Secretary of State, wants France to give with the U.S. a joint warning to China against further intervention on behalf of the Vietminh, and has suggested a possible extension of the ANZUS pact (of the United States, Australia and New Zealand) which could involve Australian and New Zealand troops. Thus could the Indo-China war be extended. Canada is a Pacific power, reluctantly. It cannot turn its back on [illegible] far away as Dien Bien Phu, which is only one theatre of the French Indo-China struggle. The Vietminh have already advanced into Cambodia, one of the Associated States (of which Vietnam is another). Let it not be thought that Canada could not be involved in far-off Vietnam, near British Malaya. Remember Korea. Remember Hong Kong.

The Monsoons may settle the hash, for the time being. It is to be hoped that out of Geneva—the conference begins in the last week of this month—may come not another Korea but agreement of the major power to limit the Indo-China war and, if possible, call it off. Native and nationalist feeling however is so high and life so disturbed, that no simple ending can be achieved.

MAINTAINING OLD CHURCHES

Church and State Stave Off Ruin

By

The REV. G. R. DUNSTAN

THE Westminster Abbey Appeal is likely to achieve a belated success. But meanwhile, muted appeals for the repair of other cathedral and major churches remain open, and if the total sum involved were known, it would be counted in millions of pounds. Cathedral churches are not eligible for aid from the Historic Churches Preservation Trust. Discussion of State Aid for their repair commonly exposes two sorts of fear. The one is of being undemocratic in repairing the churches of the Established Church from the taxes paid by members of other Churches or of none. The other is of narrowing religious liberty, by subjecting the Church to a measure of State control; qui paie commande.

ENJOYABLE as it would be to argue these points upon their merits, I intend now rather to draw attention to democratic countries in Europe where the State does help with the repair of historic churches, without sacrifice either of democratic principle or of religious freedom.

IN FRANCE and Holland, where there is on established Church, and in Belgium, where there are four "recognized Churches" —Roman Catholic, Lutheran, Anglican and Jewish —historic churches are listed with other national monuments, and as such can command aid from the State and local commune to meet all or part of the cost of repairs. In Holland, the State helps even to build new churches when communities are newly settled in areas reclaimed from the sea.

SWITZERLAND, with its variety of cantonal customs and confessional patterns, offers examples of every sort of Church and State relationship imaginable, but of none which leaves historic churches, as ours does, to decay. The basis of normal church maintenance (as of the building of boldly modern churches in new industrial areas) is the Church Tax, which is levied by each confession —Swiss Reformed, Roman Catholic and Old Catholic— upon its members, with power to enforce payment at law. One may contract out by renouncing formaly one's membership of the Church; but until one has done so, one has to nay, and that on a percentage of one's civil taxes. But in cantons of all types, Roman Catholic, Reformed, mixed or "free," the canton, the commune, and sometimes the Confederation itself, help to repair churches of historic or artistic merit.

THERE are also closer attachments. The Reformation left some cantons as actual owners of churches as in Zurich, Basle and Berne; nineteenth-century concordats, made when church lands and forests were secularised, left some cantons with the duty of maintaining all churches, and of paying ministers, as at Schaffhausen (Reformed), St. Gallen and Fribourg (both Roman Catholic). The pattern varies, but the result is the same.

At Zurich, the Church maintains the Grossmunster and other churches from its taxes; but the canton maintains the Wasserkirke because it owns it— a pure thirteenth-century building, where services, well attended, are held every Sunday and weekday, and where the walls of a Roman basilica, with its outworks against the waters of the Limmat, stand excavated beneath.

SCHAFFHAUSEN, with a population of 27,000, is at present restoring the minster church of All Hallows, at a cost of over a million francs (say £100,000). The town votes a credit of 150,000 to 200,000 francs a year; the Confederation may grant 10 to 15 per cent. at the end; and steadily this Romanesque church is becoming itself again, in pureness and simplicity; but the parish [illegible]

AT SOLOTHURN the Church of the Jesuits, long suffered to decay while ownership was disputed, has just been expensively restored. If one's first guess outside is that it was built to the glory of Louis XIV, on passing within one's doubt is dispelled; it is a church where God is glorified in his craftsmen and in his saints. The canton and the Confederation gave 30 per cent. each of the cost, and the town and the local Roman Catholic community paid the rest. The Old Catholics in Solothurn worship in a thirteenth-century friary church, which they bought from the canton; the town helps them to keep it in repair.

At Fribourg the jib of a crane juts from the top of the cathedral tower. Repair has been in progress for twenty-five years; the canton, with some help from the Confederation, pays for it all, on roof, walls, piers and windows. The work is costing the canton 10,000 to 11,000 francs a year. Nearby stands the Marienkirche, rebuilt in 1787 and generally dull; but beneath its tower is a twelfth-century chapel, now the chapel of the Rosary and a plaque on the wall records that this was restored in 1931 with help from the town, the canton and the Confederation. It is one of many precious monuments to the co-operation of Church and State in preserving the nation's heritage.

I FOUND no suggestion anywhere that this involves loss of democratic principle or of religious liberty. At each place I asked the tax collectors, the clerics and the taxpayers when I could; the replies were the same. There are inevitable tensions, but no strain. And this is not the rigor of death. In Berne and Zurich I heard of ministers, paid by the canton, who preach vigorously and regularly against military conscription, and this with impunity in a country very much in earnest about its own defence. They are free up to the point of sedition or slander; and then they are subject to the laws like everyone else.

Structural alterations to historic buildings are closely controlled; but nowhere is any restriction put upon the use of churches for worship. In the minster at Schaffhausen (Reformed) and in the Jesuit Church at Solothurn (where there is a Roman Catholic majority among the three recognized Churches) concerts must be allowed if not repugnant to the character of the building; but this amounts to no more than the organ and orchestral concerts sometimes given in our own churches. The financial adjustment often in force, that the State maintains the fabric of a church while the community using it bears the cost of its use—furnishing, lighting, organ maintenance, etc.— is a reasonable arrangement between reasonable men; it may well be borne in mind when our cathedral problem is discussed in Britain.

DOGS NOT CURBED

SIR: Can a bylaw passed by city council ever be enforced? (A few weeks ago I noticed in the Examiner a notice that a bylaw had been passed to the effect that all dogs must be kept tied up after April 1st. Last week while walking two blocks to the corner store, some dog dashed out at me, nearly scaring me to death, so I decided to take another way home — so what? A friendly hound jumped on my shoulders and made a terrible mess of my black coat as it was a wet day. I would like to see some action, as it is just a few people who keep [illegible]

Yours truly,
"ANXIOUS."

DIRTY CITY RESIDENTS

SIR: When Mayor Graham said the sanitation department stinks, one thing he should have said was the habits of certain city residents in disposing of their garbage and rubbish in the spring cleanups also stinks, only a little more.

If the people in the districts surrounding the city used the same method as these "humans," then your sanitation department would need 10 Sani-Vans instead of 5 to collect the garbage and junk we strewed around your streets at night. I for one would like to see the townships concerned get moving and pass a bylaw against this dumping and really put teeth in it such as offering a $50 reward for any information which would lead to a conviction of the culprit. A certain Crown Attorney referred to certain residents of a rural municipality as hillbillies; well if we are, I can certainly say that I'd rather have a city full of hill-billies than to have half-a-dozen of this trash that scatters garbage on a rural road. Nearly all townships have a dump where residents can dispose of their trash, almost anytime — but not Peterborough, the clean, tidy city. Oh, no — they close their dump at five o'clock and let their residents dump on a township road. What's wrong? Do city dwellers need educating or do they want a good lesson like a few loads of city trash salvaged from our side roads dumped back on your lovely city hall lawn? I hope the rural residents really get behind this movement. Here's for a clean-up in and out.

Yours truly,
"DISGUSTED RURAL ROADER."

CLEANSING CRITICISM THROUGH CITY HALL PORTALS

SIR: Kindly allow enough space in your paper to print the following comments on behalf of a "gentleman who kept his promise." His Worship, Mayor Norman Graham, the man whom I along with thousands of Peterborough citizens elected to office.

It is certainly gratifying to see someone in an official capacity voice his convictions without fear of the torrents of criticism which result when the truth strikes home.

In the past it has been difficult for Peterborough citizens to completely accept many decisions made by that old stagnant method called "Simon Says"; the Simons in this case being prominent citizens whose business establishments are generally affected when the truth strikes home, as when our Mayor hits a tender spot.

The "Simon Says" system endangers and retards the growth and expansion of a city as fair as ours. It also robs the citizens of the tremendous potentialities that can be derived from the progress that we are beginning to experience under the capable aggressive leadership of our present mayor.

The constructive and cleansing criticism that is permeating through the portals of our new city hall is the result of several months of careful preparation and thorough investigation and not spontaneous explanations without thought as many "City Fathers" would have us believe. I am not referring to the present dispute between the Mayor and Mr. Pierce of the Sanitation Department.

It is quite apparent that many council members are afraid to open their mouths in support of the truth even after evidence has [illegible] services.

The writer brings to mind that on one occasion some members of council agreed with our mayor that subject public service was being operated in a most unsatisfactory method and entirely against public interests. But just try and get an echo from the same people when our mayor divulges the same pertinent fact to the public eye. Silent consent only breeds stagnation to a progressive city of our size.

Could it be that some people are afraid that purification of business ethics in some Peterborough business firms and services may prove a detriment to their own business.

Our mayor is being criticized for merely fulfilling his election promise and public duty, a promise and duty which inspired the citizens of Peterborough to place him in office as Chief Magistrate.

Yours truly,
N. H. HOWE.

ILLEGAL SUNDAY PARKING

SIR: In reference to street parking on Sundays, I think this subject deserves some comment.

Why is it, that the police force is so lax in its duty to street offenders on this day more than any other day. Driving home from church I noticed cars parked solidly on the south side of Murray St. between Aylmer and George Sts., disregarding plenty of signs which read, "No Parking on This Side."

Also on the 4 corners of George and Murray Sts. and 3 corners of George and McDonnel Sts. cars parked right to the corner itself, also disregarding signs which read "No Parking Here to Corner." Regardless of it being Sunday or not, this does create a definite traffic hazard, as it is impossible to see approaching George St. traffic from either intersection until you are out into the line of it.

It certainly wouldn't be much effort on the part of the police department to enforce these laws as most of the offender's cars are right on their front and back door steps, and these offences are committed every Sunday, year after year.

Being a church-goer myself, I feel it would benefit all concerned to keep within the laws of the city, as well as the laws of God.

Signed,
"A LAW-ABIDING CITIZEN."

Bible Message

(From The Authorized Version)

Behold, there came a ruler, and worshipped him, saying, My daughter is even now dead, but come and lay thy hand upon her, and she shall live. And Jesus arose and followed him, and so did his disciples...

And when Jesus came into the ruler's house and saw the minstrels and the people making a noise, he said unto them, Give peace: for the maid is not dead, but sleepeth. And they laughed him to scorn. But when the people were put forth, he went in, and took her by the hand, and the maid arose.

And the fame hereof went abroad into all that land. And when Jesus departed thence, two blind men followed him, crying and saying, Thou son of David, have mercy on us. And when he was come into the house, the blind men came to him: and Jesus saith unto them, Believe ye that I am able to do this? They said unto him, Yea, Lord.

Then touched he their eyes, saying, According to your faith be it unto you. And their eyes were opened; and Jesus straitly charged them, saying, See that no man know it. But they, when they were departed, spread abroad his fame in all that country.

As they went out, behold, they bought to him a dumb man possessed with a devil. And when the devil was cast out, the dumb spake: and the multitudes marvelled, saying, It was so seen in Israel. (Matt. 9:18, 19, 23-33.)

Ontario Lags Behind

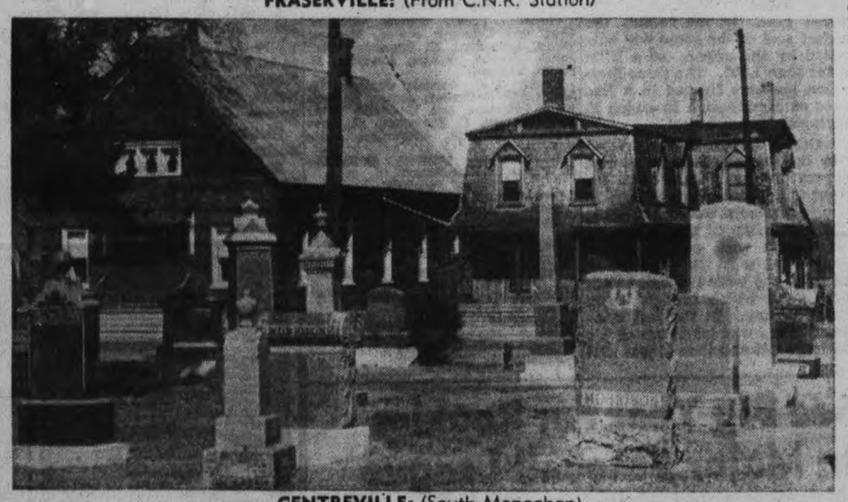
Premier Manning announces that Alberta will supplement the federal old age pensions, old age security and blind persons' pensions that province by $15 instead of the $10 hitherto paid bringing the monthly allowance to $55.

British Columbia, which has been providing a $10 supplement is also to increase to $15.00.

Saskatchewan, not such a wealthy province, provides a $2.50 supplement to the $46 federal pension.

Ontario, with its treasury overflowing with money, provides no supplement at all. The old folks have to get along on $40 per month.



Eastertide and the Call of Highway 28

SPRINGVILLE: (South Approach)

FRASERVILLE: (From C.N.R. Station)

CENTREVILLE: (South Monaghan)

BAILIEBORO: (General Store)

Percy Moncrief stood in the doorway of his Cavan township barn one day this week and called his sheared flock of Suffolk sheep for a feeding of chop. He had little to do but look after his stock for his well-cared fields were still rigid with frost, especially the lower land.

"If Easter is late, spring is late," he said. "Last year it was two weeks earlier and I had sown 28 acres of oats on the field back of the house."

Yes, spring is indeed late this Eastertime. But, given our current spell of warming weather, city and district motorists will swarm up and down Highway 28 as far south as Port Hope on Easter Sunday. It is the motorists' "must" and the popular drive will be well patronized as usual.

Pleasantly satisfied with the usual hearty Easter dinner motorists are apt on this special Sunday to drive more slowly than usual along the route. There is much to see even though heaving frost on gravel sideroads may not beckon the man at the wheel to deviate from the highway.

Rolling south, the plain gleaming spire of Springville United church arrests the attention on the long S-bend where the church grounds were packed with family cars at the morning service. Then comes the well-kept Cathcart Farm on the west side, before passing through Fraserville with its little-used station. South Monaghan (Centreville) with its one-horse hitching post in front of the general store has no horse tethered to it but several cars in yards of the few homes tell of an influx of weekend visitors.

Of substantially larger size than either of the other three villages Bailleboro comes into view in a sheltered valley. Going over the hill and out of the village Roy Sanderson's fine modern home is screened back and front with bare black walnut trees. The nuts are never harvested. A short stop on the shoulder of the road may reward the children who will find sound walnuts in the tangle of last year's grass and weeds.

The most rewarding view in the district—the panorama of Rice Lake and the Northumberland Hills—is but a mile or so beyond Walnut Farm. The ice went out on Monday of this week, swept bare by a strong west wind. It is yet too early for spring to wash the far blue hills with light green but there is early promise of life ot come. The view is worth a fairly long pause at the vantage point on the highway hill. (But Sunday drivers are warned to park OFF the highway.)

Bewdley waterfront boat jetties lie awash in the high water but boats are still in storage. The string of roadside restaurants do a lively business with motorists who stop to recapture dreams of colorful boating activities that will commence again with the first hardy pickerel fishermen by mid-May.

All motorists will heap insults on the highways department as they jounce over the pocked road through Bewdley and south past the Rev. Joseph Scriven memorial cairn and the splendid short avenue of white pine trees until they roll onto the smooth section well over the Rice Lake height of land. (The rough road section is to be re-topped very shortly).

As you drive down the land slope towards Port Hope cold lustreless Lake Ontario rises high above the horizon line. Its breath is cool and prompts passengers to roll up the car windows. But the popular tour has come to an end and it is time to swing about and find a place in the northbound traffic stream, homebound. Save us road room on Highway 28 south on Easter Sunday afternoon.

Tearing Up Remnants of Old Orchard Near Bailieboro (Examiner Staff Photos)

A·F·I·E·L·D with NICK NICKELS

There are things to see of a sunny afternoon these days to remind you that spring is hard at work and making up for lost time.

Life is at low ebb commercially in the village of Buckhorn but there is a great roar at the dam causeway where the stoplogs from four gates have been removed. Water from Buckhorn lake plunges down into the boiling rapids below with such force that it "piles up" at the bottom of the drop. The kids have only to throw bits of driftwood into the seething water to understand how dangerous it is; they keep well back from the edges, from the current that makes them dangerously dizzy.

The great jumbled boulders as big as houses on the hotel grounds stand as stark reminders of some great glacial residue at the bottom of a once-mighty river. There is still no light green wash of undergrowth to submerge them to the rugged landscape. Itchy pickerel fishermen park their cars along the soft shoulders of the "main street"; they dream of the excellent fishing they will enjoy in the rapids in less than a month's time.

Scenery is less rugged and more peaceful at Ed Pearson's camp on the west shore of Deer Bay. By the time you drive through the oozing potholes on the concession road the airy maple bench at Ed's camp comes as a welcome stopping place. This is the end of the line for cottagers who have come up by car to see how their buildings have withstood the ravages of winter weather. They walk the soft stub roads to their properties and visit, both going and coming, with Ed and his wife who have just come back from two months in Florida. They say they are glad to be home and on such a sunny, windy day you can understand why.

The boys are boiling sap in a sheltered spot near the house (they have made 20 gallons of syrup). The stiff west wind is pushing the ice in white windrows against the east shore and the white slashes stand out brilliantly on the indigo water.

Lands and forests punts, newly painted red and white, lie at the water line ready for the muskie spawn netting operation to begin; the stiff black nets and rigging ropes are piled in the boathouse. The bush trail north along the shore through Beachwood Lodge is soft and wet as far as Archie Stewart's spanking new cottage. Fresh hepatica leaves show through the dry woods litter but no blossoms, yet.

Sifting through the coals of morning conversation there are occasional grains of thought that are worthy of considering further, planting in civic minds, at least.

Said accountant Jim Turner:

"Say, there's an old steamboat at Huntsville. Do you think we could raise enough money to buy her and bring her to Peterborough?"

Said Jim (Chamber of Commerce) Fraser:

"I get it. Daily excursions for tourists from Lakefield to Burleigh or from the Lift Lock to Campbellford. Two dollars a ticket for a day of loafing and fun. Moonlight excursions, too."

Said Bob (his assistant) Hamilton:

"If the combined service clubs of Peterborough would finance a scheme of this nature they would put Peterborough and the Kawarthas on the tourist map for sure."

Your Garden:

Now Is The Time To Plan Your Garden

By HENRY PREE

The home gardener, with thoughts of vegetable growing on his mind, should start to plan his garden now. Successful gardeners realize the importance of planning first.

Planned arrangement of crops will assure you of maximum usage from your garden, advises Ben Vance, extension horticulturist at a large American university.

The idea of garden rotation is becoming more widely adopted, Vance reports. Folks are finding they can divide the garden area into equal units. On one they grow a green manure crop—such as soybeans—which can be turned under to add fertility and improve the soil condition. Then the crops grown following this green manure give bigger yields.

With the rotation plan many gardeners have found they can grow more total produce on half the area than when they used the entire space every year. With a relatively large garden, a three-year rotation can be worked out. One third of the area will be in garden and the other two thirds in a legume forage crop.

The legume serves as a poultry range in the seeding year and as a green manure crop the next.

If you group early vegetables, such as peas, lettuce, radishes and green onions together, when they are harvested you'll have a good area completely open for crops, such as late tomatoes, late sweet corn and radishes, lettuce, etc., for the fall garden.

These two ideas are well worth considering now, Vance believes. They won't take much time and they will let you use your garden area more efficiently.

Gardeners often buy and plant far too much seed. Some seeds, like lettuce, are so tiny that it seems almost inconceivable that each will result in a large plant. Yet this is exactly what Mother Nature intended.

Tomatoes, beans and sweet corn are the three big fresh food vegetables, all easily grown from seeds A packet of tomato seeds can produce $50 worth of fruit, juice and soup stock.

Snap and lima beans are universally popular. Full of food value and vitamins, they are most flavorful and delicious when picked just in time to prepare for dinner.

If you sow 10 seeds in one spot, you may later have nine plants to pull up. Be stingy rather than generous when sowing seeds. Read sowing directions on the label—and then sow only half as much.

Careful planning now will insure you a much nicer garden.

Tea Bowls

In these days of rising coffee prices more and more of us will probably turn to tea in search of available caffeine. Tea, of course, comes not from coffee areas at all, but from different part of the Far East producing different types of tea. Most of us are familiar with only one tea, the sort served in restaurants and easy to obtain in groceterias. Yet there are others—the pale green tea of China, the delicately perfumed jasmine tea which is made in China and in Formosa; teas with tight smoky leaves, and others, like jasmine, full of flower petals. It used to be the oriental gourmets' delight to sit about [illegible], discussing perhaps philosophy or poetry, and sipping slowly at tea. This custom was so enjoyable that the Chinese, and more especially the Japanese, developed a regular ritual in connection with tea-drinking.

Essential to the enjoyment of tea has always been the teacup. Even we usually serve tea in a cup of fine china, whereas coffee is quite welcome in mugs. So with the Chinese; but while they excelled one another in attempts to make cups more elegant and refined, more sophisticated and perfect, the equally civilised Japanese drank nature's gift of tea in what seem to us to be thick and irregular bowls. The Royal Ontario Museum of Archaeology has a number of these—bumpy little bowls formed by hand alone. They were glazed with mellow earthy shades, and often undecorated. Why did the Japanese craftsmen turn their backs on the art of potting when they fashioned teacups? The answer is simple. They wanted these bowls to be reminiscent of nature, to remind the holder of the beauties of nature's own irregular soul. They wanted the bowl to pretend it was some natural growth, like a mushroom sprung from the mossy bosom of mother earth. No artificial perfection would do; they preferred to think not of man and his works, but of God and His world, while they sat drinking their tea.

1955 Annual OASA Meeting To Be Held In Peterborough

Ontario Amateur Softball Association ever to be held in northern Ontario ended here Friday night after 19 amendments to the rules and constitutions were carried.

Frank Feavor of Hamilton, secretary, said the convention was a whopping success. More voting delegates attended than ever before in the association's 32-year history.

Although only 19 amendments were carried, the delegates discussed 62. The most important one was that a batter who struck by a pitched ball and who, in the judgment of the umpire, makes a sincere effort to avoid the pitch, will be awarded first base. Previously, the pitch was called a ball with no advancement on the part of the batter. The proposal was made by St. Catharines.

APPROVE BYLAW

Delegates also approved a bylaw proposal from the Northland Fastball Association which says: cerning decisions of executive committee officers of the Eastern Ontario Amateur Softball Association, the Northland Fastball Association or the Western Ontario Athletic Association, may only be made with the consent of the president of the association whose decision is appealed."

A move by Whitby that the association abolish the replacement rule allowing teams to gain substitutes for players obliged to go into the armed services, football or hockey training camps or universities within a 50-mile radius was defeated.

The meeting also agreed that no part of a pitcher's clothing may be of white or cream colors.

The amendments passed for minor fastball included that all Pee Wee games must start at least two hours before sundown and that no floodlight games be scheduled in the pee-wee series except by agreement of the managements of the competing teams. Pee-wee players will not be allowed to wear spikes on their shoes. Another decision was that distance between bases in the midget series will be 55 feet.

PETERBOROUGH 1955 SITE

It was decided that the 1955 annual meeting will be held at Peterborough.

Ray Wray of Montreal, vice-president of the Canadian Amateur Softball Association, announced the arrangements have been completed to hold the eastern Canada senior A finals again at Montreal during the Labor Day weekend. The Montreal Snowdon League champs have won the best-of-three series for the last three successive years.

Charles S. Lewis of Toronto was installed as the fourth life member of the association. The others are Col. G. C. McArthur of London, Verne McIlwraith of Guelph and George H. Spooner of Galt.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Good and bad news arrived over a rainy Good Friday. Baseballically speaking, we mean. The good was word that hustling Joe Lowery was named playing manager of the senior Petes in the COBL. Something of a practical joker, Joe — who came here from Connecticut five years ago, and remained — has stolen the pants of basemen in several loops around and about. A real speed merchant on the runways, a steady hitter, a first-class centre gardener and a relief southpaw flinger at times. Also a likeable guy, who loves the diamond sport. Strictly a baseball athlete, he doesn't go in for any other sport. Joe played for the Petes in both the Viaduct League and the Central loop, filling in at Lindsay last summer. He hopes to have Gunner Whitehill to aid him as coach this semester.

* * * * * *

The bad news was a short Canadian Press item out of Oshawa that said the Oshawa Merchants have decided against playing in the COBL this season, claiming the city can't support two senior ball clubs. Oshawa Transporters, who won the intermediate Lakeshore Loop last year and went on to take OBA intermediate "A" honors, stepped up this spring to senior and are reported going into the Toronto Viaduct League. This was the team we had hoped to have in the COBL, since we don't depend too much on John Harris and his import-studded Merchants — who have hopped from COBL to Viaduct to Intercountry and now to oblivion in the past four years.

* * * * * *

Get The Transporters

Local club officials were very disappointed at word that but three teams presently were available for the COBL, but hoped that now maybe the Transporters would swing in with the Central Leage. We tried vainly to contact the loop prexy or secretary at Belleville to urge 'em to act quickly and invite Transporters in. If that fails, one more club must be brought into the fold as the COBL will not operate successfully as a three-team circuit. It has been tried before, and at least four entries are needed to make it a good senior ball league. Failing a four-club loop, it'll have to be an interlocking schedule with a Toronto setup, or nothing. Fans want to see more than two or three teams playing during the season. No doubt the league officials will work on this over the weekend.

Hockey goes on and on, well past the middle of April. Stanley Cup finals and Easter can be over, but there's still important hockey being played in Canada. Even affecting Central Ontario and the local district. Lindsay and Haliburton, for instance, Marmora in both OHA and TVL finals, Oshawa Truckmen in senior "B" semi-finals. Yes, these clubs start back in October or early November and some six months later are battling bitterly in big playoff series, after the major league baseball season has started. They sure overlap, these sports seasons. Our hockey used to run about three months, but now a stint of six months on ice isn't considered unusual at all by the amateurs.

Wings Fly to Victory

Tony Leswick touched off a big celebration in Olympic Stadium late last eve by firing home an overtime goal to give Detroit Red Wings a 2-1 win o'er Canadiens and possession of the prized Stanley Cup. A great finish to a grand series between these two classy clubs. It went right to the seven-game limit and overtime before the issue was settled. Those surging Habs had the NHL champs plenty worried and worn almost down to their ankles — Tommy Ivan even using starry defenceman Red Kelly on a forward line in this last playoff. A sellout crowd, with many turned away, including several hundred fans who travelled all the way from Montreal for the big one. The jubilant Wings picked up a thousand smackers apiece for the victory.

Secretary John McPhee of the men's City Softball League advises us that the loop will go with six teams this semester, playing twin bills under the Bowl arcs three times weekly: They have obtained parks' permission to use the diamond Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights. Teams in are the TPT Petes, UEW, Seabrooke's, Marines, Lakefield and Mount Pleasant. This latter squad and the Marines are newcomers to the City League, the Lakefield Lumbermen having joined the circuit a year ago. Schedule will get underway toward the end of May, and it'll be drawn up shortly. Looks like a large semester for Bob

Marmora Beaten By Lucan 4-3 In Ontario Final

MARMORA (ENS)—Marmora and Lucan, finalists for the O.H.A. Intermediate "C" championship played the third game of the three out of five series in the former's rink on Friday evening and the result was a win for Lucan by the score of 4-3, assuring for them the championship and first possession of the new Ken McMillan trophy. The game was fast with the visitors revealing little tiredness after their long trip. They took the lead in the first with Rowett, their centre, getting the first counter after five minutes of play and also giving an assist to Stretton on the second goal. In the second, the neatest goal of the game was witnessed by the crowd of a little better than 1,000. The three Revington brothers figured in a fine piece of combination in which F. Revington got the goal.

GOOD GOAL-TENDING

In this period, Lucan had two players in the penalty box for about a minute and it looked as though Marmora would baffle the burly custodian of the Lucan net but success was denied them. They were most threatening in the third and were rewarded with three goals which brought them close to tying. In the last minute, Killian was taken out of the Marmora net and then it was that Jones got Marmora's third goal on Mantle's assist. Good goalkeeping by both goalies kept the scoring down. Keeping a compact made with Marmora as Lucan last weekend, the champions are remaining for another encounter this Saturday evening.

Marmora: goal, Killian; defence, Gray and Leonard; centre, Maynes; wings, Lavender, K. Trumble; alts.: Jones, Brooks, Mantle, Loveless, D. Smith, Darrah.

See Big Year For Rookies In Major Baseball League

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The four-day-old major league baseball season is still in the budding stage, but it's starting out as a big rookie year.

With Friday an open date no club has played more than three games but already the [illegible] men have seen action. A batch of others, including several highly-touted freshmen, are almost certain to get into the lineup soon. Rudy Regalado, Cleveland's spring sensation, has been used only as a pinch runner.

It's hardly fair to make any comparison at this early stage, but the most outstanding performances thus far have been turned in by Forrest (Spook) Jacobs and Vic Power of Philadelphia Athletics, Gene Baker of Chicago Cubs, Frank Bolling and Bill Tuttle of Detroit, Bob Skinner and Curt Roberts of Pittsburgh, Bill Skowron of New York Yankees, Harry Agganis of Boston Red Sox and Wally Moon of St. Louis Cardinals.

NOT EFFECTIVE

The majority of the rookie pitchers who have had an opportunity to work so far haven't been particularly effective. Jack Harsh- was the only one to get a starting assignment, and he failed to last through the fourth inning. However, several kids have looked good in relief.

Jacobs, the pint-sized second-baseman who was drafted from Brooklyn Dodgers' farm system, has been impressive both at bat and in the field. He's rapped six hits in nine times at bat and has handled 12 chances flawlessly.

Power, the negro outfielder who led the American Association in batting with the Yankees' Kansas City arm club last year, distinguished himself Thursday with a remarkable throw from deep centre field to nail a Yankee runner at the plate.

Detroit's rookie trio of second-baseman Bolling and outfielders Tuttle and Al Kaline have pleased manager Fred Hutchinson so far. One of Bolling's three hits in three games has been a home run.

JOHNNY BAREND and trigger-tempered TOAR MORGAN are in the semi-final, while tough MIKE PAIDOUSIS and JOHNNY HARMON start things off.

DETROIT RED WINGS CAPTURE STANLEY CUP IN 2-1 OVERTIME WIN

Leswick Hero of Game Fires Winning Goal In Tough Fight With Habs

By W. R. WHEATLEY

DETROIT (CP)—The name of Anthony Joseph Leswick, tough little left-winger on Detroit Red Wings' No. 1 checking line, was written today in the annals of Stanley Cup hockey as the man with the golden goal.

It was Tony who fired the winning goal Friday night in the Red Wings' hard-earned, but well-deserved 2-1 overtime victory over Montreal Canadiens.

That big goal for Tony and his mates meant the seventh and deciding game of the final, the massive cup itself and $18,000 in cash instead of the losers' $9,000.

As it turned out, the winning goal at 4:29 of overtime was a tough break for Canadiens who had put up a fighting battle against the National Hockey League champions. The puck whipped into the net off defenceman Doug Harvey's gloved hand.

COST THEM CUP

It cost them the cup they had won only a year ago, and now it goes to the Red Wings for the sixth time since this city came into the NHL in 1926. Canadiens have also held it six times.

Floyd Curry had scored for Canadiens in the first period and Red Kelly for Detroit in the second.

The electrifying overtime goal came quickly and for a second the record hockey crowd in Olympia Stadium of 15,791 was stunned. Then bedlam broke loose.

30-FOOT DRIVE

Tony, who scored only six goals during the regular season, came coasting into the Montreal zone while tall Glen Skov, centre on Tony's line, went into the left corner. Skov dug out the puck and sent it across the front of the Montreal goal. Tony pounced on it and let drive from about 30 feet out.

Goalie Gerry McNeil saw the shot coming and was set to play it. But Harvey stuck up his hand to block the shot. The puck struck his hand, caromed off and went into the net over McNeil's left shoulder.

That ended one of the most brilliant hockey battles of the series: A battle that went undecided through six games and was carried into overtime in the seventh before it was settled.

It was equally as good as the overtime game in Detroit last Sunday when Montreal squeezed out a 1-0 overtime victory, a win that kept Canadiens in the hunt. They took the next game at home to square the series.

Only once before in Stanley Cup history has a seventh game been decided in overtime. That was in 1950, also in Detroit and also won by the Red Wings. It was a 4-3 decision over New York Rangers, and the man of the hour then, after 8:31 of a second overtime period, was Pete Babando.

Friday night it was Tony's big moment.

SASKATOON AMATEUR

Tony is short, dark haired and heavy-browed. He is little more than five feet, six inches and weighs around 160. He entered pro hockey in 1942 with Cleveland of the American Hockey League after rounding out his amateur career with the senior Saskatoon [illegible] was in Canada's armed forces. Then he began his big-time hockey with New York Rangers and remained with them until the 1951-52 season when he was traded to Detroit for Gaye Stewart.

Tony's biggest scoring year was in the 1946-47 season when he collected 27 goals.

Early in the game the Red Wings cut loose with all their power but McNeil held Canadiens together. The Red Wings had far more of the play and goalie Terry Sawchuk had less work and far fewer dangerous shots to handle than McNeil.

CURRY SCORES

Floyd Curry, who scored two goals in Montreal Tuesday when his team won 4-1, for a time seemed likely to be Montreal's hero. He put Montreal in front at 9:17 of the first period, with a 30-foot screened shot off Paul Masnick's pass. Sawchuk was beaten all the way.

But while Masnick sat out a penalty early in the second period for hooking Bob Goldham, Red Kelly tied it. Ted Lindsay and Alex Delvecchio made the relays that gave Kelly his opening on a power play. The low shot was partly screened and the puck caught the far side of the net.

Red Wings won the opening game 3-1 and lost the second by the same score here. They squelched Canadiens twice on Montreal ice, 5-2 and 2-0. The Montrealers struck back to win in Detroit, 1-0 in overtime, and the in Montreal 4-1.

Line-Ups

Montreal — Goal: McNeil; defence: Harvey, St. Laurent, Bouchard, Johnson; forwards: Curry, Masnick, Olmstead, Beliveau, Richard, Geoffrion, Moore, Lach, Mazur Mosdell, Davis Stewart.

Detroit — Goal: Sawchuk; defence: Goldham, Pronovost, Kelly, Wolt, Allen; forwards: Prystai, Dineen, Wilson, Skov, Leswick, Pavelich, Delvecchio, Howe, Lindsay, Dube, Peters.

Referee: Bill Chadwick; linesmen: George Hayes, Bill Morrison.

Summary

First period: Montreal, Curry (Masnick) 9:17; Penalties: Harvey 14:20, Skov 17:11.

Winnipeg Wins Basketball Title

TORONTO (CP) — Winnipeg Paulins won the Canadian men's senior basketball title Friday night with a 65-48 victory over the defending champion Toronto Tri-Bells in the final game of their best-of-five series.

Paulins, trailing 17-16 at the end of the first quarter, over-powered the Tri-Bells with close-in set shots that disturbed the Toronto defence for the last three sessions.

The series went right down to the wire. Tri-Bells won the first game, dropped the second and third and then came back with a 59-55 victory in the fourth Wednesday.

Centre Herb Olafsson led Paulins with 25 points. He scored 16 in the first two quarters and shot the Winnipeggers into a lead they never lost. Forward Carl Ridd of Winnipeg followed up with 19, 11 of them in the last quarter.

Ray Monnott, a six-foot-six centre, potted 15 points for Tri-Bells before he was sent to the bench with five fouls late in the last quarter.

Bush Pilot, Wife Buried

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) The Algoma skies he helped to blaze closed in Friday over the funeral of famous bush pilot and aviation executive Thomas Mayne (Pat) Reid and his wife, Marjorie.

Several air lines flights on which mourners were to have arrived were cancelled, but the funeral service in St. Andrews United Church was attended by some 300 persons from airline and industrial executives to just ordinary folk.

Mr Reid and his wife were two of 37 victims of Canada's worst air disaster last week when a Trans-Canada airliner plunged to earth over Moose Jaw, Sask., after a mid-air collision with an air force training plane.

The march of the great aviation industry Reid helped to build was symbolized by the thunder of jet planes hidden in the overcast as the funeral procession left the church. They came from the U. S. Air Force base at Kinross, Mich., 20 miles to the south.

HOUSE No. 61-45—Clean, simple lines distinguish this three-level home attractively situated on a large wooded lot backing on to the Red River. It's hard to imagine water licking up to the level of the first floor eavestroughing—but such was the case during the disastrous Red River floods of 1950 in Winnipeg. Fortunately, no real structural damage was done outside of the necessity of replacing parts of the insulation, interior partitioins and flooring. Exterior is of 10" cedar siding painted a clear sunshine yellow to match the mood of the southern exposure. It is trimmed in Bokahara red and is topped by a grey shingle roof. This colourful colour styling contrasts most effectively with the surrounding greenery of the trees. Tri-level homes are economical for the space they provide. This type of design is divided into three different levels, the basement generally being a half-storey or half-level below ground. This particular design contains many features which indicate a love of convenient living. Upon entering the hall the first hint of gracious living is the attractive powder room located just to the left as you enter. Notice also the long, wide hall, seldom seen in the modern tightly-planned home of today. Its large picture window with glass block trim adds much to the feeling of spaciousness which is prevalent throughout. Note that in addition to the plan shown below, a lower level includes a large recreation room with open fireplace, furnace room, wash room and a full equipped laundry. For working drawings, write Home Building in Canada, 2842 Bloor St. W., Toronto.

Secrecy Curbs Defence Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secrecy on atomic weapons has thrown American civil defence planning into confusion and hindred development of a continental defence system, the American Society of Newspaper Editors was told Thursday.

Paul Block Jr., co-publisher of the Toledo Blade, reported in a speech prepared for some 400 editors at their annual meeting that despite recent hydrogen bomb revelations atomic developments have outrun public information.

The sensation created by Lewis L. Strauss, atomic energy commission chairman, with his recent description of the first hydrogen bomb explosion 17 months ago, Block said, raises the question "whether the people must not be told much more much sooner."

Cabinet Takes Easter Holiday

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent and most of his cabinet colleagues will be away from Ottawa on vacation or business during the Easter recess of Parliament.

Mr. St. Laurent flew Thursday to Bermuda with his son-in-law, Hugh O'Donnell, Montreal lawyer, for a week of rest and golf. Mrs. St. Laurent left by train for an Easter holiday at their home in Quebec City. The prime minister plans to return to Ottawa about April 24 and be in his seat in the Commons when Parliament reconvenes Monday, April 26.

Only two members of the cabinet will remain in Ottawa continuously during the recess. They are Revenue Minister McCann and Justice Minister Garson.

McGinnis Wins Railway Fight

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—The forces of financier Patrick B. McGinnis, winning 11 of the 21 directorships, Friday ended the three-year regime of Frederic C. (Buck) Dumaine as president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad.

The battle for control of the $500,000,000 road has shared the spotlight with the current struggle for the New York Central Railroad.

The New Haven election ended six years of Dumaine family rule.

The outcome of the bitter proxy fight for the New Haven closed a marathon session which lasted, with various recesses, a total of 41½ hours.

The 49-year-old McGinnis told newspaper men the new board of directors will meet here this week with the expectation that it will elect him president.

Lakefield Youth Given Six Months

COBOURG (ENS) — Darrell Henry, 20, Lakefield, was sentenced to six months definite and three indefinite in the reformatory on each of seven charges of breaking and entering and one of joyriding. The sentences are to run concurrently. The car was taken at Bowmanville and the break-ins occurred at summer cottages in the Lakefield district.

Kenneth Clarke, charged with violation of a suspended sentence bond for joy-riding, was sentenced to six months definite and three indefinite in the reformatory. Clarke, whose home is in Percy township, has a previous record involving false pretences and breaking and entering charges.

Nameless Skeleton Buried At Galt

GALT (CP)—A grinning skull and the weathered rib bones of an elderly man were lowered Thursday into a nameless grave.

The partial skeleton was found protruding from Grand river mud near the incinerator here Wednesday night with no indication of its identity.

Police said no elderly man is named on their missing persons lists for Galt or the surrounding district. They suggested that the skeleton might have drifted down from the river's upper reaches or from one of its tributaries.

Dr. James McQueen, coroner, said the bones appeared to have been in the water for a considerable time, possibly as long as two or three years.

Repects Appeal

HANOI (AP) — Gen. Henri Navarre, French commander-in-chief in Indo-China, Friday rejected an appeal by foreign correspondents for a relaxation of barriers to news coverage of the battle of Dien Bien Phu. Complaints concerned slow censorship and inadequate communications.

Vacation At Home Provides Opportunity To Do Odd Jobs

While the lure of the travel-ads calls us to far-away places, not everyone is able, or fortunate enough, to take advantage of a "vacation land paradise." On the other hand, many people prefer to stay at home, feeling that they get a better rest and better food that way.

Such a vacation at home provides an opportunity for doing in leisurely fashion the many little odd jobs that have been put off all year, and perhaps Dad has planned it that way because he likes to putter around the house and garden, interspersing a bit of sunning on the front lawn with a spot of weeding in the garden.

It's also a season when small paint jobs may be tackled, such as the front porch, the back steps, the eavestroughing or perhaps the shutters.

APPLY UNDERCOAT

Here are a few tips to keep in mind if you're thinking of tackling a little light summer painting. Take the porch and steps, for example. Let's presume there are one or two spots where the paint has blistered, or worn away allowing dirt to get ground into the surface. All such spots should be wire-brushed, and carefully sanded to make the edges even with the rest of the paint film. An undercoat should then be applied before the final coat of porch paint, and make sure it's porch paint you use for it's specially formulated to stand up to hard weather wear as well as the scruffing it gets from shoes. You'll be surprised how fresh a house looks when the porch and steps are freshly painted.

Freshly-painted shutters also add to the trim appearance of a house. Once again employ the wire brush, and make sure there are no cobwebs or dust on the surface before plying the paint brush. Incidentally never paint a surface while it's in the hot sun. It's a comparatively simple matter to arrange the job so that you're in the shade. It's better for you and the work. With neutral gray or white for the body of the house, and a dark roof, almost any color may be selected for the shutters, entrance door and window trim. If room is green, then red, yellow, brown or gray would be harmonious choices. With a bright red roof, an agreeable contrast is offered by soft green, turquoise, maroon, or soft blue.

Paint-neglected gutters and drains soon deteriorate and rust, costing money for repairs or replacements. Leaking gutters frequently are the cause of paint breakdown and of damage inside the house where water gets behind the siding. It's a simple matter to slap a coat of paint on the eavestrough, but first of all get the wire brush to work, and if the gutter is a metal one, make sure that you get right down to the metal surface and apply a coat of metal primer before painting. Paint, of course, will be the same shade as the roof unless you want the trough to stand out, when it could be finished in the same color as the trim.

Flashings require painting the same as other parts of the house. Driving rains hunt out the smallest break of the metal when rust has opened the way. Attention to painting of such danger spots will help keep water outside the building and avoid trouble, inconvenience and repair bills.

These are just a few paint tips for summer, but they're easy to do, and will supply a useful diversion for Dad if he's spending a "vacation at home."

Bethany WMS Holds Easter Meeting

BETHANY (ENS)—The regular monthly meeting of the United Church Women's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. Otto Spencer with Mrs. Clarence Rowan presiding.

The Easter worship service was based on "Life Through Love," with Mrs. Spencer reading the scripture lesson and Mrs. Mervyn Porteous giving a reading on the meaning of Easter . . . "Leaders who have been the head of other religions such as Mohammed, Confucius, Islam and others have failed because those founders are dead, but our Saviour, whose death and resurrection we remember at this season of the year, still lives."

An encouraging report was given by Mrs. T. Jackson on the mission bales sent recently to Korea which included seven large quilts and four crib sized quilts which had been made during the winter.

Mrs. W. Rowland had charge of the study book titled "Our Backyard." "In this so-called Christian country a girl comes asking 'Who Is This Jesus' and others admitted it was their first time to attend a church service. We have so many denominations, yet all are one, in that we worship the same God; but we are not as diligent in sharing our Christ as we should be. Surveys show that the Pentecostal church is the fastest growing denomination. There are 14,000 missionaries working in foreign fields and it was on the Solomon Islands which had become Christian that seven air force men from America, stationed there, were brought to Christ. If Christ is our Saviour, we must tell others."

The hostess served lunch and a social hour was enjoyed.

Widmark Leaves Studio, Tries Free-Lancing

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Today Richard Widmark checks out of his contract at 20th Century-Fox to try his wings as a free-lance actor.

Widmark leaves on somewhat of a sour note, but he isn't bitter about it. His last picture at the studio was "Broken Lance," and he expects to get fourth billing in it, under Spencer Tracy, Jean Peters and Robert Wagner. He commented:

"I suppose I could raise a big fuss about the role and the billing, but what good would it do me? It doesn't mean that much.

"It just seems kind of silly to me for a studio to spend seven years in building up a name, and then toss it away in the last picture."

Dick should worry. Since the word got around that he wasn't signing again at the studio, he has been up to his elbows in scripts. The first one he has chosen is "A Prize of Gold" for an independent company. He'll transport his family to England, and the film will be made there and in Germany. He has no immediate plans after that.

KNOWN AS TOUGH GUY

"But I intend to concentrate on movies for the next two years," he remarked. "I am going to try for good scripts, and if I can get a couple of really good pictures behind me, then I'll perhaps go back to the stage. The important thing is to consolidate my position in pictures. I like making movies."

"The audiences expect to see me as a rough-tough guy," he observed. "When I play a nice fellow, they're a little disappointed; they don't know what to make of it.

"Whatever I do will have the element of toughness they expect. But I don't intend to continue being the guy who says 'Follow me, men.' And I certainly don't intend to go back to giggling killers."

It was just such a part that first brought him fame in "Kiss of Death." He pushed an old lady to her death by toppling her wheelchair down a flight of stairs.

SONS RELEASED — Mrs. Valeriu C. Georgescu hugs her two sons, Constantin, 19, left, and Peter, 15, a few moments after they arrived in New York. The two youths were released from Red Romania, where they had been held as hostages since 1947.

Express Highway Tolls Announced

ALBANY, N.Y. (CP)—Travel by passenger automobile on most of the New York State Thruway—427-mile express highway between Buffalo and New York City—will cost 1¼ cents a mile, it was announced Friday.

The entire highway is scheduled to be opened by mid-1955 although the 393 miles between Buffalo and Suffern, N.Y. is expected to be completed this year.

The 1¼-cent-a-mile charge applies to the major section of the highway between Buffalo and the Hudson river crossing near Nyack, N.Y. A flat $5 will be charged for a full trip between Buffalo and Nyack.

East of Nyack, drivers will be charged a separate toll, probably 50 cents, to cross a bridge spanning the Hudson, and a third fee, not yet fixed, for travel between the bridge and Yonkers, just north of New York City.

Several short sections, the approaches to Buffalo and New York City and to the Hudson river bridge, will be toll free.

Good Friday Service Held At Norwood

NORWOOD (ENS)—A Good Friday service was held in Norwood Baptist church at 8 p.m.

The ministers of the various churches were present. The Rev. A. E. Toombs of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Campbellford gave the sermon.

The opening prayer was given by the Rev. T. M. Webb of Norwood Baptist church. Mrs. Roy Nevins was at the piano. Mr. Webb welcomed those attending the service.

A quartet, made up of Messrs. Webb, J. Dallman, R. V. Dallman and Keith Thompson sang. Miss Ellis of Norwood Pentecostal Assembly read the scripture. A prayer was given by the Rev. H. K. Wright of Norwood United church.

Mr. Toombs dealt with the sufferings of Christ, especially with his last words from the cross.

Mr. Toombs included in his sermon many illustrations concerning the time he spent as a missionary in India.

Mr. Toombs gave the closing prayer. The benediction was pronounced by Mr. Webb.

Suspended Sentence

A two-year suspended sentence with one year on probation, was given Roland Dore of Peterborough, when he appeared before Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, today. Dore had previously been convicted of the theft of $10 in cash, some cigarettes and a fountain pen from a downtown store

Metal Units Simplify Construction

Outdoor barbecue season is upon us again, but it's caught a lot of us with our fireplaces down. We've let another year slip by without fixing up a backyard spot for playing chef.

There are as many ways to build permanent outdoor fireplaces as there are places to erect them, but one of the simplest and soundest types of construction calls for building in prebuilt metal fireplace units. They combine metal grills, doors, grates and ashpits in single, integral units.

They form a framework for the masonry and often save construction time and labor. Outer walls may be of brick or stone.

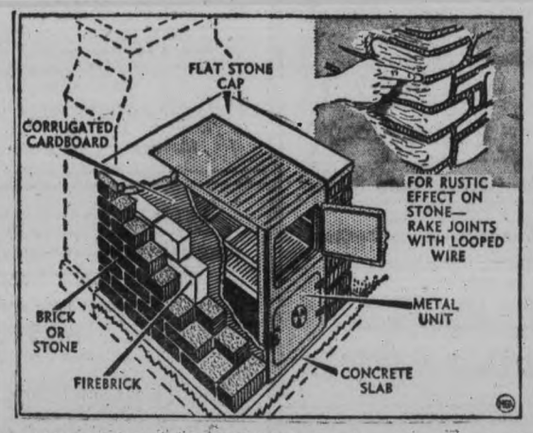
With a concrete slab for a base already in place, here's one way a barbecue fireplace is built, using a ready-built metal unit:

The unit is spotted on the slab (which should be six to eight inches thick, two thirds below grade and one third above). Masonry work begins with firebrick for inner walls, adjacent to sides and back of metal unit.

Firebrick is set on edge to conserve space and brick, and is lightly buttered with fire-clay mortar for 1/16-inch joints. The firewall beneath the level of the lowest grate may be of common brick, but firebrick around the grate area is advisable for it prolongs the life of the structure.

It is necessary to make allowance for expansion and contraction of metal parts in the fireplace. To do this, corrugated cardboard sheets are placed against the sides and back of the metal unit before firebrick is laid. When the first fire is lighted, the cardboard burns away, leaving a space for expansion between firebrick and metal.

When the firewall is finished, an outer wall of stone or brick is started. As the wall progresses, the joint it makes with the inner wall is buttered lightly with fire-clay mortar.



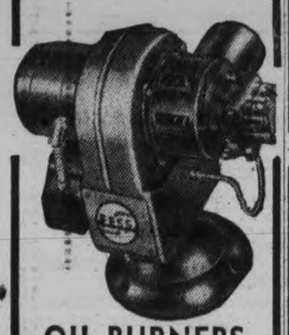
Joints should be treated before the mortar sets. For rustic effect on stone work, joints are raked with a stiff piece of wire bent into a loop. Brick joints can be made flush — by whisking away excess mortar with a trowel—or tooled into a concave shape with a piece of pipe.

A flat stone cap is cemented to the top of the walls to keep moisture from seeping down between inner and outer walls, where it might freeze and crack the masonry.

A chimney is unnecessary unless the fireplace is to burn wood or coal, which, of course, produce a lot of smoke. No chimney is needed on charcoal-burning fireplaces.

Chimney top should be fairly high, at least at eye level, and taller if high shrubbery or buildings are nearby. Chimney should belined with firebrick. Sometimes a damper is included to afford better control of the draft for broiling.

Finally, a stone cap is cemented around the flue top.



AN OUTDOOR BARBECUE fireplace can be simply built, with a minimum of bricklaying involved, using ready-built metal units.

Quebec Author's New Book Stirs Up Interest As Far As Paris

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec's steadily growing French-language literature is the subject of a new book that has stirred up interest as far away as Paris.

Writing by French-speaking Canadians 25 years ago was limited to a restricted provincial audience but in the last 10 years some Quebec writers have had books published in the main literary capitals of the world, London, Paris, New York, as well as in Toronto, Montreal and Quebec.

Even so, Quebec City writers informally expressed amazement when the influential Paris newspaper Le Monde devoted half a column in its literary pages to "Le Roman Canadien Francais" (the French-Canadian novel), a book that attempts to put some order in the voluminous but pell-mell production of the last 10 years in Quebec.

WIDER APPEAL

The author is Dostaler O'Leary, French-speaking Montreal newspaper critic and political reporter, who finds the main trend among Quebec authors is that they are shedding a regional outlook and reaching out into what he calls "l'universel."

He means that authors like Roger Lemelin, Gabrielle Roy, Germaine Guevremont, Andre Giroux, are writing books with a universal appeal although their action is located in this province.

In a brief historical analysis of literary production in Quebec from 1763 Mr. O'Leary says French Canada was too preoccupied with political matters to give any attention to literary effort. Early years produced historians, journalists and politicians.

When first novels were written they were about the land, the virtue of Quebec traditions. "All vision of the future," was banned, he says.

"This ban on any other conception of the novel and a careful filtering of foreign influences enable us to explain, without justifying it, an infatuation for the peasant novel which was to be, for so long, the sole manifestation of the French novel in Canada. . ."

A NEW EPOCH

Mr. O'Leary says that little more than 10 years ago French-speaking Canadian writers broke from past traditions to write about contemporary life in Quebec, Gabrielle Roy with her sensational "The Tin Flute", Roger Lemelin with his exotic "The Town Below" and a half dozen other writers who sold their books by the thousands in Quebec bookshops. The coming of these writers marked an epoch for French Canada.

"Le Roman Canadien Francais" also discusses the works of many authors whose names are unknown outside Quebec province but whose novels are sure-fire sellers here.

Quebec critics hailed the new book as a landmark since for the first time some classification of the literary production in the province has been made.

The author was the first to be surprised at the attention given publication of his book. Letters have come from Canadian and United States universities advising him that his essay will serve in courses on Canadian writing.

New Concept Of Hospital Design To Effect 35 Per Cent Saving

TORONTO (CP)—A new concept of hospital design, expected to effect a saving of 25 to 35 per cent in initial capital and operating costs, has been evolved by the Ontario government.

It calls for a one- or two-floor central unit in which are concentrated all main hospital facilities and a ward for medical, surgical, and maternity cases. The design, which breaks away from the trend to multi-storey buildings, will be incorporated in the new Queensway Hospital to be built on the western outskirts of Toronto this fall.

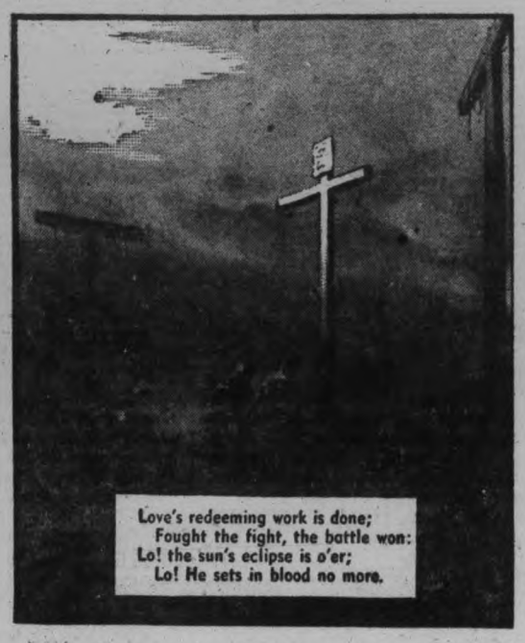
The idea originated from Health Minister McKinnon Phillips' observation of Canadian army methods of treating wounded during the Second World War.

Dr. Phillips believed the centralizing of units would make for the most effective use of equipment, facilities and staff in proposed Ontario hospitals.

He began work on the project in 1951 and, after two years research, plans for the hospital of tomorrow were produced. Officials of the proposed Queensway Hospital decided to change original plans to conform with the new hospital design.

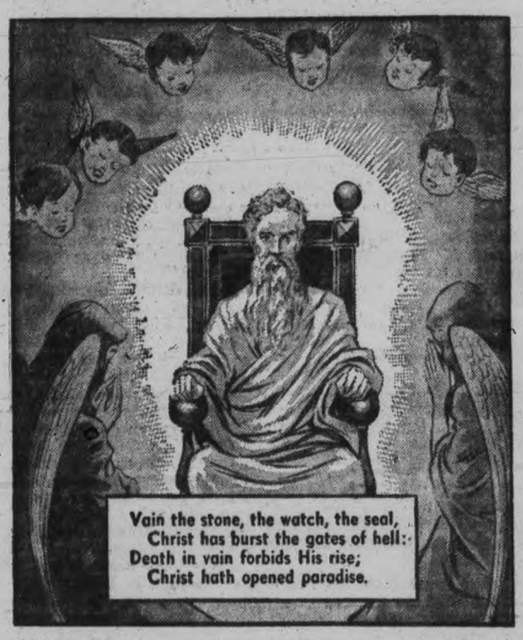
The expected result is a substantial increase in the number of beds for the same amount of money. Branching out from main units are low-cost one-storey wings in which the main bed wards are located producing savings in construction and operating.

Each wig, with n basements, Each wing, with no basements, the Queensway Hospital plans call for a structure of two floors with a maternity ward on the second floor. Plans also permit the later addition of two floors or four or five one-storey wings.

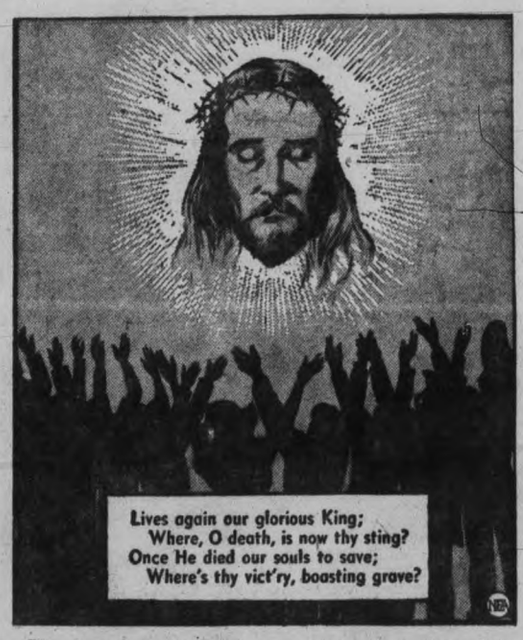


"Christ The Lord Is Risen Today"

18th Century Hymn Is Favorite At Easter Season



This grand, 215-year-old hymn is as popular at Easter as "Silent Night" and "Hark the Herald Angels Sing" are for Christmas. It was written by Rev. Charles Wesley in 1739. Wesley did not write the music. Someone, possibly Martin Madan, set the words to a tune composed by J. Worgan in 1708. To fill in extra measures, he added the Hebrew ejaculation "Hallelujah!" at the end of every line. Today we sing many verses, but Wesley is thought to have written only four, the others being added after Wesley's death in 1788. The hymn reflects incidents of hte Crucifixion and the Resurrection, mounting from verse to verse to a triumphant climax. Beneath the illustrations are the generally accepted interpretations of Wesley's poetic lines.



This verse rejoices in a risen Christ. His followers were stunned by His death. The Resurrection returned His presence to the mvividly and renewed their faith in His leadership.

In the Resurrection, the redeeming love of God has accomplished its work. Eclipse of the sun, symbol of temporary defeat, is banished in the effulgence of His Glory.

Neither Pilate's attempts to prevent the moving of Christ's body nor even the traditional descent into hell could prevent the opening of the Kingdom of Heaven to all believers.

The hymn's exultant phrases rejoice in a living King. There is the promise, first voiced by Paul, that all followers of Christ will conquer death, as did their Master.

A Cleric Comments

Easter And The Resurrection

This story has been told before. For there was a traveller once who visited Jerusalem, and made his way among the tabernacles which commemorate the events of Holy Week. He found that the paths to the shrines of the Last Super, Gethsemane, the Trial, and the Crucifixion were well-marked, and worn deep with the feet of many pilgrims.

But up on the hill was a less well-defined path to the little chapel of the Resurrection. Travellers weary with the walk from one monument to another, were quite able for the last steep climb up the hill. Those who had gone u, found that the view was wonderful.

So it is with us! The events of the passion of our Lord are well-remembered and at least partly understood. Men find it harder to go on through and understand the Resurrection. Those who do, find the view is good, that the Christian faith is not complete until the Resurrection becomes central to it. Men have always found it easier to believe in the trial with all its mockery, and the crucifixion with all its tragedy, than in the Resurrection with all its glory. That was true even of the disciples who couldn't quite believe at first. One of them had to feel with his hands as well as see with his eyes, before he could believe what he knew in his heart.

They had trouble with that in the early days of the church. To some, the teaching of Jesus was difficult enough. To many, the cross was an offense or stumbling-block to the faith, but to a great many the teaching of the resurrection was just impossible to accept. Paul, writing to the Corinthians, was definite enough: "If Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain . . ." and again, "If in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most miserable. . . ."

NOT CHRISTIANITY

There was a time when I would argue that the Christian life is still the best life possible, still quite worthwhile, even if there were no resurrection and no afterlife. I still believe that, but that is not Christianity. Make no mistake, there may be a fine philosophy, a fine ethical religion, but the religious faith which leaves out the resurrection of Jesus Christ and the resurrection of those who believe and follow Him, is not the Christian religion.

There are several things which it means, to those who follow after. It means that because Christ rose He is still alive, as the living Head of the church. Every Sunday we commemorate the day of His Resurrection. The hymns which will be sung on Easter Sunday morning are hymns which can and perhaps should be sung every Sunday morning. It was because there was a Pentecost, and without the Resurrection there would have been no early church and no modern church.

Those broken and discouraged people who scattered to their homes following the crucifixion at the time of the Passover returned a few weeks later an excited and a changed people, and in a short time they changed the world. That happened because Christ had risen, He was still alive, He was coming again, and life took on a new perspective because men, too, would rise from the dead.

I heard the Rev. Dr. John Mutch say at a funeral service once, something like this: that in the [illegible] character reflect what he believes about the life beyond.

NEW PERSPECTIVE

I don't think that he meant by that, that a religious man is going to be moral and honest because he is afraid of what will happen to his soul if he isn't; or that a man is going to be upright and clean, because he hopes for a reward for it. But rather that a man believes that there is going to be personal survival after death he sees life in an entirely new perspective. If he sees that his life, faith and conduct have eternal significance, he is going to see that his decisions and choices are very important.

The Saducees in Jesus' day were arrogant and sometimes cruel. Why? The Saducees did not believe in the resurrection. They were proud and self-sufficient. Their hearts were closed to God's love and revelation, for they believed that this life was enough.

Wherever you find men who cannot walk from the crucifixion on to the resurrection, and find men who think that this life if it, you find them living without sufficient humility, and their characters and attitudes reflect it. Where you find men, confused, troubled, even slightly agnostic though they may be, obviously peering through a glass darkly, but rejoicing in the resurrection, you will find men who have humility in their faith. And with them God is able to work to accomplish His purposes, and give His salvation.

The Resurrection is a great mystery, as mysterious as life and love. And the mysteries of religion are apprehended through faith. Take away all the mystery and the faith becomes poorer, and the glory of Easter Sunday is dimmed. Easter without the Resurrection would be like a marriage without love or a new baby born dead. Easter with the Resurrection is the way God answers the hopes and dreams and aspirations of his children.

The Power Of His Resurrection

By REVEREND W. A. CAMERON BA, LLD, DD
Moderator General Assembly, Presbyterian Church in Canada

The Apostle Paul never doubted the fact of the resurrection. He was a scholar who had been taught [illegible] evidence. Yet the fact of the resurrection was at the heart of all we know, Paul had never conversed with Jesus until that day when he met Him face to face on the Damascus road. Yet he counted that appearance as real as any that had been made to other disciples.

If you remove from the message of Paul and other Christian believers, the fact and implications of the resurrection, you take away the very foundation of their message. Indeed the Christian church was built around that great central fact: "He is Risen."

INFLUENCE OF THE FACT

And Paul strove to learn more than he had yet known of the power of His resurrection. That does not refer to the power by which He rose. He is not discussing that fact. He accepts the evidence that is offered in support of that as sufficient and is seeking to appreciate its effect. What he would experience in a larger and fuller way, is the influence of the fact that Jesus did rise. And in several ways that power is seen.

1—As an evidence of the truth of the claims of Jesus.

It is scarcely surprising that the religious leaders of His day were shocked, beyond measure, at some of the claims He made. Those claims were so stupendous that it is little wonder that they accused him of blasphemy. From of Nazareth, He said, "This day is the Scripture fulfilled in your ears" . . . Right to the end, He made claims for Himself which no one else thought of doing. Those who knew Him best, these men who were His constant companions, never once seriously disputed His claims. That is the more remarkable because their ideals of the Messiah, when they joined His company, were crude and materialistic.

His death seemed to show that He was claiming too much. The statement of the disciple on the way to Emmaus indicate this, "We trusted it had been he which should have redeemed Israel". We hoped, but not now. His death blasted their hopes, though not their love for Him.

GREAT TRUTH EXEMPLIFIED

The resurrection put God's seal upon His claims. There is exemplified the great truth, that death has no power to hold a life of such quality as the life of Jesus. Many times the words of a much-loved teacher come back to me. He said: "Who is there among us to limit the power of a life like Christ's over which sin never gained the mastery? The resurrection was a most important factor in changing the whole attitude of the followers of Christ. It had power to do that, to change weak, fearful, bewildered and defeated men, to brave conquering witnesses, with the resurrection of Christ at the heart of their message.

II—In sustaining His servants amid life's burdens.

The memory of our beloved dead means much and we are often helped by that memory. For many there are, with the memory of those whom they have loved and lost before them, who are greatly inspired thereby to be true to the highest and best as they see it. But in a world in which there are so many baffling problems, it means much if he have a living friend with whom we can take counsel. The resurrection means we have such a friend. We have not only the memory of His life, but the warmth of His friendship. And that power through which He helped men and women as He walked among them, and which none other has ever attained, has not been lessened or destroyed by death. It is a living power which is available for us, and through which we may be upheld and guided as we go our way.

III—In making and renewing lives.

If we are thoughtful people in any degree, we must regret the fact that in our Christian lives we seem to be making such slow progress toward higher ground. Our vision, and weaken our wills, and generally lower our power of resistance, that we seem to be making very slow progress upward.

ON HIGHER GROUND

If we are making a difficult ascent of a mountain, it means much if there is someone above us to give us a helping hand when the going is hard. Perhaps no one in any day was a more daring climber than Paul, "reaching forth unto those things which are before—Straining forward" (RSV). He was daily assaying new heights of endeavour. It meant much to him to know that Christ was standing on higher ground, reaching down His stron Hand to Him.

To the one today before whom sin stands as a barrier impossible to overcome, who is conscious of having failed many times to win through temptation, there comes a message of hope. Christ lives and He stretches forth a helping hand to lift you out of the quicksand of sin and to place you on solid ground.

There is assurance too for those who have taken Christ as Master but are making slow progress toward Christ-likeness. He who transformed and revitalized the lives of those men who were used in founding the Christian faith is the same who stands waiting to supply our weakness with His strength. What He was, that He is, the Strong Son of God, ready at all times to give of His grace to those who seek it.

Easter Morning Prayer

O thou Eternal Spirit, who art the God, not of the dead but of the living. By Thy power Thou didst bring from the dead our Lord Jesus Christ, and hast assured us, that though we too must walk through the Valley of the Shadow, Death shall not have dominion over us.

From the darkness of the tomb, Thou dost bring us into the glorious light of the Easter morning. As the Risen Christ was revealed first to her who waited in the early morning hour in the garden, so may we, who awake early to praise Thy great and holy name, and to bring our gifts of thanksgiving, know that we have shared in the victory of our Lord over Death. May we find that joy which Thou dost promise to those who seek Thee, though ever so haltingly.

May the power of the Risen Christ be revealed to us anew, and in a larger way than we have yet known. From this day of renewal may we go on to reveal to others of that power through which the sin which dims our vision and weakens our wills, may be overcome. May we not forget the obligation which has come to us of being witnesses in this day and amid the circumstances which surround us, to the power of the Strong Son of God, to save all who will come to Him, and to make of them a new creation.

In His Name we pray. Amen.

New Brass Band Formed Among Young Church People

The Pentecostal church band, directed by bandmaster Eldon M. Johnston of Lakefield, made its first public appearance at the Dublin St., church before the evening services on Good Friday.

The 32-piece band was first organized last April from members of the Sunday school and Young People's group, and at that time many of them were unable to read music. The bandsmen range from 12 years up, but under Mr. Johnston's guidance have developed into a well-knit group.

Mr. Johnston is a member of the Canadian Bandmaster's Association; editor of the association's magazine; member of the board of directors; and, the youngest life member of the organization. He received this life membership from Martin Boundy, director of the famous London Police Boy's band.

WON PRIZES

In Toronto, Mr. Johnston has won recognition as a bandmaster and musicain. During his 10 years as bandmaster of the Evangle Temple brass band, it won silver and bronze medals at the Waterloo international band festival, and placed second in the CNE competitions, twice. Mr. Johnston studied at the Hamburg Conservatory of Music in Toronto.

The band will play every Sunday from 6:30 to 7:00 p.m., in the church auditorium. The first engagement away from Peterborough will be at a youth rally in Marmora, Easter Monday evening. It will also play at the Cobourg lakeshore camp this summer.

Nothing Novel Eggs, Finery Easter Festival

There's nothing new under the sun, even in Easter celebrations Dr. Neil Patterson of Mark St. United Church told the Kiwanis club Thursday.

Way back in the fourth century a bishop of Cappadocia wrote that citizens were closing shops and taverns and decking themselves in "their finest raiment." They were celebrating the most important event in Christian history, together with some of the pagan trappings which long have surrounded Easter.

Origin of the word is buried in Anglo-Saxon history, said Dr. Patterson. The etymology of the word signifies a rising, and refers to the Saxon goddess of spring.

There is an analogy between the burgeoning of nature in spring and the Christian concept of Easter, said the speaker. Just as the spring foretells new life in nature, so does the crucifixion symbolize a chance for men to find new spiritual directions.

PIANOS AND EASTER

Suppose, said Dr. Patterson, someone came in and smashed the Empress hotel piano. Beautiful music would be lost and Kiwanians would be temporarily desolated. But a new piano would soon be installed, perhaps playing better music than before. Immortality, said the speaker, is "something like that."

Immortality is a concept coming to almost all religions said Dr. Patterson. "All of us have some spiritual aspirations, and we are all glad that we do not pass out into annihilation."

Easter does not equate chronologically with the death of Christ, but it is close enough to establish the mood of resurrection, said Dr. Patterson. The date was set at the Council of Nicea in 326 as the first Sunday after the first full moon after the vernal equinox. This roughly parallels the Jewish passover.

There is an analogy in Christian concepts of Easter with the Jewish passover, the speaker continued. Just as Jews remembered the deliverance of Israelities out of Egypt, so do Christians remember the deliverance, or redemption, of man from his sin.

Returning to the frivolous aspects of the great celebration, Dr. Patterson recalled that Easter eggs are not a new development, but date back to the earliest mists of antiquity. Legend has it that a great egg was dropped from heaven to the banks of the Euphrates, and from this egg hatched Venus, or one of her counterparts. This symbolizes the spirit of beautiful rebirth at the Easter season.

References to immortality are found throughout both the old and new testaments, and are, said the speaker, among the most stirring in Scripture. He referred particularly to the query of Jobe: "If a man dies, will he live again" and the answers contained in the Gospels. Some of the familiar answers are Christ's words "I am the resurrection and the life" and, again, "In my father's house are many mansions."

Quoting from the poem, "Death" by William C. Doane, Dr. Patterson pointed out that man is generally stupid and selfish when he thinks about death. Human death, said the speaker, should be welcomed because it represents the beginning of a life "more beautiful, joyful and real than any we know here."

Dr. Patterson, a Kiwanian and a postgraduate of the University of Chicago, was introduced by Jack Daley. He was thanked by Jack Haldimand.

Allow Newspaper Oppose TV Station

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Communications Commission ruled Thursday that a newspaper may oppose a television station application on grounds that the station would be its competitor for advertising and cause "economic injury" to it.

The commission voted 4 to 3 to permit the Clarksburg Publishing Co., publisher of the Exponent and Telegram at Clarksburg, W Va., to become "an interested party" in consideration by television service for that city.

In announcing its decision, the commission postponed effectiveness of a Channel 12 television construction permit for the Ohio Valley Broadcasting Co., and said a hearing would be ordered. A date for the hearing was not set.

Dull Week of Trading On Toronto Stock Market

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Spring, Easter and a new baseball season brought about a slow, dull week of stock market trading.

Toronto and Montreal markets moved irregularly in light trading, while New York traders moved slowly into higher ground with scattered gains.

In Toronto, industrials were stronger, with papers and refining oils in the lead. Crown Zellerbach was up $4 to lead the papers and several refining oils showed gains. Utilities and foods were up, but liquors slipped as profit-taking followed their late-March rise.

FORD FEATURE

Ford A was the market feature adding $2.12½ in up-and-down trading. American Buying (Ford of Detroit stock is all held by the Ford Foundation, hence Ford of Canada is the only stock on the market), rumors of a stock split, and increased sales reports were behind the rise.

International Petroleum was the sole large refining oil gainer, up $1.50 on rumors that Standard Oil is considering making a stock-buying offer.

Base metals were higher with Steep Rock, Mackeno and Mondamar strong and active. Falconbridge was down.

Golds were slightly stronger but gains were scattered. Uraniums and Bathurst-area base metals were steady. In western oils profit-taking held the group lower.

The Friday-to-Friday comparisons showed industrials up .144 at 335.50, golds up 1.26 at 75.15, base metals up .01 at 151.41 and western oils down .60 at 100.01.

Montreal trading was slow. Ford was a strong early-week feature with a $6.25 gain Monday and a $2 rise Tuesday. Steels and banks were leaders in a mild early advance, then slipped. Papers and utilities dominated the last two sessions with small gains. Mines traded quietly all week down slightly toward the close.

Western oils firmed.

The week's comparison showed banks down 15 at 38.00, utilities up 2.2 at 103.5, industrials up 2.1 at 196.4, combined up 2.1 at 165.4, papers up 6.86 at 872.79 and golds up 5.34 at 59.72.

New York's opening was a little lower although uraniums, copper and farm implements added slightly. Railroads slipped. Late oils and steels strength dominated the closing session as tobaccos eased slightly. Last week they added a little on reports that the lung cancer scare was subsiding. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up $1.50 at $120.

WRONG SATURDAY

Barbershop quartette singers will be stretching their vocal cords, but not today. The big day for the harmonizers is next Saturday at the PCVS auditorium.

BUST PRESENTED

The women's Art Association has presented the Peterborough Civic Hospital with a plaster figure of Miss Charlotte Nicholls, a founder of the hospital. Mrs. W. T. Fanjoy acted on behalf of the board in accepting this gift. The figure was modelled by sculptress Kathleen Wallis.

MAYOR'S BIRTHDAY

The spirit was willing but the larnyxes were weak as members of the hospital board hoarsely intoned the Happy Birthday song to Mayor Norman Graham Thursday. Announcement was made by board chairman and ex-mayor M. J. Swanston who led the feeble but enthusiastic chorus.

WATER SAFETY COURSE

More than 40 swimmers were present at the YWCA today, attending the opening classes of the three day Red Cross water safety instructor course being conducted by Graham Warren of Toronto. Monday and Tuesday the group sessions will be held at the YMCA. A leader's course is also being given for swimmers under 16.

CONCILIATION BOARD

A three-man conciliation board will attempt to settle wage and hour differences between the Peterborough Civic hospital and its non-medical employees. Chairman of the board is Judge D. E. Lewis of Brockville. Management nominee is C. B. C. Scott, personnel manager of the Massey-Harris Co. Henry G. Rhodes of Toronto will represent the union.

Civic To Need New Wing In 5 Years

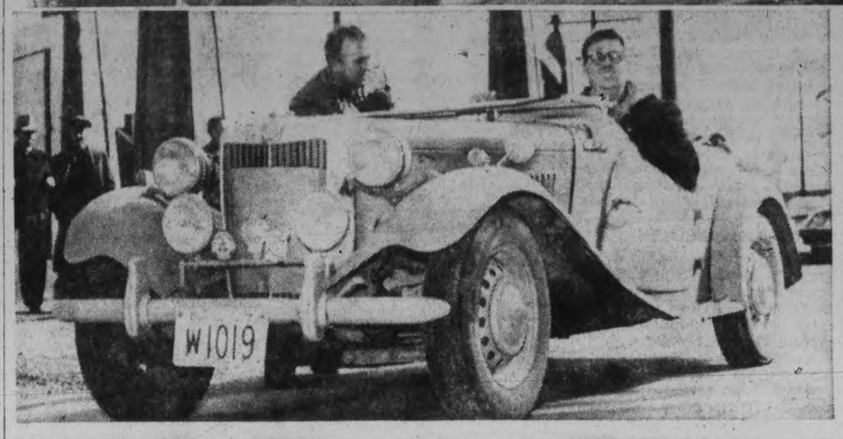
Board Chairman Says Figures Predict Future

A new wing for the Peterborough Civic Hospital will be necessary within the next five years, chairman M. J. Swanston told the board of governors Thursday.

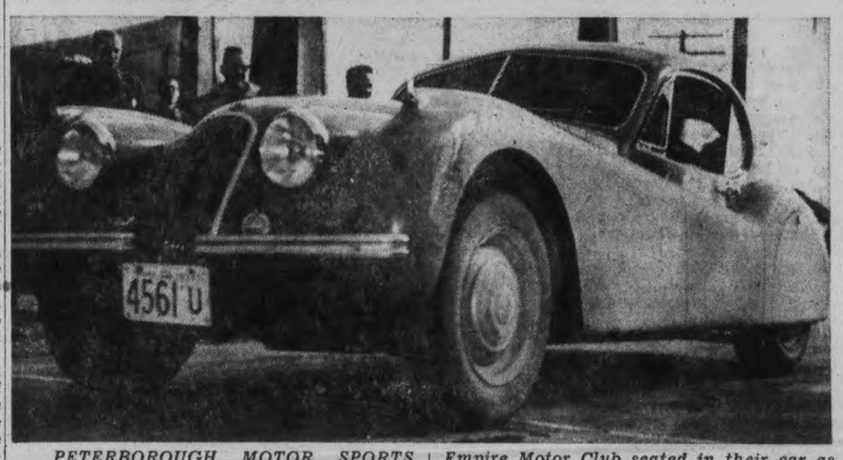
Mr. Swanston was commenting on the superintendent's monthly report of hospital statistics which shows that there were 50 patients for whom no suitable accommodation could be provided at the Civic. This is the same as the February figure, but is nearly twice as high as the 1953 monthly average of 29.

And even this figure is misleading, chairman of the medical staff Dr. J. R. E. Morgan pointed out. He said that there might be 100 or more in this classification, but that doctors would "not knock themselves out" looking for accommodation when they knew none could be found.

There were no significant changes in hospital statistics this month, as compared with February totals. A total of 744 patients, including 75 new born, was treated as compared with 713 last month. The number of births remained constant. Patients admitted during the month numbered 458 and the daily average number of patients in hospital was 205.25, down 10.33. There were 13 deaths.



The communicable disease division showed the largest percentage drop, down 18 from 27. The operative end, however, showed an increase from 261 to 290, including 91 major operations and 95 transfusions.



Nursing service statistics remained relatively constant. The total number of bedside nursing hours was 26,008.5, working out to 4.09 nursing hours per patient per day provided by all classes of nurses and students.

There were 827 x-rays in March, equal to the 1953 average of 827.8. Laboratory examinations numbered 3,066, down 320 from 1953 averages. There were also 876 physiotherapy treatments and 64 occupational therapy visits.

Hospital balance sheets showed total operating expenditures of $92,575.38. Expenditures for the first three months of 1954 were $271,976.42, or about $5,600 above budget figures. Accounts receivable shows a March 31 balance of $156,935.87.

Sports Car Drivers Slosh Through Rain, Snow In Rally

"Lousy". This was the unanimous verdict on the weather given by more than 40 intrepid souls who participated in a 450-mile jaunt sponsored by the Peterborough Motor Sports Club.

The motorists, two to a car, pushed, cajoled and drove their cars, ranging from two Austin-Healys to a half-ton pickup truck over a course which made even the stoutest shudder. Route was [illegible] Lock, Marmora, Picton, Belleville, Bancroft, Apsley, Lindsay, Cobourg and intermediate points.

"The water was 16 inches deep across the road at one point and crepeing in through the doors," said Albert Roberts of the Hamilton Sports Car club. "It was raining until four this morning, and driving was terrible most of the way."

Mr. Roberts was one of the few of the 21 entrants driving an American model car. These can probably bull through some rugged stretches of road better than the English makes, but lose their advantage in manouverability tests.

The 450-mile tour, which began at 8 Friday evening and lasted more than 12 hours, is but one phase of the contest. Motorists also had to put their cars through rigid tests designed to show manoeuverability, braking distances and rate of pick-up.

WINNERS

When results were tallied this afternoon W. J. Harding of the British Empire Motor Club of Toronto, driving an MG emerged winner of the competition and of his light-car class. The heavier car class was won by Ross Lawrence of the Peterborough Motor Sports Club, driving a Dodge.

Other high-ranking Peterborough contestants included Ray Titterington, second in the heavy class with a Jaguar and Dr. H. M. Yule, whose MG placed fourth in the light class. Fred Jones of Peterborough placed fifth in the heavy class, driving a half-ton Mercury truck.

Full list of contestants in order of finishing follows:

Heavy cars: Ross Lawrence, Peterborough Motor Sports Club, Dodge; Ray Titterington, PMSC, Jaguar; William Kaye, Austin-Healey; George Scully, BEMC, Austin-Healey; Albert I. Roberts, Hamilton Sports Car Club, Chevrolet.

Light cars: W. J. Harding, BEMC, MG; D. E. Albertson, BEMC, Austin; J. Wonnacutt, BEMC, MG; Dr. H. M. Yule, PMSC, MG; Doug Ready, BEMC, MG; Norm White, PMSC, Austin; D. Hambly, Oshawa Sports Car Club, MG; Larry Langton, Hamilton, Volkswagen; J. McNamee, St. Catharines, Austin; K. G. Hall, BEMC, Volkeswagen; L. Alderton, BEMC, Morris-Oxford.

Why Is Contract For Bread Given To 1 Company?

Why should one firm (Canada Bread Co.) have a virtual monopoly on bread to the Peterborough Civic hospital.

Because the hospital has "never deviated from the policy" of awarding all contracts to the lowest bidder, finance chaiman T. T. Rodger replied. The question was raised by mayor Norman Graham at a hospital board meeting Thursday.

Bread contracts are awarded on a month-to-month basis. Superintendent John Hornal reported that Canada Bread was almost invariably the lowest bidder. He said that the only time in recent months when a contract was awarded to another firm was when "Canada Bread apparently forgot to submit a tender."

The difference between Canada Bread tenders and those of an unspecified local concern were only an eighth of a cent a loaf, said the mayor. He felt this was a potent argument for keeping bread contracts in the city.

GET BENEFITS

The mayor wondered why contracts should be awarded to out-of-town firms when they could be awarded in Peterborough at approximately the same cost. He said that giving more business to Peterborough concerns would benefit all taxpayers and hence, by indirection, the Civic, since its operations are largely subsidized by the city.

"When you have a policy you either stick to it or you don't," declared Mr. Rodger. He said that "up to this evening" (Thursday) no deviations had been made.

Earlier property chairman Doug Miller submitted a report recommending for $1,343.41 worth of hospital equipment. One of the contracts, for a filing cabinet, was awarded to the S. J. Black Company, a local concern which submitted a tender $3 higher than that of the Office Specialty Manufacturing Co.

The latter firm was, however, awarded the major share of the contracts amounting to $798.71. The Black firm was also given a [illegible] writers, some $22 above original estimates made by the board.

Returning to the contentious bread question, chairman M. J. Swanston suggested that the only way local firms could beat competition from Canada Bread would be to form a bargaining co-operative. He suggested the firms could pool their estimates into one firm price, the contracts then alternating from dealer to dealer.

Zone Bylaw Ready For People, Council To Study, Make Law

A general impression that Peterborough's new zoning bylaw is final and irrevocable ought to be dispelled, planning consultant Gordon Culham told the Examiner today. Actually, until the bylaw is passed, both the plan and the regulations may be changed, he said.

Mr. Culham this week completed the draft of the proposed bylaw which will be advertised in The Examiner on Tuesday. A detailed and comprehensive document, the bylaw will fill four complete pages of the newspaper.

Following the advertisement, a series of public hearings will be held to provide ratepayers with the opportunity of studying the proposals and registering their objections. Both the plan and the regulations may then be changed accordingly.

"Modern zoning is a method of correcting the ruthless practice of 'change without notice' and substituting for it 'change according to a policy and a plan,'" Mr. Culham emphasized. "The sudden loss of property value from the haphazard scattering of stores among residences or factories represents an unnecessary total amount of damage to property values, which has become a serious burden for many cities."

Although zoning may appear to establish boundaries within which the use of property is clearly defined, these boundaries are actually not rigid, Mr. Culham said.

NEED REVISIONS

No zoning plan should apply for more than 15 years. At the end of this period, it should be thoroughly revised and brought up to date, he recommended. Zoning is a process of directing growth along logical lines and according to an overall policy which represents the particular needs of a city.

It is only natural, with zoning such a recent development in Canada, that there should be some fear of new and perhaps arbitrary rulings, he said. But there are certain inalienable rights to property which remain unchanged.

For example, any owner has the right to continue undisturbed the use to which he is at present putting his property, such as a store in a residential zone. Only when he attempts to expand, on his own lot or on adjacent property, would his rights be questioned, and then only to ensure that adjacent property owners were fully considered.

Again, if a lot is smaller than required by the new bylaw, the owner must have the right to continue to use it after the bylaw is passed.

Finally, any aggrieved property owner, may be heard by the Ontario municipal board, an impartial body, and have his case decided free of the influence of local pressures.

PROTECT OWNER

But Mr. Culham stressed that ZONING BYLAW

Cut Pollution Little Lake, Otonabee River

The board of health are taking steps to eliminate pollution in the Otonabee river and Little Lake.

They are going to ask the city council to extend the sewer system in the north end of the city, near the river, and they are also going to ask that sanitary sewer connections be made to riverside premises.

Dr. J. P. Wells told the board that a great deal of the pollution comes from the riverside properties at the north end of the city. Leaky septic tanks are suspected.

EXTEND SEWER

Dr. Wells suggested that the sewer system should be extended on the west side of the Otonabee river from its present limit on Langton St. to Lot 9 on Water St.

The board are also asking the city council to pass a bylaw, under Section 386 of the Municipal Act, prohibiting and regulating the discharge of gaseous, liquid or solid matter into the sewage system.

Salvation Army Plans Raze Aylmer Property

The Salvation Army has called for tenders to tear down an apartment house it owns at the corner of Aylmer and Simcoe streets. This area, measuring 75x54 feet, will then be landscaped.

Part of the area, Major Horace G. Roberts said today will be used to provide an extension for the Sunday school directly opposite the fire hall. New classrooms will be added, the outside wooden passageway will be removed, and a tower will be erected to complement that of the church building around the corner. Most of the area, however, will be simply landscaped.

The Army had planned to tear the structure down during the war, said Mr. Roberts, but kept it up because of a serious housing shortage. Now there are only two families left in the building, and these will be leaving shortly.

Children's Clinic In Ashburnham

A fifth children's health clinic in the city will be opened next October in Ashburnham.

This clinic, the first in Ashburnham, will be in Mark Street United church. Like the others, it will feature a nursing conference, baby weighing, immunization and other matters relating to the health of the pre-school child.

Approval was given at the board of health meeting Thursday afternoon.

At present there are child health clinics operating at Dixon House, City Hall, All Saints' church and [illegible] clinic will be the first one in Ashburnham.

It will be held in the Sunday school.

Banks Advance House Loans

A principal change this year in the National Housing Act is the inclusion of chartered banks as a source for borrowers to get money to build their homes.

Since March 22, two applications for loans through a Peterborough chartered bank have been approved by the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. Six more applications are in process of being cleared.

Prospective home builders can now apply for a building loan to any of the chartered banks, the Quebec savings banks, as well as the life insurance companies and trust and loan companies that have been in the money-lending business all along. This increases the number of mortgage finance agencies (since the new legislation came into effect on March 22) to 40 in Peterborough. Previously there were only six.

The amount of the loan and final approval on it is the responsibility of the CMHC.

The Bank of Montreal has been most active to date, though some other banks are interested and are even advertising for this mortgage financing business. At least one bank has still not received instructions on policy from the head office.

Editor Says McCarthy Unreliable

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.) was attacked as an unreliable news source and praised as a hard-hitting crusader in a debate Friday before the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

James Kerney, vice - president and editor of the Trenton (N.J.) Times, made the accusation of unreliability and criticized McCarthy for trying, as Kerney said, to "intimidate" a fellow editor.

Defending the Wisconsin senator was Sam Houston Day, managing editor of the New York Journal-American, who said McCarthy should be getting more newspaper support in his efforts to root out Communists from public office and the armed services.

Day argued that tough talk is justified when one is dealing with "fifth amendment Communists" and their defenders.

NOT MUCH EVIDENCE

Kerney said editors necessarily must take into account that McCarthy's charges generally are "unsupported by evidence," and continued:

"When a local news source proves unreliable, we discount it. Shouldn't we do the same thing with a national news source?"

Kerney told the editors that McCarthy had hurled "a direct challenge to the press" in his questioning last year of James Wechsler, editor of the New York Post and a member of the society.

Liberal President Ignores 'Red Threat'

TIMMINS (CP)—A threatening letter, signed "Communist," has been received by Gregory T. Evans, president of the Porcupine Liberal Association, but he's not worrying about it he said today.

The letter came after his address to a communion breakfast of the Holy Name men of the Sacred Heart church last Sunday. In the address Mr. Evans said unions [illegible] themselves of Communists and party followers who are opposed to our way of life."

The letter writer said: "The time has come to serve a hands-off notice to Evans. . . we will not be intimidated by the big lie and smear. Watch your step. We from Communist."

THEY'RE NOT LEGIONNAIRES or Zouaves. They are members of the Lakewood (Ohio) high school band. The group, 87 strong, passed through Peterborough en route from Ottawa to Oshawa Thursday. Surrounding bandmaster Arthur R. Jewell are, reading clockwise, French horn artist Nancy Way, clarinettist and press agent Dick Teare, photographer Lloyd Frueh and drum majorette Sue Haas. The band is organized along military lines, with captains, lieutenants, noncoms and buck privates "serving" under Mr. Jewell.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

87 Young Ohio Musicians Pass Through City On Tour

Eighty-seven young men and women from Lakewood, Ohio, members of the Lakewood high school band, passed through Peterborough Thursday.

Resplendent in orange and blue uniforms, with blue piping, the 87 young musicians were nearing the end of a quick bus tour of the province. Monday they played in St. Catharines, Tuesday they were in Kingston, Wednesday in Ottawa and Thursday in Oshawa.

PETERBOROUGH MISSED

There just wasn't room for Peterborough on the group's itinerary the bandmaster, Arthur R. Jewell told the Examiner. Main reason for the tour was to help the six Ottawa high schools with their instrumental music programs. Visits to the other cities were more in the nature of sidelights.

Nearly one-third of the band membership is female, clarintetist Dick Teare said. Dick, is keeping busy as tour correspondent for the Cleveland Plain Dealer, while Lloyd Frueh, band photographer, is making a pictorial record of the tour.

After Thursday's concert in Oshawa, a return engagement from two years ago, the band moves to Niagara Falls for some [illegible] ter sight-seeing Originally it was planned that the band would do a radio broadcast in Toronto, but this plan has been cancelled.

SEVEN MAJORETTES

Seven drum majorettes are adding some zest to the tour. Usually these girls may be seen in front of the band as they play at Lakewood and district football games.

Other adults with Mr. Jewell and his wife are the school nurse, Mrs. Lava K. Garrett, the principal of the school Mahlon Pavenmire and his wife and teacher Sam Davies and Mrs. Davies.

The band goes on tour every two years or so, said Mr. Jewell. Arrangements are usually made to billet the musicians wherever they stop, thus cutting expenses. Average cost per student on this tour was $11.

Lakewood high school has an enrolment of 1,200. Lakewood, just west of Cleveland has a population of 68,000.

Ft. William Squares Edmonton Series

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Displaying an amazing reversal of form, Fort William Canadiens squared up their western Canada junior hockey final with Edmonton Oil Kings at a game apiece Thursday night.

Shut out 6-0 in the opener of th[illegible] the westerners 2-1 before 5,652 fans.

Fort William went into the lead after more than four minutes of play when Johnny Soychak, making his first appearance of the series, slammed home Don Ciupka's passout from behind the net.

The second period passed scoreless but at the 11:40 mark of the final frame, Vic Marks accounted for what eventually proved to be the payoff tally on a pass from Stan Baluik.

John Bucyk saved Oil Kings from a shutout four minutes later. The teams remain in Fort William, for a third game tonight.

Here And There In Sports

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

CHICAGO (AP) — The Tribune said Friday night that Chicago White Sox are in the process of offering $150,000 to Philadelphia Athletics for outfielder Gus Zernial.

A Tribune baseball writer, Edward Burns, said in a story from Cleveland, that Sox general manager Frank Lane may complete the deal "in time to restore Zernial in left field for the Sox in Detroit Monday and Tuesday."

Burns said Lane is in Boston now to see Athletics officials. The Athletics play the Red Sox there today and the Sox play the Indians in Cleveland.

Zernial, 30, is a former Sox outfielder and was traded to the Athletics in 1951 in a three-way swap with Cleveland Indians.

NEW RULE INVOKED

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP)—A new rule of the U.S. Trotting Association was invoked because of rain Friday night at Yonkers Raceway, and brought about the cancellation of the program.

A three-man committee comprised of presiding judge G. John Warren of Buffalo, and representatives of horsemen and management met to vote on the problem. Heretofore decisions on whether to race in unfavorable weather was the sole prerogative of the management, subject to approval by the state steward.

SEEKS DECISION

TORONTO (CP)—Jimmy Jones, manager of Earl Walls, Canadian heavyweight boxing champion, said Friday he has wired the Edmonton athletic commission and promoter Jack Berry for a decision on a Freddy Beshore-Walls bout.

The fight was scheuled for last March 8 and was postponed when Walls suffered a hand injury. The commission sought to have Walls suspended until he met Beshore and the Canadian Boxing Federation placed a temporary ban on Walls until investigation proved he could not have gone through with the fight at that time.

The suspension was lifted in time for Walls' fight with Tommy Harrison of Los Angeles here last Monday. Walls lost a 10-round decision to Harrison in their first meeting and knocked him out in the first round of the rematch.

EXPECT GOOD YEAR

MONTREAL (CP) — The International Baseball League, with two new clubs, is starting the 1954 season with the zest of a frisky young colt.

Cuban Sugar Kings and Richmond Virginians will make their debut April 20 when the circuit begins its 71st schedule—a 154-game stretch. The IBL boasts of being the first league to have teams in three countries and it will do 75 per cent of its travelling by air.

President Frank Shaughnessy said Thursday that "we expect to have 28,000 at our first game in Havana, which with 1,250,000 of a population is a far bigger city than Springfield, Mass., which used to hold the franchise.

"Last year was good financially, and 1954 should be better."

LONDON (AP)—A Conservative member of Parliament led a bitter attack on the Grand National Steeplechase Thursday and branded the world's toughest horse race as "unfair to good, courageous horses."

Brigadier Frank Medlicott told the House of Commons: "There is a good deal to be said for limiting this particular race to horses of proven quality who have gained at least first or second places in steeplechases of recognized standing."

The victory, third in a row for Ross, gives him the challenge cup for good. He completed the distance in one hour, 26 minutes and five seconds. Curtis Stone of New York was second and Barry Lush of Hamilton third.

Stouffville Downs Oshawa

KINGSTON (CP) — Stouffville Clippers Friday night defeated Oshawa Truckmen 6-3 to avoid elimination from their best-of-seven Ontario Hockey association senior B semi-final series. The Truckmen now lead the series 3-2.

The next game is in Stouffville tonight and the seventh, if necessary, in Kingston Monday night.

Wally Samanski opened the scoring for the Truckmen at 2:26 of the second period, but a tremendous drive from the Clippers gave them four goals within three minutes and a 3-1 lead by the end of the period. Bert Baker counted two inside 36 seconds, Frank Stephenson got two more almost as quickly and then rapped in a third with little more than a minute left in the period.

Gord Haddleton scored again for Stouffville in the third, and Jack Thaler and Bob Holden scored singles for the Truckmen.

Near Arena Riot As Toronto Marlboros Edge TeePees 3-1

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—A wild brawl in which 500 fans both [illegible] 5-3 victory in Toronto, Marlboros Dukes came [illegible] by Toronto Marlboros over St. Catharines TeePees here Friday night.

The win kept alive Marlboros hopes for an Ontario Hockey Association junior A championship and forced a sixth game. St. Catharines, who won the first three games of the best-of-seven final, still lead the series 3-2.

The near riot in the Garden City Arena started with only two seconds of play remaining in the game. The fight started between Marlboro coach Reg Hamilton and a TeePee fan behind the Toronto players' bench. Hamilton apparently was irked when his defenceman Jack Bionda was cross-checked across the face by St. Catharines player Chester Warchol. Warchol didn't receive a penalty. In a matter of seconds it seemed most of the arena was fighting.

WHISTLES USELESS

Referees', whistles, the arena siren and the playing of the national anthem couldn't stop the melee either. When the tempers were finally cooled the remaining face-off was only a formality.

As in the last game when the TeePees a 1-0 lead before the game was 58 seconds old. That was all.

Marlboros went ahead 2-1 before the period ended and adde an insurance marker in the second period before heading for the scoreless third stanza.

Hugh Barlow was the lone TeePee marksman when he scored at 0:57 of the first on passes from Brian and Barry Cullen, Charlie Burns took Mike Nykoluk's pass 10 minutes later to tie the score and Nykoluk made it 2-1 at 16:42. Burns scored his second goal of the night in the middle period to salt the victory away.

TOOK SIX PENALTIES

Marlboros took six of the nine minor penalties handed out but TeePees could do little while the Dukes were short-handed. One of the three St. Catharines penalties, however, was costly to the TeePees, Burns scoring his second marker while Pete Koval was off for tripping.

A victory for the TeePees in Toronto Sunday would vault St. Catharines into the Eastern Canada Memorial Cup finals against Quebec Frontenacs.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM ARMSTRONG, of the fourth line of Cavan township, near Millbrook, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Thursday. Here they are seen at their home, where they have farmed for 42 years. Thursday evening, Millbrook residents feted the couple in the Millbrook community hall. Also present at the gathering were Robert McKnight and Mrs. David Armstrong, who were groomsman and bridesmaid at the Armstrong wedding performed at Cavan in 1904.

400 Honor Cavan Couple Married 50 Years Ago

MILLBROOK (ENS) — On Thursday, April 15, 1904, Revetta McMahon and William Armstrong exchanged marriage vows at the home of the bride's parents in Cavan township. This week, on another Thursday 50 years later, the couple celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong, now semi-retired farmers on the fourth line, Cavan township, were married by the late Rev. J. N. Clarry, BA, assisted by the late Rev. E. Bourram.

Mrs. Armstrong was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McMahon and was raised in the Cavan township with schooling at the Marsh School.

Mr. Armstrong, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Armstrong was also brought up in the Cavan township and went to school at Carmel.

The couple are not quite certain how they met. However, it was not until they were both grown up, although they lived in the same district.

For the first eight years of their marriage they farmed on the Zion line and have spent the last 42 years on a farm on the fourth line.

Mrs. Armstrong is district president of the East Durham Women's Institute and is also active in the Red Cross Society.

Mr. Armstrong strongly denied any suggestions of being properly retired. He still cares for stock and poultry on his 100-acre farm.

The Armstrongs have three daughters, Mrs. Alie Fallis (Beryl), Mrs. Ferle Martin (Vera) and Mrs. Gordon Davidson (Wilma) and two foster sons Lawrence Allcorn, London, Ont., and Tom Armstrong, Toronto.

They also have eight grandchildren—four boys and four girls.

In his earlier farming days Mr. Armstrong was very interested in raising and showing Clydesdale horses. He displayed several cups and trophies won by his exhibits at Peterborough shows. There is a saying that Mr. Armstrong had a habit of winning first prize ribbons.

Thursday night more than 40[illegible] people of the community jammed into the town hall to pay honour to the couple.

Chairman and Melville Wood, Millbrook, read the address. Earl Armstrong presented Mr. Armstrong with a purse of money and Mrs. Victor Gilmour presented the bride of 50 years with a handbag with money, contributed by all those present. A bouquet of golden chrysanthemums was presented to the couple by their granddaughter, Brenda Davidson.

Piano solo was played by Carol Brown and Helen Ingham. There were recitations by Eleanor Crowley and Miss Allie Berry with vocal solos by Mrs. Lawrence Winslow accompanied by her husband and Ernest Powell accompanied by Miss Beverley Patton. A trumpet solo was played by George Patton. An instrumental group, the Four Cousins, Mrs. Victor Gilmour, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bristow and Maurice Gilmour also played.

The committee in charge of the evening was Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Thorn, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lord, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Armstrong, and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Gilmour.

Alvin Johnson on his way to Korea, sent a telegram of congratulations.

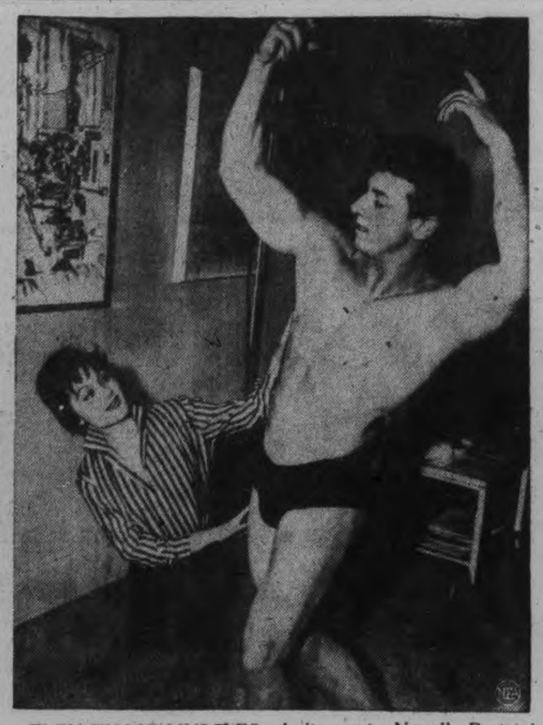
Have 50-Piece Orchestra In Aurora

AURORA (CP) — Music-minded Aurora, 20 miles north of Toronto, boasts a 50-piece symphony orchestra, drawn from a population of little more than 3,000.

On "Music Night" each Tuesday, business men, transport drivers, undertakers, housewives and teen-age students rehearse under the director and co-founder, Roderick Smith.

The Coronation Symphony, founded two years ago by John Sisman and Smith, started off with a nucleus of 15 players. Since then it has grown to nearly 50.

One of the oldest members is Alex Kudelka, past 70, a recently arrived New Canadian who speaks little English. A veteran musician, he played viola and violin for many years in Europe, and is highly regarded by colleagues for his experience and inspiration. Youngest member is 16-year-old Carol Heatley who also doubles on the violin and viola. She attends on crutches, aftermath of a polio attack.



The group has several husband-wife teams in its ranks. Prime inspiration for the orchestra is the enjoyment of playing good music. The members stage several concerts annually which are enthusiastically supported.

Lax Parents

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Judge Charles Roberts of the Family Court warned that parents may be fined as high as $10 for every day a child misses school without good excuse. He convicted nine of 10 parents but placed them on probation and required them to sign a $200 bond.

Cost Of Degree

HALIFAX (CP)—Dalhousie Medical School deduced from a survey that it costs an average of $12,507 for a student to get his medical degree. Dalhousie undertook the survey at the request of the British Columbia Medical Association, and expenses were based on a nine-year course, for unmarried students.

No Internes Available To Civic Hospital

The Peterborough Civic Hospital does not attract graduates of Ontario medical schools. This city is among the last chosen by internes looking for appointments after graduation.

Notices go to all medical schools across the country inviting applications this year, superintendent John Hornal told the board of governors Thursday.

It is no reflection on the hospital, Mr. Hornal continued, that Peterborough is ignored. "Students will get better training in the university hospitals and these will be their first choices." At the university hospitals students can follow carefully laid-out programs and thus learn while earning.

Another factor to be considered, said Mr. Hornal, is the resentment some patients bear to internes in hospitals the size of Civic. Especially in obstetrics and gynaecology, he said, patients prefer their family doctor to be on hand, even though they know that internes are acting under the supervision of the doctor.

MANY GO TO U.S.

But even the university hospitals may have some difficulty in securing internes, said Mr. Hornal. He recalled that in 1952 one-third of the University of Toronto graduating class took positions in the United States where pay is almost invariably better.

(A recent story in the Examiner showed that the salaries in the United States are sometimes as much as 12 times greater than those paid in Canadian hospitals.)

The interne question was raised by mayor Norman Graham, commenting on a report from Dr. J. R. E. Morgan, chairman of the medical staff. Dr. Morgan had reported that the credentials of three European internes are presently under review. These three will presumably be hired by the hospital.

Mr. Graham wondered if "importing" young doctors from Europe might displace some Canadian men. Dr. G. S. Cameron answered the mayor, saying that the Europeans were "not in any sense supplanting" Canadian medical school graduates.

Ex-Policeman Convicted Of Lying In Case

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Louis Shoulders, ex-St. Louis police lieutenant, Thursday was convicted by a jury of lying about the handling of the $500,000 Greenlease kidnap ransom, half of which still is missing.

Sentence was deferred pending disposition of a motion for a new trial. Shoulders was granted 15 days to file the motion.

The maximum penalty on a perjury conviction is five years in prison and a $2,000 fine.

The former officer was convicted of lying before a federal grand jury when he said two suitcases containing ransom money recovered from Carl Austin Hall were taken into a St. Louis police station shortly after Hall was arrested and booked.

Hall and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady were executed last December for the kidnap-slaying of six-year-old Bobby Greenlease Sept. 18 in Kansas City.

More Religious Leadership Seen In Forces

OTTAWA (CP) — The armed forces are paying more and more attention to the spiritual needs of servicemen.

This does not mean that there has been any religious upsurge among Canadian sailors, soldiers and airmen but that the services are providing all possible religious facilities.

Chaplains say they find this is a hopeful and encouraging factor in their work, that top officers are providing religious leadership as well as support for the work of the chaplain corps.

There are several examples of this.

During Easter week-end, every man in the services will have the opportunity to attend church service, no matter where he is or what his particular faith. Civilian clergymen are asked to help where no padres are available.

SERVICES IN FIELD

In West Germany, 4,000 members of the 1st Canadian infantry brigade now are moving to a training area for battle exercises. Services will be held in the field for them.

In Korea, Easter messages from rligious leaders in Canada are to be broadcast from Good Friday to Easter Monday over Radio Maple Leaf. There will also be special Easter services for members of the 25th Canadian infantry brigade.

Brig. J. V. Allard, brigade commander in Korea, some months ago started a religious training school where soldiers can spend a week. The brigadier is a Roman Catholic. The school is open to men of all faiths.

The "Padre's Hour" now is part of the training syllabus in all army schools. It has remained on the syllabus despite the pressure of other training needs during Canada's defence buildup.

SPIRITUAL VALUES

Why are the forces devoting this effort to religious needs?

Maj. J. F. Goforth, MC., assistant director of Protestant chaplain services at army headquarters here, says: "The army's top officers realize the importance of spiritual values in the contest with communism. These values make better soldiers."

Maj. Paul J. Dufour of Windsor, Ont., assistant director of Roman Catholic chaplain services, says: "I think a lot of parents worry that their boys don't get the opportunity to keep practising their faith in the army. But there is every facility."

Chaplains of all faiths say they have not noted any marked increase in religious activity among servicemen. But some add that the religious outlook is more hopeful than during the Second World War.

Padres find there is a greater percentage of church-goers among officers than men. They see this as a hopeful sign in itself because more religious activity — or a breakdown in religion — percolates slowly from top to bottom.

MORE MARRIED MEN

Father Dufour says: "There's a difference in the army today, at least in Canada, compared to the war years. So many men are married and live off the camp. In the family, I think, religion is stronger. These men go to mass in their civilian parishes. That means that these church leaders are missing in camp on Sunday mornings."

Major Goforth, born in China of Presbyterian missionary parents and who won his Military Cross at Ortona, says: "The soldier's sense of need has to be awakened. When he realizes he isn't getting everything he wants from television or a ball game, he comes to us. A soldier is responsive to strong leadership . . . The average commanding officer is giving the chaplain every support."

Preparing Defence For Odorless Gas

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. army has reported "some success" in preparing a defence for a tasteless, odorless, invisible poison gas which Russia is known to be stockpiling.

Maj.-Gen. John F. Uncles, chief of research and development, told a congressional committee last month that "we must be sure that everything necessary is done to give us an adequate defence" against the gas.

"We know our potential enemy is making and stockpiling it," he added.

The testimony was given in secret last March and parts of it were released Thursday.

Tonsillectomies Cut For Summer

No tonsillectomies will be performed at the Peterborough Civic Hospital after June 30 until cold weather sets in again.

Summer operations for tonsils increases the danger of poliomyelitis among children, Dr. J. R. E. Morgan, chairman of the medical staff, told the board of governors Thursday. The medical staff agreed April 9 that something should be done to lessen this danger.

On the recommendation of Dr. Morgan the board agreed to detach one two-bed room from either medicine or surgery to increase space available for tonsillectomies. Since most children spent only one night in hospital, Dr. Morgan expects that this will create a considerably larger turnover.

Nearly all space available for tonsillectomies is booked to the end of June and doctors have long waiting lists. With more space available this backlog of cases, plus some new ones, may be cleaned up by June 30.

There will also be some space-juggling in the mental health clinic. Miss Isobel Curtin began to work April 5 with Dr. John S. Pratten, director of the clinic, as a social service worker. Office space was made available by dismantling the dental room until such time as the planned additional facilities for the mental clinic are made available.

Recreation New Thought For Aged Persons By LCW At Business Meeting

Local Council of Women, at the monthly meeting Thursday, heard a final report on the spring fashion show held in March which revealed that $240.82 was the net profit from this event. The report was read by assistant convener Mrs. W. T. Fanjoy.

Correspondence included a letter from Mr. H. L. Garner, on behalf of the Kawartha Broadcasting company, thanking Council for its support and signature on a petition asking for a television station in this city. Permission for the station has now been granted.

REPORT ON HOUSING

A meeting to discuss further the matter of housing for aged persons of Peterborough was held recently and this was reported by the housing convener Mrs. F. Merrett. Twenty organizations were represented at this meeting including a local service club which also has plans for such a project.

Since opinions were divided on what type of housing would best suit the requirements here — ground floor apartments built in the manner of the modern motel or a home where residents would be cared for—there was a motion put forward by Mayor Norman Graham that the Council of Women and the service club each continue working on the matter with the possibility of combining their efforts at a later date.

President Mrs. A. W. Nelson said that Council has not yet determined what type of housing would best suit the elderly people who would take advantage of this way of living. The matter has been under investigation and consideration for nearly two years and members have gone to inspect the housing projects built in Toronto and Belleville and have had information and reports on those at other points in the province. Several open meetings to discuss the matter have been held with out-of-town experts here to answer questions.

RESOLUTION ACCEPTED

Another angle on the welfare of elderly citizens of this city is being looked into by the health committee under convener Mrs. Phyllis Kingdon, who reported on a meeting held at her home last week.

After the matter had been discussed at length, with opinions of ministers, members of the welfare department and of the Canadian Legion being presented, there was drafted a resolution which was brought to the Council for approval.

"Resolved that the Local Council of Women be approached with a view to preparing a list of the aged people of the city with the idea of creating some form of recreation, to be provided by other social agencies of Peterborough."

The meeting moved to accept the resolution and a committee to work on it is to be appointed by the president and the goodwill convener.

Mrs. Kingdon presented also the thought that persons interested in housing, recreation, nutrition and any other phase of care of the elderly should be working together for the common good. She thought that the Council by doing something in a social way might better find out the problems of housing and getting meals, etc., of these residents. Both men and women are to be included in the plans for entertainment, she said.

SUPPORT AUDITORIUM

A portion of the meeting time was allotted to Mrs. Heber Rogers, member of the University Women's Club, who wished to ask Council for support in asking that an auditorium be built as a wing to the Memorial Centre arena.

"Too many are forgetting that this is to be a memorial to the boys who made untold sacrifices, not only in themselves but in their homes, to defend democracy" said Mrs. Rogers. "Democracy does not thrive on athletic prowess alone, and I think we saw in Germany what can happen if all emphasis is put on material things and nothing on culture," she added.

Cost of the auditorium has been estimated and taking into consideration also the funds on hand for the Memorial Centre and the grants and debentures that will be coming in, Mrs. Rogers has been told that it would cost home owners less than $5 a year in taxes to have an auditorium as specified in her club's brief. "I would be willing to sacrafice a few shows a year in memory of those men. Would you?" she asked.

A motion to support the brief for the auditorium was put forth by Mrs. Wm. Addyman and Mrs. Frank Merrett and all members were in favor.

It was announced that another shower of gifts for the Save the Children Fund will be received at the next meeting.

SPRING SHOWERS BRING OUT a trio of raincoats that are pretty as any blossoms. One-button theatre coat (left) in brilliant turquoise velveteen also serves to keep off rain, has push-up sleeves. Leopard print in faille (centre) is worn with matching cap, has wide turn-back cuffs. White corduroy (right) is cut with high back yoke, has adjustable cuffs. Front is cut with fairly straight panels so that coat has only medium panels. The coats at left and right have milium linings for added protection and comfort. All three are all-weather designs; all three can be worn on sunny days as well as when weather's dark and stormy.

Lack Defence Organization Col. Dewart Tells Council

Ladies who heard Col. J. A. Dewart's outline of civil defence plans for Canada at the Local Chapter of Women meeting Thursday afternoon probably rushed home to inspect their cellars with a view to making them comfortable living quarters in case of enemy attack.

It was not a happy future outlook that Colonel Dewart pictured when he said that probably less than an hour's warning of enemy bombers could be supplied by the radar network now set up, and that an attack would probably continue for seven days, after which there would probably be little left to do but mop up.

However, he said Peterborough is not likely to be a bomb target, unless by error. Toronto, Hamilton, south western Ontario, Ottawa, Sudbury, Sault Ste Marie, Sarnia and Windsor are the Ontario points where attacks could be expected. Main purpose of the attacks would be to destroy industry, the second to create confusion and terror among the citizens and smaller cities and towns are expected to be ready to go to their assistance.

These likely attack areas have taken some steps to get civil defence in operation, but Peterborough has taken none as yet, said the chairman of the local civil defence committee. "We are not prepared for any emergency. We have plans, but the training has not been attempted."

Colonel Dewart explained "there was very little we could do on a large scale unless we had permanent headquarters and full time workers. So, it was left to the time of urgency. I don't know if this time has come yet or not."

He had come from a meeting of the committee which had decided to ask the Provincial authorities to advise on what should be done, and to ask permission to participate in the government aid project for training civil defence workers at the new college at Arnprior. (50 per cent of cost of training to be paid by the Federal government and 50 per cent by the Province, with the candidates providing his own time.)

ADVANTAGE TO RUSSIA

"Discovery of the H-Bomb has thrown the advantage to Russia," Colonel Dewart said. "Calculations here were all based on the old A-Bomb and now have to be scrapped for a whole new complication which can have the force of 10 million tons of TNT." He added that it is known that Russia is producing a bomber capable of making a return trip to this continent without re-fueling, and if an attack is not planned, why would they produce such a plane?

What you can do, Colonel Dewart told the ladies, is this: Support your Red Cross branch here, it will stand comparison anywhere; support the local St. John Ambulance Brigade, it is prepared to give first aid classes to all who are interested. ("Time of disaster is too late to take the course" he added).

In your home, be prepared to turn off all taps at the main, and all electric lights, to prevent flood and fire. Well organized cities have arranged that all homes have radios and food in the basement, so the residents can go there immediately and remain during the attack receiving instructions from the civil defence headquarters by radio, Colonel Dewart explained.

"We will have to live with this condition and adjust our minds to it," he said. "Attack might come in successive strikes of seven days, it is estimated. If we could survive the seven days we would probably find Russia moving her troops over Europe, shrouded by the resulting confusion."

"The local committee is looking for direction and will move if it becomes necessary. At such a time we will call upon the householders," he stated.

Colonel Dewart was introduced to the meeting by Mrs. H. T. Rehill and was thanked by Mrs. A. Glen.

Boreham-Gillespie

At the Knox United Church today the Rev. H. G. Douglas performed the marriage of Mrs. Annie M. Gillespie to Mr. George D. Boreham, both of Peterborough.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Sidney Spooner of Toronto, the bride was in a gown of rosewood Chantilly lace over taffeta with which she wore accessories in cocoa shade and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Matron of honor was her sister Mrs. Roy Johnston of Peterborough who was wearing a similar gown in hyacinth blue Chantilly lace with navy and pink accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Mr. Thomas Boreham of Mount Clemens, Michigan, was attending his brother.

Following a reception at Hooper's Palm Room, the couple left on a motor trip, the bride travelling in a tailored suit in cinnamon shade with beige topcoat and matching hat and accessories.

Canadian Housewife Wages Travel Campaign In Wales

By RON EVANS

LONDON (CP) — A Canadian housewife living in Wales is waging a one-woman campaign to lure Canadian travellers to the land of the Celts.

Mrs. Margarette Bradshaw, 45, born in London, Ont., and for 25 years a resident of Vancouver, decided that too few Canadians knew about Wales and that something should be done about it. As a starter, she has seen to it that two groups of Canadians this year will enjoy subsidized Welsh tours.

The first trip, a Commonwealth effort scheduled for June, will take a group of Canadian teachers in Britain under the exchange plan. The second tour, in September, will be for a representative group from all Canadian provinces and is being arranged by the Victoria league.

UNKNOWN COUNTRY

"As far as Canadians are concerned," Mrs. Bradshaw said, "Wales is an unknown country. Because they hear nothing about it at home, they don't include it when they plan their trips."

Mrs. Bradshaw admits that she had some misgivings when she moved with her English-born husband to the South Wales city of Cardiff in 1953.

"I had the impression that this city was a bit grim—coal mines and all that. I was so pleasantly surprised with the city and with the surrounding country that I came to the conclusion it had been greatly maligned."

Later she met a group of Canadian friends in London for the Coronation and persuaded them to visit her adopted country. They too were impressed, so she decided to go to work.

She wrote to the Welsh travel board, suggesting that a greater effort should be made to interest Canadians. Board secretary Lyn Howell called Mrs. Bradshaw in for talks and plans were laid for this year's tours.

AFTER MORE PUBLICITY

But she is still not ready to drop the matter. Now she plans to go to work on the British Travel and Holidays Association to promote more Welsh publicity in Canada.

"Most Canadians have preconceived ideas of what they wish to do or see before they leave and unless they know something of Wales they won't bother to come over the border, or as the Welsh say 'cross Offa's dyke.'"

Mrs. Bradshaw speaks from experience when it comes to travel. Her father, the late Wallace Duncan, a Stratford, Ont., bank official took the family to Olds, Alta., when she was only a year old and a year later they moved on to Calgary. In 1916 they settled in Vancouver.

After graduation from North Vancouver high school, Mrs. Bradshaw moved to Quebec to work in Montreal and Rock Island. She returned to Vancouver in 1943, worked for radio station CKMO and later moved on to station CKNW in New Westminster, B.C. She came to Britain in 1946.

Find Rehabilitation Easier For Unwed Mothers In U.S.

By DOROTHY ROE

Common sense and frank discussion have done much to rehabilitate the lives of today's unwed mothers, says Sara B. Edlin, for 40 years director of a home for these one-time outcasts.

A kindly, bright-eyed little woman with a vast understanding of human problems, Mrs. Edlin has set down her findings in a new book, "The Unmarried Mother in Our Society," soon to be published. In an interview Mrs. Edlin said:

"When I first arrived to take over management of the Lakeview Home in Staten Island in 1914, most of the expectant mothers there were young immigrant girls who had come over from the old country to seek jobs in New York.

"Today we have girls from all strata of society, from wealthy and upper-class homes as well as from poverty-stricken families. So we cannot place the blame for their plight on either ignorance or poverty. Most of the girls have had the advantage of sex education in the schools, many have excellent backgrounds and college educations.

RESENT DISCIPLINE

"I have come to the firm conclusion that in almost every case the misfortune of these girls is caused by a faulty relationship with their parents. In some instances the girls feel they have been slighted for a more attractive or more gifted brother or sister. In some cases they resent parental discipline and feel that the rules laid down by their mothers and fathers are old-fashioned."

Most of today's unmarried mothers do not keep their babies, says Mrs. Edlin, and under the present social structure she believes this is best for the future of both mother and child. She explains:

"If the child is offered for adoption, it grows up in a normal family structure and has an even chance with other children. Also the mother, without the child, usually marries and establishes a new life for herself."

It is unusual for today's unwed mother to marry the father of her child, says Mrs. Edlin. Often she doesn't want to marry him, even if he is willing.

FOR PARENTS ONLY:

Easter Should Mean More Than Return Of Spring

By NANCY CLEAVER

"Show me that Thou art April, Lord
And Thou the flowers and the grass;
Then, when awake the soft spring winds,
"I hear Thee pass!"
—From "Easter" by Charles Hanson Towne.

From earliest times men have rejoiced at the coming of the springtime. Long before Christians celebrated the resurrection of the Lord on Easter Sunday, pagan worshippers in many lands have joyfully entered into the festival of Spring.

Father and mothers in this mechanical, hurried age, should take time to watch the miracle of seeds sprouting, of leaves opening and flowers unfolding, and of birds returning from the South. All the wonders of sight and sound and smell of the good earth stirring under the warm rays of the Spring sunshine, should fill our hearts with gratitude.

RECEPTIVE TO BEAUTY

Little children are very receptive to beauty, and it is a wise parent who takes time not only to enjoy Nature with his child, but to point out that all growing things show forth the power of the great Creator. One father, who watched his little boy's delight as their lawn turned green, quoted to him Walt Whitman's description of grass being "the handkerchief of the Lord."

The Easter holidays from school provide extra time to do things as a family. Mother has been going over the clothes of the different members of the family, and trying to plan for new articles to wear on Easter Sunday. It is a mistake to encourage a youngster to think only of himself and his clothes. Even a little child can understand that the money set aside for clothes in the family budget must in turn help each member of the family. Junior can take pride in Dad's new suit as well as in his own shiny shoes, and daughter can be happy over mother's Spring hat as well as her own attractive outfit.

DYE EASTER EGGS

Mother can co-operate with plans for dying Easter eggs, if she takes time to blow the eggs she uses in baking and then store the shells in the empty cartons. Eggs are an excellent source of protein and in Canada's Food Rules, homemakers are advised to serve them at least three times a week. School age boys and girls can have fun drawing designs on blown egg shells if they handle them with care, and painting them with water colors. Preschool children will be more successful dying and coloring with crayons the shells of hard-boiled eggs which are not so fragile.

Many new Canadians are very skillful in producing lovely ornate patterns on Easter eggs. Perhaps you could call on a family of newcomers and admire their art. The children attending school pick up English very quickly and may enjoy telling you some of their own Easter customs such as the small youngsters searching on Easter morning for gifts from the Easter Rabbit.

But Easter should mean more to children than the return of spring, new clothes, fun with colored eggs and chocolate rabbits. Above all, it is a religious festival. Easter Sunday morning should find every member of the household who can attend church, sitting together in the family pew.

To heavy hearts who mourn the passing of a loved one, or who fear death for a friend or for themselves, there is comfort and reassurance in the story of the First Easter Morning. Herald of immortality completely to the church. Every child should know that this life is just the beginning of Life Everlasting. Memorization comes easily to most boys and girls. At Easter, what better choice for memory verse could there be than the first part of the 14th Chapter of John, Jesus' own words: "In my Father's house are many mansions: if it were not so I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you."

Dress Lines Demand Slim Foundation

Every year something from the past is disinterred in the world of fashion until it seems every line has been modified and remodified a dozen times over—with an alluding newness each time.

This year the designers harked back 100 years to exhume the Empire line—and with it (back 75 years) the old tried and true princess line. Combined they have the "new" Empire-princess line seen on almost every dress rack on the Continent.

Something else from the past has been coming into focus again after 40 years dormancy—the long corselet. Special foundation garments are a must for the revealing princess line, and the only way to flatten heavy diaphragms - and puncture spare tires seems to be use of a one-piece bra-girdle-garter belt combined.

One of the favorites adapted by Warner's in 1951 was a long strapless corselet called the Merry Widow. The Merry Widow started as a basque with cinch waist, abdominal piece and half or full strapless bra detachable garters.

From this original design followed the short and long corselet extending far down over the hips.

This makes for a smooth line with a nipped-in waist. Especially for the active woman who hates to feel confined is a free lift type with bra attached at the front only and detached under the arms.

Foundation garment ads now-a-days are more and more like the long-ago line drawings of figures in frilly boned sheaths.

But today's models are much lighter (as light as five ounces), more flexible (they're built for figure control rather than strangulation), a delight to wear—rather than an agony.

There's a nylon elastic type panelled with lace which is exquisite off or on and as light as a feather. One of thhe best sellers is a heavy elasticized satin and nylon corselet with well-built bra for the full figure.

One of the lightest little Merry Widows is fully nylon elastic with nylon mesh strapless bra — made especially for the slim figure which just needs smoothing under a clean princess-style dress.

Panty-girdles are still favored by some who have a slim midriff. But more and more are turning to the long three-in-one corselet.

Styling and corsetry must work hand in hand. And when styling takes a step back several decades, it is no surprise that foundation garments do likewise.

QUESTION: Thanks for helping with my problems. . .I read your comment on a letter from "Unsigned". I remember that letter a month ago well. . .was surprised that anyone could resent hearing the homey little comments about your Pete and Marianne. It brings an extra touch of warmth to your column. . .I find myself clipping the recipes and these little stories of your children and your friends and yourself. . .I have often wished that you would compile a book some day soon of your recipes and columns. When you do please include all the little heart-warming stories we look forward to in your column. You really have an excellent style of writing and any book you have published should be a success. I can promise that I will be one of the first customers. I'm really serious about this book. It would be very disappointing not to have such a book published. We need more Canadian literature. I belive it is almost a necessity in the interests of Canadian culture to take time for such a project. . .You should have little trouble in enlisting the help of your many friends and readers.

ROSE G.

ANSWER: Whoopee! Canadian literature! Culture. Have I arrived! Wait until I tell my writing buddies who look askance at my so-called style. Rose you are a dear. I have toyed with the thought of compiling a cookbook with running nonsense comment, but I have only two hands and one fuzzy head and 24 hours per day to do it in and I'm busy with it at present. You may be sure if I do though, that I won't hide my light under a bushel.

QUESTION: Some articles being printed that advise the use of millet and sunflower seed meal. Could you tell me where I could obtain either of these meals? Mrs. D. B.

ANSWER: Have 3 more letters from readers asking for this millet and sunflower seed information. One from Greta McN., Mrs. Cliff B., Mrs. Joseph R. This is what I am able to find out (could wish though that the health adviser would answer his own posers): Sunflower seed may be bought at large drug stores for 75c per lb. Unhaulled millet seed at seed stores. Sunflower and millet meal may be bought at high class large grocery stores or departments. One other source might be health bakeries whose proprietors are foreign born end make rye bread and other yeast breads on which seeds are often sprinkled—sesame seed in particular.

QUESTION: Sometime ago I clipped a recipe for Date Oatmeal Squares. It was a large recipe. I would like a recipe for raisin squares about as large as there are 6 children in our family so I need large recipes. Could you tell me how to make Melba toast. I'm interested in keeping my weight down as I recently lost 62 lbs. by just dieting and no doctor. Mrs. M. R.

Answer: That is quite a bit of weight to lose. Be sure you are getting plenty of protein and fruits and milk and eggs and vegetables though—they are the protective foods, that your dotcor would prescribe, if you were consulting him.

RAISIN SQUARES. (doubled recipe).

Two cups boiling water, 2 cups seeded or seedless raisins, ½ cup shortening, 1½ cups sugar, 4 eggs, 3½ cups sifted flour, 2 tablespoons cocoa (optional), 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon cloves, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 cups chopped nuts. Pour hot water over raisins and let stand until well plumped and cool. Cream shortening, adding sugar gradually while creaming, then the eggs one at a time. Sift flour with, cocoa, lemon juice. Blend in raisins and nuts. Spread in well-greased square tins and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 30 to 40 minutes. Sprinkle with icing sugar while warm and cut into squares when cool.

MELBA TOAST

Cut stale white or graham bread in very thin slices or ½-inch strips. Cut off crusts. Put in slow oven of 250 deg. Fahr. and dry thoroughtly until a delicate brown.

Bright Colors In Prints

The color-drama of prints shown in the gala Spring premiere brings forth the prediction that this will be the greatest print season in years

And, we predict that every woman's wardrobe will be enlivevened by prints as bright and beautiful as a Spring bouquet!

Spirit-lifting prints bloom profusely on the Spring fashion scene—in silks, rayons, and cottons. They'll appear in smart wardrobes as frocks, blouses, cotton separates, and as the lining, with matching blouse or dress, of the all-important costume suit.

Solid color outfits will be accented with flower-print touches—little tie-on collars and scarfs. Dainty flowers will bloom on the newest Spring lingerie and negligees!

Florals are the biggest single print type, with roses as fashion's favorite flower. And, there are endless variations in "transplanting" these blossoms into newsmaking fashions!

Floral prints are big and bold in bright, true colors . . . they're dainty in spaced prints . . . they appear as single flowers joined together by a ribbon scrolls. They are equally lovely whether on light or dark grounds.

Other prints shown often are abstracts and feathery motifs, both in spaced and all-over designs, a pen-and-ink look, and paint brush techniques.

Prints have never been more important, and printed cottons done in sophisticated all-over patternings are styled to please many women who, heretofore, have not worn prints.

Bad Taste Wives Attend Social Engagements Alone?

DEAR MISS DIX: Is is considered bad taste for a wife to take in social activities without her husband when he is not free to attend them? If permissible, what do you consider a fair number of times per week for a wife to be out without her spouse? Is it normal for a man to omit activities he enjoys because he can't include his wife, or because he feels he can't enjoy them without her?

Lora

A MATTER OF INDIVIDUALS

ANSWER: These questions cannot be answered by rule of thumb. They are entirely individual, and the solutions are a matter for discussion between husband and wife. Certainly, it would be very foolish for either husband or wife to force self-participation in activities which could not be enjoyed without the other. It also would be inconsiderate of one mate to make the other forego all hobbies or recreation because both don't like a particular activity. Incidentally, this is one question that should be thoroughly solved before marriage. Each couple has its own ideas along these lines, and mutual concessions often must be made. If a wife, for instance, enjoys club work and her husband is a stay-at-home, he should be willing for her to pursue her activity. If hubby likes fishing or hunting, a considerate wife will let him go on trips without a fuss. Whatever the problem, and whatever the solution, each couple must decide for themselves. If both prefer staying at home together rather than bouncing around from one amusement to another, it would be very foolish of them to go out. The issue should never be forced, and if premarital agreements are reached, difficulties are not likely to arise later.

DEAR MISS DIX: My brother-in-law and his wife live in a distant state. A question that always arises when they return to their home town is, "Who should greet whom and who visits whom while they are here?" This discussion has been going on for three years. I claim the people coming from out-of-town should be greeted; my mother-in-law says they should be the ones to make the first visit.

D.A.

ANSWER: Have you really nothing more serious to take up your time and thoughts? Relatives should be so glad to see each other that they have no inclination to stand on ceremony. Can't you set yourself up as a committee of one to make the family see how ridiculous these trivial arguments are? You seem to be on the right track, so continue to greet the visiting clan and speed them on their way when they leave. Ignore the contrary opinions.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been married twelve years to a man who has been a wonderful husband and father. He holds down two jobs, brings home all his pay—in the original envelopes—and is always home on time. But this is what puzzles me. Lately I've seen lipstick on his handkerchief and I think he's having an affair. He denies it, but I'm making a nervous wreck of myself with worry.

Amabel

ANSWER: Where a man with two jobs could find the time for extramarital activities, or where he'd get the money to spend on another woman, is a mystery greater than how he gets lipstick on his handkerchief. Until you have more definite proof than that, I think you'd better let up on the nagging before he has a real excuse to seek outside solace.

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm 18, and a few weeks ago broke off with a girl I'd been dating for a year. At first I didn't care too much but, when I went out with other girls, I realized how much I really loved Irene. I have apologized to her, but she still says she doesn't want to go with me. I'm sure she loves me.

M.L.

ANSWER: About all you can do is bombard her with attention until she has been rewon or until she manages to convince you that your courtship is futile. Perhaps she just isn't the one for you. Better not tear up all the other telephone numbers for a while. The other young ladies might be needed for consolation and I'm sure you'll find at least one who is very good in that role.

6—In Memoriam

DAVIS—In memory of Mr. John Davis (a wonderful husband and father) who entered into rest one year ago, April 18th 1953.
There are no words that we can say
That will express our grief, nor none
That will explain how much we miss him. We only hope that we can follow the "Way of Life" he lived and by so living his memory shall ever be with us.
—Sadly missed by his wife, daughters and son.

DAVIS—In loving memory of our dear grandfather, John Davis who passed away April 18, 1953.
Like a ship that's left its moorings
And sails bravely out to sea.
Someone Dear has sailed away
In calm serenity;
But there's Promise of Greater Joy.
Than Earth could have in store,
For God has planned a richer life,
Beyond the Unseen Shore.
—Sadly missed by his grandchildren, Shirley and Gary Armstrong.

HARRIS—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Levi Harris, who passed away April 19, 1950.
A page in the book of memories
Silently turned today.
—Ever remembered by his wife and family.

LAVIGNE—In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. Annie Lavigne, who passed away two years ago today, April 17th, 1952.
Rest weary heart from all thy silent grief and pain,
Wisdom and love have ordered all the past,
All shall blessedness and joy at last,
Cast off the cares that have so long oppressed,
And rest sweetly rest.
—Ever remembered by her daughter, Mrs. Margaret Moore, sister, Mrs. J. Parson, and brother Arthur Anderson.

LAVIGNE—In loving memory of my dear sister Mrs. Annie Lavigne who passed away April 17th, 1952.
In our Heart your memory lingers,
Always tender, fond and true;
There is not a day, Dear sister,
We do not think of you.
—Ever remembered Mrs. J. Parsons and Mr. Arthur Anderson.

Threat To Peace May Last For 100 Years

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Communist threat to world peace could last 100 years and the Western world must make its defence plans accordingly, says Admiral Arthur W. Radford.

In a strategy briefing given to the American Society of Newspaper Editors, the chairman of the U.S. joint chiefs of staff said Thursday:

1. France and Italy sooner or later must "face up to their problems realistically" and realize that their future prosperity and security lie in unity with Western Europe, including Germany.

2. The current ill feeling between Israel and the Arab states is a "bar to any unity of action between them and is a menace to peace in the area."

3. Loss of Indo-China to the Communists would greatly strengthen the Communist world's military position and its economic resources. It also would have political and economic effects far beyond Asia.

4. He supported State Secretary Dulles' proposal for "united action" by the free nations to stem the Communist tide in Southeast Asia.

Blitz Planned For Blood To Fight Polio

Peterborough will be blitzed May 18.

"Summer is always the most dangerous time for polio and we want to be prepared," says Mrs. Charles J. Ray director of the Peterborough Red Cross Society's drive for gamma globulin.

At least 250 donors are expected at the Legion Hall next month to provide the recently-developed polio deterrent. Gamma globulin is an extract of human blood, specially processed to become a polio antidote.

But gamma globulin is not a cure-all, Mrs. Ray warned. It acts as a preventive for no more than six weeks, and then further injections must be given. Thus a large bank of gamma-processed blood must be built up to ensure enough for the polio season.

Gamma globulin is chiefly used with healthy members of polio-stricken families to prevent the disease from spreading. Donations from Peterborough and other sources are processed and pooled at the department of health laboratories, and then distributed where the need is greatest.

It is not expected that there will be any mass innoculation scheme such as is planned in the United States. Here scientists have developed a polio serum of a more permanent nature, along the lines of diptheria or whooping cough shots.

Until the serum has been fully proved, Canada will likely stay with gamma globulin, which is equally effective, but for a limited space of time. One pint of blood is needed for each dose of gamma globulin.

Plans for the May 18 blitz were laid last week when Ross Newham, director of blood donor clinics for the Ontario Red Cross was in Peterborough. It was decided to launch an educational and publicity campaign next week, to prepare citizens for the clinic. Publicity director will be Claire Collins.

Use Emergency To Curb Union

TORONTO (CP) — The state of emergency existing in Kenya as a result of Mau Mau terrorism has been used by some officials to discriminate against union organization, C. H. Millard, national director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) said today.

Mr. Millard has just returned from Brussels where he attended a meeting of the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions' regional activities committee.

"Investigators of the ICFTU found that in some instances certain officials had used the Mau Mau threat as an excuse to imprison and sometimes abuse union members," he said. Government officials had promised efforts to prevent further occurrences.

He said the great disparity between wages paid Africans and Europeans points up the necessity of a strong free trade union movement which would do much to create bettern understanding.

Mr. Millard said the part Canadian trade unionists are playing in providing funds for union work in less fortunate countries has won wide recognition.

Zoning Bylaw

most of the regultaions which seem to be specially restrictive or too specific are actually a protection for the property-owner. So in any case, the decision does not depend on the opinion of an individual or official, but applies equally throughout the city.

It is a mistake to emphasize the restrictive nature of the bylaw, he said, because the restrictions are the means chosen to control new freedoms and provide for equitable administration.

The new freedoms are of two kinds: The opportunity to convert old or outmoded structures to new and profitable uses; and the opportunity for business and industry to expand or to erect new structures in areas from which, at present, they would be excluded or vigorously opposed.

Public reaction to business encroachment is increasing in strength to such an extent that councils are finding it burdensome, Mr. Culham claimed. No matter which way they give a decision, a number will always be dissatisfied because of the animosities aroused.

The reason for this, Mr. Culham explained, is that each situation is appraised on its own merits, whereas, with a zoning plan, individual opinions must, and do, give way before the stronger arguments of holding to zones in accordance with a carefully-developed plan for the whole city, which has the added strength that it has been publicly accepted.

ALLOW REBUILDING

The purpose in granting the new freedoms is to provide room for the continuous rebuilding of the city which is rapidly expanding beyond its borders, he said.

The townships surrounding the city will continue to absorb the new single-family development, Mr. Culham predicted, while the city will contain two or more family structures and provide new opportunities for work in the form of new business and new light industry.

Without making any such provision within the city, assessments would drop, he said, whereas, by careful planning, new building could and would offset obsolescence and depreciation and gives a continuing lift to assessment.

The zoning plan must seek to build a strong, self-supporting and well-balanced economy for the city proper, without regard to possible annexation or new industrial expansion in the surrounding townships, he emphasized. It may only do so by means of conversion of old structures or encroachment on residential areas where these now show pronounced signs of depreciation.

In determining the new zones, existing uses had been recognized; but the proposals go further than mere acceptance. An attempt was made to meet the physical, economic and administrative needs of the community, as well as provide protection for the residential neighborhoods.

Secret Service Ordered Kidnapping

BERLIN (Reuters) — West Berlin police said today the Soviet secret service ordered the kidnapping of Alexander Trushnovich, a leading anti-Communist Russian emigre official, from West Berlin last Tuesday.

A report from an agent in East Berlin said the alleged abduction was organized by an East German secret service man, "Major Paul," who had also arranged the daylight kidnapping of Dr. Walter Linse, an anti-Communist lawyer, in July 1952. Trushnovich, said the report, was knocked out with a steel rod and given a drug to keep him unconscious.

The Communists claim Trushnovich sought political asylum with them.

The spokesman said that, according to the report, Heinz Glaeske, an official of the West Berlin ex-prisoner of war organization from whose flat Trushnovich is alleged to have disappeared and who has also been missing since then, was an agent of "Major Paul." West German police have issued a warrant for Glaeske's arrest.

He had repeatedly sold the East German state security service information about returned prisoners from Russia, said the report.

Sports Car Drivers

the ultra-small classification. He was Peter Dillnutt of the Toronto Sports Car Club driving an Austin A-30.

One of the most enterprising of the entrants was a Peterborough lad, Fred A. Jones. Mr. Jones entered his half-ton pick-up truck in the contest. He, too, reports "absolutely lousy" weather.

TRUCKS HARDER

Although he sloshed over the gluey course without undue difficulty, Mr. Jones was less optimistic about the driving tests in progress this morning. Trucks are "much harder to handle" said Mr. Jones, in any tests that requires manoeuverability.

"We separate the men from the boys in these tests," one official observed. Hardest test is one which could only be declared as a motor slalom. Drivers weave through a series of pylons, losing marks if they touch any. Halfway through, the driver jumps out and his navigator takes over.

(All drivers took navigators with them, to make mileage checks and keep drivers on course. Mr. Jones' navigator was a girl, Marilyn Todd of Peterborough.)

"There was at least six inches of water on highway 35 south of Lindsay," said George Scully of the British Empire Motor club of Toronto. Mr. Scully also recalled, without joy, that several stretches of road, particularly in the Burleigh Falls area were unpaved and "in Bancroft we even had snow."

Officials stressed this morning that this contest, held each Easter, is not a race. It is a skill and endurance test for drivers and automobiles. Drivers lost points for being ahead of time at checking stations as well as for being late.

There were four checking stations and a "secret station" manned by timekeeper Phil Stevenson and his assistants. These were at Picton, Bancroft, Fenelon Falls and Dale. At Dale all drivers stopped 30 minutes for food, and to attempt to figure out where the "secret station" might be.

This "secret station" contributed to lost marks for almost every motorist. It was located at Stirling, 62 miles from the last previous check.

One of the rules of the contest was that any driver committing a breach of the Highway Traffic Act was automatically disqualified. No entrants however were disqualified Friday night. As one driver put it: "Who could speed through that muck."

More than half the entrants were from the British Empire Motor Club in Toronto. There were also two drivers from Hamilton and one from Oshawa. The rest were members of the Peterborough Motor Sports Club. The contest was under the general supervision of course marshal Len Stock.

The election of officers was conducted by the immediate past president, Douglas L. Coyle.

GUEST SPEAKER

The Rev. A. C. Luffman, pastor of Baltimore United church, was guest speaker. He spoke on "World History" representing history as a series of ascending slopes, made up of challenges and responses. Unless we meet adequately the challenges that are presenting themselves today, our civilization will be doomed, he said.

He spoke of the response to the challenge for new sources of power, beginnig with coal and steam, of the oil resources developed and the tremendous resources of electricity.

He paid tribute to the United Nations and said, "if it were not for the United Nations, we would have been plunged into a global war long before this."

PRESENT CHALLENGE

In human relationship the speaker felt we are not making the necessary response to the challenge that confronts us. He spoke of the vast population in the world today, living on a ration below sustenance level, going to bed hungry at nights. He told of the wheat surplus in Canada and the United States and said if all the people of all the world were adequately fed, that surplus would disappear.

The speaker urged his audience to think seriously of our obligations to the civilization of which we are a part and work with our hands, minds, heart and soul to make this world a better place.

The speaker was introduced by the Rev. J. R. Wheeler and thanked by Richard Surerus.

GUEST SOLOIST

Guest artist was Donald Pollock, Havelock, music supervisor in the public schools in the Roseneath district. He sang a number of solos, playing his own piano accordion accompaniment. Mr. Pollock also was pianist for community singing.

Meetings will be discontinued until November. Hilton and Walter Down were appointed program committee for that meeting.

The executive were named a committee to arrange a ladies' night at an early date, when club members will entertain their wives.

The meeting closed with the national anthem and Auld Lang Syne.

Britons' Honesty Said Thing Of Past

IPSWICH, England (Reuters) — Petty crime records show Britain's reputation for the honesty of her individual citizens is a thing of the past, says a police officer.

Lt.-Col. A. F. Senior, chief constable of East Suffolk county, said in his annual report that the spread of petty crime through the country poses the problem of prison reform including psychological treatment for offenders.

In the old days, he said "an Englishman's word was his bond.

"Nowadays, I should think we compare very unfavorably with other nations in minor offences," he said.

The coffins were discovered during repairs to the nave of the Holy Trinity church here. The other coffin contained the remains of a man believed to be of noble birth.

Reading Habits Eire Citizens Closely Watched By Censors

DUBLIN (CP) — Few countries west of the Iron Curtain curb the reading habits of their citizens as sternly as the Republic of Ireland.

For 25 years it has guarded its manners and morals behind a screen of censorship which excludes any publication considered indecent, excessively concerned with crime or advocating birth control.

It is estimated that several thousand books have been banned since the first censorship act was passed in 1929. In recent years the list has lengthened by three or four titles a week.

UNDER THE BAN

The company of forbidden authors includes: Aldous Huxley, Sinclair Lewis, H. G. Wells, Ernest Hemingway, Graham Greene, Hugh Walpole, Fulton Oursler, Somerset Maugham, Louis Bromfield, Philip Wylie, F. Scott Fitzgerald, Upton Sinclair, Bertrand Russell, Havelock Ellis, John Steinbeck, Budd Schulberg, Christopher Margaret Mead, Anatole France, Maxim Gorki and Arthur Koestler.

Newspapers and magazines are frequently forbiden entry also, but their suspensions are generally temporary. At the moment, one British daily, and the tabloid Daily Mirror, two weeklies, News of the World and Sunday Pictorial, and 11 weekly and 20 monthly magazines are banned.

How does a book or magazine get banned? It's relatively simple.

Any one of the republic's 3,000,000 citizens may submit a publication to the five-man censorship board for ruling. George Bernard Shaw's novel "Black Girl in Search of God," was banned in 1933 on the complaint of a beekeepers' association.

If the board backs the complaint distribution and sale of the offending book are forbiden. In the case of a newspaper or magazine, the complaint must be based on at least three recent editions. If ruled objectionable these publications are banned for three months.

NO REASON GIVEN

The board does not disclose its reasons. When Nicholas Monsarrat's novel "The Cruel Sea" was banned some observers suggested it was not because of any indecency but because it contained criticism of the republic's neutrality during the Second World War.

Since 1946 editors, authors and publishers have had the right to appeal a ban. They, or any five members of the Irish Parliament acting together, may apply to a censorship appeal board. The board may confirm or revoke the ban or lift it for certain purged editions.

Irish authors have bumped against the paper curtain. Sean O'Casey, Frank O'Connor and James Joyce have joined Shaw on the proscribed list.

Such United States magazines as Time, Look, Life and Ladies Home Journal have turned up in the board's bad books and the list of British newspapers which have been forbidden at one time or another includes the Sunday Express, Sunday Graphic and The People.

But if Irish authors have fallen afoul of the board, the republic's daily and weekly newspapers seldom have. They are careful to follow the line of the law in reports of court cases involving sex.

On divorce cases they are allowed to print only "a concise statement of the charges, defences and counter-charges in support of which evidence was given." They may also report particulars of any point of law raised, the findings of the court and the summing up and observations of the judge.

Over the last 25 years, there has been little if any public indignation over the banning of foreign newspapers or magazines. On the question of book banning, however, the board has often run into opposition from Irish literary figures and societies.

In 1949 one of the board's members, Dr. J. D. Smyth, a professor at Trinity College, Dublin, resigned in anger. He charged that in some cases board members had voted to ban books without giving them a full reading and that they often ignore a book's literary merit.

Still there appears little chance that the republic will lower the literary bars.

Krushchev Man To Watch In Kremlin

Note: Thomas P. Whitney spent several years in Moscow as Associated Press correspondent before returning to New York. In the following article he analyzes the meaning of the unusual attention given to the 60th birthday of Nikita Krushchev, Soviet Communist party chief, and a strong contender for No. 1 spot in the Kremlin.

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Russia's highest public honors and a rousing burst of praise in the Moscow press marked the 60th birthday today of the Soviet Communist party chief, Nikita Sergeyevich Khrushchev, the rising star in the Kremlin galaxy.

Khrushchev is the man to watch. His fortunes have risen steadily, especially since the death of Stalin a year ago. His words are carrying increasing weight in high Soviet councils.

Press accolades in Moscow for Khrushchev were particularly enthusiastic. Soviet leaders always get special attention on their decade birthdays: 50th, 60th, 70th. Similar praise greeted the 50th birthday of the now prime minister, Georgi Malenkov, in 1952, when his star was just beginning to be seen over the horizon. The same went for Foreign Minister Molotov when he was 60 in 1950 and for Lazar Kaganovich, first deputy prime minister, when he was 60 last year.

HIGHEST AWARD

A large portrait of Khrushchev was spread across two columns on the front page of Pravda, organ of the Soviet Communist party, and other newspapers in the Soviet capital. Beneath the picture was a warm congratulatory message from the Soviet government and the Communist party. Then followed the text of a decree awarding him the highest Soviet civilian decoration: The Order of Lenin.

On top of these things—to which the other leaders also had been treated on their decade birthdays—Khrushchev received a little bit more.

He was pronounced a "hero of Soviet labor" and awarded the Hammer and Sickle gold medal.

Khrushchev has become a key man in Soviet public affairs as administrator of the vast machinery of the Communist party in the U.S.S.R. and as boss of the drive to raise food production and industralize agriculture.

REMOVED OPPONENTS

During the last eight months he has succeeded in removing many of his opponents or potential opponents and putting in their places people who owe to him their careers.

Formally in the Kremlin hierarchy, Khrushchev is listed in third place following Malenkov and Molotov. But in terms of the power he exercises today in Russia it seems probable that he is No. 2 man and running a pretty close race for No. 1.

Hopes To Hold Methodist Meeting In Red Square In Moscow

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP)—A hoarse-voiced preacher heads for Moscow this fall hoping to hold a Methodist meeting in Red square.

If he succeeds, no one in Britain will be surprised.

Dr. Donald Soper, Methodist leader, is usually up to something unusual. And he usually brings it off.

His hoarse voice comes from countless open air meetings in London's Hyde park. He believes religion has a host of battles to fight and must fight them. He's not afraid to say so . . . loudly.

His enemies, he says, include communism, capitalism, McCarthyism, poverty, racialism, capital punishment, Sunday sport, strong drink and gambling. Even the Queen's visits to racetracks have come under the lash of Soper's tongue.

Before his Moscow trip, made at the invitation of the Russian Orthodox Church, Soper will represent Britain's 2,000,000 Methodists at the World Council of Churches conference at Evanston, Ill., next August.

NEW STYLE EVANGELISM

Soper, 51, was a headline hitter in British papers long before the Methodist Conference made him its president for 1954. He first found fame in his '20s with new-style evangelizing methods: open - air meetings amid the crank and Communist orators of a hundred parks and market places, regular broadcasts, film shows in church.

During the war Soper's outspoken pacifism brought him banishment from the air waves. In 1950 he shocked almost the whole nation by declaring: "I'd rather see this country overrun by Communists than get involved in another world war."

He sticks by that. But of communism, he says: "I detest it."

PLUGS PRACTICAL MORALS

Through 28 years of tough-talking crusading, Soper has plugged one theme: if Christianity is to survive its disciples must relate it to the material world, forging a practical morality for everyday use at work and in the home, in politics and at play.

Soper's critics, Methodist and non-Methodist, say he is too materialistic and too political in his approach to religion, and too outspoken. His speaking technique is simple: "Nothing succeeds with a crowd like rudeness," he says.

Between speeches Soper works at a regular job—supervising the West London Mission, one of Britain's biggest charitable organizations. It runs homes for unmarried mothers, a students' hostel, a child adoption scheme and a dozen other enterprises.

Booked On Charge Of Manslaughter

OTTAWA (CP)—Harold Scharfe, 35, was booked on a charge of manslaughter Thursday in the death of Roland Dean, 38, who died of a head injury suffered in a scuffle.

Two other men—Clifford Scharfe a brother of Harold, and Thomas Fitzsimmons—were released after questioning.

Police quoted Dean's wife as saying the scuffle followed an argument between the two men after Scharfe rapped on a window of the Dean home and asked to be invited inside for a drink.

Refuses To Interfere With Deportation

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Judge James Foley held Thursday there was no evidence to support a Canadian businessman's contention that he would be killed if taken to Toronto to face charges involving "knowledge of stolen bonds."

Judge Foley refused to interfere with an order for deportation of Abraham Isaac Grosser, 41, of Montreal. He dismissed a writ of habeas corpus he had granted last Saturday. Grosser's lawyer said he will appeal.

Grosser had testified "some very big people" had made threats upon his life. He refused to identify them.

"Save Me" Mrs. Petrov's Airport Plea

Calls To Crowd As Soviet Officials Escort Her On Plane

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—Amid hysterical scenes at the airport, blonde Mrs. Evokiya Petrov, wife of a fugitive Russian diplomat, was bundled aboard an aircraft today and began her journey back to Moscow.

Shouting crowds milled around the weeping Mrs. Petrov trying to separate her from her Russian escort. Some of them declared that she protested: "I don't want to go. Save me."

Some politicians called upon the government to order the plane held at Darwin, its first stopover, pending a check on whether Mrs. Petrov was being forced to return to Russia.

In Canberra, Prime Minister R. G. Menzies announced that if there is any doubt about the wishes of Mrs. Petrov "the government proposed to give her further opportunity at Darwin and other places to refuse to return to Russia."

The airliner is due in Darwin, a north Australian city, at 4:15 p. m. EST. From there, it will fly to Jakarta, Singapore, Calcutta, Karachi, Beirut and Rome, arriving in Zurich Thursday morning.

The Russian officials flatly rejected Vladimir Petrov's request to talk to his 35-year-old wife before her departure.

Mrs. Petrov was brought here by car from the Soviet embassy in Canberra. She has not seen her husband since April 3, when he sought asylum from the Australian government, taking with him documents which will be the basis for an official investigation into Soviet espionage.

WOMEN CRY

Many of the crowd who collected at the airport to see her leave were Russians who have settled in this country. Women cried hysterically "Don't let her go" while the men aimed blows at the Russians escorting the weeping woman to the plane.

She is flying back to Moscow by way of Rome and Zurich.

When Mrs. Petrov arrived with the two couriers and a woman member of the Soviet embassy, here was an apparent attempt by the crowd to overturn the car.

Seaway Bill Change Torpedoes Plan

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The head of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Association today described an amendment to the St. Lawrence seaway bill proposed by Representative Charles Brownson (Rep. Ind.) as "an underwater torpedo to sink the administration program."

Dr. N. R. Danielian of Washington, the association president, added that Brownson's amendment to the seaway bill was "fused by the irreconcilable opponents of the seaway." He said the amendment is being promoted by railroads and the National Coal Association.

"It must be stopped before it does its damage," said Danielian in an address prepared for delivery before the council of civic clubs of Minneapolis.

The seaway project involves construction of a 27-foot channel from Montreal to Lake Erie.

TOLL REVENUES

Brownson has said he will introduce the amendment to the administration-backed Wiley-Dondero bill, which would authorize the U. S. treasury to buy revenue bonds to finance the seaway project. As the bill now stands, the bonds would be repaid, with interest, through toll revenues.

Brownson's version would provide for the issue by the St. Lawrence Seaway Corporation of bonds without government guarantee.

"The Brownson substitute is such an obvious joker," Danielian said, "that if the bill should be approved according to his version, there is no alternative for us but to advocate the president veto it, so that Canada can go ahead promptly and build the project."

Danielian stressed that even the soundest enterprise cannot be capitalized 100 per cent by bond issue and that the government could not give a mortgage on the seaway to private bondholders.

UNTHINKABLE SITUATION

"It would be unthinkable," he added, "to create a situation when private bond holders could take over possession of the St. Lawrence seaway, in case of temporary insufficiency of revenues during the first few years of the seaway, or could move in and determine the toll rates. . . . The United States could not forfeit its sovereign powers over this international waterway."

Danielian also expressed doubts whether the Brownson version would be constitutional."

Canadian Delegation Feels Gloomy

Pearson, Aides Have Meagre Hope UN Aim Reached

OTTAWA (CP)—A gloomy Canadian delegation leaves today for the Geneva conference on Korea and Indo-China.

External Affairs Minister Pearson and his aides held out meagre hope that Communist China and Russia would even approach the United Nations aim—a unified Korea where free elections could be held.

Canada, the nation which supplied the fourth largest armed force in Korea, after South Korea, the United States and Britain, will hold two bargaining cards at Geneva, but it is practically certain neither will be used.

One card is Canadian government recognition of China. The other is Canadian support for Chinese membership in the UN. Canada would likely place these cards on the table only if China pulled out of Korea and Indo-China and that "if" is remote.

Both Mr. Pearson and Prime Minister St. Laurent have said the government is not now considering recognition of Communist China but that it might if conditions change; that is, if the Reds show a conciliatory attitude toward the West and back it up with deeds.

OPPOSES RECOGNITION

Furthermore, the U.S. is stubbornly opposed to recognition and has said it will not shrink from using the veto to keep Red China out of the UN. The U.S. will be chief spokesman for the West at Geneva.

The conference starts a week from today. The Canadian delegation, leaving by air from Montreal, plans to stay six weeks and it is unlikely it will participate in that part of the conference dealing with Indo-China. Canada has not been asked to make any commitment in Indo-China and is not among the 10 nations which are to consider formation of a Southeast Asia pact similar to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Before Geneva, Mr. Pearson will attend a meeting of NATO foreign ministers at Paris April 23. There the West will discuss further its approach to the Geneva meeting.

After Mr. Pearson, top man on the delegation is Chester Ronning, now Canadian minister to Norway but an old China hand who speaks Chinese fluently. John W. Holmes, assistant under-secretary in the external affairs department, is the Russian expert who has served in Moscow. The remaining two members are C. E. McGaughey of the department's Far Easter division who was serving in Tokyo in the early days of the Korean war, and J. E. de Lotbiniere of Mr. Pearson's office.

BATTAGLIA SLAIN—Frank Battaglia, 39, former resident of Oakville, Ont., was found slain in Montreal less than 24 hours after he had been freed on a murder charge connected with what police termed a gangland slaying. He and James Rogers, 21, were acquitted of charges of killing Charles (The Kid) Wagner in April, 1953. Police said Battaglia's killing was a result of gangland vengeance and added that marks on his neck indicated he had been hanged or strangled with a rope.

See Geneva Initiative Objective

Think Soviet, China Would Join As Full Partners

LONDON (Reuters) — The Communists will try to seize the initiative at the Geneva conference on the Far East, diplomatic observers here believe.

They may try to counter the proposed Southeast Asia regional defence pact by proposing an Asian security pact which would include Russia and Communist China as full members.

In general Communist tactics at the Geneva meeting which opens April 26 are expected to be the Asian counterpart of proclaimed Communist policy in Europe.

At the Berlin conference of the Big Four foreign ministers early this year, Russia proposed a European security pact, in which she would take part.

She has since indicated that the United States could also participate. The Soviet government has also said it is prepared to consider joining the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, so as to convert the nature of this pact from "aggressive" to "defensive."

DIVERT ATTENTION

Thus, Soviet policy in Europe has aimed to divert attention from Russia as the possible aggressor by contending that Germany represents the main danger to peace. This argument is calculated to appeal specially to the French.

Military Funeral At Halifax For Premier

HALIFAX (CP)—Angus L. Macdonald was buried today after an impressive military funeral.

The coffin of the Nova Scotia premier who died Tuesday at 64 was taken at 9:30 a. m. from the Red chamber of Province House where he had lain in state since Thursday. It was borne on the shoulders of a pallbearers party, six of whom were Nova Scotia cabinet ministers.

One hundred members of the three armed service and scores of mourners of every rank formed the funeral procession. The coffin, draped with flags and flowers, rode on a gun carriage in the middle of the long line of marchers.

CELEBRATED MASS

Hhe Most Rev. Gerald Berry, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Halifax, celebrated pontifical requiem mass at St. Mary's basilica.

The burial was at Gate of Heaven cemetery at Lower Sackville, 14 miles from Halifax.

Personal representatives of Governor-General Massey and all the lieutenant-governors and premiers rode in the procession along with four federal cabinet ministers.

Premier Harold Connolly, who succeeded Mr. Macdonald the day after his death, headed the 10 honorary pallbearers.

New Hospital Checks Doctors

TORONTO (CP) — A "medical audit" which will scrutinize the work of every doctor will be instituted at the new Northwestern General Hospital scheduled to open here this year.

Harry F. Garwood, superintendent-administrator of the $1,700,000 York township hospital, said doctors would be prohibited from continuing any medical or surgical practice at the hospital when records and reports disclose that such procedures were not in the patient's interests.

Mr. Garwood said the system would ensure that no doctor undertook work which records showed he was not qualified to perform.

Hospital authorities here said that the "medical audit" technique is not strictly new and is in effect at all properly-run hospitals.

Vietminh Widens Break In Fortress Defence As French Fight Furiously

HANOI (AP)—The French fought furiously today to hold back Vietminh assault troops stabbing toward the centre of Dien Bien Phu's fortifications from the northwest.

The rebels were in a newly menacing position after weekend fighting widened their break in the northwestern rim of the fortress' defence system.

They captured a second outpost Sunday and filtered back at night into trenches on the main Dien Bien Phu airstrip.

Vietminh pressure also was reported increasing against the southernmost strongpoint of the French-held plain.

Bayonet-wielding French infantrymen had driven the Vietminh from air field entrenchments for a few hours Sunday. But the latest infiltration re-established their foothold in the shadow of the French headquarters bunkers, just 800 yards away.

FIGHTING CONTINUES

A terse French army communique said heavy fighting in the sector still raged today. French tanks and artillery blasted at the Vietminh troops taking cover in trenches running across the northern part of the airstrip. French union troops charged them in hand-to-hand encounters.

French army spokesmen said the Vietminh still in the airstrip trenches "were not in considerable strength" but were bitterly resisting attempts to dislodge them.

The spokesmen added that the French were continuing to bolster their defence barricades in the northwestern corner of the fortress and also those in the northeastern sector.

American civilian pilots operating flying boxcars dropped tons more ammunition and war materiel into the fortress.

LOSS NOT SERIOUS

The French pulled out of the shattered northwestern outpost Sunday after they counter-attacked and smashed back a Vietminh attempt to wipe out the post's garrison. A French army spokesman said the loss of the position was not regarded as serious.

There still is no indication when the expected all-out strike will come. It is thought, however, that the Communist Vietminh commanders will try for a major victory to influence the east-west conference starting in Geneva April 26.

Police Identify Body In Brook

SYDNEY, N. S. (CP)—Police have identified the body of a young woman found floating in a brook on Sydney's outskirts as that of Mrs. Florence Deverne, 25, of Glace Bay, N. S.

Relatives who identified the body today said they had not seen her since November. Relatives said she and her husband had been estranged for some time.

An autopsy performed Saturday disclosed the woman had been strangled. Finger marks were found on the throat of the decomposed body. Coroner A. D. Muggah of Sydney has called an inquest for May 3.

'LOVER'S LANE' NEARBY

The body, believed to have been in the water from one to three weeks, was found by an eight-year-old boy out fishing Friday morning. It was lying in two feet of water.

The brook runs alongside a secluded "lovers' lane," a roadway leading into the woods and used for hauling lumber. Debris scattered along the road indicates it is a much-used parking place.

Dodge Ammunition Fighting Northern Fire

URANIUM CITY, Sask. (CP)—Damage is estimated at nearly $250,000 in a fire which razed two Hudson's Bay stores and a warehouse Saturday in the centre of this northern mining city.

No one was injured.

Firemen concentrated their efforts on two nearby cafes and anotehr warehouse, to which the flames, fanned by high winds in near-zero weather, spread intermittently during the blaze.

The 11-man volunteer fire brigade, helped by a bucket squad, dodged exploding ammunition from the stores as they worked.

Devalue Peso For Tourists

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The government announced Saturday a 30.8-per-cent devaluation of the peso, effective today to strengthen Mexico's economic condition at home and abroad.

Treasury Secretary Antonio Carrillo Flores said the peso will be devalued from 8.65 to 12.50 to the dollar.

The devaluation took Mexico completely by surprise. Even bank officials, notified of the original announcement which came from the International Monetary Fund in Washington, said they had had no inkling of it.

The change will mean a sharp increase in prices for most items and not much immediate change in salaries. As a result, it could touch off a wave of strikes and political unrest such as occurred when the last devaluation was announced in 1940.

DOLLAR RESERVE

Carrillo Flores told reporters the Mexican government has a substantial dollar reserve—$201,000,000—but that the devaluation step was taken to cut down imports of non-essential items, encourage exports, which have been lagging, discourage flow of Mexican capital abroad while at the same time encouraging investments in Mexico, and make tourist dollars mean more to Mexico.

OTTAWA (CP) — Mexico's devaluation of the peso Likely will make it harder for Canadian exporters to sell to that country.

A trade department official, commenting on a Mexico City report that the Mexican government during the week-end devalued the peso from 8.65 to 12.50 to the dollar said the move probably would hit hardest at items imported from Canada which are considered by Mexican authorities to be non-essential.

2 Belgian Parties To Form Coalition

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — Belgian Socialist and Liberal parties agreed in principle here today to form a coalition to replace the Catholic government defeated in the general election eight days ago.

The agreement, announced in a Socialist communique, will now be considered by the national councils of the two parties.

Test Quick Draw Boy 13, Killed

KINGSTON (CP)—A 13-year-old Toronto boy was accidentally killed Saturday night when shot in the forehead by his 14-year-old pal while they were emulating the "quick draw from the hip" of wild west days.

The accident occurred at Adolphstown, 25 miles west of here.

Provincial police believe that Robert Andrew Reyburn was shot by Neville Taylor whose father owned the store where the fatal accident occurred.

According to police the two boys had been playing alone in the store and were practising quick draws and the "technique" of shooting from the hip. Police said the Reyburn boy was using a cap pistol and the storekeeper's son was playing with the revolver kept in the store's cash register.

The Reyburns were visiting the Taylors over the Easter week-end.

Police Confirm Train Wreck 'Criminal Act'

QUEBEC (CP) — A Provincial Police spokesman said today there is no doubt that a fatal train wreck at nearby Montmagny April 6 was the result of a "criminal act."

The statement was made by Lieut. Martin Healey, ace investigator on the provincial detective force.

An official of Canadian National Railways said last week that the wreck was caused by a switch deliberately opened by a person or persons unknown.

Four persons, three of them crew members, were killed when the crack Halifax-Montreal Ocean Limited, plowed through the open switch on to a siding and into some freight cars. Some freight sheds were demolished in the collision.

BODY IN SHED

The fourth victim in the wreck was identified as John A. Price of New Waterford, N. S. His body was found in the wreckage of the freight sheds. CNR investigators could not say how he was involved in the accident. They said he was not an employee of the railway or a passenger on the train.

None of the train's 68 passengers was seriously injured.

Damage caused by the collision has been unofficially estimated at $2,000,000.

Lieut. Healey declined to elaborate on his statement. It is believed three men have been questioned and cleared of any connection with the accident.

However, new information was understood to have come to light to confirm police suspicions that the accident was the 'work of a maniac or of someone with a grudge.

Pall Of Dust Covers Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—A fine pall of dust fell on Toronto Sunday just in time for the various Easter parades.

On the city's fringes, the restricted visibility appeared to be the result of clouds. In downtown areas, it seemed to be a by-product of factory smoke.

The weather man said it was neither. It was dust from North Dakota.

The weather office said strong winds lashed across the north-central United States and sent loose specks of topsoil high into the air.

Does Her Good Deed Gets Black Eye, Cut

HAMILTON (CP) — A Hamilton woman will think twice before befriending animals at the side of highways.

Miss Willis Perroe stopped her car in Algonquin park Sunday when a dozen deer emerged timidly from the bush. She walked to the animals armed with chocolate bars.

A buck ate his fill, then raised himself on hind legs and swiped at the woman with both front paws. A forest ranger treated her for a black eye and a deep cut on her forehead.

Return Grosser To Montreal

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—A Canadian business man who protested he would be murdered "within 24 hours" if deported to Toronto to face criminal charges was ordered returned today to Montreal instead.

The U. S. immigration department said Abraham Isaac Grosser, 41, of Montreal, will be returned by train today via Rouses Point, N. Y. He will be turned over to Quebec Provincial Police, who want him for questioning in connection with some stolen bonds.

Grosser lost a court fight here last Thursday to change a deportation order directing his return to Canada via Buffalo and into the custody of Ontario Provincial Police.

Grosser has said he would have no fears for his safety in the custody of the Quebec police.

Grosser, known also as William Philip le Gros, is president of a landscaping and gardening firm in Toronto.

BULLETIN

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — State Secretary Dulles said after a conference with President Eisenhower today it is "unlikely" that American troops will be sent into Indo-China if the French pull out.

Nasser Becomes Boss Of Egypt Once More Naguib Kept As Figurehead President

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Lt.-Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser once more was Egypt's boss today, in title as well as in fact, and Maj.-Gen. Mohamed Naguib was relegated to a figurehead presidency.

In the latest lightning shift in the turbulent Egyptian political picture, the young army officers of the ruling Revolutionary Council early Sunday switched the premiership and military governorship from Naguib to Nasser.

The 53-year-old Naguib, who recently lost out in his fight to re-establish parliamentary rule in Egypt, swore in a new cabinet. The first formal session, lasting less than an hour, was held Sunday night under Nasser at which he is reported to have outlined general policy. Naguib did not attend.

A decree by Naguib also relinquished to Nasser the military governorship set up by the martial law clamped on Egypt after the 1952 Cairo fire riots.

REVOLT THREATENED

The 36-year-old Nasser first took over as government chief seven weeks ago when the Revolutionary Council deposed Naguib, charging him with dictatorial designs. At that time segments of the army threatened revolt, and Naguib was hastily reinstated, first as president and a week later as premier and chairman of the Revolutionary Council.

Nasser now appears firmly entrenched. He has held behind-the-scenes power in Egypt ever since he engineered the 1952 army rebellion against ex-king Farouk.

A new cabinet post, the ministry of presidential affairs, was created back his position where he cannot and is expected to keep Naguib in again threaten the rule of the military council. Wing Cmdr. Hassan Ibrahim, a member of the council, got the assignment.

Nasser announced Sunday that his older rival had stepped down because of ill health and a "desire to devote his full time to the post of president."

NEW VIOLENCE

From the Suez canal zone came reports of new violence between Britons and Egyptians. A British army spokesman said a guard on an army truck was killed in a holdup at Port Said. Three Egyptians stole the truck and kidnapped the driver. He returned about midnight with a minor neck injury.

Also at Port Said, a British sentry in the customs zone fired on an Egyptian worker trying to steal from a barge, the spokesman said. Later a body, believed to be that of the thief, was found floating in the water.

Eisenhower, Dulles Confer On Effort To Bolster Indo-China Against Reds

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles confer here today on U.S. efforts to bolster Indo-China against the Reds and save the rest of Southeast Asia from communism.

The president sent his private plane, the Columbine, to Washington for Dulles and the cabinet officer's first hand report on his London and Paris negotiations last week to work out a Pacific defence alliance.

Dulles was scheduled to go immediately to the president's Easter holiday headquarters at the Augusta National Golf Club. They planned to talk at lunch and afterward. The secretary plans to fly back to Washington in the late afternoon.

One aspect of the Eisenhower-Dulles conference may be the controversy touched off in Congress by Vice-President Richard Nixon's statement Friday, in reply to a hypothetical question, that U. S. troops might have to be sent into Indo-China if the French withdraw. Nixon prefaced his answer, however, by saying he doesn't think the French will pull out.

IDENTITY LEARNED

Nixon spoke at a meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors and stipulated at the time that his remarks were not to be attributed to him. But the identity of the speaker later leaked out.

Eisenhower's headquarters has declined comment on whether Nixon's statement represents administration policy. James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary, refused comment specifically Sunday night on a demand by Senator Albert Gore (Dem. Tenn.) that Eisenhower make his policies clear with respect to Indo-China.

The statement department, in a statement Saturday night prompted by Nixon's remarks, said it is "highly unlikely" that U.S. forces will have to replace French forces in Indo-China. But the department backed up the vice-president's stand that Southeast Asia must be saved.

One-Legged Man Charged With Murder

TORONTO (CP)—A one-legged cattle buyer was charged with murder Saturday after an emergency operation failed to save the life of another disabled man, a 36-year-old war veteran, who was stabbed in the kitchen of a west Toronto home.

Harold Shaw of Toronto was taken to hospital with a deep stomach wound and died 14 hours later. William Lunness, 54, was booked on the murder charge.

Police said Shaw, a handsome man, called at the Lunness home to see Mrs. Margaret Jackson, 29, the accused man's daughter. After a while Lunness told him to leave but Shaw refused.

WOUNDED IN FIGHT

Police said Lunness threatened to go next door to telephone police and that Shaw received the stab wound during a fight in the kitchen. A butcher knife was seized.

Officers said Lunness' left leg was amputated after a gangrene infection, and he wears an artificial leg. They said Shaw lost the use of his right arm in a Second World War injury.

Police quoted Mrs. Jackson as saying she and Shaw planned to be married.

Landy Makes Good Showing

MELBOURNE (AP) — John Landy, Australia's champion miler, ran a 4:02.6 mile, one of his best performances, at the Bendigo show grounds tonight in his farewell appearance before leaving for a tour of Scandinavia and the British Empire games in Vancouver.

Running by himself after the half-mile mark, Landy finished more strongly than he has in any previous appearance. But a slow third quarter spoiled any chance of breaking Gunder Haegg's world record of 4:01.4.

Landy said after the race he had run most of the distance with a football stud struck on a spike in his right shoe, which had put him off balance throughout.

B.C. Windshields Damaged Now

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia motorists today eyed pockmarked windshields cautiously amid a growing volume of reports that a baffling phenomena had spread across the international border from Washington state.

Mayor Charles Cates of North Vancouver was among scores of B.C. motorists reporting damage. He said a number of pock marks about the size of a pin head had appeared on his windshield while the vehicle was parked Friday night.

"Whatever it is, it pits the glass, you can feel it with your finger nail," he said. "The biggest one on my car is about the size of the head of a pin. It doesn't seem to hit the paint work at all."

"The mark is not a scratch and I don't think it's caused by sand or dust," he said. "It seems like some kind of atmospheric action."

Lodge Declares Red China 'Unfit' For UN

NEW YORK (AP)—Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, said today Red China is giving substantial aid to aggression in Indo-China and is "unfit" to join the United Nations.

He gave 10 reasons why the United States would resist any efforts of the Chinese Communists to "bribe" their way into the UN with promises of future good behavior.

His statement delivered at The Associated Press annual luncheon, came only a week before the opening of the Geneva conference. Red China will send representatives to the conference to discuss a Korean war settlement.

In his 10-point indictment of Red China, Lodge said "it continues to support aggression in Indo-China, by giving substantial aid and by furnishing advisers and technicians to the Vietminh forces."

This was Lodge's only reference to Indo-China in his prepared text.

POINTS LISTED

The other nine points Lodge made against Red China were that:

It opposed the purposes and principles of the United Nations.

It was an aggressor in Korea.

It occupied "defenseless Tibet."

It sponsors guerrilla and subversive movements in Malaya and throughout Southeast Asia.

It committed atrocities against Americans and others fighting in Korea.

It still holds 32 American civilians "under barbarous conditions without published charges."

It "wilfully fabricated and publicized false evidence of spurious germ warfare charges" in a hate campaign to blacken the United States.

It executed "millions of its captive subjects, and forced other millions into slave labor."

It "even stoops to an international extortion racket in squeezing millions of dollars from overseas Chinese who try to buy safety and protection for their relatives at home."

Neighbors Save Church Parsonage

BANCROFT. — Quick work by neighbors saved the St. Ola United church parsonage from destruction by fire Friday afternoon after it was set afire by an exploding oil space heater which knocked down the stovepipes.

The United Church minister, Rev. S. Fuller, was in Bancroft and Mrs. Fuller was in the parsonage alone when the stove exploded. She hastily summoned neighbors who were able to confine the blaze to the living room, the remainder of the house escaping serious damage except from smoke and water.

Wolverhampton Gains Two-Point Lead

LONDON (Reuters) — Wolverhampton Wanderers gained a two-point lead in their hard-fought battle for the English soccer league championship today by downing Huddersfield 4-1.

The victory gave them a 55-53 margin in the league standing over West Bromwich Albion, which was held to a 1-1 draw by Aston Villa.

Both leading clubs have two games to play with matches scheduled tomorrow.

200 Delegates Are Expected To Attend Recreation Rally

Recreation becomes big-time business in Peterborough at the end of April when some 200 delegates from all parts of Ontario will meet for a three-day conference under the auspices of the Ontario Recreation Association.

This is the association's ninth annual meeting and already advance notifications have promised a record attendance.

As Peterborough's recreation director, Ken Robinson is having a busy time playing host and especially with accommodation arrangements. Assisting him in this are Mrs. C. C. Pilon of the housing committee and Bob Hamilton from the Chamber of Commerce.

With conference headquarters at the Empress hotel, the delegates have a heavy program of discussions and lectures ahead of them beginning April 30. Actually, the trading of ideas will be one of the main features of the meetings. The association's conference motto is "Recreation—Its Future".

Among visiting speakers will be Dr. E. Zeigler and Professor C. E. Hendry of the School of Social Work, Toronto. These two, with several others, will discuss administration, programs, leadership, facilities and finance. Several non-public agencies are also being represented.

Mr. Robinson said today that he expected about 80 municipalities would be represented at the conference.

But they are buying fewer automobiles and other durable goods, and are spending more for personal services such as medical care and education, the department said in its monthly survey of current business.

Simone Plans Lead Hollywood

NEW YORK (AP) — Simone Silva, British bit player who upset the decorum of the Cannes film festival with some brash posing, proclaimed today she's "out to beat" Jane Russel and Marilyn Monroe as a Hollywood actress.

"They have been there long enough and now I would like to reign," the 24-year-old said as she arrived at Idlewild airport from London.

Miss Silva first got attention when she removed the upper half of her clothing while posing for some photographs with actor Robert Mitchum in Cannes. Today she said Mrs. Mitchum witnessed the episode and "was made." Miss Silva said she couldn't understand why, because she was the one who caught a chest cold.

"If a girl has a figure, why shouldn't she show it?" said the British miss.

She was wearing a black silk dress when she arrived, but later posed for airport photographers in scanty shorts and mink jacket.

Claims Russia Has H-Bomb

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) Russia's Andrei Vishinky said today the Soviet Union has "built the hydrogen bomb," but still demands prohibition of all atomic and hydrogen weapons.

He appeared to foredoom any agreement on arms control in the UN by announcing that nothing useful would come from a subcommittee of the big powers unless Red China, India and Czechoslovakia were included.

The west wants a sub-committee of the UN disarmament commission to be composed of Britain, Canada, France, the Soviet Union and the United States.

Vishinsky said that T. F. Tsiang, Nationalist China's delegate who was chairman of the disarmament commission, was presiding illegally. He attacked Tsiang after the Chinese had denounced Vishinsky's proposal to include Red China.

The twin proposal for Asia would be a "collective security" pact in which Russia and China would join as full partners with the Western powers and other associated powers. It would probably be baited with a call for an immediate ceasefire in Indo-China, and promises of a final settlement in Korea. It would probably also envisage admittance of China to United Nations membership.

The Communists would argue that the pact would be directed against "the revival of Japanese militarism," Japan having been the enemy of the Western coalition in the Second World War, though of Russia only during the last week of the war.

While Washington could be counted on to reject such a proposal, some French officials, sick of the fighting in Indo-China, might be tempted to look twice at it.

Dickenson Appears Before Court Martial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson went before Court martial today on charges of informing on his fellow prisoners of war while a captive in Korea.

Dickenson, a short, dark youth of 23, glanced somewhat timidly at the nine officers on the court panel as the proceedings began at Ft. McNair, in southwest Washington.

Dickenson's bride of three months was among a score of spectators.

Col. C. Robert Bard, the prosecutor, said he planned to take a week to present his case and that he would summon about 40 ex-PoWs who were with Dickenson at prison camp No. 5 at Pyoktong, Korea.

"Save Me"

After a scuffle lasting about eight minutes police forced their way through the crowd and assisted Mrs. Petrov and the other passengers out of the car.

Police led the Russians by a back way to the plane. The woman official walked on one side of Mrs. Petrov and one of the couriers on the other, both with a firm grip on Mrs. Petrov's arms.

ON VERGE OF TEARS

Mrs. Petrov, on the verge of tears, kept repeating several words in Russian. Some of the crowd were heard shouting that Mrs. Petrov had said again and again "I do not want to go. Save me."

W. C. Wentworth, a Liberal member of the federal Parliament who was at the airport, took declarations from a number of people who say they heard Mrs. Petrov declare she did not want to leave.

The 35-year-old woman, whose diplomat husband took political asylum in Australia, was accompanied on the British Overseas Airways plane by two Soviet couriers who arrived late last week to escort her back to Moscow. F. V. Kislitsin, embassy second secretary, also stepped aboard the airliner with her.

They had just completed a 200-mile dash by road from Canberra to catch the plane at Sydney airport.

The Petrovs have not seen each other since April 3 when Vladimir deserted his job as third secretary and secret police representative at the embassy and was granted political asylum in Australia.

KIDNAPPING CHARGED

The day after Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies announced Petrov's decision last Tuesday, his 35-year-old wife told a press conference at the Soviet embassy that he had been "kidnapped."

Menzies said her charge was "ludicrous" especially since a kidnapped man would not, as Petrov had done, bring hundreds of documents with him from the embassy.

LANGUAGE DIFFICULTIES

Kislitsin arrived first at the airport. He carried four passports and at one time appeared to be having language difficulties with an airline clerk.

Later another member of the Soviet embassy translated for Kislitsin, who paid the extra fare required to extend the Soviet passengers' flight from Rome to Zurich.

The two Russians leaned on the ticket counter with their backs to a big crowd of newspaper men and photographers, ignoring the flashing camera bulbs.

They pushed their way through the crowd, parrying reporters' questions about Mrs. Petrov with "I don't know" or "I'm sorry, I can't tell you."

Outside the overseas terminal building the group was surrounded by a crowd including many immigrants to Australia. When the two Russians tried to disengage themselves, one of the "new Australians" lunged forward and knocked off Kislitsin's hat. He caught it before it reached the ground.

They then entered the customs room, where no one was able to follow them.

A big crowd surrounded Mrs. Petrov's car when it arrived 10 minutes before the plane was due to leave.

There was a struggle around the plane and the crowd pulled away the gangway.

Hold Two Men For Questioning

MONTREAL (CP) — Police said today they are still holding two Toronto men for questioning in connection with the strangling of Frank Battaglia, found dead in a weed-choked vacant lot last Thursday less than 24 hours after he had been freed on a murder charge.

Police, who have not identified the men, said there is "nothing new to report in the case to date."

It is believed the two are being held pending a further check with Toronto police but what information they hope to obtain from the men is not known publicly.

42 Fatalities Death Toll For Holiday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least 42 persons met violent death in Canada over the long Easter weekend. Twenty-six died in traffic accidents, five were drowned and police said three persons were slain.

A Canadian Press survey showed that Quebec province led the toll with 15 deaths. Ontario had 11 deaths, Nova Scotia five, British Columbia four, Manitoba three, Alberta two and Newfoundland and New Brunswick one each.

Roads made slippery by rains in many parts of the country led to many traffic accidents. Quebec alone counted 12 traffic fatalities and Ontario five.

Four persons died in one Quebec accident alone. The Gravelle family were returning to their home from Easter mass when their car collided with a train in the village of Val David. Killed were Rolland Gravelle, 42, his wife, 38, their daughter, Cecile, 15 and son, Andre 10.

Three others died in another Quebec accident Thursday night when their car hit a bus near Hudson.

BOY IS SHOT

Thirteen-year-old Robert A. Reyburn, was fatally shot at Adolphstown, near Kingston, Saturday night by a 14-year-old pal, Neville Taylor, with whom he was playing cowboy shooting. The Taylor boy was playing with his father's revolver.

Drowning victims were an 11-year-old boy in a Quebec river when a motorboat overturned; a woman, 82, who stumbled into a small fish pond near Barrie, Ont.; a five-year-old Nova Scotia boy whose face was pinned in a half-foot of water when a stump overturned on top of him; a British seaman who fell off a ship in St. John's, Nfld., harbor; and a four-year-old boy who fell into a Manitoba river while at play.

THREE SHOOTING MISHAPS

There were three victims of accidental shootings. In Portage la Prairie, Man., a boy, 13, died when a gun he was examining in the basement of his home discharged; at Owen Sound, Ont., William George Johnson, who had been hunting groundhogs, died Sunday when his gun went off as he was climbing into his truck; and in Quebec a 16-year-old hunter died when a shotgun discharged into his stomach.

In Vancouver, James Iverson, 26, a truck driver, died of head injuries. Police said he was struck by the butt of an air rifle while he was trying to crash a party. Fred Butler, 43, was charged with murder.

In Toronto, Harold Shaw, 36, died of a knife wound in the stomach, and police charged William Lunness, 54, a cattle buyer, with murder.

Quality Of Canadian Hogs Declining Department Says

OTTAWA (CP)—That stout snout on the Canadian hog is causing deep concern among federal farm experts.

The long, lean porker is gradually giving way to the fat, unpopular pig and consumers are complaining, say agriculture department officials.

Placing the blame on the farmer's doorstep, the department says the quality of Canadian hogs is declining, "and lower hog quality can have only one result—lower general prices for hogs."

"Many farmers are still reluctant to accept individual responsibility for the hog business," the department said. "They seem to think that it is the business of the packer or of the government."

MARKETS DWINDLE

For some 30 years Canada concentrated on the lean, handsome yorkshire porker, mostly to satisfy the British market. But in recent years, Britain has purchased little or no pork from Canada and apparently some farmers are no longer concentrating on hog breeding.

It is generally known that high quality, lean carcasses are required for Britain, but few producers seem to be aware that the same lean porker is required for the Canadian market, the department added.

As for the United States market, "it is not fully recognized that the U.S. will pay a premium only for lean cuts—they have sufficient of the lard-type hogs in their own country."

While criticizing the farmer for a lackadaisical approach to hog quality, the department suggests there may be other reasons for the decline: Perhaps packers are not paying enough premium for top-quality pigs and farmers' organizations have perhaps not paid sufficient attention to hog marketings.

GIVE DEMONSTRATIONS

To overcome the latter problem, the 400,000-member Canadian Federation of Agriculture has sponsored packing plant demonstrations to determine future production policies. R. K. Bennett, the agriculture department's livestock marketing chief, has conducted demonstrations in Hull, Que., London, Ont., Winnipeg and Edmonton.

Mr. Bennett pointed out that in February packers paid the farmers 32 cents a pound for grade A dressed carcasses. On that basis the fat that had to be removed was worth only seven cents a pound instead of 32. The loss was borne by the farmer and showed up in the hog price.

The individual farmer must accept responsibility for hog quality, said Mr. Bennett.

Christians Of Many Lands Hold Service In Jerusalem

JERUSALEM, Jordan Sector (AP)—Church bells pealing over this ancient city Sunday called Christians of many lands to celebrate Easter services.

Chants and hymns chorused in many tongues as Protestants, Roman Catholics and Greek orthodox gathered in their churches to commemorate the resurrection of Christ.

The varied holidays being observed in the Holy city this weekend by widely different races, nationalities and creeds underlined the age-old struggle of conflicting religious interests which has contributed to Jerusalem's divided state.

As the Easter bells echoed over the Judean hills, Moslems from all over Palestine collected on the outskirts of Old Jerusalem to observe the feast of Nabi Musa (prophet Moses).

At the same time grey-bearded members of the Samaritan sect camped on Mount Gerizin to observe the Passover feast.

Some 300 Protestant pilgrims gathered in the garden outside Jerusalem's walls for a sunrise service beside the empty tomb where many believed Christ was buried.

A different type of Easter service was held by Roman Catholic faithful inside the old city around the holy sepulchre, which Latins and oriental Christians consider the authentic site of Christ's burial.

Bells and cymbals sounded in the background as the colorful procession moved into the Chapel of the Holy Sepulchre for pontifical high mass.

Pilgrims of the Greek orthodox faith—who according to their Gregorian calendar don't observe Easter until next Sunday—held Palm Sunday services in a chapel in front of the sepulchre. Bearded priests chanted the ritual.

Malaya Rebels Boost Attacks

SINGAPORE (Reuters) — Malaya's Communist leaders have decided to step up terrorist attacks in the British colony, a British army spokesman said here today.

The decision was made at top-level meetings at which the Communist guerrilla commanders overruled civilian party leaders who argued that the six-year-old war should be slowed down to win grass-roots support, an intelligence officer, Maj. R. J. Isaac, told reporters.

Meantime at Penang, pan-Malayan Labor party leader Inche Sopiee criticized "the recent snub" to his group by British Colonial Secretary Oliver Lyttelton. He said extremists might take over the Malayan independence movement if Britain still refused to meet demands for reforms.

Lyttelton has refused to hold talks with the combined United Malayan Nationalist Organization and the Malayan Chinese Association.

Maj. Isaac said the rebels' plan to step up jungle warfare was detailed in captured documents.

Isaac said the Malayan Communist party now is badly split and that the captured documents indicated growing defeatism, brought on by hardship and starvation.

Constable Solves Arrest Problem

TORONTO (CP) — Constable Charles Nowak had three break-in suspects on his hands Sunday night. His problem was to get them to a police station some miles away.

He solved it by ordering them to lie down on the ground and firing two shots in the air. This alarmed nearby residents who telephoned police. Other officers came on the run.

State Patrolman Aids Canadian Trucker

WOODSTOCK, Ill. (AP) — A state patrolman drove 12 miles in 12 minutes Sunday to assure a Canadian trucker an Easter Sunday with relatives after his arrest of the trucker imperiled it.

Patrolman Robert Dague had stopped Jack Voss, 40, Glencoe, Ont., for failure to have an Illinois licence for his auto transport truck. Justice of the peace Joe Ritter assessed a $10 fine, $4 costs and ordered Voss to buy licence plates costing $294 before proceeding.

Voss remarked that ended his hope to visit relatives in Milwaukee. He didn't have the money with him, and anyway, the plates couldn't be bought on Sunday.

Woodstock has no Sunday bus connection with Milwaukee, but a deputy sheriff learned a bus with Milwaukee connections would be at McHenry—12 miles away—in 12 minutes.

Ritter released Voss but ordered the truck held as security for fine and licence fee. Dague rushed Voss to McHenry—in time to catch the bus.

Easter Traffic Bumper To Bumper

COBOURG (ENS) — Only a few minor accidents occurred in this district over the weekend. Eastbound traffic was very heavy Thursday evening. Traffic continued heavy on Friday, although not as bad as the day before.

Return traffic Sunday afternoon and evening was so heavy that cars were travelling bumper to bumper from a mile east of Cobourg right through town past the main street traffic lights. Police had to use manual traffic control to keep cars moving.

It was said by police to be the worst Easter traffic in years. Weather conditions were good and this brought many locals cars out on the road.

The slight radio-activity would not harm life, they said.

Are Our Immigrants Unhappy?

We have read with deep interest some observations made by a Mrs. Margaret Clarke, a Scotswoman who has returned to her native land from Canada, after having lived for some time among us. Mrs. Clarke says (as she wrote her own article, there can be no suggestion that she has been misquoted) that "In every case of emigration that I know of the wife is very unhappy and either conceals it as well as she can at present because of the opportunities offered to her husband, or cannot conceal it, and affects the whole family". And why are these women unhappy? Mrs. Clarke's answer is that Canadian life is not "mature enough to offer women a life that is broadly cultural rather than universally provincial." The unhappy women of whom she speaks are "all women whose outlook is sophisticated and who are used to a broad cultural background to their lives". The picture that Mrs. Clarke draws of Canadian women shows them as intellectually dull, uninterested in any viewpoint but their own, and narrowly puritanical.

* * *

Now it would be easy to become indignant about what Mrs. Clarke has said, but it would do no good. We must discount some of her statements, of course. She has to justify herself for having made a failure of an experiment of emigration. And we must recognize that many immigrants come to Canada with an attitude of superiority which Canadians find irritating. But when we have made allowance for these things, what do we find?

* * *

We must recognize that emigration is a very big step in the history of any family and that many immigrants are desperately unhappy in their new land. Why would they not be? Old friends, old scenes, old customs and the familiar ways that they have known from childhood have been left behind; they speak with a strange accent among people whose speech, in their ears, is equally strange; ways of business and the management of trades is different; standards of living are different and food is different. Why would they not be unhappy? And it is the woman of the family who has least opportunity to accustom herself to the new land, for she probably does not go out to work, as her husband does, nor does she go to school, as her children do. She has has left behind. We in Peterborough should recognize this as well as any people in Canada. The early settlers in this district—Mrs. Moodie and Mrs. Traill in particular—made no secret of their scorn for their new country and their yearning for what they had left behind.

* * *

Let us be objective enough to recognize, also, that there is a measure of truth in what Mrs. Clarke says. Let us call her words half-truth. Some Canadians are self-satisfied, and uninterested in the opinions of people apart from their own kind. Some Canadian women are narrow and provincial in their outlook. The cultural life of the country is in some respects, poor. There are ignorant, and opinionated, and crass, and foolish people in Canada just as there are everywhere in the world — just as there are in Mrs. Clarke's native Scotland. But it must be pointed out that we tend to attract people who are like ourselves, and that people of all kinds have found happiness and friends in Canada if they took long enough to do it.

* * *

Perhaps the days of pioneering are over. In those days, the immigrant expected to take the rough with the smooth. Many of our readers are old enough to have watched this process at work. People who found no culture to their taste in Canada set to work and did their best to create what they missed, and often they succeeded far beyond their dreams. People who lived lives which were not governed by the same ideals as their neighbours persisted in their ways, and found after a time that their neighbours respected them, and that there was much to respect in their neighbours. They brought with them to Canada such gifts as they had, and very often they found that Canada had a place for their gifts. All that we can say is that Mrs. Clarke was unlucky, and that she has generalized somewhat too broadly on her own experience. Thousands of others have taken our country as they found it and then, little by little, they have moulded some part of it a little nearer to their heart's desire. They are the people who have made Canada, and are still making it.

"Broadly In Balance"

Unless they affect your own pocket, budgets are boring. We shall not therefore inflect on our readers a long dissertation on the new British budget which the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. R. A. Butler, brought down last week. Our British cartoonist Giles points out that entertainment and sports taxes have been reduced. This was one of the few tax changes made in the unspectacular budget. "Stability at home and competitive power abroad. . . . We have before us a picture of a Budget broadly in balance". It contains fewer changes than for many years. The Manchester Guardian commented coldly that: "To refrain from action can be as novel, after a long period of frantic driving, as any new departure. The philosophers of the East thought inertia mightier than deeds. Mr. Butler has put their teaching to the test".

What is the inertia Mr. Butler is testing? In the last twelve months great progress was made and an equilibrium achieved in domestic economy and gold balances. (Gold and dollar reserves rose from £240 millions sterling to £899 millions.) The improvement was due partly to successful export business. The last year followed an emergency budget of 1952 and an incentive budget of 1953. Now Mr. Butler feels that business and industry can be given their head and all will be well. In fact, the budget gives them some indirect assistance, through tax relief introduced in the form of "investment allowance". Industries just developing and expanding will find that the Exchequer does not take so much of their capital at a vital stage of their growth. The Chancellor's object is expansion without inflation. To achieve this production must continue to rise, exports to expand, investment to be increasingly productive, and labour must rest contented with present working hours and wages.

Canadians will be interested in the fact that there was an increase of £63 millions in the estimates for social services. This raises their cost to the total amount of the taxation from tobacco, beer, spirits and purchase tax. That a Conservative Chancellor of the Exchequer should not try to decrease the social services and in fact permit an increase, shows political acumen. However Mr. Butler's comment, well noted by the British public, should be kept in mind by Canadians who might tend to forget that there are no free welfare services; the cost comes out of the pockets of the people in the form of taxes. They are expensive in any country needing and desiring economic expansion. "I cannot bring my conscience to sanction further advances involving increases in public expenditure until we have the growth of existing commitments well in hand. If, but only if, we control expenditure and increase the national product at a faster rate than the growth of our commitments can we afford to enjoy the benefits which that expenditure confers on us".

To Be Read In The Wind

We have received a copy of a sheet which calls itself 'The Only Newspaper in America You can open in the Wind'; it is Harry Oliver's Desert Rat Scrap Book, and it is printed on stock which is not far below cardboard in its thickness and durability. We understand that the paper appears irregularly and its price is advertised as "Only one lousy thin dime". By a curious trick of printing it possesses five pages; if you think it is easy to create a five-page paper we suggest that you try it.

The news in the paper is of the lasting kind—no flighty stuff which is good today and old tomorrow. We particularly like an item about a near-sighted snake which tried to elope with a rope. There is not much advertising; presumably because advertisers want to know how often a paper is likely to appear within a given time. It contains one fine engraving of an old-time railway station office which is worth seven cents of anybody's money, and the remainder of the paper is cheap at three cents. After all, it has lasting quality; it is not one of those papers you have to read in a hurry.

The chief interest of the paper for us, however, is the reminder it brings of a time when journalism was more individual than it is now, and when an editor's personality expressed itself luxuriantly in his publication. A century ago Mark Twain was able to work on the Virgina City Enterprise as a reporter, and when there was no news, he made some. Nowadays there is no room for such free-wheeling journalism. We are chained to matters of fact—as exact as we can manage—and even our editorial opinion is confined within the bounds of what thousands of widely differing readers will put up with. Journalism has gained much in accuracy and prestige, but it has lost virtually all of its charm.

Spain's ambassador to Canada refers to Gibraltar as a "a worthless base". If it's worthless, you'd think the Spanish would be glad to have the British keep it up.

Extraordinarily Ordinary

A Review of Rt. Hon. Clement Attlee's Autobiography

By TOM HOPKINSON

THIS is an extraordinary book, extraordinary for its unbelievable ordinariness. The quality of not getting in a flap is admirable in a party leader: in a Prime Minister it may at times be noble. But it is of itself insufficient to constitute an author — indeed, when it comes to authorship, a rigid self-control, an unfaltering composure, is a handicap.

MR Attlee was Deputy Prime Minister for a great part of the war. He was Premier during one of the British people's rare revolutions — if he did not precisely summon its spirit from the vasty deep, he was in charge of the vessel when the spirit was abroad upon the waters. Yet his narrative of these tremendous events — in its deliberate underrating of each situation, its sturdy refusal to allow imagination the least flutter to venture upon any form of hypothesis, its kindly tributes to the loyaly of colleagues or officials — might be the record of vestry meetings, or the transactions of some minor company. Eight pages to the "Work of the Labour Government," including the atom bomb negotiations with President Truman: eight pages to "Foreign Affairs," a page to developments in Africa. The furthest Mr. Attlee ventures towards an expression of emotion over a personal situation is the use of the word "interesting":—

> I had an interesting time at the Suvla evacuation as I was in command of the rearguard holding a perimeter round the evacuation beach. Everything passed off peacefully, but it was interesting letting the various parties through. I left with the last party just before General Maude.

HIS STRONGEST tribute is the word "outstanding":—

> We were also fortunate in having three outstanding Chiefs-of-staff—Pound, Alanbrooke, and Portal . . . They were men of outstanding ability.

Sir John Dill, in the same paragraph, "did an outstanding service": so did Herbert Morrison in the next one, and Ellen Wilkinson at the bottom of the same page.

IT MIGHT be easy, in view of this steady depreciation of himself and the events in which he took part, to form a picture of the writer as some kind of shadow, or caretaker, who simply happened to be present when events took place. As every reader knows such picture to be a travesty, one is forced to try reading between the lines. This is somewhat more rewarding. An unfailing common sense has enabled Mr. Attlee to find simple problems which others twist themselves into knots rather than face squarely. Having adapted his own attitude to the facts he can make a point against those who do not with devastating simplicity:—

> It always appeared to me that some of my pacifist friends, in their insistence on the wickedness of warfare, seemed to think that an inefficient Army was less wicked than an efficient one.

Of a visit to Russia his lack of vanity enables him to record quietly:—

> I think that in the main we saw only that which was intended we should see.

JUST occasionally, as about Ramsay MacDonald, the mild man allows himself to be waspish. Just occasionally he allows himself a more-than-dead-pan humour.

> Unfortunately, my visit preceded by a few weeks the big purge which removed a number of those whom I had contacted, notably Marshal Tuchachevsky.
> I visited General Montgomery, who was in his caravan. He described to me his plans and showed me how closely what had actually happened coincided with the forecast which he had made.

ONCE or twice, too, an amusing anecdote creeps in, or a pointed criticism. In general, however, it is hard to call "As it Happened" anything but deeply disappointing. One does not expect "revelations," but one may fairly ask for a book to reveal something. One does not expect to be made a party to a public man's inmost thoughts and feelings, but one might perhaps be allowed a look at some of the outmost. What difficulties were the hardest? Where does he consider that he failed? Which of his colleagues gave him unexpected help or friendship? Was the author never hilarious? Or frightened? Or unjust? Or enraged? Or should one not expect such glimpses of reality in the autobiography of a public figure?

A brief record of events largely familiar; the considered expression of reasonable opinions; long extracts from speeches, some on purely formal occasions; the records of majorities in a succession of victorious by-elections: this is not so much the picture of a life as a greatly expanded entry in "Who's Who."

Unconsidered Trifles

"Don't be silly, dear—I don't care who left it to you."

An American Opinion: "I HAVEN'T A THING TO WEAR"

France's Indian Colonies

By PHILIP DEANE

THE request of the elected representatives of the French colonies on the east coast of Indian — Pondicherry, Karikal, Mahe and Yanaon — that they should be ceded to India, without a plebiscite, is believed here to provide the opening for a French move to relinquish control of these small territories.

The four French settlements, which have a total population of about 320,000 (a fifth settlement, Chandernagore was ceded to India in June, 1949, after a referendum) have been a constant reminder to India that "colonialism" is still "a danger nearer and more real than Communism." For some time past the French have been willing to return these territories to India, but as they are constitutionally a metropolitan area of France, they can be ceded only after a plebiscite. The French have been willing to hold a plebiscite, but the Indians have opposed it. The reason for the Indian opposition was that the people of the French settlements who benefit from their status and from the fact that Pondicherry, as a free port, is a smuggler's heaven, were obviously willing to remain under French rule. But the French for whom these territories are a liability, are believed to have indicated to the local leaders that France might at last renounce her control. These leaders, who have led the pro-French movement in the past, now appear to have adopted the role of "national liberation" leaders in order to ensure that their "sins" are forgiven by the Indian Government after the merger occurs.

The demand of the local leaders could be interpreted as equivalent to a plebiscite, thus satisfying both the French constitutional necessitities and the Indian anxiety not to lose face through an adverse vote. Indian sources describe the Indian Government's protest against French "intimidation" in Pondicherry as a propaganda move.

No repression is taking place in Pondicherry (the only incident has been the stealing of an Indian journalist's bicycle). The French have taken measures to prevent disturbances by alerting the "village constables."

According to one interpretation here, the Indian Government is publicising the Pondicherry question in order to distract popular attention from the dispute over American military aid to Pakistan, while the political forces of Pakistan realign themselves after the land-silde electoral victory of the Opposition in Eastern Pakistan last week. There is a danger, however, that the Indian attitude towards Pondicherry may arouse nationalist feelings in France and make an amicable settlement more difficult.

A Silly Attack

(MONTREAL STAR)

SPEAKING to the private broadcasters at their annual convention in Quebec, an orator got some snide remarks off his chest about what he called "the Massey definition of culture". The reference was more or less incidental, for the speech, like many of the speeches made during the meetings, was really an attack on the CBC. It seems to us widened to include the Governor General.

We don't know what the speaker meant when he talked about Canadian culture. The press despatches confined themselves to reporting that "the Massey definition of culture is not the definition of Canadian culture. It comes from the people." This is nothing but a jumble of words. It's a pretty brave man who sets out to define what culture is. It won't be done by merely saying that it is not something else.

For the sake of the record, however, it may be worth recalling what Mr. Massey was asked to do when he became chairman of the Royal Commission on National Development in the Arts, Letters and Sciences. The Commission's terms of reference were these:

"The Committee of the Privy Council have had before them a report dated 7th April, 1949, from the Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, the Prime Minister submitting:

"That it is desirable that the Canadian people should know as much as possible about their country, its history and traditions; and about their national life and common achievements.

"That it is in the national interest to give encouragement to institutions which express national feeling, promote common understanding and add to the variety and richness of Canadian life, rural as well as urban;

"That there exist already certain Federal agencies and activities which contribute to these ends; including the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, the National Film Board, the National Museum, the Public Archives, the Library of Parliament, the National War Museum, the system of aid for research including scholarships maintained by the National Research Council and other governmental agencies; and

"That it is desirable that an examination be conducted into such agencies and activities, with a view to recommending their most effective conduct in the national interest and with full respect for the constitutional jurisdiction of the provinces."

Mr. Massey presided over this examination, and the report he signed as chairman is a milestone—and a great one—in the development of the arts, letters and sciences of this country. The speaker at Quebec doubtless did not like its recommendations on broadcasting, and this is his right. The report was skimpy in its references to give-away programs, senseless quizes, wrestling bouts and the interminable, dreary sobbing of American crooners that take up so much time on the Canadian air. This may have been a serious oversight. But, if we have to choose, we will take the "Massey definition of culture" ahead of this balderdash, and so will most other Canadians who take a pride in their country.

We doubt if the cause of private broadcasting is advanced by attacks of this kind.

Bible Message

(From The Authorized Version)

And the Lord said unto Samuel, How long wilt thou mourn for Saul, seeing I have rejected him from reigning over Israel? Fill thine horn with oil, and go, I will send thee to Jesse the Beth-lehem-ite: for I have provided me a king among his sons . . .

And Samuel did that which the Lord spake, and came the Beth-lehem. And the elders of the town trembled at his coming, and said, Comest thou peaceably? And he said, Peaceably: I am come to sacrifice unto the Lord: sanctify yourselves, and come with me to the sacrifice. And he sanctified Jesse and his sons, and called them to the sacrifice.

And it came to pass, when they were come, that he looked at Eliab, and said, Surely the Lord's anointed is before him.

But the Lord said unto Samuel, Look not on his countenance, or on the height of his stature; because I have refused him: for the Lord seeth not as man seeth; for man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart . . .

Again, Jesse made seven of his sons to pass before Samuel. And Samuel said unto Jesse, The Lord hath not chosen these.

And Samuel said unto Jesse, Are here all thy children? And he said, There remaineth yet the youngest, and, behold, he keepeth the sheep. And Samuel said unto Jesse, Send and fetch him: for we will not sit down till he come hither. And he sent, and brought him in. Now he was ruddy, and withal of a beautiful countenance, and goodly to look to. And the Lord said, Arise, annount him: for this is he. Then Samuel took the horn of oil, and anointed him in the midst of his brethern and the Sipirt of the Lord came upon David from that day forward. (1 Sam. 16:1, 4-7, 10-13.)

Letters To The Editor

DESERTED PETERBOROUGH CEMETERY

SIR: Visited the abandoned and desecrated cemetery at the head of George street the other day, and copied these beautiful lines of sentiment from the broken stone. "Sacred to the memory of little BIRDIE, second daughter of Josia and Betsy Huntoon, who died April 6, 1864, aged four months and three days.

> This lovely bud so young and fair
> Called off by early doom — Just came
> To shew how sweet a flower — In Paradise

'Tis a wild looking place, with the stones scattered around like the bleached bones of slaughtered animals, and the least we could do would be to gather them up and give them decent burial.

CANADIANS OF BRITISH DESCENT

SIR: I would like to clarify one of the glaring mistakes from the letter of your recent misinformed correspondent, Marcel France, who tries (not very successfully) to vindicate French Canada for not doing its part in World War 11.

Canada is not of primarily of French origin or descent as he states, but of primarily British descent. The only manner in which his misleading conclusion can be reached is by separating the populations of English, Irish and Scotch. This practice has been occasionally resorted to by French Canadian propagandists to bolster the ego of what might be considered "the most coddled minority in the world." The truth of course is that these three races are all British and all English-speaking and are considered as one in the census. The results of the census taken in 1951 showed 6,709,685 Canadians of British extractions and only 4,319,167 of French descent.

Pope Appeals For Ban On H-Bomb

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Pope appealed in an Easter Sunday broadcast for an international ban on using atom and hydrogen bombs except for self-defence.

The 79-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church said he would try tirelessly to bring about such a ban by international agreement.

Broadcasting from his Vatican apartment, the Pope told the world that new "destructive arms of unprecedented violence" had brought "the fear of a third world conflict and a dreadful future" to the people.

He urged the rulers of nations to turn their new knowledge of atomic energy "exclusively to the purposes of peace."

The Pope lumped with H-bombs other mass destruction threats such as germ and chemical warfare.

Find One Body Of B.C. Tug's Crew

JUNEAU, Alaska (CP) — The floating body of an unidentified crew member of the wrecked Vancouver tug Chelan was found Saturday by a fishing vessel, but the fate of the other 13 men aboard remained a mystery.

Coast guard headquarters here said the fish boat Adam recovered the unidentified body from the frigid waters of the inland passage near the entrance to Port Malmesbury.

This was about 15 miles from the spot where the 148-foot Chelan and its bargeload of ore concentrates went down in a storm Thursday night.

Despair For Five

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese physicians apparently see no hope of recovery for five of the 23 Japanese fishermen affected by radioactive dust from the March 1 hydrogen bomb test in the Pacific. The Japanese Academy of Blood Studies said Saturday nothing can be done but watch the five, "for there is no adequate cure for them.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fred Butler, 43, was charged with murder during the week-end in connection with the death of a man who tried to gate-crash a party in the Butler home Friday night. PC Head To Make Coast-To-Coast Tour

OTTAWA (CP) — A 43-year-old Toronto manufacturer is making plans for a coast-to-coast tour of Canada to carry out his pledge to rebuild the Progressive Conservative party.

George Hees, newly-elected president of the progressive Conservative Association of Canada, will start his organizing trip after prorogation of the present session of Parliament. He will visit key centres in all provinces and confer with officials of provincial and local Progressive Conservative associations.

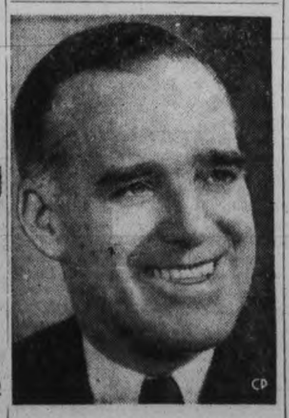
Between now and the end of the session, Mr. Hees, member of Parliament for Toronto Broadview since 1950, will devote most of his time to party organization in Ontario. This will leave him free to travel outside the province during the summer and fall.

"The tour is being planned in an effort to build up the party so we will have a first class fighting force in the field for the next general election," Mr. Hees said in an interview.

"Only by building up a force of this kind can the party carry its policies and philosophies to the people of Canada. I intend to meet association and riding officials and discuss plans for enlarging the membership of their organizations and for selecting suitable candidates for the next election."

MARITIMES IN JULY

Mr. Hees said he plans to spend the greater part of July touring the Maritime provinces. He will be in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia for a week and will spend three or four days in Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland.



He will be in Ontario for brief periods in August, but expects to spend most of the month touring Quebec. In September, he plans to visit British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, spending about a week in each province.

Mr. Hees' wife, Mabel, will accompany him during most of the cross-country tour.

Mr. Hees was elected president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada at the organization's annual meeting in Ottawa March 16. He succeeded George Nowlan of Wolfville, N. S., MP for Digby-Annapolis-Kings.

No Airtight Defence Possible Against Russian Air Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Nathan F. Twining, U.S. Air Force chief of staff, has advised Congress that Russia is expanding and improving an air force against which it is virtually impossible to build an airtight defence.

But at the same time he declared that the U.S. Air Force has the power to deliver nuclear weapons on short notice to any place, at any time—an offensive force stronger than Russia's "by a good margin."

At the same time, indication was given in testimony on the air force budget that the U.S. wishes to withdraw its fighting units from Korea during the year starting July 1, providing a firm peace treaty is obtained.

ANSWERS CRITICISM

Twining took issue with what he called "recent statements on the air" that the air force's long-range striking arm, the strategic air command, is not strong enough to do its job.

"The strategic air command 'is the best trained and finest equipped in the world," Twining said.

Twining, Air Force Secretary Talbott and other military leaders appeared before the House of Representatives appropriations subcommittee in mid-February. Their testimony was made public Saturday.

Maj.-Gen. Kenneth B. Hobson, director of manpower for the air force, touched on Korean withdrawal plans in explaining the manpower program.

Air force officials said there is no intention of stripping Korea of combat units while nothing more than an armistice is in effect. Such a program would not be possible until a final definite peace treaty is reached, they declared.

Carbon-Like Pellets Harmless–Scientist

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Tiny carbon-like pellets which have been falling in northwestern Oregon for the last two days apparently are harmless, a scientist said Sunday.

Dr. Arthur Livermore, chemist and radiologist at Portland's Reed college, said a microscopic examination revealed that the particles had no effect on glass. He said the feather-light pellets, about the size of a pin head, appeared to be an oil ash formed under great heat and probably were of industrial origin. They might be of volcanic origin, he said.

Where the pellets come from was not determined.

Marmora Falls To Lucan In Puck Game

MARMORA (ENS)— Showing superior play throughout and staging several fast rushes which the home defence failed to check, Lucan took their goodwill gesture exhibition game with Marmora on Saturday evening in piling up 13 goals as against five obtained by the homesters.

The exhibition was one of friendship as well as of hockey and so it passed off without a single penalty being issued. The assistant captain of the Lucan team, William Smith, who received the Ken McMillan Cup on behalf of his team, as captain Fred Levington had made the return trip to Lucan after Friday night's capture of the intermediate "C" championship, is a former Marmora boy. None of his former acquaintances begrudged him the pleasure of scoring the ninth goal for his team. He received the cup from Frank Buckland of Peterborough, incoming president of the OHA.

CONGRATULATES CLUBS

The latter, speaking over the public address system between the second and third periods, congratulated both teams on their calibre and extended them thanks for engaging in the new intermediate "C" competition.

Although there was nothing at stake, the hockey fans present, numbering nearly 400, enjoyed the effort both teams good-naturedly threw into the game. In the morning, cars were requisitioned by the Marmora players to take the visitors to the mine and plant of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation over which they were conducted by Mel Borland.

TEAMS

Marmora — Goal, Killian; defence, Gray Leonard; centre, Maynes; wings, Lavender, Trumble; alternates, Jones, Brooks, Mantle, Loveless, D. Smith, Darrah Brown, Nayler.

Lucan—Goal, Barnes; def., Gallagher, W. Smith; centre, Rowett; wings, Stretton Gaudette; alternates, L. Revington, G. Revington, Stevenson, MacTavish, McAlpine, Kirkpatrick, Watson.

Referees—Herb Payne and Bun Kingdon, Peterborough.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

When Jack Adams was playing hockey here back in 1917 no doubt it never occurred to him that some time in the future would see a most successful NHL manager in Detroit. That city wasn't even in the NHL then. But now, under Adams, the Detroit Red Wings have won six straight NHL titles, have been in Stanley Cup playoffs 16 years in a row, and Jolly Jawn has piloted the Wings to six Stanley Cup championships. Only Conn Smythe has a better record, having managed Toronto Leafs to the cup seven times. Canadiens also captured the cup seven times in their history, but not always under the same skipper. Yes, Jack Adams sure climbed the pro puck ladder since leaving Peterborough.

Walt Smillie reports a good hockey and skating season just finished at Civic Arena. The capable arena manager took in nearly $6,000 more this year as the rink's hockey share than a year ago. The senior "B" Petes averaged crowds of 1,126 for home schedule games, and the playoffs did better, of course. The junior "B" team had a shorter schedule, averaging just 418 a tussle till playoffs. Other hockey, skating and the canteen helped swell the funds to make the season a financial success for the arena. But one can't help wondering what the "take" would have been if Peterborough possessed a fine modern arena — a dream which may be reality in a couple of more years.

COBL Seeks Fourth Club

Prexy Jack Devine has called a COBL meeting for Belleville Tuesday eve to see what can be done about replacing Oshawa Merchants, who dropped out last week. The Petes will not operate in a three-club senior ball circuit, and probably Kingston and Belleville feel the same. A fourth club is a necessity, preferably Oshawa Transporters (who appear to be heading toward the Via-duct League), or else have an interlocking schedule to provide fans with more faces this summer. The Kingston Baseball Association — a senior city loop — intends to suspend any of the players who go out with the Kingston COBL entry, so there may be something of a player scrap down that way this spring. It's dog eat dog on the diamond.

The rough-house Dusek brothers appear in the main pro mat bout here this Wednesday night, taking on Ray Villmer and Ilio DiPaolo in a tag team event. Grapple fans will remember the vast assortment of illegal tricks employed by the villainous Duseks when they showed up this way a month or so ago. They've been headlining cards since at Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens, and no doubt are razor sharp as the wrestling season nears an end in this city. Villmer and DiPaolo have proven popular in local appearances and will get the fan support in this bout. Semi-finals pits Johnny Barend against the hot-tempered Toar Morgan, while Mike Paidousis meets Johnny Harmon in the prelim.

Lacrossers Look Around

The meeting of the senior lacrosse clubs was postponed over the weekend till next Saturday, and by that time the submitted OLA schedule should be approved and published. The Petes lodged a protest on St. Catharines signing Ross Powless and Roger Smith this spring, and that will be dealt with, too, at the next huddle of the senior squads. Bob Thorpe has been on the prowl looking for another good player or two, as he expects real stiff opposition in the four-team senior setup this season. Local prospects have started PT drills a couple of nights weekly in the YMCA. Season tickets for the Trailermen's home games have been going real good so far.

Peterborough delegates to the OASA annual at North Bay report a most successful convention with more voting delegates than ever before. Pretty much the same set of officers went back for another year. The gathering discussed no less than 62 amendments, but only passed 19. Most important one was that a batter who, struck by a pitched ball and who, in the judgement of the umpire, made a sincere effort to avoid being hit, will be awarded first base as in baseball. Previously, in softball it was simply called a "ball". Also, it was agreed that no part of a pitcher's clothing may be of white or cream colors. Delegates were royally entertained by the northerners. The OASA voted to hold the next annual meeting in Peterborough.

Wolves Lose Centre, Beaudry Fractures Ankle

SUDBURY (CP) — Sudbury Wolves, in the midst of the eastern Canada Allan Cup finals against Matane Red Rocks, received some bad news today when they learned that centre Hub Beaudry will be out of the line-up for the rest of the season. An x-ray examination showed he has a fractured left ankle.

The Wolves defeated the Red Rocks 4-2 here Saturday to take a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven series.

The team received another blow when Pete Horeck, former Chicago Black Hawk winger, suffered a foot injury in Saturday's game. He is a doubtful starter tonight.

SCRAPED THROUGH

Sudbury's hopes now lie heavily with the production line of Gordie Heale, Nick Tomiuk and Andy Milne which scored all four goals Saturday.

The Wolves scraped through Saturday by scoring three goals in the last two minutes.

Much of the credit for the victory goes to Al Millar, Sudbury netminder who stopped 29 drives.

Gord Heale scored twice, assisted on goals by Milne and Tomiuk, who each had three assists. Rene Pepin and Roy Leduc were the Matane snipers.

LAWN BOWLING

We were sitting doing a crossword puzzle the other evening when the phone rang. We answered it, and on the other end of the line was Len Bearne—and, by the way, Len is the president of the lawn bowling club. Said he: "Now that your curling season is over, how about giving the lawn bowling club a little of your time—tell the public all about the organization and outline the summer schedule?" So, as we have the "get up and go" sign from the president, here goes.

The lawn bowling club, situated on the corner of McDonnel St. and Monaghan Road, is this year celebrating its 25th anniversary on the present site. That the different committees are going all out to make this year an outstanding one there is no doubt. A tremendous amount of work has already been accomplished and the preliminary work is far from completion.

OPEN INVITATION

Just now we would like to extend an open invitation to all to come up to the greens and join the club. It's a wonderful pastime, played out in the fresh air and sunlight, and is one of the healthiest pleasures there is.

The fees are reasonable, the company congenial and there are all kinds of competitions.

Fred Mowry is membership chairman; you can get him by phoning 6869, and secretary Fred H. Dearborn at 8660.

That's all for now but we will follow up with more information in a day or two.

A two-mile juvenile record was set when Ray Hampton, 17, was timed in 10:06.7.

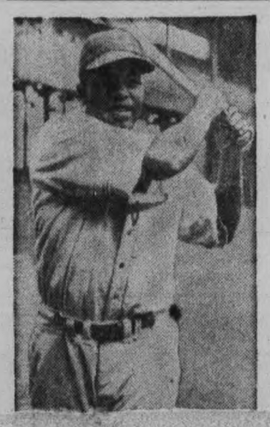
Marlies Press Hot Streak Down TeePees In 5-1 Win

TORONTO (CP)—Cold starters in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A finals, Toronto Marlboros retained their new-found hot streak with a 5-1 victory over St. Catharines TeePees here Sunday.

The victory, third in a row for the Dukes, tied the best-of-seven series 3-3 and forced a seventh game in St. Catharines Tuesday. The winner will advance into the eastern Canada Memorial Cup finals against Quebec Frontenacs.

Dukes were hard hit when John Albani, their sharp five-foot, five-inch netminder, was injured four minutes from the end of the game. He may not be ready for Tuesday's clash.

Albani was struck at the corner of the left eye by a hard drive from Hugh Barlow. Bob Senior replaced him. Although doctors said the injury isn't serious, the blow puffed the netminder's eye so badly that he couldn't see through it.



WILL SEEK RIGGIN

Marlboro manager Stafford Smythe said he would apply to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association for permission to use Dennis Riggin, outstanding netminder of Hamilton Cubs, in Tuesday's game if Albani isn't ready. The Dukes would also have to get permission from the Cubs. Riggin won the award as the league's top netminder.

It appeared that the wear and tear of the long playoff grind is beginning to show on TeePees. Their top line of Brian Cullen, Hugh Barlow and Barry Cullen was kept off the score sheet for the first time in the playoffs.

Marlboros, as in their previous two victories, came from behind to win.

Bob Pulford, Dave Jackson, Billy Harris, Wally Maxwell and defenceman Bob Baun scored singles for the Dukes. Pete Koval notched the St. Catharines marker.

Laverne Schnarr netted four goals for Elmira. Shorty Wildfong and Stan Stoddard scored two each and Orville Hahn, Shorty Town and Jack Oberle one each. Corley, Hatton and Packer scored for Lindsay.

CAHA President Discusses Schedule For Junior Finals

TORONTO (CP)—W. B. (Baldy) George of Kemptville, Ont., president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, will come here today to discuss the schedule of the eastern Canada Junior A hockey finals.

George, who will meet with Bill Hanley, Ontario Hockey Association business manager, is reported to be concerned that the OHA has not declared a winner. Quebec Frotenacs are waiting to play the OHA champions and the western Canada final is already under way.

The OHA final between Toronto Marlboros and St. Catharines TeePees was forced to a seventh game when Marlboros defeated the TeePees 5-1 here Sunday. The deciding game will be played in St. Catharines Tuesday.

Original plans called for the eastern final to start by last Tuesday. The Memorial Cup finalists were to be known by April 26. Now it is doubtful if the eastern champions will be decided by the end of the month.

If TeePees won the OHA championship, they will have only one guaranteed game in St. Catharines against the Frontenacs. The CAHA has decided all other games will be played in Toronto or in Quebec City.

Kingston Vics Down Waterloo Siskins 4-1

KINGSTON (CP)—Kingston Vics defeated Waterloo Siskins 4-1 before 1,279 fans Saturday night. The Vics play the next game of the OHA Junior B round-robin playoffs in Waterloo tonight.

Under-12 Players Begin Week's Series

GODERICH (CP) — Under-12 hockey players from three provinces today started a week-long series of games in the annual Young Canada Week pee wee hockey tournament here.

The tournament drew a record 47 entries this year from North Bay, Kingston, Toronto, Winnipeg and Temiskaming, Que., and many western Ontario centres. Teams are separated into four divisions, so that each competes with a team from a similar-sized centre.

BASEBALL RETURNS TO BALTIMORE — As the Baltimore Orioles ride through the streets of the city, young fans mob the caravan for baseballs. There was no restraining the youngsters when the playeyrs started tossing balls to the crowd as major league baseball returned to Baltimore after 52 years.

Cincinnati Whips Milwaukee In Doubleheader

By JACK HAND, Associated Press Sports Writer

The Yanks and Dodgers, struggling at .500, definitely do not look like runaway pennant winners on their form for the first week of the new season. Lefthanders baffle the Yanks and Sal Maglie has cast his old spell over the Brooklyns

Cincinnati and Detroit, generally picked to bounce around the second division, and the much-maligned Philadelphia Phillies are right up there at the head of the class.

Cincinnati might bear watching. There is a strong suspicion that the Reds were sold short in the pre-season rundown. Philadelphia, too, has reversed its sorry Florida showing on the strong pitching of Robin Roberts, Curt Simmons and Murry Dickson.

Jim Greengrass, Cincinnati left fielder, has 12 runs batted in and a .611 average for the first five games. He had two hits in each game Sunday as Cincinnati knocked off Milwaukee's highly-rated pitching staff in both ends of a doubleheader, beating Chet Nichols 6-4 and Bob Buhl 5-3.

Roberts and Simmons teamed up on the Pirates 6-0 and 7-1. After Roberts blanked Pittsburgh with four hits for the Phils' third straight shutout, Simmons stretched the string to 32 innings before he yielded a run in the sixth. Earl Torgeson's homer with two on gave Roberts all he needed. Del Ennis hit two home runs behind Simmons.

Maglie's old charm worked at Ebbets Field where he is unbeaten in nine starts as he went the route for New York's 6-3 triumph over the Dodgers. Slump-busting Monte Irvin drove in four runs with a homer and two singles. Willie Mays also homered for New York and Duke Snider and Gil Hodges for the champions.

A three-run pinch homer by Tom Alston off the first pitch Chicago's Jim Davis threw in the majors helped St. Louis Cardinals finally enter the win circle, 6-4 over Chicago.

Vic Raschi, with relief, was the winner. The second game was stopped by darkness after two innings.

Two spring training phenoms failed in their American League debuts. The Yanks' Bob Grim was beaten by Washington's Maury McDermott, 9-3. And Boston's Tom Brewer, who had a string of scoreless innings in Florida, was chased by Philadelphia as the Athletics won the first game from the Red Sox behind rookie Bob Trice, 6-4. Jackie Jensen's 13th-inning homer gave Red Sox reliefer Ellis Kinder the second game 4-3.

Steve Gromek copped his second straight for Detroit, 8-3 over Baltimore's Don Larsen, with Walt Dropo and Harvey Kuenn doing the heavy hitting.

Jim Rivera, Minnie Minoso and Ferris Fain hit home runs that made Billy Pierce's spotty 10-hit pitching stand up for a 6-2 Chicago edge over Cleveland in a game cut to six innings by rain. The second game was postponed.

The holiday crowds were disappointing, only 146,411 for the full program with the largest turnout at Milwaukee.

That Greengrass boy really had himself a day at Milwaukee, driving in four runs in the first game with a homer and a single and two more in the second with a double and single.

Mickey Mantle hit a 470-foot triple off the centrefield bleacher [illegible] Yankee rookie looking for the tape measure.
